Vancouver, B. C., July 15.—William J. Immell shot and killed Kitty Askew, his sweetheart, and then killed himself. Papers were found on Immell's body showing that he came from Akron, O. The couple had frequently quarreled.

REPUBLICAN CLUBS.

The National League Elects a President at Detroit.

RESOLUTION COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Republican College League Delegates Also Elect Their Officers, Make Pledges and Congratulate the Country on the Election of McKinley.

Detroit, July 15.—The National League of Republican clubs, in session here, has chosen J. L. Crawford of Kentucky as president for the ensuing year. Half a dozen candidates for the position were in the field, and there was a spirited but good natured contest, which finally resulted in the election of the Kentuckian.

President Woodmansee introduced Mr. Crawford, the newly elected president, who made very brief remarks, expressing his thanks for the honor and announcing his determination to approximate as far as possible the brilliant administration of his predecessor.

Chairman Bundy of Ohio submitted the report of the committee on resolutions. It reaffirmed the monetary plank in the St. Louis platform; congratulated the country on the evidences of returning prosperity; viewed with satisfaction the progress of the Republican administration and rejoiced in the treaty with Hawaii; said that President McKinley could be relied upon to end the struggle of Cuba; urged upon congress the protection of our shipping interests and beet sugar industries; favored granting suffrage to women and condemned the partisan action of President Cleveland in removing old soldiers from office and extending the civil service over his own appointees; wanted new safeguards on immigration question; sympathized with the striking miners and expressed the belief that the tariff bill would restore good times. The resolutions were adopted.

Republican College League.

The annual meeting of the American Republican College league was held in the Russell House parlors. I. N. Murfin of Michigan presided. Thirty delegates were present, seven of whom were from the University of Michigan. These delegates also comprised the accredited delegates from the College league to the convention of the National League of Republican clubs, the College league having its regular representation in addition to those from the respective states. A. L. Davis, the University of Michigan's candidate for the presidency, was elected by acclamation.

The other offices were filled as follows: Vice presidents, T. H. Blodgett of Knox university, H. L. Douglas of Minnesota and J. L. Finch of Olivet. C. A. A. McGee of the University of Wisconsin was chosen treasurer, and F. H. Wurzer of Notre Dame university secretary.

Silas Perkins, private secretary to United States Senator Hanna, was elected a member of the executive committee of the National Republican league, and F. B. Whitney of Williams college was elected vice president of the latter organization from the College league.

Resolutions were adopted declaring that last year's Republican victory was a triumph of brains and intelligence over passion and prejudice, in the achieving of which the colleges of the United States stood shoulder to shoulder in support of Republican principles as expressed in the St. Louis platform. The resolutions congratulate the country on the auspiciously begun administration of President McKinley, and approve his policy in convening the extra session of congress.

The College league pledges itself to assist in the future battles of the party. The place of the next meeting was left to the executive committee, and the meeting then adjourned sine die.

Sale of Magowan's House Postponed.

Trenton, July 15.—Sheriff Ashmore has adjourned for two weeks the sale of ex-Mayor Frank A. Magowan's colonial mansion. The property was advertised to be sold under judgments held by Reimer & Meyer of New York and the Niagara bank of Buffalo. The property is also advertised to be sold two weeks from yesterday under foreclosure proceedings brought by the holders of a $15,000 mortgage on the property. The postponement was had under a belief that less complications would arise by selling under the foreclosure and that the property would bring a better price.

Reservoir In Danger of Bursting.

St. Albans, Vt., July 15.—It is reported that the new reservoir of this city, situated about four miles outside of the city, has been so swelled by the heavy rains of the past few days that it is in danger of bursting. It is being carefully watched, and it is hoped that it will hold back the enormous amount of water that has been collected. The reservoir is a new one, being built about four years ago at a cost of $50,000.

Acquitted of a Charge of Larceny.

Richmond, July 15.—George E. Crawford, a prominent real estate agent, has been acquitted of a charge of the larceny of $2,500 from Mrs. Catherine Peyrounet. Crawford's arrest caused a sensation here several months ago. Mrs. Peyrounet loaned him money and alleged that he had handled it improperly.

Damages For Loss of Hand.

Norwich, Conn., July 15.—By a decision of the Connecticut supreme court, yesterday John J. Ryan of Holyoke, Mass., has been awarded $1,500 damages and costs in a suit against the Chelsea Paper company of Norwich for the loss of a hand. The original suit was for $10,000.

John P. Lovell Paralyzed.

Weymouth, Mass., July 15.—Word has been received here that Mr. John P. Lovell, founder of the John P. Lovell Arms company of Boston, was stricken with paralysis at his summer home at Cottage City. He is 77 years of age and the physicians pronounce the case critical.

Governor Drake Injured.

Des Moines, July 15.—Governor Drake was injured by a fall on the steps of the capitol. He struck on his hip, which was penetrated by a bullet during the war. The injury may prove serious. His physician had advised him that a severe blow there would be dangerous.

Next Saturday afternoon the New Brunswick Golf team will come to this city and play a game with the Plainfield team on the grounds of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. The home team will no doubt be a strong one and a good game is looked for.

PASSING COMMENT.

A leading physician of this city yesterday called the attention of the writer to the fact that an unusually large number of young children were overcome during the recent hot weather. On last Sunday the gentleman in question was called upon to attend as many as eight children who were prostrated by heat. The delicate systems of children become weakened in summer, so that a very hot day is certain to have an almost fatal effect. Many people think that the youngsters do not need a change of air and scenery in summer, when as a matter of fact no one needs it more than they do.

* * * *

W. D. Murray, of this city, has an interesting article entitled "Summer and the Bible" in last week's issue of "Men." It is a plea for Bible study during the summer vacation. "One reason, I believe," says the writer, "why our classes are not more successful is that our lessons show that they have been prepared in fag ends of time, when head and heart were weary with the affairs of busy life. But how different a lesson on the sermon on the Mount would be if the teacher had worked it out in the congenial atmosphere of some mountain top; how the fragrance of the fields and woods would cling to a lesson prepared some bright morning beside a shady brook!"

* * * *

The tramp question in this country is complicated by the freedom with which the nomads, hobos or panhandlers are carried from place to place upon freight trains, says an exchange. Certain municipalities have ordinances which provide for the punishment of men who are caught stealing rides on trains, and some States have laws to check the peripatetic habit, but everywhere in the United States we are far behind Great Britain in applying the proper remedy. In New Jersey the bum who is caught stealing a ride on a train is sentenced to thirty days in jail, and if the weather is inclement the rest is generally welcome. In England the wayfarer is arrested and sent back to his starting place under guard. Could anything be more discouraging than that to a man who wanted to see the world?" The only parallel on this side of the Atlantic is the treatment of a stowaway. If he is discovered on the trip from Europe he is made to work as a coal passer, and when the westward voyage is ended he is detained until the same vessel goes back and then is compelled to work his passage home.

The commuter, the local business man and the machinist met again last evening to discuss the events of the day and incidentally what other topics happened to be touched upon Their families had gone to the circus, and so the three men had wandered down town for a friendly glass of soda water.

"This is a great city of ours," said the commuter. "The people are not forgotten. Why, we have been wading through the mud up in our neighborhood every rainy day, and so we sent in a petition to the Council and now we have a flagstone cross walk. Last night I came home and reached the house dry shod, thanks to the new crosswalk."

"That may be all right," replied the machinist, "But I noticed one thing, Sunday afternoon, when I went out for a walk that lessened my opinion of some of the city officials. Up on Watchung avenue they just put down wide cross walks to replace the narrow ones that used to be there. Why don't they lay crosswalks up in our neighborhood before putting down wider ones in your end of town? There are lots of streets where we and our wives and children have to wade through the mud every rainy day, our chiidren have to wade through the mud to reach the schools as everybody up there will tell you. I tell you there's where we need crosswalks."

"Why don't they give us arc lights?" grumbled the business men. "They are something that the business men have asked for. They have only asked for them because they need them, and they need them much more than the people of Watchung avenue need wider sidewalks, as if they couldn't walk one abreast for just the width of the street."

"Oh, you fellows are not looking on the right side of things. Look at our streets. Look at the prompt action of the Board of Health in the recent scarlet fever scare. Who says that we haven't got efficient officials?" chimed the commuter. And so they talked on.

"Uncle" Dan Roberts' horses had pease for dinner Tuesday. The joke was that "Uncle Dan" was counting on having those same pease for dinner himself, only the horses got ahead of him. It happened thuswise. "Uncle Dan" felt a longing for green pease and he determined to gratify it. He had had some several times before this season, but he decided to have somemore. He then went forth and bought some and left them in the rear of the office near the back stairs leading to his apartments above. They were left in a pan ready to be shelled. When he returned just before dinner, there were the pease. So "Uncle Dan" did not investigate, but supposed, of course, that they had been shelled and that only the pods remain. He then carried the supposed pods out to the horses who enjoyed them with unusual relish. "Uncle Dan" noticed at the time, he said, that two of the more sedate horses actually winked at him. When he came back there was an inquiry as to what had become of the pease, and when the truth was learned "Uncle Dan" had to scamper to the nearest grocery and get a new supply or else go without any for his dinner.

Charles J. Jensen, of Elizabeth, has an educated parrot that answers telephone calls. The bird's cage hangs in the room where the telephone is, and the cage door is nearly always open. When the telephone bell rings and none of the family are in the room to answer it, Polly flies from her cage to the telephone, lifts the receiver off the hook and shrieks in the transmitter the words: "Hello! Hello! What do you want?" Then the parrot hangs up the receiver again and begins shouting: "Telephone rings," and keeps this up until one of the family answers the call, when Polly flies back to her cage with an air of having done her duty.

A Watermelon Festival.

The watermelon festival, which was to have been held in the Marconnier chapel at Oak Tree, last evening, was postponed until this evening on account of the storm. The festival will be a delightful affair and will be none the worse for being postponed one evening. It is to be held in the chapel. There will be an excellent entertainment while watermelon, ice cream, and other summer delicacies will be for sale there. Special arrangements will be made for the checking of wheels. Several parties are planning to wheel out from this city by the full moon and spend the evening there.

ROSSINI THE COMPOSER.

Very remarkable are the conditions under which musical composers have sometimes turned out their work. Rossini was renowned for his laziness, yet when the mood was on him, or when pressure was brought to bear upon him, he could write against time. "The Barber of Seville" was composed in a month.

There is another story of the same composer in which one hardly knows whether to consider him particularly lazy or particularly industrious. He was in the habit of writing in bed, and on one occasion, while thus engaged, a trio that he had almost finished dropped from his hand and slipped under the bed.

The sheet was too far away for him to reach it, and to get up and reach under the bed for it was out of the question. There was only one other thing to be done, and Rossini did it. He wrote another trio.

Rossini's characteristics were so well know that sometimes strong measures were taken to secure a composition. The overture to "Gazza Ladra" was was procured in a peculiar manner. On the day of the first performance the manager got hold of Rossini and confined him in the upper loft of La Scala, under guard of four scene shifters, who took the text as it was written, sheet by sheet, and threw it out of the window to copyists waiting below.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Japanese Reporters.

The Japanese reporter makes about as much money as the Japanese policeman— that is, $6 a month. In Tokio some of them make more, and in the smaller towns they make as little as $2 a month, but $6 is a fair average. They are not sent out on regular assignments as a rule, but are given a roving commission. The editor tells them to get news—real news if there is any, but get news; and they never return empty-handed. A good newsgatherer is rare among them, but the "fakir" is plentiful enough, and really clever.

Interviewing can hardly be said to be popular. The people do not understand it and do not like it. Japan is esoteric and doesn't tell what it knows if it can help itself. Still, there are interviews in Japanese papers. Politicians have themselves interviewed occasionally, and distinguished "globe-trotters" usually submit.—New York Post.

Jewels Growing on Trees.

Jewels growing on trees seems rather a freak of the fancy than reality. It is true, nevertheless.

Among the curiosities of tropical plant life are the pearls found occasionally in the cocoanut-palm of the Phillippine Islands. These pearls, like those of the ocean, are composed of carbonate of lime.

The bamboo, too, yields another precious product, in the shape of true opals, which are found in its joints.

Those Puzzling Bicycle Suits.

The policeman rapped loudly at the door, and when the servant opened it, said:

"Is Mrs. Swellrig at home?"

"No, but Mr. Swellrig is."

"Then tell him his wife's been knocked senseless in a bicycle collision."—Truth.

A SENSATIONAL HEARING

JAMES E. MARTINE RELATES HIS GRIEVANCE AGAINST THE CITY.

He Asks as a Matter of Equity and Justice That His Claims Be Used as an Offset Against His Delinquent Taxes.

Rather sensational was the adjourned hearing yesterday afternoon, before the adjustment commissioners, appointed under the Martin Act. There was only two property owners who personally appeared before the Commissioners, while several were heard from by letter. The sensational part was the testimony of James E. Martine, who made a claim that is known only to the old residents of the city.

According to the sketch of the situation given by Mr. Martine to the Commissioners, yesterday afternoon, he once came to the aid of the city to the amount of $3,000, which was never paid, and the city still owes him for the macadamizing of three thous and feet of Park avenue, which he did in compliance with an ordinance that was declared of no effect by the courts.

The Commissioners held their regular meeting, last week, and ad journed until yesterday afternoon, when the hearing was continued. All the Commissioners, Frank Bergen and Albert B. Carlton, of Elizabeth, and Joseph A. Hubbard, of Plainfield, were present. Frank J. Hubbard acted as secretary and George Wean as stenographer.

Communications were received from William Rockwell, Mrs. T. J. Gilles, A. J. Gavett ahd J. O. Campbell, regarding the back taxes, ex plaining that they had been paid or that they had no knowledge that there were any taxes due on the property.

Jacob Tingley appeared before the Commissioners regarding a bill he had received for back taxes on the property, 405 West Fourth street. All the taxes, he said, had been paid at least once and some of them twice The reason for the payment of them twice was that he had lost certain receipts. Now he really objected to paying them the third time. He presented a receipt in full up to 1893, and many other receipts for a portion of the amount. The Commissioners told Mr. Tingley that he would be called upon later to explain his case when they considered it, and asked him to retain the receipts until that time.

Mr. Martine then came forward. He told something of the history of Plainfield over a quarter of a century ago. Park avenue formerly ran to Seventh street, but the progressive people wished to extend it to Metuchen and make a direct thoroughfare to that place. The house of Mrs. V. L. Spencer was directly in the path of the proposed street and it was necessary to remove it. The city assessed the property owners who would be benefited by the opening, among whom was J. E. Martine. All the assessments were not paid and the city needed about $2,000 to remove the house. Mr. Martine was particularly interested and wished the improvement to go forward without delay. He loaned the city the $2,000, expecting to get it back from the rest of the assessments, but they were never paid. He presented his claim and appeared before the Council at committee meetings and stated his case, but a final understanding was never reached.

Immediately after the cutting through of the road an ordinance was passed providing for the grading and macadamizing of Park avenue. The ordinance stated that if the property owners did not have the work done themselves, the city would take the matter in hand and have it done at their expense. Mr. Martine was the only one to do his share of the work, macadamizing about 3,000 feet at a cost of over $3,000. The other owners refused. The ordinance was brought into court and finally declared void. The remainder of the work was done by the city. Mr. Martine claimed the city should reimburse him for the expense that had been forced upon him. The city did not and he did not care to bring suit against the city.

Mr. Martine asked the commissioners to look upon these debts of the city as off sets for the taxes he had not paid, as a matter of equity and justice. Mayor Fisk was an interested listener to the story, asking questions at intervals.

The Commissioners seemed impressed by Mr. Martine's remarks and asked him to bring the necessary papers to the meeting of the Commission when his case should be considered. When asked if he had anything else to say by Chairman Bergen, of the Commission, he replied:

Fred C. Lounsbury asked the Com-

SUSPENDED IN MIDAIR.

YOUNG SWEENEY GRASPED A LIVE ELECTRIC LIGHT WIRE.

He Was Unable to Let Go and the Electricity Coursed Through His Body and Caused Him to Scream With the Pain.

It was a close call that Joseph Sweeney, of West Fonrt street, had last evening. Joseph is about ten years of age and was playing on Liberty street when a desire seized him to climb a large tree, near the corner of Fourth street. At the time there was scarcely any one around in that locality. Joseph succeeded in reaching the top of the tree and was casting about for a suitable branch for a whip. In his attempt he accidentally grasped a live electric light wire hidden behind the leaves and was unable to let go. He became frightened and began te scream. His heart-rending cries were heard several blocks away. People came running from all directions, thinking that someone was being killed. Soon there was a crowd of several hundred people assembled around the tree. There they saw the boy suspended in mid-air with the one hand fastened to the live wire.

In an instant the crowd took in the situation and people began to run for ladders. One was secured at Westphal's grocery store and Mr. Sharkey, the Liberty street butcher, secured a pair of rubber gloves. He ascended the ladder to where the boy was hanging. While attempting to rescue the boy the crowd stood breathless, for they expected that the lad would not be able to withstand the charge of electricity which was passing through his body.

It seemed like hours to those who stood around the tree for Mr. Sharkey to reach the boy,although it only took a very few minutes. When Mr. Sharkey got near young Sweeney he caught him about the arms and carried the boy to the ground. The crowd flocked about the youngster and it was almost impossible to get him out of the crowd so that he could be taken to Dr. Simpson. The latter examined the boy and found that his right hand and forearm was severely burned, as well as his left hand, but he decided that the lad was not seriously injured. Mrs. Sweeney, mother of the boy, was almost frantic with grief, but when she learned that her son was out of danger she seemed to be reconciled.

RODE UNDER MOONLIGHT

PLEASURABLE RUN TAKEN BY THE Y. M. C. A. CYCLING CLUB.

New Brunswick Association Was the Destination and Their Members Extended a Welcome That Was Very Hospitable.

If the officers of the Y. M. C. A. Cycling League of Northern New Jersey had had the making of the weather, last evening, they could not have had a better night for the run of the league associations to New Brunswick. The New Brunswick association has a reputation for hospitality that is well deserved. Last evening, it was heightened, if possible, for the New Brunswick boys gave their guest a delightful evening and provided food for the inner and outer man in large quantities.

The Plainfield association had the best representation as regards numbers of any of the visiting associations. There were twenty-two in line from this city under the leadership of C. E. A Haywood and Walter Long. Among the number was Curtis M. Thorpe, one of the members of the Board of Directors and three of the members of the business men's class.

The party started promptly at 8 o'clock and arrived in New Brunswick a few minutes after 9 o'clock. The Passaic association had the next largest representation. There were about a hundred wheelmen altogether.

A bountiful supply of sandwiches, crackers and cake was provided with plenty of lemonade and ice cream. A string orchestra rendered a number of selections during the evening.

The return was made at 10 o'clock, under the command of Captain T. A. Cuming, who rode over after the rest. No accidents happened to mar the pleasure of the occasion. The run was to be held two weeks ago but has been twice postponed on account of rain.

An Approaching Marriage.

Next Wednesday evening at the Mt. Olive Baptist church will take place the marriage of Miss Anna Johnson, formerly of Sing Sing, but now of North Plainfield, and Harper Luck, also of North Plainfield. The ceremony will take place at 8 o'clock and at 8:30 the bride and groom will go to Jersey City, where a reception will be held for the relatives of the contracting parties. Rev. P. S. Gibson, pastor of the church will officiate.

LIBEL SUIT FOR RUNYON.

CONSTABLE PIERCE WILL ASK THE NEWS EDITOR FOR DAMAGES.

Howard MacSherry, of New Brunswick, Will Prosecute the Case, the Papers in Which Will Be Served in a Few Days.

Though he has stragetically endeavered to avoid prosecution on the charge of libel, it now appears that Editor Runyon will have to defend an action of that nature in the courts of Middlesex county.

Constable Robert Pierce, of New Market, stated to a Press reporter this morning that he had retained Howard MacSherry, a successful and well known lawyer of New Brunswick, to prosecute Editor Runyon for a large amount of damages on the charge of having libeled him in publishing a false statement in the News sometime ago.

It will be remembered that Constable Pierce figured prominently in the sensational Meserole ejectment proceedings at New Market, when a New York man proceeded against the Meseroles to compel them to move off property which he owned. The papers in the case were served by Constable Pierce and a dispute, in which many alleged serious threats were made by the Meseroles, accompanied the process.

After the trouble an article appeared in the news columns of Editor Runyon's paper in which it was stated that Constable Pierce had been arrested and arraigned before Justice Storms, of New Market, on the charge of committing perjury. There was not a word of truth in it.

The next day, Constable Pierce relates, his son called on Editor Runyon and asked him to retract the false statement. The son claims that Runyon said that he got the story on good authority and he absolutely refused to clear Pierce. It seems, however, that after two months' time Runyon's independence, when he saw a libel suit staring him in the face, commenced to be tempered by a sense of justice to the wrongly accused man. Then there appeared in the News an article, clumsily worded so as to avert suspicion that Runyon was wrong in his presumptions of supreme independence, half-heartedly exonerating Pierce from the charge of perjury. The manner and method of the News editor did not appease Constable Pierce's wronged feelings.

Yesterday, Lawyer MacSherry commenced the work of drawing up the formal complaint against Runyon for libel and in a few days the papers will be served. Lawyer McSherry believes that Pierce has a good case, but he has not yet decided as to the sum of money which Runyon will be asked to pay Pierce.

ALL JERSEY SMILES.

Such a Hay Crop Has Never Been Seen—The Same as to Fruit.

The New Jersey farmers are gleeful, and well they may be. Nature smiled on them and on their fields and orchards. The rain of early spring delighted the grass, and the result is the largest hay crop in the history of the State. And there is prosperity in store for the fruit growers also. The season will prove one of the best for Jersey fruit in size and richness.

An Eventful Visit for Children.

The two children of Charles Amermen, of Stone street, returned home yesterday after a very eventful visit at the home of Norman Brenbrook, of New Vernon, near Morristown. Last Sunday, that section was visited by a thunder storm of great violence. The lightning struck Mr. Brenbrook's house, leaving the kitchen in the rear of the house almost a total wreck Pearl Amermen was rendered senseless by the shock and it was some time before she could be restored to consciousness. It was then discovered that a portion of her skin was turned black. She is all right now, however. Her little brother was not injured, but badly frightened.

Prospects of a Big Peach Crop.

The peach crop in the vicinity of Washington will be the largest ever gathered, from present indications. James Shields, the owner of one of the largest orchards in the State, estimates his crop at over 10,000 baskets. He has offered the entire crop at twenty-five cents per basket, delivered at the Washington depot.

New Trunks Cheap.

A new lot of trunks and bags have just been received at Doane & Edsall's shoe store, direct from the factory and all the "spot cash" discounts taken off and divided with their patrons. They claim to sell the best and prettiest shoes at the lowest price of any house in this section.

William A. Stimpson, of the News reportorial staff, went to Asbury Park yesterday and spent the day there.

SAID TO BE 121 YEARS OLD

Reuben Keith, Born a Slave in Virginia, Was Killed By Accident — A Short Sketch of His Long Career in This Life.

Reuben Keith, a well-known colored character, of this city, who claimed to be 121 years old, was struck by freight engine No. 88, on the Central Railroad tracks near the Madison avenue bridge at 3:30 o'clock this morning, receiving injuries from which he died.

Keith was in the habit of picking coal on the railroad, and started out for that purpose at 3 o'clock this morning. It is supposed that in order to avoid a fast express train, he stepped upon the other track and was struck by the freight engine. Keith was thrown some distance, but was not badly mangled. The ambulance was summoned and he was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, where he died at 8 o'clock.

Keith has lived for the past six years with a daughter, Mrs. Mary Coleman, on Cottage place. When seen by a Press reporter today Mrs. Coleman talked freely of her father's history. He was born a slave upon the plantation of Capt. James Payne in Farquar county, Virginia. Capt. Payne was a soldier of the Revolutionary War, and Keith had a distinct memory of him and of the stories he used to relate of the fight for independence. Keith's mother was the nurse of Capt. Payne's children, and the whole family were treated as favorites by their master and mistress. Of the War of 1812 and the Mexican War Keith had distinct recollections.

When the Rebellion came and the slaves were emancipated, the old man still clung to the plantation where a new generation of Paynes were in control He worked at his trade of blacksmith and lived comfortably in the house with which his old master had presented him in his last will. He married and there were ten children, four of whom are now living.

There is no record of Keith's birth and it is doubted if he was as old as he claimed. He was a very old man, however.

ATE CLAMS; WERE HAPPY.

Friends of W. S. Emery Made Merry at Scotch Plains Last Night.

The clambake and flag-raising at Emery's Hotel, Scotch Plains, last night, was one of the most successful affairs of the sort ever held in the town. Between 300 and 400 invited guests were present, including delegations of Elks from Elizabeth, New Brunswick, Newark and Jersey City. Fine music was discoursed throughout the evening by Gutmann's band of 14 pieces.

At 5 o'clock a flag pole, 67 feet in height, was raised, and a large American flag was swung to the breeze. As the flag unfurled the guests sang patriotic songs and cheered.

The bake was drawn between 6 and 7 o'clock, and was served to the guests upon the lawn in the rear of the hatel. The night was a pleasant one, and the lawn was made brilliant by incandescent electric lamps.

George Thatcher and Ed. Marble acted as master of ceremonies. Mr. Thatcher was in his best vein and kept the guests laughing with his witticisms.

Speeches were delivered by W. S. Emery, George Thatcher, Abe Nelson, of Newark, John H. Adleman, of this city, and Ed. Marble.

EXTENDING GAME PRESERVES.

Enthusiastic Meeting of Local Sportsmen Last Night.

The regular meeting of the Game Protective and Propagating Association was held last evening when much business of importance was transacted. A committee consisting of Frank Day, Harry Drier, John Dickson and Henry Haurand was appointed to look after the reserves and make all necessary repairs. Several offers were received from farmers living in the vicinity of Warrenville and Coontown extending the use of their lands to the Association for game. They also expressed a desire to join the Association. The secretary was instructed to communicate with the farmers and get them to sign leases for their lands.

A number of the members volunteered to go to Feltville next Sunday and look after the reserve at that place. It is understood that dogs are allowed to run over the grounds and are destroying some of the game. The other reserves were reported to be in excellent condition and the game doing well. At the close of the meeting two members were elected to membership.

RAID BY SLICK BURGLARS

FOUR HOUSES ENTERED AND $600 IN BOOTY CARRIED AWAY.

The Depredators Worked With Such Precaution That in Two Houses the Inmates Were Not Awaked by the Ransacking.

Burglars made a raid upon Westfield last night, and entered four houses, carrying off booty to the value of about $600.

In the house of C. D. Losee, corner of Cumberland street and South avenue, the burglars made their biggest haul. They entered through a dining room window by shoving back the catch. The entrance of the intruders was made after one o'clock, as at that time, R. M. Baily, Mrs. Losee's brother, who is visiting at the house, was up and about and found everything safe. None of the family were awakened by the entrance of the burglars, who leisurely ransacked every corner of the house.

From the sleeping room of Mr. and and Mrs. Bailey they took a silver watch and chain, some gold studs, a gold watch and chain and a diamond brooch, belonging to Mrs. Bailey. Mr. Bailey's trousers pockets were ransacked and $2.35 in change was taken. The burglars in their haste overlooked some diamond rings in a small basket upon the mantle. From the room of Mr. and Mrs. Losee a gold hunting case watch and a chain, a pair of gold link cuff buttons, a number of gold rings and trinkets were taken. Mr. Losee's clothes were carried down stairs and left in the hall after being ransacked. A small amount of money was taken from his trousers pockets. Some silver knives and forks were also taken from the dining room. The burglary was not discovered until 6 o'clock this morning when the housekeeper came down stairs.

The residence of A. L. Lightfoot was also entered at the same time through a kitchen window. None of the family was awakened and the burglars secured $2.50 in cash from Mr. Lightfoot's clothes. In the parlor they opened a jewel casket and secured three gold Royal Arcanum jewels, the property of Mr. Lightfoot, who is past grand regent of the State for the order.

The burglars also paid a visit to the house of Mrs. Amelia Randolph, on South avenue. So far as is known nothing was taken, though a thorough search of closets and drawers throughout the house was made and things were tossed about generally. The cracksmen seemed unable to find anything which they cared to take away. They entered through a kitchen window, and on taking leave left the dining room door open.

An attempt was also made to enter the house of Major Gaines, a colored man, living on South Broad street, but the burglars were frightened off.

TRINITY'S ALTERATIONS.

BUILDING COMMITTEE FINALLY DECIDE ON THE PLANS.

The Estimated Cost of the Improvements is $6,000, Over Half of Which Has Already Been Pledged by the Supporters.

The building committee, Messrs. Gayle, Meeker, Laire, Clark, Hegeman, MacDonald, Anthony and Rev. Cornelius Schenck, of Trinity Reformed church, met in the church edifice last night and made a final examination of the plans and specifications for making important alterations in the present building. As now planned, it is proposed to raise the structure to a height sufficient to allow a Sunday-school room, with floor space the size of the present dimensions of the auditorium—60 by 90 feet. The floor of the Sunday school room will only be two feet below the surface of the earth, and will be divided into a lecture room, eleven class rooms, parlor, kitchen, committee rooms, toilet, and last, but not least, a large and well arranged department for the primary class.

Estimates will be made as to the cost of the improvements by several contractors and builders and the contract awarded to the lowest responsible bidder just as soon as possible.

During the time the church proper is being elevated the auditorium will be thoroughly renovated and redecorated. New carpets will also be laid and other furnishings secured.

The question of where the congregation will worship during the period of alterations, which will require at least three months to accomplish, will be settled at an early date, as well as providing for a meeting place for the large Sunday-school of the church.

The estimated cost of the alterations is $6,000 and the subscription committee has already secured pledges for half this amount.

Mrs. J. E. Tyrell and daughter, Mildred, start for Dover today, where they will remain for some time.

CAME LIKE ENOCH ARDEN

ROMANTIC REALISM OF A DEMENTED FARMER'S WANDERINGS.

Emil Funger Had Been Missing and Returned in a Demented Condition to Work as His Own Hired Man.

Emil Funger, a farmer living between Scotch Plains and Westfield, has had a most unenviable experience during the past three weeks, in which time he has been a wanderer from his home, living like a wild animal in the woods and fields and eating berries and herbs, and now he is doing the work of a hired man upon his own farm.

Funger has of late been the victim of a malady that has affected his reason. The farm which he and his wife have occupied for the past three years belongs to the Ackerman estate. The couple are hard-working Germans, and were reasonably prosperous in their management of the farm until Funger's mind began to weaken. Trouble of various sorts then began. During the summer season, when the crops must be looked after, two or three hired men are needed on the farm. Funger, who was a peaceable man, quarreled with his workmen when his mind became effected, and several of the hands left after a short stay, declaring that they were afraid to stay on the farm.

As his affliction grew worse, Funger began to ill treat his wife, and to throw out hints of self destruction.

On the morning of June 20th, the demented man ate a hasty breakfast, and taking his hat and a heavy walking stick, started off through the fields. At night he did not return. At first his wife did not feel any great anxiety, thinking that when his whim passed off, Funger would come home. But as day after day passed and no news came of the missing man, she grew unconsolable with fear.

The crops were standing in the fields, and the cattle needed attention and in addition to these troubles there was a blacker cloud which arose when she recalled her husband's dark threats of suicide. She wondered every morning if on that day his lifeless body would be brought home to her, and in this terrible suspense the days dragged on, until three weeks had passed by.

On Tuesday evening about sundown, Mrs. Funger heard the dogs upon the place barking furiously, and on going out of doors she saw a queer looking creature with tattered clothing, bare-footed and bare-headed and leaning upon a long staff, come slowly in at the front gate. He went to the hired man and asked for work about the place, when Mrs. Funger recognized the voice and rushing out dragged the man into the house. It was her husband, but he paid no heed to her, and acted as a stranger would. He called for food, and when his hunger was gone he appeared content.

The demented man has since been working about his own place under the impression that he is merely a hired man there. He takes his orders from the hired man, and seems to have no knowledge of the fact that he is upon his own farm. Most of the time he maintains a stolid silence.

When a Press reporter visited the farm, Funger was driving some cows through the field. He would not talk when spoken to. The question of the man's whereabouts during his long absence remains a mystery, with the exception of the news received from a friend of his in Washingtonville to the effect that Funger appeared in that place on the day after his disappearance from his home. Since that date no trace of his movements can be found, except that his wanderings were evidently in Somerset county; and in this fact lies the probable solution of the mystery surrounding the identity of the Somerset county wild man, whose antics have kept the simple people in that vicinity in a state of panic for the past few weeks. He was seen at various times and places in the vicinity of Washingtonville, Coontown and Warrenville, and at night he did not hesitate to attack anyone he happened to meet.

Ever since the first appearance of the wild man on the night of June 21st, when he attacked Morris Ballentine and his wife and mother in-law on the road from Basking Ridge to this city and ran behind the carriage brandishing a club and threatening to kill the occupants, various theories as to his identity have been advanced.

The most plausible of these was the suggestion that the maniac had escaped from the Morris Plains Asylum. This theory was strengthened at one time by the knowledge that one of the patients at the asylum had become violent and made his escape after felling two keepers to the ground.

WEDDED HIS SERVANT

STRENUOUS OBJECTION WAS MADE.

To Overcome All Obstacles the Bride Renounces Catholicism and Becomes a Protestant—The Bridegroom a Physician and Philanthropist.

Philadelphia, July 16.—Dr. Charles E. Cadwallader, head of one of the oldest and most exclusive families in Pennsylvania, was married to Bridget Mary Ryan, his housemaid.

The wedding, which was private, occurred at the old St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal church, of which Dr. Cadwallader has been for many years a warden.

Neither the wedding nor even Dr. Cadwallader's intention to marry has been known to his family or friends, and the announcement will cause the biggest sensation in Philadelphia society in years.

Dr. Cadwallader traces his lineage back to royal blood. The founder of the family in America helped William Penn to plan Philadelphia.

Wealth, refinement and ultra exclusiveness have always characterized the Cadwalladers.

Dr. Cadwallader is 57 years old and has always lived as a bachelor in the old family mansion, which is rich in ancestral portraits, old plate and jewels and many priceless relics of the past. He is a philanthropist, practices as a physician among the poor without pay and has had the name of being somewhat eccentric.

The Bride's History.

Bridget Ryan came from Tipperary five years ago and for two years has been housemaid in Dr. Cadwallader's employ. She is 21 years of age, tall, slender, good looking and modest and intelligent. When the doctor proposed marriage she consented if her parents in Ireland did not object. They, being devout Roman Catholics, objected to the match, notwithstanding the doctor's wealth and high position.

Father Keely of Tipperary church, Ireland, strenuously opposed the young woman's union with a Protestant, but finally, after months of correspondence, yielded on condition that the issue of the marriage should be educated as Roman Catholics. Both Dr. Cadwallader and his intended bride objected to this condition, and the young woman, who was 21 last week, cut the gordian knot by abjuring the Roman Catholic faith and joining her husband's church.

Father Keely continued his fight. He appealed to Father McCormick of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, this city, of which Mrs. Cadwallader was a member, and also protested to Archbishop Ryan, who declined to interfere.

Alleged Revenue Violators Arrested.

Trenton, July 16.—United States Revenue Agent Spalding of Philadelphia and a number of deputies came here and have made a raid on the brewery of Franz Hill. There is a suspicion that the revenue laws were being violated. Attached to the brewery is a saloon which Hill operates where beer is taken from kegs which have not been properly stamped. Lewis Schmidt, the bartender, was taken into custody. Hill and his wife, who are the proprietors, and Edward Myers, a collector, will be obliged to go to Camden to give bail.

Flood Damage In Quebec.

Montreal, July 16.—Floods caused by the heavy rain of the past few days have done great damage in the southern part of Quebec. Many people are homeless, and much damage has been done to the early crops. The town of St. Hyacinthe has been flooded, and business is almost at a standstill. At Wickham the business portion of the town is flooded. Communication with Richmond, Que., on the main line of the Grand Trunk system to Quebec, is at present cut off.

Money Lost In Transit.

Dover, N. H., July 16.—It has been learned that $4,567 in currency and checks sent by the Cocheco National bank of this city to the National Bank of Redemption, Boston, through the Abbot Lawrence Express company, has not been received by the Boston bank. The express company will make good the shortage, and every effort is being made to locate the package of money, the disappearance of which is at present a profound mystery.

Prominent Manufacturer Dead.

Oswego, N. Y., July 16.—Charles Tolzer, a leading citizen of this county and manufacturer of floor tiles, boxes, etc., whose factory in Pulaski employs 350 operatives, is dead, aged 73 years. He was born in Prussia and came to America to escape military duty. For several years he was engaged in the hardware business in New York. He leaves a widow and four children in Brooklyn.

Holdup at Princeton.

Princeton, N. J., July 16.—In broad daylight a daring attempt was made to rob the drug store owned by Dr. Schwartz. The thief entered the store and attacked the prescription clerk with a knife, demanding money. The clerk pluckily refused to open the tills and gave an alarm, which caused the man to take flight before he could be captured.

Armor Plate Hands Laid Off.

Bethlehem, Pa., July 16.—About 25 men, who were engaged in preparation for work on a contract for armor plate at the government works, have been laid off. This is said to have been due to the action of the senate fixing the price of armor plate at $300 per ton.

Fire Insurance Rate War.

Chicago, July 16.—A rate war has been declared between union and non-union fire insurance companies which, it is believed, will result in a general reduction of 25 per cent in the cost of policies on buildings in Chicago and Cook county.

New Naval Militia Captain.

TARIFF COMMITTEE.

More Difficulty Encountered In the Wool Schedule.

THE DEMOCRATS MAY BE HAMPERED.

The Vacancy Caused by Senator Harris' Death May, if Not Filled, Embarrass Them When a Vote Is Reached.

Washington, July 16.—The tariff conference committee has made the discovery that there will be still further difficulty in arranging the wool schedule on account of the objections of the carpet manufacturers. It appears that while the makers of the more expensive grades of carpets gave their assent to the compromise of 4 and 8 cents, as already arranged, the makers of the cheaper carpets are not pleased and ask that the rate on the lower grades of wool be reduced to 3 cents. The wool men are not willing to concede this demand.

The worsted manufacturers are also making trouble over the senate amendment putting a double duty on wool of the second class which may have been washed. Heretofore there has been no additional duty on the washed article, and it is claimed that the change will work a material hardship.

The Democratic side of the chamber is somewhat disturbed over the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Harris. "I fear," said Senator Jones of Arkansas in discussing the question, "that the vacancy may, if not filled before that time, occasion no little embarrassment when we reach the vote on the conference report. It will be remembered," he continued, "that some of the articles on which we succeeded in reducing the rate of duty, as on white pine lumber and on some which we succeeded in putting on the free list, we had a majority of only one vote. Some of these articles, as burlaps, cotton, ties and paris green, are of immense importance to the farmers, and it would be regrettable indeed from our standpoint if the absence of a Democratic senator from Tennessee should cause us to lose any of them by giving the deciding vote to the vice president."

The senator said in reply to a question that he had heard nothing indicative of the intentions of the governor of Tennessee in the matter of the appointment.

The Senate's Session.

Washington, July 16.—Pacific railway affairs occupied the attention of the senate, and the Harris resolution relating to the pending judicial proceedings against the Union Pacific road finally went over.

Senators Stewart and White indulged in sharp personalities in connection with the contest over the San Pedro (Cal.) deep water harbor.

The joint resolution was passed accepting the invitation of France to participate in the Paris exposition of 1900.

Some Postal Statistics.

Washington, July 16.—The comparative figures of postal receipts at the 30 largest postoffices in the country just promulgated show a net increase of $17,346 for the three months ending June 30 last over the corresponding quarter of last year. The gross proceeds for this year's quarter amount to $8,194,968. Ten offices, however, show decreases aggregating $98,094. The largest decrease, 9 per cent, was at Toledo, and the largest increase, 8.7 per cent, at Washington. The New York postoffice increased its receipts by $26,027, San Francisco $5,788, and Boston $16,078, while Chicago decreased $22,762, Philadelphia $30,800, and St. Louis $27,527.

Mrs. Staples Discharged.

Chicago, July 16.—Mrs. Edith Staples, the companion of Bicyclist Charles Nelson of Cadillac, at the time he was shot in Washington park, about three weeks ago, has been discharged from custody, no one appearing to prosecute her on the charge of complicity in the mysterious affair. It is probable that the end of the affair has been reached, as the police appear to be wholly at sea. Nelson, who has so far recovered as to be able to be in court, will soon submit to the X rays in the hope of locating the bullet, near his heart.

A New Counterfeit Silver Certificate.

Washington, July 16.—Chief Hazen of the secret service has given notice of the discovery of a new counterfeit $10 silver certificate. It is of the series of 1891, check letter D, with the small carmine seal, the portrait of Hendricks, and the names of Messrs. Tillman and Morgan as register and treasurer respectively. The counterfeit is described as apparently a woodcut production, very poorly executed, the seal being light pink instead of crime.

Fatally Injured While Firing a Salute.

St. Johns, N. F., July 16.—A fatal accident has occurred at St. Pierre. Engineer Lerocque, while firing a salute, placed a charge of powder inclosed in a bag in a cannon that had just been fired. While ramming the charge home the cannon was discharged, and one of Lerocque's arms was blown off at the shoulder. A part of his face and head was also blown away. His family will receive a pension from the French government.

Train Blown From the Track.

Concord, N. H., July 16.—A dispatch from Fabyns says that an engine, passenger car and baggage trailer on the Mount Washington railroad have been blown from the platform at the summit of the mountain. The train was carried down the side of the mountain and destroyed. At the time there was no one on the train.

Reasons Why Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is the Best.
1. Because it affords almost instant relief in case of pain in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus.
2. Because it is the only remedy that never fails in the most severe cases of dysentery and diarrhoea.
3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhoea.
4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent bilious colic.
5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemical dysentery.
6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
8. Because it produces no bad results.
9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.
10. Because it has saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world.

HURT BY AN EXPLOSION.

Newport, R. I., July 16.—Richard Stephenson and Thomas Williams, two boys employed at the torpedo station, have been hurt, and the drying house of the smokeless powder plant was destroyed by an explosion.

The boys were sifting powdered gun cotton preparatory to carrying it to another house where it would be made into smokeless powder when the mass exploded, burning them severely, bursting out the walls of the house and letting down the roof. The force of the explosion, however, was not as great as it would have been if the substance had been confined. The automatic sprinklers in the building started instantly and put out the blaze.

The boys will recover. The loss on the building is slight, as it was constructed with a view of its liability to destruction by explosions, though every safeguard was taken to avoid such an occurrence.

AN OFFENSIVE ALLIANCE.

May Be Made Between Spain and Japan Against This Country.

London, July 16.—A dispatch from Paris to a news agency here says that inquiry at the American embassy there has elicited confirmation of the rumor that the governments of Spain and Japan have arranged an offensive alliance against the United States.

The terms of the understanding, which is for the mutual protection of Cuba and Hawaii, provide that in the event of an actively aggressive movement on the part of the United States tending toward interference in Cuban affairs or persistence in the annexation of the Hawaiian islands, both Spain and Japan shall declare war simultaneously against the United States and shall make hostile demonstrations along both the Atlantic and Pacific coast lines of the country.

THE SITUATION IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Much Interest Is Manifested In the Mines of the State, and Efforts Will Be Made to Have Their Men Join the Movement.

Pittsburg, July 16.—Foreign coal is beginning to cut quite a figure in the Pittsburg market, and the miners' officials recognize its importance. They are, for the time being, satisfied with the small amount of coal that is being dug in the Pittsburg district and from now on will look after what they term outside encroachments.

Much coal is being sold in the Pittsburg market from the Clearfield and Cambria districts. It is true that it does not come to Pittsburg, but goes to fill the contracts made at the great lakes.

"The men in the Clearfield and Cambria districts are working under the delusion that they are not conflicting with the general suspension," said President Patrick Dolan. "We have arranged a conference with some of the leaders in that section, the time of which I am not at liberty to announce. I am satisfied that we will be able to make them see the error of their ways and join us in this great battle for bread. As far as the Pittsburg district proper is concerned, we have every reason to be satisfied with the situation. It must be borne in mind that when but a few men are in a mine it is not fair to class it among the active list. The fact is it is impossible to produce coal at a profit in the large mines with only a few men at work. I have hopes in yet being able to get the New York and Cleveland men out."

The West Virginia Situation.

The local officials are manifesting much interest in the situation in West Virginia. Cameron Miller said that he would be willing to wager that most of the miners of the mountain states would be out before the end of the week. He said there were about 25,000 miners in that state, and if the organizers succeeded in getting 15,000 of them out the battle could be considered won.

An important feature of the local situation was the shipment of several hundred empty cars to West Virginia. They will be loaded with coal and sent to the lakes, filling contracts made with Pittsburg operators. The Pittsburg operators claim that they were offered coal from all sections of the country and had to refuse a number of propositions. The prevailing price was $1.50, a change being noted from the quotations of the day previous.

The operators claim that the Enterprise, Bon and Cok mines on the Chartiers branch of the Panhandle and the Bunola mines on the Monongahela are running at the 69 cent rate. The latter were recently purchased by the National Rolling Mill company at McKeesport and are claimed to be running in full.

The miners' officials have succeeded in keeping the men employed at the Keeling, Eureka and Waverly mines from going to work at the 69 cent rate, which had been offered to them by their employers.

According to the miners' officials, the operators have closed the company stores all over the district, and supplies to the men have been cut off. This leaves the miner dependent upon the fruits of forage and charity.

In one or two agricultural communities, where the miners are on strike, the farmers have invited the strikers to organize committees and send them with a wagon into the surrounding country to solicit rather than confiscate supplies. The strikers are taking full advantage of this invitation.

Quiet has reigned throughout the Pittsburg district, a truce seeming to prevail pending the outcome of the peace negotiations.

The Miners' Official Bulletin.

Columbus, O., July 16.—President Ratchford and Secretary Pearce have issued "Official Bulletin No. 1" to the miners, it being a review of the situation. The bulletin says:

Our fight for living wages now covers in whole or in part eight states of the Union. It is a general suspension, and no local settlements will be authorized or recognized. The second week and the eighth day of our suspension brings with it greater assurance of ultimate victory than any previous day. Our forces are increasing every hour, our determination is unflinching, and our actions are law abiding in every particular.

Western Pennsylvania.—Fully 20,000 miners have joined us for living wages, which makes suspension almost unanimous in every mine in the district. Work still continues in the central field, but steps will be taken in a few days looking to a suspension, which it is believed will be successful.

Ohio.—Twenty-eight thousand miners have laid down their tools in their demand for living wages, making the suspension general excepting a few local mines.

Indiana.—Advices received report every mine and every miner in this state suspended. Eight thousand have joined the march for living wages.

Illinois.—Reports from this state are to the effect that suspension is practically general and that miners are determined to continue the march until living wages are secured.

West Virginia.—About 3,000 miners have joined the movement. Reports from various sections of the state confirm the belief that miners will suspend. Eight organizers have left this city for West Virginia. Supply of coal from that field will be cut off in a very few days.

Kentucky and Tennessee.—About 4,000 miners have suspended and others may be expected to follow.

Kansas.—Miners are all at work, but will hold a convention on Saturday. It is expected that they also will suspend.

Alabama.—Reports indicate that 3,000 miners or more have suspended. Convention today. Nothing further learned of their action.

The supply of coal is fast becoming exhausted at the various distributing points. Railroads are confiscating shipments, cities are almost without supply, and, in fact, a coal famine is near at hand.

THE PRESS COMMENDED.

We are in receipt of the following letter that needs no comment more than the statement that it comes from one of the best citizens in Plainfield:

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I want to thank you very much for the attitude you have taken in regard to a certain trial now taking place in this State. Your refusal to publish any part of the proceedings I feel is a help to the Christain cause and work in our State. It is a pleasure to know that a paper can enter a household that is free from muck and filth. Your own conscience is the best compensation, but I feel as if I should express my sentiments upon the subject, knowing you have been unjustly accused and your motives impugned.

CAN HOLD OFFICE, BUT NOT VOTE.

As anomalous as it may appear at a glance, it seems to be a fact that while the women of New Jersey are deprived of right of voting for school trusstees, as decided by the Supreme Court in the famous Vineland case, they are not deprived of the privilege of serving as such officials, as a section of the laws of 1894 reads in that respect: "No person shall be eligible to the office of trustee unless he or she is above twenty-one years of age, and is a resident of the district and can read and write."

DOINGS OF THE Y. M. C. A.

Improvements Authorized in the Physical Department.

The Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A. has given the physical department committee of the association the authority to make the necessary repairs at the building that come under the government of that committee. The locker room will be repainted, as will also the lavatory. Then the pins on the bowling alleys will be repaired. It was proposed some time ago that new bowling alleys of the regulation length should be constructed on the Watchung avenue side of the building and the old and small alleys be removed. The Board does not feel that they can stand the expense of such a change this year and nothing will be done in that direction at present.

The junior members now meet three times a week for an hour. Most of the time is spent in the swimming tank.

The last meeting of the business men's class in the gymnasium was held yesterday afternoon. The class has now adjourned its meetings until fall on account of the warm weather.

The runway to the wheel room at the building has been improved by the addition of slats across the side so that riders will not slip when taking their wheels up or down the incline.

GOT OUT OF TOWN IN A HURRY.

Judge DeMeza Let the Tramps Go to Other Climes.

Three men shook off the grasp of Morpheus, left their comfortable box car and accompanied the policemen to the lockup, last evening, and spent the night amid the creeping and crawling things that haunt the condemned city jail. They were all young men, one white and two of dusky skin.

'Twas the old story, they had been thrown out of a job and were tramping along looking for work. They were a respectable looking trio altogether and told straightforward stories. Their night had not been a pleasant one for the many-legged visitors were lively and the strangers were not acquainted with their tricks. The Judge thought that one night under the circumstances was worse than ten in Elizabeth, and so he gave the men nine minutes and fifty-four seconds to cross the city limits. They went and Chief Grant might have played checkers on their coat tails, they went so fast.

Judgment Against Wheelmen.

A judgment for $10 and costs was given in favor of the Midmer Glee Club against the Crescent Wheelmen, yesterday afternoon, in a case that came before Justice Nash. The Midmer Club sued to recover money alleged to be due for the services at the Crescent's minstrel show last February. No defence was made by the defendant, and the judge gave a verdict for the full amount.

THE ROADS UNFINISHED.

New Brunswick Folks Must Complete Government Jobs.

Residents of College avenue, New Brunswick, between Somerset and Hamilton streets, which the Government started to pave as an object lesson in road building, have learned that they will very probably be called upon to bear the expense of finishing the road. The original plan provided that the Government was to pay for the materials and supply the machinery, while the property owners along the avenue were to pay for the labor All of the work has not yet been done, and in order to complete it several hundred tons of fine stone will be required. During the week the Government, in order to go on with another experiment at Geneva, N. Y., has been removing the stone crusher and other machinery from the city. This has left City Engineer Atkinson, who has been superintending the work, without any means to break up the rest of the stone needed. The cost of transportation alone will be considerable.

The other road in New Brunswick at the farm of the New Jersey State Agricultural College, has not yet been completed.

UNNECESSARY TAXATION

"REPUBLICAN" ANSWERS THE CLAIMS O- "TAXPAYER."

Possibly Some of the Councilmen Are Unable to Realize the Tax Burdens of Poor Men on Account of Their Wealth.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—"Taxpayer" in his last communication seems to insinuate that the writer has entertained feeelings of wrath against our "faithful City Fathers." But he has written in sorrow rather than in anger. He does not know any member of Council, even by sight, and he has no favor to ask of them, or of the Commissioners appointed under the Martin Act. Although, of course, he doesn't know what future antiquarian research may develop in his direction.

It is pleasant to learn that Council is composed chiefly of "prosperous business men." They certainly have reason for thankfulness. But possibly their very prosperity prevents them from realizing that the burdens which they are placing upon the shoulders of others, are often borne by business men who are not as prosperous, or by mechanics or laboring men, or even by women who are struggling to save their humble homes from confiscation. It is for those that "Republican" pleads.

"Taxpayer" is not satisfied with "looking backward" a quarter of a century. He goes back to 1869 for figures to compare with the present valuation of property in the city. Taking the average of his figures we find, leaving population out of the question, that the valuation has only trebled since 1869, while the expenditures are twelve times as much as in 1872. In other words, expenditures have increased more than four times as rapidly as the valuation. Verily, our Assessor needs looking after. He hasn't kept up with the procession.

And this valuation is a purely arbitrary standard of value. We can change it to suit our whims or our necessities, and there is too often a tendency to discriminate against the holdings of those who are least able to bear it.

But it is not so much taxation for legitimate expenses that our people are complaining of. They don't object to liberal appropriations for the schools, for the police and fire departments, for streets, etc., and they are willing to pay reasonable salaries to competent officials. But we are constantly putting them to unnecessary expenditure. We order them to make sewer connections or to curb and flag sidewalks within thirty days. They have no remedy and no appeal, and the remonstrant is treated with scant courtesy. In a large majority of cases these improvements might be delayed until better times, but we have come to look upon the citizen as the creature of the city rather than its creator; one who must obey while we enact, who must pay while we spend. We have transposed the old adage "Necessity knows no law," into "Law knows no necessity." We have many laws of many kinds. It is a pity to so enforce them that they may become a terror to those who do well rather than to evildoers. Even now we are attempting, in the guise of equity and justice, to enforce payment of claims that are so palpably inequitable and unjust that general indignation is aroused. Yet it is gratifying to know that we have kindly provided our citizens a court where they may "air their grievances" and where "justice will be done to all." But is it not at least unfortunate that we have forced them to appeal to strangers for that justice which has been denied them at home?

Republican.

THEATRICAL.

Shows may come, and shows may go, but Proctor's show at the cool and cheery Twenty-third Street House goes on all the year round, regardless of weather variations. This establishment, by the way, is the only amusement resort in New York with a record of never closing for a single day within the past five years. It appeals distinctively to the stay-at-home classes, particularly the family element, and its cooling devices are so thorough and ingenious that it is a restful and refreshing resort on the deadliest of dog-days. Its new mid-summer bill would be considered a colossal one at the height of the winter season. Hope Booth, upon the eve of her departure in quest of European conquests, begins a farewell week of classic art posings, including Macmonnies' much-discussed "Bacchante," "Greater New York," "The Circus Girl," and "The Polar Star," which is particularly refreshing to look at just now.

missioners if they wanted any more names to the petition that was presented to give it strength. Mr. Bergen said that it would not need anyone. It was a remarkably well expressed statement, he said. He also remarked that it did not seem fair to make the innocent property-owners pay for the neglect of the former owners, which encouraged those who heard him to believe that the Commission do not intend to enforce the Martin Act in an arbitrary manner.

After the book containing the list of delinquents under the Martin Act was examined, the Commissioners adjourned until next Thursday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock.

The following letter was sent to the Commissioners by the Mayor:

It has been the general opinion for some time by all parties interested that the uncollected taxes prior to and including the year 1881 could not be collected, as the city had not effected its lien by selling the property, and it was not until the application for the appointment of commissioners under the act commonly known as the Martin Act was contemplated that this erroneous opinion was corrected. For this reason, the former tax collector, in making searches for taxes against real estate, did not, as I understand, examine the record back of the year 1881, and either verbally, or in writing, informed the purchasers that there were no outstanding taxes on the property, when, in reality, it was found, on examination in certain cases, that the taxes were outstanding for the year 1881 and prior thereto. This being the case, certain properties, against which you will find uncollected taxes, are now in the hands of innocent purchasers, who took every precaution, and, had they known that there were taxes against the property, would have seen that they were paid at the time they took the title. In cases of this kind, I think it would only be just and for the best interests of the city, that such tax liens should be cancelled. This would also hold true in regard to properties sold under foreclosure, where the city had been made a party to the suit and the officials had not taken the precaution to protect their claim. However, it would not do for you to take for granted that all property that has changed hands is now held by innocent purchasers, for, upon investigation, you will find that, in certain cases, the purchasers did know of these uncollected taxes, and thinking that they could not be collected, took no steps to have the same taken off the record. In such cases, as this, I think they should be considered in the same light as original holders. There is no doubt in my mind that where property has not changed hands, and where the owners know that they have not paid these taxes, in equity and justice to the other citizens, the property should pay the full amount outstanding whether assessed prior to or subsequent to the year 1881.

Very truly yours,
Charles H. Fisk,
Mayor.

NEW YORK LETTER.

The regular inhabitant does not appreciate the changes which take place in his city; they follow each other so gradually and naturally. It is the occasional visitor viewing the town after long intervals of absence who is most impressed with the evidences of growth and change. But even the busy everyday inhabitants of New York are waking up to the fact that they are practically living in a new city, that the New York as it was and looked two years ago has undergone a remarkable metamorphosis. The consolidation with Brooklyn and Staten Island the creation of a new municipality under an entirely new charter, is not the only change in the condition of the city. The wonderful development of Chicago after the great fire was not more wonderful than the recent development of New York. With the enormous expenditures authorized to precede and follow the consolidation the changes to come will be even more striking. The architecture of the city, the condition of the streets and water front, its means of transportation, its artistic and social life, its centres of trade and amusement, its churches and colleges all have undergone, are undergoing, its political transformation. One old landmark after another is giving way to something new. At the rapid rate this is going on there will soon be left but a few reminders of the old New York. Recently was witnessed the demolition of the Tombs Prison, where has centred the criminal history of the city for sixty years. The old reservoir at Forty-second street will soon give way to an immense public library building. The Hall of Records, which is older than the nation itself, will be removed before long. Doubtless the City Hall will follow. The section of the city below the Post-office has changed in the last fifteen years almost beyond recognition. The historic and scenic district on Morningside Heights is undergoing a like transformation. Fifth avenue has radically changed. In Brooklyn the development has been slower, although there has been a marked increase in population, but consolidation will undoubtedly work many and quick changes there also.

A Remembrance of Bill Tweed Days.

What are the qualities which bring men to the front in public life? The question is suggested by the personality of two men who have been somewhat prominently in evidence recently, but whose natural qualifications for conspicuous eminence may be held to be debatable. The one is A. Oakey Hall and the other Lemuel Ely Quigg. Hall is at the close of an extremely varied career, and Quigg at the beginning of one which promises to be only less picturesque. Hall made his rise in public life by the aid of a party boss; Quigg comes to the front under similar auspices. Both may therefore be supposed to possess the kind of endowment which a boss finds serviceable and to be indebted to that for the chance they have enjoyed in the world of politics. Hall once described a Police Commissioner as being remarkable for his "ancillary" qualities. That perhaps has been his own case. One of his achievements which has passed into history was the sending out, in 1868, when District Attorney and Secretary of the Democratic Executive Committee of instructions to all Democratic canvassers in the city to "prolong the count as far as possible." That was ancillary to the secret circular issued from the rooms of the Democratic State Committee requesting telegraphic estimates of the majorities in the several towns and cities in the state, to be sent to William M. Tweed at Tammany Hall at the minute of closing the polls. The one set of instructions enabled the leaders to know the estimated majorities against them above the Harlem and the other placed it within their power, by means of fraudulent canvassing, altered returns, and ballot-box stuffing, to override and defeat the popular will. Another historic achevement of Hall's was also in the ancillary line. The resolution was in handwrting, and it was presumably he who drafted it, as it was he who moved it, which provided that the Board of Audit appointed under Section 4 of the County Tax Levy of 1870 should content itself by accepting as valid all claims certified by William M. Tweed and Joseph B. Young, the President and Secretary of the old Board of Supervisors of infamous memory. That little transaction cost the City of New York some $6,000,000 and was one of the things which moved those "angry, hungry reformers" to try to invest Hall with that particular stripe of uniform to which he so felicitously referred the other day. It was, however, as neat a piece of ancillary work as it ever fell to the lot of a co-worker with a boss to perform. But that was twenty-seven years ago, and the people of New York have short memories, which is a pity, were it for no other reason than they miss the exquisite humor of seeing Oakey Hall at last on the side of the angels—that is, pleading in the Court of General Sessions the cause of Commander Booth-Tucker and the Salvation Army.

CYRUS THROP.

"May I ask what is going on in the village?" inquired the observant stranger.

"We're celebratin' the birthday of the oldest inhabitant, sir," replied the native. "She's a hundred an' one today, sir."

"And tell me, pray, who is that little man with the dreadfully sad countenance who walks by the old lady's side?"

"That's her son-in-law, sir. He's been keepin' up her life insurance for th' last thirty years."—Cleveland Plaindealer.

Corporation Notice.

Public notice is hereby given that at a special meeting of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, held on Thursday, the eighth day of July instant, an ordinance of which the following is a true copy, to wit:

AN ORDINANCE

to Provide for the Construction of an Addition to the System of Sewerage Already Constructed in the City of Plainfield.

WHEREAS, At an adjourned regular meeting of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, held on the 21st day of May, in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-four, a petition signed by the owners of at least three fifths in value of the real estate in said City as shown by the Assessor's books, was presented to the said Common Council, praying them to provide for and cause to be constructed a system of sewerage in the said City in the manner provided in and by a certain act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled "An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in Cities of this State," approved Apri 7, 1890:

AND WHEREAS, On said 21st day of May, A. D. eighteen hundred and ninety-four, the said petition was by a unanimous vote of the said Common Council referred to the Committee on Finance for verification:

AND WHEREAS, On the fourth day of June, eighteen hundred and ninety-four, said committee reported that they had duly investigated and ascertained that said petition contained the requisite number of signatures as aforesaid, which report was then and there duly accepted by the Common Council and ordered together with the said petition spread upon the minutes of the said Common Council:

AND WHEREAS, It has appeared and does appear to the said Common Council and the said Common Council has found and determined and doth hereby find, ascertain and determine that the owners of at least three-fifths in value of the real estate in the said City as shown by the Assessor's books have petitioned said Common Council to provide for and cause to be constructed a system of sewerage for said City in the manner provided by said act:

AND WHEREAS, In the opinion of the said Common Council the public good required that a system of sewerage should be constructed in and for said city under the provisions of said act, and the said Common Council so determined and adopted "An Ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage," approved July 25, 1894, and an ordinance entitled "A further ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage," approved June 21, 1895:

AND WHEREAS, In the opinion of the Common Council the public good requires that an addition, as hereinafter described, to the system of sewerage already constructed under said ordinances should be constructed in and for said City under the provisions of said act and the Common Council has so determined and does hereby so determine; therefore,

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. AN ORDINANCE to regulate the use of bicycles, tricycles and similar vehicles and other road vehicles in the public roads, streets and highways of the Township of Fanwood.

Section 1. That all bicycles, tricycles and similar vehicles when in use on the public highways, streets or roads within the Township of Fanwood are hereafter required to have a lamp of such illuminating power as to be plainly seen one hundred yards, attached thereto, and kept lighted between one hour after sunset and sunrise.

Section 2. That all bicycles, tricycles and similar vehicles shall carry a suitable bell attached to the handle bar of the machine which when rung may be heard 100 feet distant. That such bell shall be sounded as an alarm by the rider of such vehicle upon approaching another vehicle from the rear, or upon approaching pedestrians crossing the street, or upon the approach of another vehicle on the same street or on a street intersecting the street, road or highway ridden upon.

Section 3. That no person shall ride upon any bicycle, tricycle or similar machine upon any sidewalk within the limits of the township of Fanwood, providing that the term sidewalk as used in this ordinance shall be construed to mean such sidewalk only concerning which the inhabitants of the township of Fanwood have power to pass ordinances under and by virtue of paragraph V, section 1 of chapter 8 of the Public Laws of 1896, and provided, further that this section shall not apply to the riding of any bicycle, tricycle, or similar machine upon any sidewalk when necessary to ride upon said sidewalk in passing to or from private premises to or from the roadbed of any street, road or highway.

Section 4. That no person shall ride upon any bicycle, tricycle or similiar vehicle or other road vehicle in any public road, street or highway of the township of Fanwood at a greater speed than the rate of twelve miles per hour.

Section 5. That every violation of any of the provisions of this ordinance shall render the offender subject to a fine not exceeding the sum of five dollars for each offence, and that the justice of the peace or other magistrate who may have jurisdiction over such offences in violation of this ordinance may impose such fine in his discretion as he may think proper not exceeding the sum of five dollars for each offence.

Adopted July 8, 1897.

Delicate Dress Goods.

FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED.

The Boston Police Refuse to Allow a Body to Be Cremated.

Boston, July 16.—While the body of Miss Edith C. Ward, who died at the home of Mrs. Dr. Clara Leach Austin in Allston last Tuesday, was being prepared in accordance with the young woman's alleged wishes for cremation an order from the police to hold the body until an autopsy could be performed was received by the undertaker. Another order following the first was directed that the body should be buried instead of submitted to the process of cremation.

These orders were issued at the request of the relatives of the young woman who, accompanied by a lawyer, called on the police and stated that in their opinion, the young woman's death was the result of foul play. Their reason for this belief, they said, was that they understood that the young woman had made over most if not all of her property to a friend with whom she had been living for some time.

The police officials promptly took steps to prevent any disposition of the body until Medical Examiner Stedman should hold an autopsy.

Miss Ward, who was a relative of a former well known business man, inherited quite a fortune. Those who protested against the disposition of the body said she had been living with Dr. Austin for two years, and although they had heard little from her they were surprised to learn of her death. A reputable physician gave the cause of death as typhoid fever.

Dr. Austin, who was directing the preparations for cremation, states that before Miss Ward died she expressed the wish that her body be cremated.

THE REPUBLICAN LEAGUE.

Fight In the Convention as to Where to Hold the Next Meeting.

Detroit, July 16.—The feature of the closing day of the Republican league convention was a struggle over the next place of meeting. Omaha, which had been recommended nearly unanimously by the committee having the matter in charge, had the pull, but Baltimore made an extremely hard fight for the honor, and the disappointed Maryland people were not disposed to give up their efforts, even after the convention had recorded itself for Omaha. Chicago, Dallas and Los Angeles were candidates which could be chronicled only among the "also ran."

Secretary M. J. Dowling, who had done distinguished duty for two years, was very easily re-elected, according to the programme of the principal slate, and the Illinois and Michigan delegates were unable to make any great showing for Chapin and Blakely, their respective candidates.

The new executive committee of the National Republican league held its annual meeting in the Hotel Cadillac last evening. Chicago was continued as the league's headquarters, and the date of the Omaha convention was left to President Crawford and the committeeman from Nebraska. A new plan of assessments for raising money was adopted, and the secretary's salary was fixed at $3,600.

THE PEARY EXPEDITION.

Everything In Readiness For an Early Start For Greenland.

Boston, July 16.—Lieutenant R. E. Peary, the arctic explorer, has arrived in this city and will proceed at once to make preparations for his departure for Greenland, where he is to establish a base of supplies for a prospective trip to the north pole in 1899.

Lieutenant Peary states that he expects to have everything in readiness to leave this port on board the sealing steamer Hope next Saturday.

The Hope, however, has not yet arrived, and Lieutenant Peary cannot tell when she will reach this port. "As soon as the Hope gets here," he said. "I shall begin active preparations for departure. This will include getting the passengers aboard and shipping such supplies as will be needed."

The expedition will return in September. The primary object of this trip is to enable Lieutenant Peary to meet his Eskimos and arrange with them for the settlement of a village at a point farther north than any village now exists. This village, he hopes, will be established at about 82 northern latitude to serve as the base of supplies in 1899 and at which the Hope will be left while the explorer tries to reach the north pole with dogs and sledges.

MONUMENT UNVEILED.

Celebrations at the Unveiling of the Statue of Father Marquette.

Marquette, Mich., July 16.—Father Marquette's namesake city held a great celebration in honor of the unveiling of a bronze monument of the explorer and priest whose name the city bears. The weather was fine, and the streets were swarmed with people. There were large delegations present from every town in the peninsula. The revenue cutter Gresham anchored within a few hundred yards of the statue and fired a salute of 13 guns at the unveiling when the canvas fell.

A feature of the parade was a band of 13 Indians on horseback dressed in feathers and war paint. The band was augmented by as many more men and boys painted to represent Indians. The exercises were held on a platform built at the foot of the statue.

During the reading of an original ode a little girl pulled a cord and released the veil amid tremendous cheering. The statue was presented to the city by Hon. Peter White. The common council, which was sitting on the platform, then and there passed an ordinance accepting it. The main speech was a brilliant effort by Hon. Don M. Dickinson of Detroit.

A Shower of Toads.

Catskill, N. Y., July 16.—During a heavy rainfall in the neighboring village of Leeds there was a shower of toads. The toads fell in a limited area, perhaps 100 square feet. Within that space the earth was literally covered with perfectly formed but diminutive toads. The creatures were uniformly of the size of common white beans of a translucent white color.

SATISFACTORY TEST.

The Cutter Manning Is Fully Up to Expectations.

MADE A COMMENDABLE SHOWING.

She Answered Promptly All Demands and Will Prove a Very Acceptable Addition to the Revenue Service For Which She Is Intended.

Boston, July 16.—Under the most favorable weather conditions yesterday the new revenue cutter Daniel Manning proved herself to be a valuable addition to the revenue marine by making an average of nearly 17 knots an hour in a four hour speed test in Massachusetts bay. The trial was the official one of the boat, and it required full 12 hours, four hours under forced draft, two hours under natural draft, another hour under two boiler power, with the sharp turns and reversing, all going to show that she is a boat that can be depended upon at all times.

The boat started out from the wharf of her builders, the Atlantic works, promptly at 7 o'clock and steaming rapidly down the harbor arrived off Boston light about 8 o'clock. A course of 21 nautical miles had been laid out off Cape Ann, and over this course the Manning started. She had not run far, however, before a thick fog was encountered, and rather than risk running the boat at full speed in thick weather, she was promptly turned back.

Showed Good Speed.

For more than four hours the new cutter was kept flying back and forth over a six knot course, and during it she made her maximum speed of 16.94 knots.

Under natural draft the Manning made an average of 15 knots plus an hour, running up and down the coast during the time. Then came a succession of boiler tests, each one of the four being tried separately and again in pairs. While the boat was dashing along at this speed, suddenly came the signal to back her.

In exactly 1 minute and 11 seconds the boat had stopped and was going astern. With the wheel hard over the Manning spun around in a circle of 1,100 feet in diameter and cut figure eights like an expert skater.

About 4 o'clock the speed was again slackened, and the boat anchored a short distance from the battleship Massachusetts, where a steam windlass trial was successfully made.

A few other tests were made, and then with a broom at her nose and 17 in big figures on her smokestack the cutter swept up the harbor, receiving salutes on all sides and reaching her dock shortly after 7 o'clock.

During the forced draft the screw made an average of 160.5 revolutions, under natural draft 148.8 revolutions, and under two boiler power 99 revolutions.

Fire In Hyde Park.

Hyde Park, Mass., July 16.—The hottest fire seen in this town for ten years and which caused a loss of from $18,000 to $20,000 started in the livery stable of J. O. Chaddock on Nott street, and as the fire department was answering a still alarm at the opposite end of the town at the time the flames gained great headway before the firemen got to work upon them. Assistance was then obtained from Milton and from Boston. In the Chaddock stable there were 65 horses and 100 carriages, sleighs, etc., all the horses being saved, together with most of the vehicles.

Want to Appeal the Armour Case.

Little Falls, N. Y., July 16.—James Sheldon of Tracy, Boardman & Platt of New York has appeared before Supreme Court Justice Harden in this city and secured an order in the case of the people against Philip Armour. He represented the defendant, who is anxious to carry the case to the court of appeals, it having been decided against him in the fourth department of the appellate court. The action is to recover penalties amounting to $1,000,000, alleged to have been incurred under the oleomargarine law. Mullen & Griffith of Watertown are the attorneys for the state.

Sale of a Railroad.

Wilmington, N. C., July 16.—The Wilmington, Newberne and Norfolk railroad has been sold at public auction here by order of the United States circuit court in foreclosure of mortgage of the properties to the State Trust company of New York. The sale started at the upset price of $250,000, made by H. A. Whitting, representing bondholders, and was run up to $400,000, at which the sale was closed to Mr. Warren G. Elliott, president of the Atlantic Coast line and representing a corporation to be known as the Wilmington and Newberne Railroad company.

Landslide In Vermont.

Montpelier, Vt., July 16.—News reached here of a big landslide that occurred yesterday forenoon in the mountains near Lincoln and Fayston. A slide half a mile wide came down the side of the mountain a distance of over half a mile, sweeping off every tree and movable rock, which were piled into an immense heap of debris in the valley below. Several farms were partially covered, but no houses. It was only a short distance from the big slide that occurred June 3, 1827.

The Durrant Case.

San Francisco, July 16.—The Rev. Hugh Lamont, uncle of Blanche Lamont, for whose murder Theodore Durrant is under sentence of death, had an interview with the prisoner. Durrant declared that he was innocent, and Mr. Lamont said, after the interview, that while he believed that the prisoner was guilty, his demeanor was certainly that of an innocent man.

Extensive Fire at Windsor, Ont.

Detroit, July 16.—Fire destroyed the Ouellette block on Sandwich street, Windsor, Ont., occupied by Neven, Clinton & Basker, hardware; J. O. Peck, clothing, and B. L. Carley, tailor. Loss, $74,000; insurance, $42,000. Bartlett, MacDonald & Co., dry goods, adjoining, were damaged $4,000 by smoke and water; fully insured.

Arrest of a Distinguished Foreigner.

New York, July 16.—Among the passengers who have arrived per German steamer Barbarossa, from Bremen and Southampton, was Colonel Macalaza of the Argentine Republic.

AROUND THE BASES.

There are still remaining a few of the copies of the schedule of the Crescent Baseball Club. They can be obtained at this office or on application to Manager Mumford.

Tomorrow afternoon, the Crescents of this city will play their first game out of town. The game will be played at Somerville against the Somersets of that city. The Somersets came here June 12th, and defeated the Crescents by a score of 13 to 8. The game was an exciting one. Tomorrow the Crescents propose to turn the tables. They will go to Somerville with the regular team and an extra pitcher. The Somersets will have to play a lively game to win and so will the Crescents. The team will go to Somerville in a stage and by train. The rooters will go awheel and by train. The game begins at 3:30 o'clock. One train leaves Plainfield at 2:11 o'clock and arrives at Somerville at 2:39. The next train leaves Plainfield at 2:32 and arrives there at 2:55. The next leaves Plainfield at 3:38 and arrives there at 4 o'clock.

PASSING COMMENT.

Until July 4th, the local liverymen found the business in this city unusually good. There seemed a great demand for horses despite the thousands of wheels that have been sold. With the beginning of this month there has come a change and now they find trade unusually dull. The continuance of the busy season up to the first of July may be accounted for by the remarkably cool weather that was enjoyed during the months of May and June.

One enterprising vendor of peanuts, sodawater and the like, who preempted a section of the road leading to the circus tents Wednesday night, hit upon a favorite political expression in appealing to the crowds going to the circus for patronage. "Right here you are, now, people," yelled the man with a lusty voice, "the finest peanuts, soda water and frankfurter sandwiches." And then in a patriotic fervor he ended his appeal by screaming, "Patronize home industries," meaning, of course, to steer clear of the red lemonade inside the tents.

Of all the times of the year this is one of the most beautiful and exhilerating for driving purposes. Pulling the reins over a fast stepping road horse or team, hearing the pitter-patter of their hoofs on the hard macadam roads hereabouts, feeling the breeze blowing across one's brow as you speed onward past waving fields of golden grain or well-cultivated fields of vegetables, in fact, taking in the beauties of nature in all their verdant glory, makes a pastime healthy and enjoyable.

The rain was falling in torrents, Tuesday evening, when two women from Paradise alley boarded a trolley car at the North avenue station. They were going to ride to Richmond and East Fifth streets and then walk to their abode. They had managed during the evening to take something wet inside as well as out and the carried a little flask with them that made frequent excursions to their mouths during the trip. They were not intoxicated but just feeling happy. As the car sped through the darkness, the few other passengers were rather surprised to hear the two residents of Paradise alley unite their quivering voices in the old song of "Down Went McGinty." When they came to the part referring to the rather damp condition of the late McGinty, they laughed most heartily. They finally left the car and departed, still singing.

There are very few people who know how close Plainfield came to having a trolley war last spring, something after the order of the present conflict between the traction companies in Bound Brook. It was known that the Plainfield Street Railway, with the other corporations who run in conjunction with it, were planning to build a trolley line from Plainfield out to the Crescent Oval and perhaps further. It was not known, however, that the agents of another company, backed by the Lehigh Valley Railroad, were quietly working among the landowners to secure the necessary rights to run a line from Metuchen to Plainfield, running directly past the Oval. The line was to run through the property of James E. Martine and then cut through Kensington avenue to Putnam avenue. It was planned to spring the latter scheme on the local trolley company and have an ordinance introduced into the Council before the Plainfield Street Railway could have one prepared. The plans seemed well laid, but for some reasons the outsiders gave up the idea of entering the town. Since then nothing has been heard of the present company's attempt to reach that part of the city.

A PEOPLE OF FEW WORDS.

"Let your speech be yea, yea, and nay, nay," says the Good Book, "for whosoever is more than these cometh of evil." The Shakers abide by the spirit of this rule. Their words are few, simple, sincere and direct. They waste no energy in idle talk; they use it in thinking and doing. And whatever they do they do with their might. They are content with nothing short of the essence and principle of the things they investigate. They take pains and are patient. And thus the doors of many strange truths open to them. In this way they discovered what may almost be called the unity of disease. A venerable Shaker says of it: "It is said that one man's meat is another man's poison. That is but half the truth. Any man's meat is any man's poison, under certain conditions. If the grain never got further than the hopper we should never have bread; and if bread never got further than the stomach we should never have strength. When the stomach is torpid, helpless and inflamed the food lies in it and rots. This fermetnation produces poisons which may, and often do, disorder every other organ and function of the body. This is indigestion or dyspepsia, with many symptoms and disguises. Cure it and you cure nine tenths of your complaints." These words were uttered many years ago. Since then they have found a remedy, now known as Shaker Digestive Cordial. It is made from medicinal plants cultivated by them. It is a food and digests other foods. Taken while eating it rests the stomach and nourishes the system. The pain and distresses of dyspepsia disappear before it. It prevents fermentation and soon restores full power to the digestion. It succeeds in the worst cases. It is worthy the name of the people whose name it bears. Any druggist will sell you a trial bottle for ten cents.

Marital Differences Settled.

Abner Bartlett called at the Press office today and stated that the marital differences between himself and wife had been amicably settled, the terms of which were confidential.

—A routine business meeting of the North Plainfield Board of Education was held last evening in the school building.

—The work of building the centre pier for the new Watchung avenue bridge is somewhat impeded by the presence of a large quantity of water, which flows through the channel. Men are kept busy pumping the water out but it does not materially decrease the quantity.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Justice Moffett today issued a summons in the case of Comstock & Co. against Sharkey, on contract. The summons is returnable on the 22d.

—At a meeting of the Plainfield Sanitary Company, held last evening. L. Sangenberg was elected general superintendent for the company. Other business of a routine nature was transacted.

—A horse attached to one of the delivery wagons of J. M. Smalley, the Park avenue butcher, ran away early this morning on Somerset street. No damage was done to wagon or harness. The horse was caught near the residence of Adam Fritz.

—Mrs. Peter Laire, of Stone street, died this morning at her home after a long illness. She leaves a husband and two daughters. The funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon from the house. Rev. Dr. Yerkes will officiate.

—The dance at the Emorydale terminus of the trolley line last evening, proved a success. Similar dances will be held every Thursday and Saturday evenings at the same place. Prof. Naylor will furnish the music. The platform will probably be enlarged to accomodate the crowd.

DIED UNDER THE WATER

SAD DROWNING ACCIDENT IN GREEN BROOK LAST NIGHT.

Herbert Beetham Stricken With Cramps and Sank Before He Could Be Rescued—Only 19 Years Old and Leaves a Widow.

It was, indeed, a sad drowning accident that occurred last evening near Sebring's mills, when Herbert Beetham, a young man nineteen years of age, lost his life while in swimming. Young Beetham while in the water was seized with cramps and before his companions could get near enough to rescue him, he sank.

A search was at once instituted for the body and it was found a considerable distance from where it went down. The companions had some difficulty in finding the body, and after it was discovered they experienced further trouble in getting it out of the water. When the body was laid on the bank it was quickly learned that there was no hope of saving life.

The young men were sorrow-stricken and they hastily went to the home of the young man to tell his young wife of the terrible accident. When the circumstances were related the young woman was stricken with grief. She and her departed husband were married last September. The parents of the young man were also told of the accident and they are prostrated with grief. The home is not a great distance from the scene of the accident and the companions carried the body to the house. The body was in a cramped condition and showed that Beetham must have suffered intense pain for a few seconds while he was conscious.

SETTLED FOR THE BUGGY.

Thought the Demands Too Exorbitant at First, But Came To Terms.

A wrecked buggy, an angry liveryman and the man who caused it all, were the three prominent figures in a scene that was to take place in the court of Justice Storms, of New Market. It didn't, however, as the man finally agreed to settle and the complaint was withdrawn.

Fred Nelson has a livery stable in Dunellen. He has some nice rigs and he is careful of them. On the morning of July 5th, he hired a horse and buggy to Charles Johnson, of Plainfield avenue. Johnson lives just across the county line in Middlesex county. Like other buggies, it was built for two, but they managed to get three young men in it. While driving near Westfield, they attempted to turn around. They turned too short and with serious results. The wheel was wrecked and so was the side of the carriage. The remains of the rig was left in Westfield and Mr. Nelson was notified.

Nelson sent in a bill which Johnson thought exorbitant and refused to pay. He did not return the remains of the rig. Then Nelson retained Lawyer Winfield S. Angleman, of this city, and had a warrant sworn out before Justice Storms for Johnson's arrest on the charge of damaging the rig and not returning it. Johnson secured Murphy & Blatz as his attorneys. There was a conference and the liveryman finally agreed to withdraw the complaint if Johnson would settle on terms arranged by the lawyers. The case was to come before Justice Storms this week for a hearing.

ESCAPED BY A FEW INCHES.

James Taylor, of West Seventh street, was nearly run over by a heavily loaded truck on the ferry boat "Elizabeth," yesterday morning.

Mr. Taylor went down on the 7:26 train from Plainfield yesterday morning. He was walking leisurely up the driveway when a truck started to come on board. The bell had rung for the closing of the gates but the driver was anxious to catch the boat and so he urged his horses onward. They came down the gang-way at break neck speed. Mr. Taylor was directly in the path and all who saw the team were sure that he was about to be run over. Everybody shouted and he jumped to one side, the pole of the wagon just touching his coat as he sprang out of the way. The driver of the wagon was severely censured by the officials of the boat for attempting to come on board after the bell had rung.

Middlesex Road Improvement.

At the meeting of the Middlesex Board of Freeholders last week the road committee was instructed to advertise for proposals to build macadam roads from Metuchen to Woodbridge, from New Dover to Rahway, and from Woodbridge to Oak Tree. This will make a continuous macadam from New Brunswick to within a mile of Rahway.

Mrs. Arthur Boone and son, of New York, are visiting Plainfield relatives.

DEATH ENDS HIS MISERY.

WESTFIELD'S PITIABLE PAUPER SUCCUMBED TO BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

John Horrigan No Longer Subjected to the Want That Has Been His Lot Since He Lost His Exceptional Good Health.

John Horrigan, Westfield's picturesque pauper, who with his wife has been living for the past year in a rickety barn upon the LaQueer estate, died yesterday morning of Bright's disease.

The story of Horrigan as told recently in The Press was one which excited much interest and sympathy. He was a stone mason but was unable to work and the pair have lived in the direst poverty for some time. The Westfield Township Committee some time ago ordered Overseer of the Poor Decker to reduce their allowance from their more prosperous days.

The cow's milk often furnished the only nourishment the couple had, and when Mrs. Horrigan was told of the action of the authorities she replied that she would never allow the cow to be sold, as her husband would die of starvation.

The animals were not sold, but now that Horrigan is dead they probably will be, and the money will be placed in the Township poor fund.

Horrigan, who was a Roman Catholic, will be buried today in St. Mary's cemetry, this city.

NO MOUNTAIN TROLLEY.

THE PROMOTERS UNABLE TO SECURE THE NECESSARY CONSENTS.

The Work Will Be Abandoned With But Little Hope of Resuming It—Mrs Hudson's Children are the Chief Objectors.

"Well, we've struck a snag," was the remark made by John H. French as he made his appearance in The Press office this morning.

Mr. French referred to the building of a trolley road up the Watchung mountain to Mountain Park Inn, a long contemplated and much desired improvement. Mr. French was accompanied by J. T. Vail, who is associated with Mr. French in the enterprise.

"A snag?" queried the reporter, "but can't you dig it up?"

"Yes," said Mr. Vail, "but it will cost too much money."

Messrs. French and Vail explained the situation to be this: When they started the work of clearing the way for the trolley road in the woods above Hudson's lane, they were confident that they could secure the necessary consents from the abutting property owners between Somerset street, where the extension begins, and the point where the tracks were to be laid over land controlled by Messrs. French and Vail.

They had already obtained a verbal assent from Mrs. Caroline Hudson, who owns the land on the south side of the lane which the trolley road was to traverse. The promoters of the road felt sure that they would meet scarcely any opposition from William Hudson and Mrs. Green, of Brooklyn, Mrs. Hudson's children, who own the land on the north side of the lane. But when they came to the point of securing consents from Mrs. Hudson's children the latter refused the affirmative action, and gave them to understand that the consents would not be forthcoming. Their manner showed them to be in earnest and the promoters of the road immediately realized that they had played their last strong card for success and had been euchered. Hudson's lane affords the only feasible route to the mountain tract, and the only way the opposition can be overcome is to buy the property of the objectors That involves too great a sum of money and it will not be done.

In anticipation of their success in getting the consents the trolley people have had about 1,000 feet of the proposed line cleared of trees and underbrush. Mr. French said this morning that the laborers who have been doing the work would be discharged tonight and the work would come to a standstill.

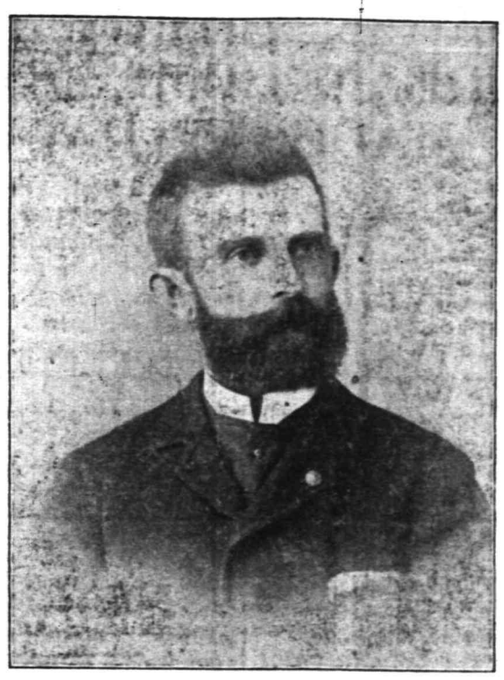
Of course, there is a possibility of some method being determined upon to build the road, but neither Messrs. French or Vail were inclined to think that the road would become a reality. They are thoroughly discouraged.

COURT OPINION A LITTLE LATE.

Decision Filed in Johnson's Case Over Two Months After He Was Hanged.

Justice Depue, yesterday, filed the opinion of the Court of Errors and Appeals refusing to grant a new trial in the case of Jacob S. Johnson, the colored preacher, of Somerville, who was indicted for killing Annie Rogers in 1895.

Johnson was hanged May 5 last, but the opinion of the Court was only prepared and filed today.



SILAS D. DRAKE, MAYOR OF LINCOLN.

MISS EMMA EGEL. President of Lincoln Common Council.

MRS. OLIVA HAZARD. Member of Lincoln Common Council.

NOT LIKE NEW WOMEN.

LINCOLN COUNCILWOMEN PURSUING THE EVEN TENOR OF THEIR WAY.

Miss Egel and Mrs. Hazard Do Not Neglect Their Household Duties Over Elation Because of the Councilmanic Honor

Though distinguished and made famous in almost a day, Miss Emma Egel and Mrs. Olivia Hazard, the newly-elected women members of the Lincoln Common Council, are still pursuing the even tenor of their way by attending strictly to their household affairs the same as they did before the councilmanic mantle fell on their shoulders.

Miss Egel's parents live about a quarter of a mile from the Lincoln town hall wherein she will preside as President of the Council when Mayor Silas D. Drake is unable to be present. Most of her time each day is taken up in looking after the domestic duties that fall to her lot as the helpmeet of her mother. Miss Egel is not only a successful politician in that she has accomplished something that no other New Jersey woman has yet been able to, but she is a neat housekeeper as well. Every afternoon she dresses in a light summer gown and under the spreading maples in her father's door yard studiously peruses a copy of parliamentary laws to acquaint herself the better with her official duties.

Mrs. Hazard, the matronly member of the Council, is of a quiet and retired disposition and her official duties insofar as the public proceedings of the Council are concerned will be to look wise and say nothing principally, except about matters concerning the marshals, and license committee of which she is a member. But as Lincoln people are a peace loving community, it is not likely that the constabulary affairs of the town will occupy much of her attention. In her husband, who has traveled considerable and butted up against the harshness of the world as all men have, she has a confidential adviser as to her public duties that is ever a consolation to her.

The fact of his selection as chief executive of the town has not served to lessen the all-around hustling qualities of S. D. Drake in the business of booming Lincoln, but on the contrary seems to add fresh impetus to the energies remarkable for the fact that they exceed those of a dozen ordinary men.

Mr. and Mrs J. E. Morse, of Franklin place, have gone to Whitehouse, today, where they will be the guests of Samuel Q. Brown, president of the Tidewater Oil Company, at his summer residence near Whitehouse.

COUNTY TROLLEY LINE.

APPLICATION FOR A FRANCHISE IN ELIZABETH IS REFERRED.

The Board of Freeholders Will Be Called Upon to Act—It is Said That the Majority of Consents Have Been Secured.

The Elizabeth Council has referred action on the application of the Westfield Electric Railway Company for a franchise to construct its road on Westfield avenue to the committee on streets and parks, which will make a report at the next meeting.

The opinion seems to prevail that the City Council will really have little to say in this matter, and that it properly belongs to the Board of Freeholders, as only about half a mile of the road is to be laid in Elizabeth. It is said the company, outside of Elizabeth, has secured the necessary consents from the landowners along the line of Westfield avenue for the construction of the railroad, one of the largest property-owners being ex-Senator McPherson.

The time limit for the operation of the road is July 1, 1898, and if after the commencement the company shall fail to run the road every day for the space of thirty days the franchise shall be null and void, and City Council may sell it at auction.

The cars to be used are to be well lighted and properly heated; they are to be kept clean, and to have bells or gongs, to run at a speed not to exceed ten miles an hour, and to be provided with necessary fenders, of approved pattern. The cars are to run at 15-minute headway, from 6 a. m. till 10 p. m., and until midnight, as travel may warrant.

After the provisions concerning the privilege to erect poles, string wires, etc., the ordinance provides that for every mile of street occupied in the Elizabeth city limits the company will pay the following sums as license fees:

For 1898, $50 per mile; for 1899 and 1900, $75 per mile; 1901 and 1902, $100 per mile; 1903, $125 a mile, and for the succeeding years the company to pay at the rate for 1903, provided that when the gross receipts in one year from the entire system in the city shall equal $25,000, then for that year and annually thereafter the company shall pay 5 per cent. of the gross earnings.

The proposed fares are to be as follows: The company to sell 33 school tickets for $1, good between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. on school days.

—Before you leave home on your vacation purchase a Vive camera of Doane, the optician, and bring home some pictures of your trip. They only cost $5 and make a picture 4½x4½, films or plates.

BOY FELL FROM HAYMOW

IT IS THOUGHT HIS INJURIES MAY PROVE FATAL.

Sherman King, of Westfield, Was the Unfortunate Lad—He Struck on His Head and Fractured the Skull.

Sherman, the six-year-old son of Corson H. King, of Dudley avenue, Westfield, fell about fifteen feet from a haymow yesterday morning, and received injuries which may prove fatal.

The boy with a number of playmates was climbing upon a ladder in the barn of James O. Clark. He mounted the ladder and had reached the haymow, when he slipped and fell to the floor, a distance of fully fifteen feet. He struck full upon his head on the hard oak floor of the barn, and was rendered unconscious. His companions ran to tell what had happened, and the unconscious form was raised and conveyed to Mr. King's home an Dudley avenue. Drs. Cooper and Sinclair were called and an examination revealed a serious fracture of the skull.

Last evening Dr. Dallas, of Bayonne was called and a consultation was held. There is a considerable indentation of the skull, and if this raises there is a good chance for recovery. If no improvement is noted within a day or two an operation upon the skull will be performed.

HAS NO PEACE OF MIND.

HEALH INSPECTOR ADDIS SUBJECTED TO MANY INSULTS.

Complained Against a Man For Saying "Throw That in the Sewer," But Lane Said He Referred to a Horse and Wagon.

It's a hard row that Inspector William Addis of the Board of Health has to hoe. His position is one that is apt to make him unpopular, particularly when he is trying to enforce the health ordinances.

In the business section, Inspector Addis has been trying to keep the stores in a good sanitary condition. On some occasions, the proprietors have resented his visits and orders that compel them to clean up in a much more thorough manner than ever before. The young men about town are not fond of Addis and like to make sneering remarks as he passes. He complained to the City Judge and was told to bring the offenders to justice.

All sorts of remarks have been made along the street as the Inspector passes by. Even when he walks with with his wife, his persecutors do not stop.

"Look out! Here comes the Board of Health! Pick up the kids and take them in," is one of the favorate remarks.

On the evening of July 1st, Inspector Addis was coming down West Front street. In front of the Coriell building he crossed the street. James Lane, who is employed in a local meat market, was sitting in front of that building while Frank Schuck stood in front of another store.

"Catch it and throw it in the sewer," remarked Lane. Addis looked around and noticed that there were no other pedestrians on the street and thought that the remarks were intended for himself. He made a complaint against Lane for insulting him on the street. This morning the alleged offender and the complainant appeared in the city court.

Inspector Addis stated his case Schuck remembered hearing the remarks but really couldn't tell what they referred to. Lane said that he made the remarks, but that he referred to a horse and wagon of a very consumptive appearance that was passing. The Judge asked him if a horse and wagon was not a very large object to throw in the Plainfield sewer, but Lane explained that he had only said it in a joking manner and had no intention of offending the Inspector.

The Judge decided to think it over as to how a horse and wagon might be gotten into the sewer and so reserved his decision until a week from Monday.

FOUR CIRCUS HORSES KILLED.

Eight-horse Team Run Down by a Freight Train at Perth Amboy.

A freight train, bound south on the New York and Long Branch Railroad, Thursday night ran into and killed four horses and injured two others of an eight horse team which were being driven across the Market street crossing, in Perth Amboy.

The horses belonged to the Wallace circus, which visited this city Wednesday. The wagon and driver escaped injury. The horses were iron grays and were worth $600.

CUPID'S CLEVER TRICK.

A PLUCKAMIN BOY'S ABSENCE EXPLAINED BY HIS MARRIAGE.

The Event Was Consummated With the Utmost Secrecy, Even the Groom's Family Not Knowing of the Affair.

It was a very clever trick that Cupid played last Tuesday when Miss Augusta Poulson, of Bedminster, and Theodore Harrison, of Pluckamin, were married at the home of Rev. H. J. Johnston, of Craig place. The bride has been stopping for several weeks at the home of a relative in the borough, and of course the marriage was planned with the utmost secrecy. The groom is a produce dealer, and he comes to Plainfield every day to supply his customers.

Last Tuesday Mr. Harrison came to Plainfield, as usual, and supplied his customers. It will be remembered it rained quite hard that day and Mr. Harrison wore a long rubber overcoat. This hid the fact that he was attired in his wedding suit, and thus all suspicion was banished. After he had made his rounds he put his horse and wagon up and then engaged a coach and called on his wife-to-be. The two, accompanied by Miss Lottie Huff, a relative, went to the home of Rev. Mr. Johnston, where the marriage was performed. Following this the bride and groom left on a train for New York and other points to spend their honeymoon.

The affair was so cleverly managed that not even the relatives in the country knew of it. Mr. Harrison did not return home that night and his continued absence caused anxiety among his relatives and folks at home. After an absence of several days a letter was sent to Plainfield addressed to Mr. Harrison, and the letter still remains in Plainfield unopened. It is supposed that the happy couple are still on the wedding trip.

USE OF THE WEED IS ALLOWED.

Rules at the Alms House Are Only Against Smoking Indoors.

The communications upon the question of the use of tobacco in the City Industrial Home which were published in yesterday's Press, attracted the attention of a member of the Common Council who stated to a Press reporter today that the writers of those letters in question did not at all understand the provisions in the rules which relate to the use of tobacco.

As a matter of fact tobacco and pipes are furnished the inmates. The only restriction being against smoking inside of the building. The rule in question reads as follows: "The use of tobacco in any form by the inmates while inside of the institution is prohibited."

This rule, the official explained, was framed merely to guard against a danger of fire. There is no fire protection in the vicinity of the institution, and as many of the inmates are mentally irresponsible they would smoke in bed if permitted to, and the danger of fire would be great. It is the purpose of the rule to do away with this risk.

THE LIFE OF JUDSON.

Special Missionary Meeting at Park Avenue Baptist Church.

A special missionary meeting was held in the chapel of the Park Avenue Baptist church, last evening, by the members of the Christian Endeavor Society. The meeting was led by Miss Florence G. Hawkins. It has been the custom of the society to have ten minutes of their regular meetings devoted to the reading of "The Life of Judson," the famous Baptist missionary. Last evening half an hour was spent in reading it. The last part of the meeting was given to the reading of short items from the missionary field. Hymns and selections by a quartette were sung during the meeting. The quartette was composed of Miss Adelaide Runyon, Miss Adelia Runyon, Wesley Brokaw and Thomas A. Cuming. A collection was taken up for the benefit of the Westfield Fresh Air Camp.

Suspected Murder at Bordentown.

The body of the man found drowned in Black's Creek at Bordentown, on Wednesday has been identified as that of Barney McCoy, who served in Company C, Ninth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers. He was a pensioner, and is thought to have been foully dealt with. An investigation is in progress.

Charged With Bicycle Theft.

A warrant has been issued by Justice Nash at the request of F. L. C. Martin, president of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company, for the arrest of Winslow Carson, of North Plainfield. Mr. Martin claims that Carson bought a wheel on the installment plan and then disposed of it before completing the payments.

CONFEREES' ACTION.

HEARING ON THE ARIZONA CASE.

Although There Was Not a Quorum Present, the Vote Showed That McCord Will Be Declared Eligible—Doings of Both Houses.

Washington, July 17.—The conferees are no nearer an agreement on the sugar schedule, which continues to be the main bone of contention, than they were when they began. Each side is standing out as firmly as ever for its own rates. The house conferees are convinced that they can win, supported as they are by almost the unanimous sentiment of their party in the house, and some of them talk with resignation of remaining here all summer rather than yield to the senate on this point.

There were rumors that the senate conferees were about to surrender on sugar, but they proved to be utterly without foundation. Believing that if the senate itself were permitted to vote on the question it would recede from its rates on sugar there was also talk during the day of forcing an expression on the subject from the senate in some way for its effect on the conferees, but this also, on investigation, proved to be little more than idle gossip.

So far as can be ascertained the senate conferees are as determined as those of the house not to surrender. There is little doubt, however, that they would accept a compromise if the other side would agree to it. The difficulty is that the house conferees refuse to entertain any proposition for compromise. Thus far the ultimatum has been, "The house schedule or nothing." While the sugar schedule blocks the way to an agreement the conferees have not been idle.

Much progress has been made with the minor features of the bill, and tentative agreements have been reached in many of the important paragraphs. An influential member of the house, who is kept well advised of the situation, said last night that if the sugar schedule were out of the way, a complete agreement could be reached in four hours. Of course there is always the possibility that the conferees may get together at any time, but as yet there is apparently no prospect of breaking the deadlock.

If the present situation continues until Tuesday or Wednesday next, the current opinion among the members of the house is that a disagreement will be reported for the purpose of giving each house an opportunity to instruct its conferees on the main obstacle to an agreement.

The McCord Question.

Washington, July 17.—The senate spent more than four hours in executive session in an effort to confirm the nomination of M. H. McCord to be governor of Arizona and adjourned after 6 o'clock without having succeeded in that purpose. The failure was due, however, only to the absence of a quorum. A vote was secured, showing 26 votes for and 11 against, 8 less than a quorum. The contest was over McCord's record as developed by the investigation of the committee on territories and was made principally by Senators Berry, Bate and Teller, while Senators Davis, Carter, Spooner and Kyle took the lead in Mr. McCord's behalf, Senator Carter being especially active, as Senator Berry was upon the opposing side. The debate was of a generally uninteresting character, dealing with the details of the charges against McCord, which cover practically the past 20 years.

The opposition to confirmation was based on the plea that a man against whom there were so many charges should not be elevated to so high an office until he was absolutely cleared of the charges. It was asserted that the committee had refused to make an investigation of some of the charges and that the McCord family had made an immense fortune out of land legislation in his congressional district in Wisconsin, for which he was responsible. It was declared on behalf of the committee that its investigation had been thorough, and it was held that it should be sufficient to relieve Mr. McCord of the aspersions upon his character.

Senator Spooner devoted himself to the charges in connection with the Wisconsin lands, known as the Omaha Indian lands. He said that it was true that McCord's brother had been prosecuted for his connection with supposed frauds. Senator Spooner had been the attorney for the brother in this case, and he said he could bear testimony to the fact that while the suit lasted for 11 days there had been no aspersion whatever upon the name of Myron H. McCord.

McCord's friends feel greatly encouraged over the vote and say that it is a sure precursor of confirmation with a quorum present when the nomination is next considered.

Doings of Both Houses.

Washington, July 17.—The open session of the senate was brief and uneventful. The Harris resolution relating to the Union Pacific railroad was further discussed. At 1:30 the senate went into executive session, remaining behind closed doors until 6 o'clock, and then adjourned.

The house has agreed to the partial conference report on the general deficiency appropriation bill and then concurred in the senate amendment fixing the limit of cost of armor plate for the three battleships now building at $300 per ton. This was the main item still in dispute between the two houses.

A strong effort was made to induce the house to agree to a substitute proposition fixing the limit at $400, as recommended by the secretary of the navy, but after a three hours' debate the house, by a vote of 142 to 45, concurred in the senate amendment. Messrs. Stone (Rep.) of Pennsylvania, Dalzell (Rep.) of Pennsylvania and Boutelle (Rep.) of Maine supported the $400 proposition, which was opposed by Messrs. King (Dem.) of Utah, Underwood (Dem.) of Alabama, Barlow (Pop.) of Colorado, Simpson (Pop.) of Kansas, Gaines (Dem.) of Tennessee, Wheeler (Dem.) of Alabama, Sayers (Dem.) of Texas and Cannon (Rep.) of Illinois.

Counterfeit Plates Found.

Washington, July 17.—Chief Hazen of the secret service has received a telegram stating that the original stones face and back, from which the counterfeit 100 pesos notes of the Bank of Costa Rica were printed by Ricardo de Requesens and six others now under arrest have been found in the Hoboken slip, North river, in the place indicated by the engraver of the plates.

Medals of Honor Awarded.

Washington, July 17.—The president has awarded medals of honor to Captain Harlan J. Swift of Buffalo of the Second New York Mounted rifles and Charles Day of Wellsboro, Pa., a private in the Two Hundred and Tenth Pennsylvania volunteers.

THE INSURANCE RATE WAR.

Action of the Northwestern National of Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, July 17.—The situation in fire insurance circles is getting exciting. President James of the Northwestern National Insurance company of Milwaukee, doing business all over the United States, has issued instructions to local managers and agents in the territory from eastern Ohio to Colorado and from North Dakota and Minnesota to Tennessee to meet the proposed reduction of from 30 to 50 per cent on all preferred risks authorized by the Western Union. The agents of the Northwestern National are instructed to meet all such reductions on all business—that is, to reduce the rates on all brick mercantile buildings as well as upon such as come under the head of "preferred" risks.

If this policy of the Northwestern National is carried out, as it will be if the Western Union orders take effect, it will result in giving all classes of insured property the same benefits as the Western Union proposes to give a select few insuring property known as preferred risks. If the Western Union carries out its threatened policy of reduction on preferred business in Milwaukee, the Milwaukee board of underwriters, it is claimed, will go to pieces.

The Blood of Life.

Modern Science Discovers a New Way of Restoring its Vitality and Curing Disease.

Physicians are giving more and more attention to the quality of the blood. Anæmia is the scourge of mankind, an enemy the most skilled physicians dread to attack. It is the starting point of nearly all the ills to which human flesh is heir. Anæmia is caused by a bankruptcy of iron in the blood. The blood fails to take up the oxygen breathed into the lungs, the germs of disease multiply, the weakest part of the system is attacked and disease is the result.

The food we eat does not supply the blood with sufficient iron to meet the demands of nature, as a result it becomes pale, thin and watery. The cheeks, lips and ears become pale and the appetite is bad; there is palpitation, shortness of breath, weariness, constipation and loss of energy. To restore the system to a normal condition you must restore to the blood its natural iron. Prescribed forms of iron are inadequate because indigestible; dangerous because they derange the stomach and ruin the teeth.

Realizing this, Dr. Campbell, an English physician and chemist of high repute, sought to produce iron as nature produces it, as it is contained in the blood. He satisfied himself that the iron contained in the blood of the bullock was similar to that in human blood. A process of extraction was discovered and this natural iron or Hæmoglobin was enclosed in pure gelatine globes called Capsuloids.

These Capsuloids when taken into the stomach dissolve immediately and the iron is absorbed by the blood, strength created, vitality restored.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from the office of The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York City.

DEBILITY.
To those who suffer pain the joy of relief is indescribable. Debility causes all the inconveniences of pain, though not its sharpness. It is a later stage of disease.
Pains and debility are symptoms of a deranged condition of the kidneys. They will disappear when the kidneys act right, not before. Diseased or inactive kidneys can be CURED
In reply to your letter of late date concerning the trial package of Sparagus Kidney Pills I received from your Agent in Harrisburg, would say: In the early spring of '96, I was taken with severe pains in the small of my back and in the muscles along my back bone. I at once went to my physician, who prescribed for me, but as time went on I grew constantly worse. I tried three other doctors who afforded me little relief, when in Feb. of '97 I noticed in a Harrisburg paper the free distribution of Dr. Hobbs Sparagus Kidney Pills. I at once sent there and procured a box and began taking them according to directions, and in less than three weeks I felt like a new man, and I owe it all to those pills. I was so run down that life was a burden to me, I could not lift a pound, could hardly stoop down on account of the pain in my back, but thanks to Dr. Hobbs, I am greatly improved and intend ordering another package for I am positive they will effect a permanent cure; tell me where I must send as I cannot get them here. Respectfully yours, CAPT. WM. T. WRAY, Box 41, Herndon, Pa.

1. Because it affords almost instant relief in case of pain in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus.
2. Because it is the only remedy that never fails in the most severe cases of dysentery and diarrhoea.
3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhoea.
4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent bilious colic.
5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemical dysentery.
6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
8. Because it produces no bad results.
9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.
10. Because it has saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world.

A BIG GAS COMBINE.

Three New York Companies Have Decided to Join.

FOR ECONOMICAL PURPOSES ONLY.

The Real Cause, However, Is the Act of the Legislature Providing For a Reduction In the Price to Consumers.

New York, July 17.—The Central Trust company has issued the following circular to the shareholders of the Equitable Gaslight and New York and East River Gas companies:

"In view of the recent legislation providing for the reduction of the price of gas in the city of New York it has seemed to many stockholders advisable to unite the properties and interests of the two companies. Such an association of interests will enable the management to introduce many economies and to compete more effectively with the larger gas companies. It will also enable better service to be rendered to the public.

"It is therefore proposed to form a new corporation and to exchange the shares of the present companies for new securities as may be hereafter determined. The undersigned will act as depository of the stock of both companies, certificates for which must be indorsed in blank and deposited with it and certificates of deposit will be issued.

Plan of Reorganization.

"If more than two-thirds of the shares of the respective companies are deposited with the undersigned before Sept. 1, or other date limited by the undersigned, it has been agreed that plans of reorganization shall be formulated and published within 30 days thereafter. If two-thirds of the shares of both companies are not so deposited the share certificates are to be returned to the depositors.

"It has further been agreed that a depositing shareholder dissatisfied with the allotment of new securities under such plan when published will be entitled at his option to be paid in cash as follows:

Second.—For each share (par $100) of the preferred stock of the New York and East River Gas company $115 in cash.

Third.—For each share (par $100) of the common stock of the New York and East River Gas company $80 in cash.

Syndicate to Provide Funds.

"A syndicate has been formed to provide the funds necessary to pay for the stock of depositing shareholders who may not assent to the plan.

"If holders of certificates issued by undersigned do not within four weeks after the first publication of notice of the plan—such publication to be in the New York Times and New York Tribune, or in any two papers of general circulation published in the city of New York—notify the undersigned of their election to sell for cash as above, they will then be deemed to have assented to all the terms and provisions of the plan and of the agreement of reorganization as fully as if signing the same, and the undersigned will then deposit said certificates under such plan and agreement."

Killed by the Cars.

Denton, Md., July 17.—Frederick M. Stamburg was killed by a north bound freight train on the Delaware and Chesapeake railway at Ridgely. Mr. Stamburg, who had been for several years engaged in the fruit business, was endeavoring to get some late consignment on the cars and was standing between the siding and the main line. The train started, and he was struck and thrown under the wheels, one leg being cut off at the hip and the other badly lacerated below the knee. He was taken to his home near the depot, but lived only a short time. Mr. Stamburg was a native of Pennsylvania. He was about 45 years old. A widow and one daughter survive him.

Erie to Control Northern of New Jersey

New York, July 17.—It has been announced that the control of the Northern Railroad company of New Jersey has been bought by the Erie Railroad company. It was stated at the Erie offices here that the relations between the two companies have long been unsatisfactory on account of the character of the operating contract and the conflicting interests in control. This to quite an extent has prevented improvements to property and traffic facilities. The Erie road will at once proceed to make improvements in the service. The Northern New Jersey was formerly operated on a lease by the Erie.

Death Not Due to Poisoning.

Boston, July 17.—The body of Miss Edith C. Ward, who died at the home of Mrs. Dr. Clara Leach Austin in this city last Tuesday, has been buried in Forest Hill cemetery. This is the case in which, at the request of relatives, the police ordered preparations for cremating the body to cease and that it be buried instead of cremated after an autopsy had been performed. The autopsy showed that death was due to typhoid fever.

Boston, July 17.—By the use of the radiograph on Robert Shaw, the would be wife murderer and suicide, at the Somerville hospital a bullet in his head has been located behind the upper third of temple bone, but in such a position that the wound will doubtless cause death. Shaw tried to kill his wife and daughter a few weeks ago and then shot himself. His wife is rapidly recovering. The girl was not seriously injured.

Deny Neglect by Consul General Lee.

Havana, July 17.—Captain Laborde of the alleged filibustering schooner Competitor and two of the crew of that vessel sent a communication to Consul General Lee declaring that the report recently published in a New York newspaper that General Lee was neglecting them is entirely without foundation.

Cuban Insurgents Pardoned.

Havana, July 17.—Acting upon a suggestion of Captain General Weyler, Queen Regent Christina has granted pardons to the insurgent chiefs Rogelio, Ignacho, Domingo, Gonzalez, Castillo, Guillermo, Fuente and Rivera, who were under sentence of death.

MORE BODIES FOUND.

Remains of Two Child Victims of Wednesday's Flood.

THERE MAY BE ANOTHER RECOVERED

The Engineer Who Examined the Dams Says That They Were Constructed on Proper Principles, but the Spillway Was Imperfect.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 17.—While Engineer Conroy of Timoney's brickyard was at Verplancks point laying to rest his wife, who was drowned in the flood at Dutchess Junction on Wednesday, the bodies of his two children were found floating in the river opposite Dutchess Junction. The bodies were taken in charge by Coroner Bevier, and they will be buried beside their mother. This makes seven bodies that have been recovered.

There may be one other, a Hungarian, somewhere in the ruins, but the coroner is inclined to doubt it, as the man who said that his brother was lost in the flood has disappeared.

District Attorney George Weed has commenced an official investigation with a view to fixing the responsibility for the accident. Accompanied by Coroner Bevier and his jury, an expert civil engineer and a photographer, the district attorney climbed the mountain to where the broken dams and empty reservoirs are located, and the entire party made an exhaustive examination of the surroundings.

The engineer who examined the dams and who will testify before the coroner's jury is Benjamin Brevoort of Poughkeepsie, who has had a vast experience in dam building on the Erie and Champlain canals and waterworks system.

Engineer's Statement.

He has made the following statement:

"The dam seems to have been constructed on proper principles, but the spillway of the upper dam, by present indications, seems to have been constructed by the water company after the dam was built by contractors in order to enlarge the capacity of the reservoir, and they did this without taking the precaution to raise the crest of the dam to the same height as the original construction above the bottom of the spillway. The result was that the water was thrown over the crest of the dam and ate away the earth embankment until it was insufficient to withstand the pressure, when it gave way, taking with it the lower dam.

"In my judgment the spillway was contracted somewhere in the neighborhood of 100 square feet less than what was originally intended by the engineers. In my judgment, oonsidering the location of the reservoir, surrounded as it was by steep, wooded hills, the run off would be somewhere between 60 and 65 per cent, which would naturally put an engineer on his guard in constructing a spillway, especially with an earth dam."

The inquest will be begun next Monday, but the experts will not be examined until Tuesday.

Extensive Fire In New Orleans.

New Orleans, July 17.—Fire broke out on the second floor of the three-story brick building at 424 and 426 Charles street owned by the John Gaucher Sons and occupied by T. Dumas as a furniture warehouse. The building was destroyed, and the stock was also a total loss. The adjoining building, owned and occupied by L. F. Duffy as a trunk manufactory, was also destroyed, together with the stock. James J. Reiss & Co.'s warehouse was badly damaged. The stock of E. M. Simon, clothing manufacturer, was considerably damaged, and the stock of the Moreau-Wobrette Shoe company was damaged by fire and water. The loss will amount to about $60,000.

For Senator Harris' Successor.

Louisville, July 17.—A special from Knoxville says Governor Taylor remains at Johnson City trying to decide what to do about the appointment of a successor to Senator Harris. It is his desire to postpone the matter a few weeks, but such pressure is being forced upon him that an appointment may be made at any time. The new senator will be either T. M. Insley of West Tennessee or James Richardson or Benton McMillin of Middletown, Tenn. While Governor Taylor favors McMillin, the indications are that Insley is gaining strength.

Pittsburg's Great Naval Demonstration.

Pittsburg, July 17.—The freeing of the Monongahela river through the purchase of the property of the Monongahela Navigation company by the United States government was celebrated by a grand naval demonstration and a mass meeting at Davis island dam. Sixty-five boats participated in the parade, which was the finest naval display ever seen here. At the dam addresses were made by George C. Sturgiss, Hon. C. L. Magee, Mayor Ford, John S. Dravo and others.

Pardoned by the President.

New York, July 17.—William W. Waite, serving a five years' sentence in the Kings County penitentiary for assault, has been released on a pardon from President McKinley. The prisoner is said to be very sick. On Jan. 28, 1895, Waite was sentenced to prison by Judge Robert W. Hughes of Norfolk. His term would have expired on Aug. 28, 1898.

Special Excise Agent Appointed.

Albany, July 17.—George W. Smith of Upper Jay has been appointed by Excise Commissioner Lyman as a special agent for the Fourth judicial district. Mr. Smith stood highest on the "merit" list of the civil service commission and also on the "fitness" list of Commissioner Lyman.

Strike In an Ax Factory.

Alexandria, Ind., July 17.—By a strike of the bit drawers at the plant of the Kelly Ax Manufacturing company 500 men are made idle. The strikers claim that they are not paid for axes called "seconds." The factory will be closed indefinitely.

Justice Borden Resigns.

New Bedford, Mass., July 17.—Judge Alanson Borden, who since 1884 has been justice of the Third district court of Bristol, has forwarded his resignation to Governor Wolcott. Judge Borden has recently been in poor health.

PIRACY AND HYPOCRISY.

Here again is displayed the contemptibleness of Editor Runyon. For months and months he has been printing bitter and sarcastic comments, presuming to have his elegant newspaper instinct highly offended, concerning alleged "faked" news originated in The Press office. His charges in this respect were without an atom of truth, but that is neither here nor there in this instance. After having expressed such horror and contempt for The Press and all of its staff, and posing as the only reputable newspaper writer (a good sharp pair of shears and a few words of Billingsgate being his stock in trade) in Plainfield, he convicts himself of hypocrisy of the worst brand by taking from The Press, almost word or word, important news stories and sending them to New York papers as the original matter from his own brain. In cases where the stories appear exclusively in this paper—an everyday occurrence—his act of literary piracy is a little more pardonable than is the frequent instance of where his own paper publishes a story of the same event, and he deliberately cuts the story from The Press and wires it to New York papers ostensibly as the result of his best efforts. Last night he was guilty of such an act in sending to the New York Sun a story concerning the death of Reuben Keith, the old negro. In the name of consistency and honest intentions, we ask Editor Runyon why he stole that account of the death from the columns of The Daily Press and sent it to the New York Sun over his own name? If he is the honorable man that he presumes to have people think he is, why did he not send the story printed in his own paper, whose reporters' accuracy and intelligence he infers is infallible?

AS TO WATERED STOCK.

While the Plainfield Board of Health is urging a proposition before the local Aldermen to impose fees upon milk dealers, it might prove of benefit to order a time-lock register on the town pump.—New York Press.

JUDGE STRONG FELT INSULTED.

He and George Berdine, a Lawyer, Have a Tilt Over the Attidude of the Court.

While hearing the appeal case of Mrs. Elizabeth J. Weiland against George J. Litterst, in the Middlesex County Court, yesterday, Judge Woodbridge Strong stopped the progress of the case, asserting that he had been insulted by George Berdine, who appeared as counsel for Mrs. Weiland. Judge Strong administered a sharp rebuke, which some say was perhaps prompted by an old diagreement. Friends of Berdine say that he was not disrespectful to the Court.

In the course of the case Berdine objected to some questions which Woodbridge, the opposing counsel, asked of a witness, and he jumped to his feet.

"Have I any right to practice in this court?" he asked. "If not, I will go out."

"You have the same rights in the court as any other counsellor," quick-replied Judge Strong, "and you will proceed with the case."

"I offered no insult," insisted Mr. Berdine.

"When you ask if you have any rights you openly insult the Court." warmly replied the Judge, bringing his gavel down with a sharp rap.

"I intended no insult," said the lawyer.

'The Court accepts your apology.'

"I will make an apology when an apology is needed, and when it is not I won't," retorted the lawyer.

He was called to order again and asked if he withdrew or pressed his objections. Mr. Berdine pressed his objection. It was sustained, and the testimony was ruled out. The case will be continued next Tuesday.

Mr. Maynard was not injured. His wheel was not damaged in the least.

A BOUND BROOK INDUSTRY.

Work Started on the Somerset Chemical Works.

Some forty stone masons and helpers arrived in Bound Brook Sunday evening and on Monday began work on the foundation walls of the new buildings for the Somerset Chemical Company. Persons who have visited the ground this week are surprised at the magnitude of the plans, and we are assured by officials of the company that the people of Bound Brook have no adequate idea of the benefit that this new industry will be to the community.

The company, last Saturday, closed negotiations for the McBride property, which is on the borough side of the Middlebrook. This gives the concern control of both sides of that stream from the Central to the Lehigh Valley Railroads, excepting a piece of land owned by John J. Fencil.

Mrs. McBride and family will vacate the old home, but they expect to continue to reside in Bound Brook or its vicinity.

SCALDS KILLED HIM.

Rosenberger, the Fireman, Died Yesterday Afternoon.

William Rosenberger, the firemen on a freight locomotive bound from Philadelphia to Jersey City, and who was so seriously scalded as his locomotive was passing through Westfield on Wednesday night, died in the Elizabeth General Hospital yesterday afternoon. Deceased was about 34 years of age, and was a resident of Norristown, Pa., where he leaves a family. His remains will be conveyed to his late home for interment.

The roads in the vicinity of Oak Tree are in excellent condition since the recent rains and many wheelmen daily pass through here. The greatest crowd is at night, however.

A very successful watermelon festival was held at the Marconnier chapel, Thursday evening. It was well attended by the people living in the neighborhood as well as a number of cyclists who rode to the chapel from Plainfield. The festival was held in the chapel. The booths were arranged about the sides, while tables were placed in the centre of the room. The cake and candy department was looked after by Mrs. Stover, Mrs. VanCourt, and Mrs. Freeman. William Randolph and William VanCourt, Jr., were in charge of the soda water booth. The ice cream was passed out under the superintendence of William VanCourt, Sr. The tables were constantly in use. Watermelon and ice cream were sold there. The waitresses were Mrs. William Randolph, Miss Mattie Kyle, Miss Jennie Kyle, Miss Edith Wycoff and Miss Maggie Smith During the evening, a number of selections were rendered by a instrumental trio composed of Miss A. Quinn, violinist, Miss Kate Quinn, pianist, and Porter Steel, cornetist. The evening's entertainment closed with an auction of what remained. Cornelius Teeple acted as auctioneer. The chapel was prettily decorated with wild flowers, principally daisies.

Miss Edith M. Darby, of Alton, has returned home after spending a very enjoyable week with her college friend, Miss Florence Earle, of Elizabeth.

Mr. and Mrs. Tunison, of Millington, with their two charming baby girls, have returned home after a short visit at the home of Mrs. Tunison's sister, Mrs. W. Marshal Way, of Stone street.

Next Wednesday Mrs. W. L. Smalley and her daughter, Miss Lizzie Smalley, of Craig place, and Miss Mills, of Elizabeth, will leave Plainfield for Monmouth, Ill., where they will visit for six weeks. They will return by the way of Niagara Falls.

Mrs. Worthington and her daughter, Miss Laura T. Worthington, of West Fifty second street, formerly of Plainfield, have a home at Bridgehampton, L. I., for the summer. They have as their guests this week, Mr. Gladstone, of London, and Miss Rogers, of Orange.

FINDING A NURSE.

"It is a tremendous worry," said Vansittart, feebly, rubbing his hair the wrong way and sighing.

Dr. Musgrave laughed.

"I wish I could help you," he returned. "I know a young woman who would have suited you in every respect. I can vouch for her character. She has been with some friends of mine as nurse, and is highly qualified. Unfortunately she has a situation."

"London teems," groaned Vansittart, "with nurses who would have suited me in every respect, but have just got a situation. Any one else?"

"No one else at the moment, I'm sorry to say. Have you advertised?"

"I sent two advertisements to the Post, and had seven applicants in reply. Seven! And of those three wore spectacles and one had apparently had a paralytic stroke. It is most inconsiderate of Robbins, upon my word."

"Robbins is the nurse who is leaving you, is she?"

"She is; but she is more—she is a treasure. I do not think I ever valued Robbins as she deserved till she gave me notice. She has been with the child ever since my wife died—three years—and I have never had a moment's anxiety or trouble. The responsibility of being a widower with a helpless baby to take care of is simply keeping me awake nights. The interviews, too, are rapidly giving me gray hairs. I betray my deplorable ignorance at every question. There ought to be a book published on the subject, 'Hints to Widowers Engaging a Nurse.' The wretches see my nervousness, and attempt to bully me when I say they won't do. One girl does seem all right, however. She came from the registry office this morning."

"Well," he said, complacently, "then your worries are over, after all. You mustn't look for too much, you know. You mustn't expect perfection. You have got a suitable girl—the bother is over."

The widower glared.

"Over!" he echoed. "Why, I've got to go and inquire about her references. I must journey down to Twickenham, or Surbiton, or somewhere, intrude on a woman who has never heard of me, and catechise her till I shall be positively ashamed of myself! Never lose your wife, doctor. You're a medical man—take every precaution. To be the father of a delicate child without a woman to engage a nurse for her is the most awful position possible for the human mind to conceive."

He was of the same opinion next day when he found himself giving a nervous rap at the door of the trim little villa that proved to be his destination. Vaguely also he was conscious that his own house compared badly with this maisonette. The geraniums in the flower boxes bloomed more freshly here, the arrangement of the window curtains was more graceful. There was a spotlessness about the doorstep itself which he missed at home.

"Is Mrs. Hillary in?"

She was in. He was requested to walk into the drawing room. He contemplated its screens, china, photographs and ferns with augmented jealousy. Verily, a woman was indispensable to a house, and this one, he imagined, must be a nice woman. The things about seemed to attest it. Perhaps, therefore, she would be the more likely to help him through the interview with kindness. He had the masculine dread of ridicule, and the thought that he would look absurd inquiring whether a servant was honest, sober, truthful and competent was awful to him. He turned as the door opened.

"I have taken the liberty of calling," he began, and then he broke off with an exclamation, "Madge!"

"Frank—Mr. Vansittart! Is it possible?"

"More—it's a fact. But—how extraordinary! And you haven't changed a bit!"

She laughed.

"And you didn't know it was I you were coming to see?"

"I hadn't any idea of it," he explained. "After all these weary years—and I didn't even suppose you were in England. I came—it sounds very silly—I came about a nurse's character."

'A nurse? You are married, then?" said Mrs. Hillary.

"I married four years ago. I have been a widower for three. I have one child—a girl."

There was a little pause between them. He fingered his gloves, and his hostess played with a paper knife.

"Your husband is well, I trust?" asked the visitor at last, with an effort.

She gave a palpable start. They had once been so much to each other, and now he did not even know she was a widow.

"I lost him," she murmured, "soon after our marriage."

"I—I beg your pardon. Poor Frank! We used to be very good friends before—at one time, I should say. You have a child?"

"Bertie—a fine little fellow he is! You must see him before you leave. Of course you will stay to luncheon."

"I shall be very pleased to. How strange it is to see you again, Madge. You have forgotten my hasty words when we parted, I hope?"

"I am afraid I deserved them," she confessed humbly. "We were both young and hot-headed. I am glad no harm was done. You were happy in your married life?"

"Y-e-s," he said, "oh, yes, I was happy. And you?"

"Frank was very kind and indulgent," she murmured. "Oh, I don't suppose I merit any pity. But tell me—I did not understand—you have really come about a servant's character? Who is she?"

"She is, I think, a 'Sarah Brown.'" He consulted his letter case. "Yes, her name is Sarah Brown. I want her for the child, if she is capable. Please recommend her if you can. Another disappointment will kill me."

"You want her so badly?"

"I want some one very badly—Sarah Brown or otherwise. You can form no idea of what it is to be a father, Mrs. Hillary—Madge. The responsibility of engaging a nurse is rapidly shortening my life."

"Poor fellow!" said Mrs. Hillary with compassion. "Well, I should think Brown would suit you very well indeed. She is quite qualified, and in fact I am rather sorry I parted with her.'

"Why did you part with her? You see I'm becoming au fait at the business. What was the cause of her leaving you?"

"Temper," she replied. "But to be quite candid, I'm not sure the temper was not on my own side. Anyhow, I can give her a good character to you or to any one else."

He heaved a great sigh of relief.

"Then that's settled. How glad I am it is over. You can't think how I dreaded this interview with an unknown 'Mrs. Hillary,' but somehow with you it wasn't difficult at all; even the domestic part of it. You were always reliable, Madge—always with one exception, that is to say. That is a likeness of you on the mantelpiece. May I look at it?"

He took it down and scrutinized it attentively.

"Good," he said, "distinctively good. They've caught your expression. When was it done—recently? Indeed! It might be the girl I took down to supper at the Richmond's ball seven years ago." He put the frame back and turned his gaze to the original. "So might you," he added. "I'm a middle-aged man, and you are just the same. Do you remember that night? You treated me very badly, Madge."

"You were very ungenerous, you mean," she retorted gently.

"Ungenerous? Nonsense! Three times—three waltzes running you gave Hillary against my express request. Well, well, poor Hillary's gone, and here are you and I, two lonely folks, meeting again by the merest chance. Are you lonely?"

"Sometimes a little lonely," said Mrs. Hillary. "But I have my child, you know, and you have yours. She must be a great comfort to you. I should love to see her."

"If I might bring her to you one day," he said, "it would please me awfully. She never sees a woman except the servants, from one month's end to the other. Nor do I. We vegetate in that big gaunt house, the child and I, in a manner that is positively pathetic.

The maid now announced that luncheon was served, and they went into the dining room together.

"If," continued Vansittart, when he had drunk a glass of sherry and was turning his attention to salmon cutlet, "if you would look us up occasionally when you could spare the time, it would be real charity on your part. It would, indeed. Not alone to the baby, but to me. You—you make me younger, Madge; you make me forget seven whole years."

"Seven whole years?" echoed the lady.

"Actually. In imagination I wear a rose in my buttonhole again and am particular about the fit of my gloves. What an enchantress is a woman! You do all this in an hour with a few kind words."

"It would be very startling," said Mrs. Hillary, "if you really wore a rose. Come, let me find you one. And—yes—I must certainly make time to look you up one day. Your condition, as you describe it, sounds simply dreadful."

She selected a rosebud from a glass on the table, and taking advantage of the servant's absence pinned it in his coat.

"That is better already," she said contemplating him critically, her head on one side.

"Do you know I think it was a very fortunate thing for you, my poor old hermit, that Fate threw you in my way again? A few years more by yourself, and you would have been beyond repair. Now you may still be done up."

"With care," agreed Vansittart, "with great care and skill I incline to think it is possible. There is one thing, though, that continues to trouble me. Supposing Sarah Brown should leave? You have given me a nurse, and I can view Robbins' retirement with equanimity; but supposing Sarah should want to desert me too?"

There must have been more significance in his tone than in his words, for Mrs. Hillary blushed, and for a moment trifled with her strawberries nervously.

"Sufficient for the day," she murmured.

"Is the good it has given me," he concluded. "Well, perhaps so. It has certainly been a very generous day indeed. But you won't forbid me to look forward to the morrow, will you? A day like this without a to-morrow would be as bad as an hors d'oeuvre without a dinner."

"In some ways," said Mrs. Hillary, "Look forward for to-morrow by all means—if it should be fine, you may pay me another visit, with the child."

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Whatever differences of opinion there may be in Congress in regard to the power exercised by the Speaker of the house, it is none the less a fact that he is chosen as final arbiter for numerous parliamentary bodies all over the country. Hardly a day passes that Mr. Reed does not receive communications requesting him to pass on some more or less intricate point on which local parliamentarians have disputed and failed to agree. Sometimes it is a far-away chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution that gets tangled up over some question, and he never hesitates to respond promptly to the request. Secret orders, debating societies and other deliberative bodies write to the Speaker for decisions. Sometimes the more simple questions are turned over to his private secretary, who has become an experienced parliamentarian from long association with Mr. Reed. The secretary formulates the reply in some instances, but the Speaker scrutinizes it personally before signing, and if it does not fully accord with his views the reply is rewritten. Requests often come from bodies that have adopted the Speaker's manual. Last winter the Maine Legislature complimented Mr. Reed by voting a copy of his manual to each member of the Legislature.

Gen. Alger's Success in Life.

Gen. Alger is a "self-made man" if anyone ever justified such a term. He began life without a dollar, and has earned by hard work every dollar that fortune has given him. He secured a fair education by "working for his board," and earned enough money by taking care of a doctor's horse to buy clothing. Afterward he entered a law office as student, and had just been qualified for practice when the war intervened and ended his legal ambitions.

Young Alger served with distinction during the war, and at its close went into the Michigan forests to regain his health and fight for a living. He became the greatest lumberman of the Northwest, and practically revolutionized the lumber trade. He was the first man who introduced a steam railroad in the forest wilds of northern Michigan. Before that time lumbering could be carried on only a few months each year owing to the difficulty of transporting logs to the sawmills and lumber to the shipping points. The advent of the locomotive changed all this, made it possible to haul logs the year round, and Alger's sawmills never ceased their humming.

To-day Gen. Alger is a millionaire; how much more than a millionaire it is difficult to say, for his wealth is invested in busy manufactories and mills, giving employment to thousands of American workingmen. He is not a plutocrat, but a business man. He has won a national reputation for his open-handed philanthropy, and has always been especially popular among the laboring classes. From his youth Gen. Alger has taken a deep and active interest in political affairs, and has been honored by the voters of his state by election and re-election as Governor. He is an enthusiastic G. A. R. man, and has served as national commander of that organization.

The McKinley Way.

"I served on the ways and means committe with Blaine and Garfield and Kelley, and all of those fellows who had the most to do with the making of the tariff policy of the Republican party. This man was the best of them, without exception, in getting what he wanted. He had a way of accomplishing his ends without much friction. He could smooth the path for his purposes. He was great at fixing up things."

The chairman of the Intestate Commerce Commission, William R. Morrison, was moved to this recent expression of his estimate of Mr. McKinley by some one asking him what kind of an administration Mr. McKinley would give the country. He went on to predict that the President would be a dominating personality, not by virtue of apparent aggressiveness, but through his remarkable faculty of harmonizing and conciliating, while at the same time moving steadily in the direction he wanted to go. The administration is not yet three months old, but everybody close to it realizes that Mr. McKinley is in fact the President. Nowhere is this realization stronger than in the Cabinet. The secretaries are commenting upon it among themselves and to intimate friends. Some of them are older than Mr. McKinley. Perhaps some of them felt that they kenw a little more in certain lines of information. All of them are men of strong individualities. Yet all of them feel that the President has shown himself the power, and has done it in a way to compel their admiration. There have been differences of opinion. The President encourages the greatest frankness of expression on the part of his advisers. At the same time conclusions have been reached without irritation or friction. The strength of this faculty in the President prompts confidence on the part of his friends that he will be able to bring about the settlement of the Cuban question with credit to his administration and satisfaction to the country.

SENATOR.

Evidence of Progressiveness.

The latest evidence of the progressive spirit is to be found in Bowling Green, Ohio. The visitor to the handsome court house in that town finds himself confronted at every turn by a placard bearing this astounding inscription:

Please do not spit on the floor. Spittoons are placed througout the building.
For that purpose.

Down In a Coal Mine

good qualities are easily determined from the poor. The solid chunks that are free from slate is the coal that brings the biggest prices. Crumbling coal is the kind that makes the dust and it's the kind you get when you are not careful where you buy. We sell the honest, solid coal for the price you've paid for the other sort,

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

Dun's Review Says That Except For the Coal Strike It Is Encouraging.

Excepting the great coal miners' strike, which may terminate at any time, there is scarcely a feature of the business outlook which is not encouraging, the season considered. Crop prospects have been improved by needed rains in some regions, and foreign advices continue to promise a large demand. In many home industries, particularly in building, there is more activity than in any year since 1892, and the week has brought a better demand in boots and shoes and in woolens, while the movement of freight, mainly iron ore, through the Sault Ste. Marie canal is the largest in its history. With money markets unclouded, there is nothing in sight to hinder rapid improvement when uncertainty about legislation has been removed, for the miners' strike could not last long if business and industries should become active. There is much less apprehension of a failure of fuel supply than there was during the first few days, when prices rapidly advanced, and large quantities of coal from West Virginia have reached northern markets, but some of the miners in that state have struck.

The advance in wheat to 81½ cents was not due to the government estimate, which was followed by a decline, but to foreign advices and considerable buying for export. Demand is already felt from Australia, South Africa, Brazil and even Argentina, while the promise for European crops is not considered bright. The disposition of farmers to keep back wheat for higher prices may affect the outward movement, but Atlantic exports during July, flour included, have been 3,115,443 bushels, against 2,953,817 last year, although in the same weeks 4,659,315 bushels of corn went out, against 1,574,072 last year.

In spite of large purchases for export, the actual exports of products from New York for two weeks have been 15 per cent less than last year. But the official report shows exports in June of the principal products amounting to $38,153,459 against $36,985,511 last year, and for the fiscal year, $644,491,113 against $547,981,412 the year before, a gain of 17.6 per cent, breadstuffs increasing $53,000,000 and cotton $40,000,000. There are still heavy imports, at New York 47 per cent more than last year for two weeks of July, sugar and wool, tobacco and hides being prominent, with a rather unusual quantity of cotton.

Money still comes in from the interior, $1,250,000 net for the week, and there is a better demand for commercial loans, both on manufacturing paper and from dry goods exporters. Failures in the first eight days of July were only $1,557,401 against $4,417,956 in nine days last year, with manufacturing $735,586 against $2,176,333 last year and trading $814,815 against $1,979,654 last year. Failures for the week have been 263 in the United States against 269 last year, and 27 in Canada against 35 last year.

HEAVY SENTENCES.

Brooklyn Criminals Receive Some Long Terms of Imprisonment.

New York, July 17.—Judges Hurd and Aspinwall of the county courts in Brooklyn have imposed heavy sentences on a number of convicted criminals. George Babcock, found guilty of burglary, second offense, was sentenced to Sing Sing for a term of 16 years, while his partner, Joseph McCoy, got 13 years in the same institution. Babcock was released from prison about six weeks ago.

John Farrell, who pleaded guilty to grand larceny in the first degree, second offense, to further the ends of justice, and who also testified against his partner, Charles Meyers, was given 13 years in Sing Sing. Meyers was sentenced for a term of 15 years.

Frederick F. Gunther, for grand larceny, goes to prison for four years.

A sentence of four years and four months was imposed on Mrs. Catherine Zwissler by Judge Hurd. She will go to Auburn prison. Her son, Adam Albrecht, went to the Elmira reformatory. They were convicted of assaulting Mr. Zwissler.

Four Boys Run Over.

Austin, July 17.—A freight train in the International and Great Northern yards here ran over four white boys who were sitting on the side of the track asleep, killing three of them instantly and badly wounding the fourth. The three killed were: James Bridges, 15 years; Charles Sweeney, 13, and L. Montgomery, 13. The injured is Henry Estis, 16 years. They all were of Fort Worth. The train ran over these boys as it came into the yards. On leaving an hour later a negro named L. E. Cox of Waco, who attempted to grab a brake bar to steal a ride, lost his hold and falling was mangled into pulp.

Driven Off by Cannibals.

Hermosillo, Mex., July 17.—It is reported here that the exploring expedition of Jesse Grant and associates, which landed on Tiburon islands, in the gulf of California, has been driven off the islands by the Seri Indians. The expedition will go to Guaymas, where the vessel will be loaded with more men and another effort made to explore the island. The Seri Indians are said to be cannibals, and the exploring party made but little resistance when a strong force of the Indians ordered them from offices here that the relations between the island.

Body of a Flood Victim Found.

Newburg, N. Y., July 17.—The body of Julia Conroy, 5 years old, one of the victims of the Dutchess Junction disaster, has been found in the river about 200 feet from the front of Hammond & Freeman's brickyard, which adjoins Timoney's, the scene of the flood wreck. The body was tied to the wharf and Coroner Bevier notified. This is the sixth body recovered. That of the 18-month-old child of John Conroy has not yet been found, but is supposed to have been carried into the river.

Chicago Hardware Dealers Assign.

Chicago, July 17.—August Heur & Son, dealers in cabinet hardware, have made an assignment to Charles V. Wohlhuter. Assets, $35,000; liabilities, $60,000. Poor collections and general business depression are said to have caused the failure.

Butler Confessed Before Hanging.

London, July 17.—A dispatch from Sydney says that Frank Butler, the Australian bush murderer, has been executed. He confessed to having com-

THE SEAL FISHERIES

Commissioner Foster Said to Be Successful In the Matter.

CONFIRMED BY LONDON MERCHANTS.

They State That His Conclusions In the Case Are Correct and Inferentially Reject Those Drawn by the Canadian Expert.

Washington, July 17.—Ex-Secretary Foster is believed to be meeting with a large measure of success in his efforts to secure from the British government additional measures of protection for the seals in Bering sea. While he has not yet reported that the British have formally consented to participate in a conference with this object in view unofficial advices indicate that this is about to be accomplished.

The ex-secretary has secured powerful assistance from the great London skin dressers, who handle all of the sealskins taken in the north Pacific and Bering sea and prepare them for use in garments. These merchants are advised fully as to the prospects of each year's catch and the state of the sealeries, so it is regarded as strengthening General Foster's case very much when, as he reports by cable to the state department, they affirm the correctness of the conclusions reached by the American expert Jordan and by inference reject those of the Canadian expert Thompson.

Issue Between Experts.

The issue between these experts, briefly stated, was whether or not the seals are being exterminated under existing regulations. The Americans' finding was in the affirmative. If General Foster has paved the way for an international conference to protect the seals, he has secured the most urgent of the demands made by our government, but there is still no evidence that the British government is willing to enter into a minus vivendi to save the seals while the interminable talking of such a conference is going on, and that was, it is said here, one of the most important objects of his mission.

A Joke With a Serious Ending.

Buffalo, July 17.—Arthur Desmond, a restaurant keeper, in order to test the affection of Susie A. Griswold, who was employed by him, went to her house and proposed suicide. She consented, and Desmond apparently poured out a quantity of carbolic acid and drank it. He then gave the bottle to the girl, and she placed it to her lips. Desmond then declared that he was only fooling, but the girl had already taken some of the acid in her mouth. Her lips and mouth were badly burned. Both were arrested. Desmond was charged with assault in the first degree and the girl with attempted suicide.

Ex-Secretary Robeson's Stepson Dead.

Trenton, July 17.—Richmond O. Aulick, stepson of George M. Robeson, secretary of the navy under General Grant, died here at Mr. Robeson's residence. Aulick was a son of the late Captain Richmond Aulick of the United States navy and grandson of Commodore John H. Aulick. The deceased was a graduate of Princeton university and a member of the New York bar. The funeral will take place Monday morning at 10:45 at Mr. Robeson's residence, 186 West State street. Interment at Washington.

Smuggled Diamonds Seized.

Hoboken, N. J., July 17.—Customs detectives have made a haul of smuggled jewels on the steamship Furst Bismarck. They found in the pockets of a saloon passenger, Joseph Dirnberger of Chicago, a diamond brooch, a pair of diamond earrings, a diamond necklace and two diamond scarfpins. The jewelry was seized, but no arrest was made.

Indemnity to Be Paid to Turkey.

Athens, July 17.—It is stated here on reliable authority that the powers have fixed the indemnity to be paid to Turkey by Greece at £4,000,000 and have accepted a compromise, giving Turkey a more liberal line of frontier. Turkey and Greece have been left to settle the question of the capitulations between themselves.

Silver Service For the Helena.

Washington, July 17.—The new gunboat Helena has been ordered to the Washington navy yard to receive a silver service to be presented by the state of Montana. Senator Carter will make the presentation, and Lieutenant Commander Swinburne, commanding the Helena, is expected to respond.

Court Martial For Alleged Drunkenness.

Washington, July 17.—The navy department has ordered a general court martial to meet at Mare island, Cal., for the trial of Lieutenant (junior grade) Charles S. Stanworth, now attached to the training ship Adams. He is charged with drunkenness, a very serious offense in naval practice.

Electric Railroad to Dissolve.

Albany, July 17.—Notice has been served on the attorney general that the Tarrytown Electric Railroad company would make application to the supreme court in Brooklyn on July 28 for permission to voluntarily dissolve. The company has never exercised its corporate functions.

Newburg Woman Dies Suddenly.

New York, July 17.—Mrs. Mary McDermott, 55 years old, of Newburg, N. Y., on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Jane Troy, in Brooklyn, was taken suddenly ill and died before a physician could be summoned. Death was due to heart disease.

Silver Exports.

New York, July 17.—The steamship Campania, sailing for Europe today, will take out 522,000 ounces of silver, consigned by Handy & Harman, M. Guggenheim's Sons, J. & W. Seligman & Co. and Lewishon Bros.

Boy Drowned While Bathing.

East Hampton, Mass., July 17.—Carl Taintor, aged 11, son of B. H. Taintor of Lee, who was visiting relatives here, was drowned while bathing in Manhan river.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of West Seventh street, has joined the L. A. W. He intends to do some touring this summer.

George A. Horne, of Willow avenue, has received his new Wolff American wheel and pronounces it a beauty of design and construction.

T. J. Carey, of the borough, has ridden his wheel about fifteen hundred miles this year and he received his first puncture yesterday. It was in his front tire. He was returning from a business trip to Bound Brook.

NO RIGHT TO SELL THE WHEEL.

Sigmund Frucht Must Pay Pauline Sadler $25 Damages.

The trouble between the young colored woman, Miss Pauline Sadler, and Sigmund Frucht, or rather his wife, who conducts the bicycle store at the corner of Park avenue and West Second street, came to an issue in Justice Nash's court. A jury was called to try the case and brought in a verdict for the plaintiff to the amount of $25.

Miss Sadler was represented by City Judge DeMeza and S. S. Swackhamer represented Frucht. The story told by the plaintiff was that she had taken her wheel to Frucht's store one night and looked at his display. Being pleased with one, she left her wheel there while she went home to consult her employer as to the advisability of buying it. He advised her not to and she went after her wheel, which Frucht refused to give up.

He claimed that she had agreed to buy the wheel and had traded her wheel in, so he had sold the latter. He showed a receipt that had been drawn up by M. F. Elderton, of the News staff, at his dictation.

The jury believed the story of the colored woman and granted her $25 damages. The case will be appealed.

Legacy For Soldiers' Monument.

There promises to be a revival of interest in the soldiers' moment that was planned for this city several years ago. A legacy of $200 has been left toward paying for that monument. There is some talk of turning the money over to the local Grand Army post and let that organization take charge of the erection of the monument and the collection of the necessary funds with which to do it.

The Proper Wear.

A desire to dress well is natural to mankind, but none but a fool would expect to gratify this desire by going to an old clothes emporium. Such an act would be no more foolish, however, than to go to a notion store or junkshop to get the proper wear for the eyes. To secure a perfect fit in this line you should go to Collier's and consult an expert optician.

Farmer Jim Invited to Talk.

James E. Martine, of this city, has been invited to address the "Vantage Grange," on August 17, at Deckertow, N. J. This will be the occasion of the fifth anniversary of the formation of the Grange. A large attendance is expected. Last year it was estimated that fully six thousand people were present.

Union Bible Class.

Rev. George C. Needham has returned home from his annual Bible conference at Niagara-on-the-Lake, and will resume his class work next Monday evening at Y. M. C. A. Hall. He will then begin a brief course of lectures on "Methods of Bible Study." All persons made welcome.

T. J. Carey leaves today to spend a few days with friends in Lebanon.

PASSING COMMENT.

Whatever faults a woman may have, she is certainly mistress of the fine art of appearing cool in hot weather. On taking a stroll about the city with the mercury in the nineties you can not fail to note the hot, worried, tired-of-life look of the men as contrasted with the serene coolness of the woman. Then take the matter of riding a bicycle. Everyone should have learned by this time how to do it, yet the average man makes a terribly serious business of it in hot weather, and invariably manages to look tired and red in the face, while the woman cyclist glides along trim and cool and refreshing. It would add greatly to the comfort of the race if men should acquire this feminine accomplishment, and leave off looking hot.

* * * *

The Business Man walked downtown to get his laundry, last evening, and his friends, the Commuter and Machinist, accompanied him. The Commuter wanted to pay his bill to the Plainfield Water Supply Company, but the office was closed and so they strolled homeward.

"That's a great institution," ventured the Commuter, "I mean the water company. Why I saw in the paper that they are daily pumping three million gallons of water out of the wells near Netherwood."

"Do you mean to say that Plainfield uses three million gallons of water every day?" asked the Machinist with astonishment.

"Bless your heart, no," said the Business Man." They supply all the towns between here and Elizabeth with water and some of those three millions goes to the county seat itself. We are right over a big underground river, so geologists say, and the water company is rapidly getting the best of it."

"But where did the water used to go?" queried the Machinist.

The Business Man did not directly reply to his friend's question, but remarked: "Have you noticed how much smaller Green brook and Cedar brook have become since the pumping station was established? Haven't you heard of the water famine in Scotch Plains and Fanwood, where the wells that never ran dry before are now in that condition?"

"Do you believe," asked the Commuter, "that the water company is directly responsible for all that?"

"I do, most decidedly," responded the Business Man. "The water can't occupy more than one place at once, and so when it is pumped away from the underground river, the wells and springs that it has hitherto supplied, must suffer."

"Why dont they make them stop sending the water all along the line of the railroad, as you say they do?" asked the Machinist.

"It would be a very delicate matter for anyone to touch," said the Business Man. "Legal complications would be sure to arise that it would take years to unravel, and another generation would probably come to the front before the case was settled, if it ever was."

PERKINS CLEARED HIMSELF.

Another Chapter in the Free Fight on July 5th.

The last of the series of trials in the city court that resulted from the trouble between William Brown colored, and William Goff, was held in the city court this morning, and two of the alleged offenders were found not guilty after a long and careful investigation of the matter.

John Perkins was tried last week. Patrolman Flanagan thought that he had interfered with that officer when he was trying to arrest Brown. But this same Perkins had assisted that officer in bringing Brown to the lockup. Perkins explained that it was a case of mistaken identiy. He told a straitforward story. This morning the Judge declared that Perkins was not guilty and discharged him.

The trial of Edmund Brown, the brother of William Brown, was continued. Nobody had seen him strike any blows but merely try to separate the two contestants and take his brother home. The Judge said that he was satisfied that the right man had gone to jail and that Ed had nothing to do with the assault on Goff. He declared him not guilty and discharged him.

The trial of Kennedy and Carey, who were charged with knocking down a man at the North avenue station, was adjourned for a week.

A REAR END COLLISION.

A rear-end collision of two freight trains occurred this morning at 9 o'clock about half a mile this side of Cranford on the Jersey Central Railroad. The trains were going east when the accident happened. Three freight cars were derailed and all but one westbound track was blocked for some time. Passenger trains were held back for a long time while the wrecking train was hastened to the scene to clear the tracks. None of the train hands were injured and the general amount of damage was light. The rear locomotive was damaged considerably about the cowcatcher and front part above it. Fortunately the conductor in the caboose was not in a position to be struck and his escape was miraculous.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

FIVE UNLUCKY MINUTES

DURING WHICH TIME THE CRESCENTS LOST A BALL GAME.

A Good Game Played at Somerville But McLarty Got Rattled and His Wild Pitches Made the Home Team Win.

McLarty is all right as long as he stays on the earth, but when he goes up in the air there is no telling what will happen. For five unlucky minutes, Jack McLarty, pitcher for the Plainfield Crescents, went up in the air, and now the Somervillians have long yarns to tell of how they defeated the Crescents.

The Crescents journeyed up the road to Somerville, Saturday afternoon, to play a return game with the Somersets of that place. The Somersets came here early in the season and won by a score of 13 to 8, but everybody felt that the fight Saturday would be a lively one. And so it was. The Somersets won by a score of 6 to 5, but it took twelve innings to decide the game.

Did we say that the Somersets won? It should have been that the Crescents lost. The Crescents were ahead in the ninth inning when McLarty—but to begin at the beginning.

The start was rather discouraging for the visitors from this city for Francis, the Somerset catcher, hammered the ball over the centre field fence with one man on base. That scored two runs. Costly errors by the home infield gave the visitors one run in the first inning while two singles and a double scored one more for them in the third. Several hits and two men hit by pitched balls filled the bases for the Somersets in the fourth inning and two men crossed the plate but McLarty ended the excitement by striking out Francis.

Two runs for the Crescents in the sixth and one in the eighth inning were the result of several hits and infield errors. The score then stood 5 to 4 in favor of the visitors when the Somersets came to bat in the ninth inning. An error, a two base hit and then McLarty went up into the air. He filled the bases by giving Cox his base on balls and then forced Milligan home by giving McLoughlin his base in the same way.

Then MacLoughlin decended from the clouds, struck out the next man and put the third man out by catching a fly ball. It tied the score, however. Mac had a chance to redeem himself in the eleventh inning when he came to bat with two men on bases and two men out. His hot grounder was successfully fielded and the chance was lost.

It was not until the twelth inning that Somerville could score. The bases were filled by a bat, an error and a base on balls. Cooney delayed the agony by nipping a runner at the plate but a slow grounder to Lederer brought in Davenport and the game was over.

It was a good game, however, and the Plainfield contingent have nothing to be ashamed of in the showing they made. The game was witnessed by a small crowd, many of whom came from Plainfield.

His Umbrella the Cause.

August Peterson had such a close acquaintance with "Jersey lightning" that he received the idea that the rain yesterday was coming in all directions at once so he proceeded to manipulate the umbrella so as to keep it off. Patrolman McCue was not favorably impressed and landed the intoxicated man in jail. This morning Judge DeMeza fined him $3.

Death Came Like a Thief.

George Scisco, the assistant superintendent of the filtering beds at Summit, died suddenly of heart disease, yesterday morning. County Physician Westcott was summoned and gave the burial permit. The deceased was fifty years of age.

HIS WATERLOO A BOX CAR

NAPOLEON BONAPARTE CONQUERED BY SERGEANT KIELY.

A Tramp of Famous Name Could Not Give a Satisfactory Account of Himself and he Had to go Down to the County Jail.

City Judge DeMeza had a novel experience this morning. Napoleon Bonaparte appeared before him with folded arms and watched the Judge with his masterful eye as that official meted out judgement to the offender possessing the once famous general's name. It was evident that this Napoleon had met his Waterloo, for his once dignified Prince Albert coat was sadly frayed at the edges and showed the results of a wandering life.

Napoleon Bonaparte, or rather Napoleon Bonaparte La Mountaion, was one of a crowd of weary wanderers that Sergeant Kiely happened upon at 5 o'clock this morning. They were trying to make themselves comfortable in a box car when the Sergeant landed in the centre of the party. There was a scattering, but the Sergeant managed to capture Napoleon and one faithful colored retrainer. The man of famons name stalked over to the city jail and spent the rest of the morning amid the creeping and crawling things that haunt the cells by day or night, thinking of the contrast between his present situation and the good old days in the Tuilleries in Paris. He told Patrolman McCue, when that worthy brought him from the cell to the court room, that even Corsica was better than the Plainfield jail.

A thirty-two calibre revolver was fond in the possession of the distinguished prisoner, and the Judge asked him his reason for carrying it.

"To protect myself," sternly replied the prisoner as he cast a glance at the Judge that should have struck terror to his heart, and he folded his arms over his ragged coat and waited.

Being something of a student of history, the Judge wished to learn the recent history of Napoleon. Of late, the latter explained, he had been employed on a canal boat on the D. and H. Canal. The boat was now stalled at Reading and he had wandered about in search of another job. He also admitted that as far as protecting his possessions went, the revolver was the most important of them all.

His solitary follower gave his name as John Johnson. His weapon of defence consisted of a long-bladed knife which he had carefully concealed in his clothing. He had no cash and so preferred to go to jail for 20 days.

The Judge did not like Napoleon's revolver nor his reasons for carrying it. Altogether, the general did not make a favorable impression. As he had not the money to pay his fine of $25 he went down the road for 60 days.

BAN ON THE FAIR SEX.

BASEBALL UNPOPULAR IN SOMERVILLE AS WOMEN MUST PAY.

The Club's Treasurer Has Issued an Edict That the Feminine Cranks Must Pay to See a Game the Same as the Men Do.

Judging from the attendance at the baseball game Saturday afternoon between the Plainfield Crescents and the Somersets, baseball is not as popular in Somerville as of old. In the days of the famous West Ends, the grounds used to be crowded to their utmost. At present, baseball does not stand very high among the young women of Somerville who used to be the most enthusiastic supporters of the game. The cause is a new rule that has been inaugurated by the Somerset Baseball Club, for which the fair ones hold Fred Disbrow, the new treasurer of the club, responsible.

It has always been the custom to allow the ladies to enter the grounds free of charge. That custom has been continued for so long that the members of the gentler sex in Somerville have come to look upon it as their natural privilege, so when the old custom was revoked at the beginning of this season, there were some indignant young women in Somerville and the poor treasurer had to suffer in consequence, for on him was laid the blame.

While there was no organized determination not to attend the games, there are many who will not go and so the number of fair faces on the grand stand to encourage the home team has been preceptibly smaller.

While the Somersets have the advantage of good grounds completely inclosed and a covered grand stand, the crowd that attended the game Saturday was not more than half as large as the attendance at the last game that the Crescents played in this city.

Miss Susie D. Woodland, of Craig place, is visiting relatives at Boston. Miss Woodland will be absent about two weeks.

THE MOSQUITO MUST GO

STATE GOVERNMENT DECLARES WAR UPON THE PEST.

Report of Engineer Vermeule, Abolishing to a Large Extent the Mosquito, Depends on the Possibility of Reclaiming Marshes.

The famous Jersey mosquito has got to go. It has been so decreed by the Legislature of the State. Laws are on the statute books empowering the State Geologists to engage assistants and present a plan that will dispose of the mosquito, and a plan has been devised to annihilate him.

State Geologist Smock employed Consulting Engineer C. C. Vermeule to devise a plan to carry out a plot against the insect that has made New Jersey famous and he has done it. The engineer has devoted the summer to the work, and he estimates the cost of carrying out the plans at something like $1,500,000. Mr. Vermeule's plan is submitted in detail in the annual report of the State Geologist, which has just been issued at the State's expense.

The engineer states that in his judgment it would pay the cities of Newark, Elizabeth, Hackensack and several towns in Vice-President Hobart's county to bear the expense of putting his plan's in operation "if only to get rid of that notorious pest that infects these towns—the New Jersey mosquito."

This is the first time in the history of the State that the peculiar species inhabiting this clime has been officially declared in public documents to be "the New Jersey mosquito."

Of course the annihilation of the mosquito was not the whole of the job for which Engineer Vermuele was engaged by the State Geologist. It was only incidental to the real work, but it gets a prominent place in his report. His real work was to submit a plan to reclaim the tide marshes near Newark, Hackensack and other cities of Northern New Jersey, and the reclaiming of these lands, the engineer contends, will forever dispose of the New Jersey mosquito. The marshes are mosquito breeders, he says.

The residents in the northern part of the State are deeply interested in the report made by Mr. Vermeule on the reclamation of the meadow lands. He says: "The tide-marshes commonly known as the Hackensack and Newark meadows extend in a continuous belt about eighteen miles long and with a general width of four miles, from Elizabeth northward to Hackensack and Englewood. The Newark meadows, lying between Elizabeth, Newark and Newark Bay, have an area of 7,289 acres, mostly within the limits of these two cities. The Hackensack marshes have a total area of 20,045 acres, of which 1,465 acres, lying between Hackensack and Wood Ridge, is not tide-marsh but fresh meadow. With this exception, the total of 27,334 acres is tide-marsh, lying at, or slightly above, the level of the high tide. Occasionally an unusually high tide submerges the whole area, and it is always in a saturated condition. It is a breeding place for mosquitoes and other insects. Owing to its trifling value this marshy area is gradually becoming, and is likely to become in the future, more and more a site for offensive manufacturing industries, manure piles, and other nuisances.

DANCED AT THE HUNTERSTON.

A Time of Gayety Among Young People Saturday Night.

The dance at the Hotel Hunterston last Saturday evening was one of the best yet held. There was a large attendance of young people from Plainfield, Fanwood and Westfield, and together with the large number of guests at the hotel they made the event an auspicious one. The music by Rogers was all to be desired and everything that would make the affair a pleasureable one was attended to by the management. These dances have become very popular and the class of people that avail themselves of them is of the best. At present life at this hotel is very lively. Yesterday there were nearly one hundred and fifty guests at the hotel and it reminds one of old times when that part of Netherwood was so gay and lively.

SOLON WROTH AT SOLON

COUNCILMAN WESTPHAL RAKES MR. BARROWS OVER THE COALS.

Councilman Wm. Westphal, of the Fourth ward, does not like the manner of Councilman Barrows, of the Third ward, and he has written the following pungent letter to The Press:

To the Editor of the Daily Press:—There appeared in the News of Saturday, July 17th, an item in which the club car members of the City Council claim no responsibility for Rule Nine, governing the use of tobacco in the Industrial Home, claiming that I was entirely responsible for said rule. The author of the above is Councilman E. T. Barrows, a club car member, and with evident glee he has attempted to shift the pith of public opinion and to centre it on one resident member of the Common Council, which is dishonorable and manifestly unfair, but which is probably done with a desire to offset the many accusations against the club car contingent of the City Council by the public. In his zeal to do something political he has held himself up to criticism by asserting that one member of the Council can be responsible for a law that was passed by the Common Council—eleven members voting for it, includ- Mr. Barrows, after the law had been recommended by a unanimous report of the alms committee.

While Mr. Barrows is trying to shift the responsibility for the enactment of this rule, might he not spend his time to better advantage by informing the public as to the members individually responsible for the failure of granting the business men of the city of Plainfield their request for arc lights on the ground of not being able to spend $500 more to give the city better light, while at the same time they were able to appropriate $7,000 for the purpose of enlarging the public library to store a mass of scientific books, that probably not more than 1 per cent of our inhabitants will take the trouble to read.

In regard to the merits of the Rule, I will say that the committee—Messrs. Westphal, Frost and Stebbins—framed this Rule from knowledge obtained from the Overseer of the Paterson almshouse, where it was stated that the inmates had the habit of placing matches between the bed ticks and under the carpets, and in this way were enabled to lay in bed and smoke, many of the inmates being mentally irresponsible.

The committee thought it unwise to subject $9,000 or $10,000 worth of city property to any danger of this kind, for there is no fire protection in the vicinity of the institution, and one pipe of tobacco in the hand of one of the inmates could be the cause of a loss to the taxpayers of this amount.

As a matter of fact tobacco and pipes are furnished the inmates.

Tho Rule in question reads as follows:

And under a resolution of the Common Council giving the committee power to use their discretion as to the enforcement of the rules, the committee will allow smoking in the sitting room in cold weather.

Trusting you will publish this to set me right before the public, I remain

W. A. Westphal.

THROWN OUT OF A WAGON.

Wheel Collapsed and a Little Girl Painfully Hurt.

An accident occurred this morning on Somerset street in front of the residence of P. M. French, when the two-year-old daughter of Mrs. Moore, of Smalleytown, was painfully injured Mrs. Moore and her daughter and father-in-law, John Stiles, were on their way home with a load of lumber. When in front of the above residence, one of the rear wheels caught in a car track and collapsed. Mrs. Moore and her little one were hurled out of the wagon with force, the latter striking on her head and inflicting a wound which caused a large swelling. Mr. Stiles was not injured at all. The women from Mr. French's residence hastened to the scene and helped Mrs. Moore and her little one. Mrs. Moore was able to gain her feet in a few minutes. She was frightened concerning the condition of her daughter, who has been ill with whooping cough, and grasped the little girl and carried her to Rowley's drug store. Dr. Zeglio was sent for, and when he arrived he examined the child and learned that the injuries were not serious. At the solicitation of Mr. Harned, of Craig place, Mrs. Moore and her child went to his home where everything was done for their ease and comfort. Mr. Stiles secured another wagon and later in the day the party returned home.

CLOUDBURST REPORTED.

CLOUDS POUR DOWN A DELUGE ON UNION COUNTY.

The Streets Were Flooded and the Stone Roads Cut Up by Water—The Cloudburst at Elizabeth and Elsewhere.

While Newark, Orange and Elizabeth were visited by a cloudburst yesterday, Plainfield experienced showers of extreme severity. The streets were flooded, particularly on the outskirts, and the low places under the railroad bridges were transformed into small lakes.

The rain fell steadily almost all the morning and greatly lessened the attendance at the different Sunday-schools and churches. In the afternoon the rain fell lightly at intervals, but finally the clouds cleared away and the sun came out for a few moments.

The rain of the morning was very heavy but there was no wind accompanying it. The storm sewers soon carried away the superfluous water in the streets in the business section but elsewhere it remained most of the day in immense puddles. Under the Clinton avenue railroad bridge, there was a lake that did not disappear until this morning.

Along the trolley on West Front street, and on West Fourth street, there were large puddles, that, in places, covered half of the road. The county road toward Elizabeth was nearly flooded in several places.

The rain prevented the wheelmen from riding and so this city did not see the usual number of visitors awheel. Many little outings were spoiled for the roads were deep seas of mud.

Some cellars were flooded in the low portions of the city but the water was only to the depth of several inches. Very few cases were reported of the kind.

Elizabeth was visited by a cloudburst yesterday morning and the greatest rainfall ever known there in the same space of time is reported. The storm began at 7:20 o'clock, and by 9:10 o'clock nearly three inches of rain had fallen, while the total fall when the storm ceased was 3.67 inches. It ceased at 10:30 o'clock. The water came down for an hour in blinding sheets against which umbrellas were no protection.

The cloudburst caused the Elizabeth river to swell rapidly, and swept away outhouses, barns, fences and large quantities of lumber stored along its banks. For a time the dam at Salem Mills and the Elizabeth reservoir were threatened. The flood rose thirty inches above the reservoir dam even with all the gates opened.

DELUGE WITH WATER.

TWO THOUSAND GALLONS OF WATER FLOWED INTO FLATS.

Resevoir on the Roof Caved in and the Contents Escaped With Damaging and Frightening Results to the Tenants.

The residents in the Thorn block on Somerset street had an experience yesterday morning that was far from being pleasant. On the roof of the building there is a large tank holding about two thousand gallons of water. From this reservoir the people in the flats draw water used for washing purposes. It stands on a low platform stayed with props at each corner. Yesterday morning one of the props gave way. This allowed the weight on one end to fall considerable, and the pipe which is used to fill the tank was not able to stand the pressure. Consequently something had to give and it proved to be the pipe. As soon as the connection was broken there was a deluge of water. The elevator shaft is not far away and the whole volume of water rushed out in torrents down the shaft. On its way down it found a channel into the rooms of several flats and caused considerable damage. In the flat occupied by Mr. Mason and wife the damage was perhaps the greatest. It thoroughly soaked the furniture and other things in the several rooms.

While all this was going on the people throughout the building were frightened, for they were unable to account for the strange proceedings. Some thought the roof had caved in and the house was being flooded, while others thought that the building had been struck by lightning. They were in a state of excitement until Alex Thorn, the owner of the building, arrived and quieted them. All of the water left the tank. Most of it escaping through the elevator shaft.

Mr. Thorn fixed the tank temporarily and today his men are repairing the break. The tank will be in use again in a short time.

—A special meeting of Central Lodge, A. O. U. W., was held on Saturday evening when a committee was appointed to investigate three candidates and report at the next meeting.

PASSED FROM THIS LIFE

SEVERAL SAD DEATHS IN PLAINFIELD FAMILIES.

Mrs. Joseph A. Hubbard Succumbed to Several Weeks Illness—Moses Carney Died Suddealy-Twin Babies Passed Away

After an illness covering a period of several weeks, Mrs. Charlotte Elizabeth Robertson, wife of Joseph A. Hubbard, died at her home on West Fifth Street, last evening.

She was born at Peterbo, N. Y., in 1834, and had just passed her sixty-third birthday, July 10th. She was married to Mr. Hubbard, September 22, 1858, and came from her home in Nile, N. Y., on the same day to Plainfield where she has resided ever since.

She was a woman whose life exemplified deep sympathy, broad charity and unostentatious Christianity. She was a devoted member of the Seventh Day Baptist church, one who was most loved by those who knew her best. The Press extends to her bereaved husband and sons that sincere sympathy in which we are sure all our readers will join.

The funeral services will occur at her later residence, 109 West Fifth Fifth street, on Wednesday, at 4 p. m.

AN OLD CITIZEN DEAD.

Moses Carney Passed Away After a Brief Illness.

The friends and acquaintances of Moses Carney, of Central avenue, will be surprised to learn of his sudden death which occurred yesterday morning from bowel trouble. Mr. Carney had not been ill long and was not considered serious.

Mr. Carney was born in New Brunswick and came to Plainfield when a young man, and he has lived in this city ever since. He was a good citizen, a faithful husband and a loving father. He was closely identified with St. Mary's church. For years he has been employed by the city on the streets, and was always considered to be one of the best workmen. He leaves a wife, a son and five daughters.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from St. Mary's church, when requiem high mass will be said. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

A RARE DISEASE.

Acute Ascending Paralysis Causes a Young Woman's Death.

The death of Miss Bertha A. Snyder, daughter of Mrs. Hannan M. Snyder, of West Front street, occurred yesterday after an illness lasting five days with what is known to the medical profession as acute ascending paralysis. The disease is a particularly rare one and so far as is known the only case ever treated in this city. It is a fatal disease and sometimes causes death within a few hours. Miss Snyder was at first taken with a weakness of the legs and finally was deprived of their use. The disease then spread rapidly to the upper part of the body until every portion was paralyzed.

The funeral services will be held from Trinity Reformed church Wednesday, July 21st, at 2:45 p. m.

TWINS DEAD.

Children of Theodore Smith and Child of Louis Feiring Die in Babyhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Smith, of Allen place, have the sympathy of a large circle of acquaintances and friends in the loss of their infant twins, Theodore and Daniel, which occurred yesterday after a brief illness. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:15 from the house.

Ethel Feiring, aged eight months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Feiring, of West Third street, died this noon from convulsions. The little one had been ill for some time.

SHE SEEKS A DIVORCE.

Wife of Thomas Heywood, of This City, Charges Him With Desertion.

Mrs. Josephine Heywood, of Elizabeth, through her counsel, Gustav P. Egenolf, of Newark, has filed a bill in the Court of Chancery, for a divorce from her husband, Thomas Heywood, of this city. The bill alleges desertion.

When seen by a Daily Press reporter today, Heywod stated that an answer to the bill shortly be filed by his attorneys, Pope & Runyon, of this city.

The defendant in the suit is a son of Rev. Thomas Heywood, of Elizabeth. He is an agent in the employ of the Metropolitan Insurance Company, in this city, and boards at McVey's Hotel.

Mrs. Heywood with her two children are living on Julian place, Elizabeth.

Labor Leader Coming.

Grand Master Machinist James O. Connell, of Chicago, will visit Plainfield tomorrow in behalf of the International Association of Machinists, and will give an interesting talk on the topics of the day. A cordial invitation is extended to all mechanics. The meeting will be held in Red Men's hall, West Front street.

THE PAN-AMERICANS

MUCH ATTENTION PAID TO TARIFF.

Speeches of Mr. Arthur S. H. Hitchings of Rio de Janeiro and Other Representatives of the Different Countries.

Philadelphia, July 19.—The commercial representatives of Mexico, Central and South America, who have returned from their 40 days' tour of the industrial centers of the country, assembled at the Philadelphia Commercial museum and held a symposium on the subject of reciprocity. The meeting was of a parliamentary nature, and a number of speeches were made, several of the delegates expressing decided views on the tariff question. A general discussion of the subject followed.

Dr. Gustav Neiderlin, scientific director of the museum, presided. By way of introduction he said: "The United States congress is now passing the tariff bill, and in the amendments a special power is given to the president to lower the tariff quotation 20 per cent for each article which can be included in treaties of reciprocity. The question of reciprocity is the most difficult in the world's economy, and our institution has been established with the aim to come nearer the solution of this great problem. Our congress is a part of this work, necessary to see clearer in the world's production and consumption. We limited ourselves this time to America as the part of the world which not only historically and geographically shall be considered as one, but which also commercially and economically have common interests."

The most pronounced free trader of the party, Arthur S. H. Hitchings of Rio de Janeiro, had this to say: "I beg first to signify my sincere thanks for the exceeding kindness which I and the other delegates have met with in all the cities we have visited in this country. We have been received in your chambers of commerce, your universities, your clubs and your homes, and on every occasion we have been struck with the wonderful advancement which every branch has shown us.

Reciprocity Defined.

"Reciprocity, if it were as easy between nations as between individuals, would undoubtedly be a just definition of fair and friendly trade, but circumstances often, almost always, create difficulties which prevent a practical realisation of such a disposition. That friendly countries should be inclined to make it a system is natural, but I do not think it can exist without free trade, and I would be wrong in holding out prospects which would indicate any treaty by which Brazil would bind itself to favor one country more than others.

"I believe that the exceptional advantages Canada is giving to Great Britain are legislative blunders, and time will prove it. They are opposed to the broad and liberal laws which secured to England her extensive foreign trade. With this view I cannot believe that their reciprocity—for such it is—will last for long, and it would be still more difficult to have exceptional laws favoring the many nations on the American continent. The interests of these nations are not alike, nor can their produce and manufactures find an outlet and consumption within their respective or united boundaries. Europe must necessarily be sought after both by North and South America, and it would be inconsiderate to propose any legislation that would exclude existing equality whereby all nations are treated alike. Such legislation would interfere with production, for it would lead to surplus stock, and exact quantities for barter would be required instead of progressive increase, which only greater and greater intercourse with the whole world can foster and regulate.

"I have heard much of the Monroe doctrine, but surely such ideas cannot apply to trade. Let us, gentlemen, forego all petty notions that are not based on sound reasoning, and let us circumscribe our desires within a possible scope. We have seen on our tour that the United States produces machinery and many of the articles which we import at present from other countries, and we have noticed that these states also import many things similar to what we buy in Europe. I must say, however, that the majority of your manufactures, although in most ways fitted for our market, are too high priced, and there will be no increasing foreign trade until there is a reduction in the general scale of prices.

Some Changes Advised.

"You have to appreciate your dollars, which have hitherto been so easily earned; you must make their purchasing power greater so that cheaper living will follow and more contentment. But with protective duties and inflated currency such results cannot be attained, and it has been my pleasure in the intercourse with your countrymen to find that the majority agree in the belief that protection has concluded its good work; that its permanence will be effectively pernicious, and that your currency requires without delay to be placed beyond the reach of politics or the manipulation of silver trusts.

"We have seen how your factories employ most advanced machinery, but these machines are exported, copied and in some cases improved on; others are thereby enabled to compete with you by using your own inventions, by reduced price of labor and untaxed cost of raw material. Competition is wholesome, for it corrects overproduction, but you require to produce more for the employment of your skilled workmen, and you must find markets wherein to dispose of your goods, and all this necessitates an altered system. You are favored with home raised quantities of much of the raw material used. Do not enhance its cost if it has to go abroad. Your machinery is most effective, but do not expect too much of it. Your workmen are very skilled, but do not underrate the foreigner, and to all your advantages add what free trade can alone secure—a permanent and engrossing international commerce which will insure the future of every workman in this wonderful country. This is what I understand by reciprocity, and my most earnest wish is that in such an example we in our country will find a lesson and an incentive to do likewise."

Mr. Hitchings' views were for the most part seconded by Carlos Lix Klett, an extensive exporter of wool and hides from Argentine Republic, but Maure Fernandez, former minister of finance of Costa Rica, made a strong plea in favor of the policy of protection. He declared that the question came down to a contest between the necessity of the politician, which was protection, and the aspiration of the scientist—free trade. "The United States is right to protect her industries until she can walk alone," he exclaimed, "for in some political respects she is still a baby."

The meeting hereupon resolved itself into a debate between the free traders and the protectionists of the party. Louis A. Dillon of Ecuador told his hearers that his country imported very much more from the United States than they exported to them, but the business men of his country had found that they could do better with Europe, where they were enabled to secure very much smaller rates of freight. F. Ferrarri Perez, special representative of the Mexican government, said that as his country increased its industries it had been at the same time reducing its tariffs. Captain J. Cordeira da Graca, engineer and naval officer of Brazil, made another free trade argument, characterizing the present tariff bill as a monstrosity.

Other addresses of a more general character were made by Alejandro Garland of Lima, Peru; Henry S. Price of Colombo and Antonio E. Delfino of Caracas, Venezuela.

ELUDED HIS KEEPERS.

An Alleged Insane Man Escapes From a Sanitarium.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 19.—Howell C. Rees, president of the Phenix Gas company of Matteawan, who was taken into custody in the Manhattan hotel in New York and committed to Dr. Ferguson's private sanitarium for the insane at Central Valley, Orange county, has escaped from that institution. His attorney, James G. Moyer of Matteawan, had secured from Supreme Court Justice Barnard in this city a writ of habeas corpus, returnable tomorrow, and at the very time that Rees was making his escape his lawyer was at the sanitarium serving the writ upon the superintendent and trying to see his client.

Rees made his escape from the institution about 6 o'clock Saturday evening. He said after he had been committed to the sanitarium that his clothing was taken away from him so that he could not escape. He managed to get a suit from a wardrobe and to secrete it in a closet where there was an open window. Wrapped in a sheet he entered this closet and slipped into the clothes.

Then he escaped through the window and made for the woods. He tells a thrilling story of being pursued by keepers and dogs, whom he eluded by crossing and recrossing the stream several times. He walked all night and finally reached Matteawan shortly after daybreak, going to the home of his lawyer, to whom he told his story.

Mr. Meyer came to Poughkeepsie at once with Rees and sought out Judge Barnard at the latter's home. The facts were laid before the judge, who wrote a letter to Superintendent Pilgrim of the Hudson River State Hospital For the Insane, asking him to permit Rees to remain there until the hearing tomorrow.

The unfortunate man accompanied his lawyer to the institution willingly. He claims that he is not insane and that his incarceration is due to differences with his father over business matters.

Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I cannot say enough for its merits.'
Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and to-day stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

Electric Bitters
Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Reasons Why Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is the Best.
1. Because it affords almost instant relief in case of pain in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus.
2. Because it is the only remedy that never fails in the most severe cases of dysentery and diarrhoea.
3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhoea.
4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent bilious colic.
5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemical dysentery.
6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
8. Because it produces no bad results.
9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.
10. Because it has saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world.

Mr. C. L. Hasbrouck, a druggist at Mendon, Mich., says all of the good testimonials that have been published by the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy could be duplicated in that town. For sale By T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park and North Aves.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hodge, of Plainfield avenue, are thinking of spending their summer outing at Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

You may hunt the world over and you will not find another medicine equal to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. It is pleasant, safe and reliable. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park & North Aves.

HAWAIIAN COMMERCE

WE CONTROL MAJORITY OF TRADE.

It Has Steadily Grown From the Time of the First Reciprocity Treaty Until the Present Time, When It Has Increased Fivefold.

Washington, July 19.—Hawaiian commerce during the last ten years is the subject of a circular just issued by the department of agriculture. The paper was prepared by F. H. Hitchcock, chief of the division of foreign markets under the direction of Secretary Wilson. The facts set forth bear directly upon the current discussion of the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands to the United States and are as follows:

The comparison of statistics shows that the United States controls 90 per cent of the entire trade of the islands. The total value of exports and imports of Hawaii for 1896 was $21,578,882, of which about two-thirds, $15,515,230, was the value of goods exported. The average of the exports for the ten years 1887-96 was $11,052,141 and of exports $5,422,459, leaving an average balance of $5,629,681 in favor of exports.

On this traffic 91.20 per cent was with the United States during the first five years of the decade, and in the second five years this lead of this country over other countries was increased to 91.5 per cent. Another impression of the situation may be gained from the statement that our trade with the islands in 1896, according to the Hawaiian statistics, reached $20,924,306, the largest amount ever recorded, while the highest figures previously were for 1890, when a total of $18,332,631.80 was reported.

The United States, however, does not yet hold so high a position in furnishing goods for Hawaii as in taking the products of the islands. Of the average of exports for the ten years, nearly $11,000,000 a year, the United States has bought practically all. Only one-half of 1 per cent has been sold to other countries. Of the goods purchased by Hawaii on the other hand, the United States furnishes only about three-fourths.

Chief Increase In Sales.

However, it is chiefly in our sales to the islands that the trade is growing. The annual average of these sales for the five years, 1887 to 1891, was $4,376,312, but for 1891 to 1896, $4,496,275, while the exports to Hawaii for last year amounted to $5,464,206, nearly $1,000,000 more than for any previous year.

The goods coming from Hawaii to the United States are mainly agricultural products, while the shipment in the other directions, except breadstuffs, are chiefly manufactures. Our imports of sugar make the largest item in the trade, while our imports of rice come next. Next in order are our exports of breadstuffs, cotton goods, fertilizers, machinery, lumber, tobacco, wire and chemicals. It is noticeable that shipments of American live stock, meats, apples and corn amount to very little.

Prior to 1876, when the first reciprocity treaty was made between the United States and Hawaii, their total commerce averaged only $1,950,496. Since that date a comparatively steady growth has brought the total to more than five times that amount.

Figures are furnished for the first 10 months of the fiscal year 1897 as compared with the same period in 1896. They show large increases in the important items of trade. The other countries whose trade with Hawaii appears to be growing are China and Japan, taken together, and Canada.

The Tariff Bill.

Washington, July 19.—The indications are that the tariff bill, as agreed to by the Republican conferees Saturday, probably will have passed both houses of congress and be a law at the end of the present week. Delays and complications, now unanticipated, may, however, somewhat prolong the final struggle.

It is not believed that there will be any disposition on the part of the Democratic members of the conference to delay the bill in full committee, but the Democrats have had no meeting to determine their course of action on this point.

Indian Union Wants to Sell Out.

Antlers, I. T., July 19.—The Choctaw-Chickasaw Union party proposes to treat with the Dawes commission, provided the United States government will buy all of the Choctaw and Chickasaw land outright. They will then form a colony, go into Mexico, buy a lot of land from Mexico and have their own lands. They say that a white man shall not move among them. The full bloods are favorably impressed with the move, but none but the ignorant Choctaws will go into such a scheme.

Stabbed His Brother.

Brooklyn, July 19.—James Flynn, 25 years old, of 925 Dean street, and his brother William, 23 years old, of 427 Cherry street, New York, quarreled at the former's residence, and during the altercation William drew a knife and stabbed James twice in the abdomen, inflicting wounds which are likely to cause his death. The wounded man was removed to St. John's hospital where his condition last night was pronounced to be extremely critical. William Flynn was arrested.

Prince Won't Fight a Plebian.

London, July 19.—The Daily Mail's Paris correspondent says Prince Henri of Orleans declines to fight a duel with Lieutenant Pini, one of the Italian officers recently released from captivity in Abyssinia, who was designated by the drawing of lots among his comrades to challenge the prince. Prince Henri however, is willing to accept a challenge from an Italian officer of a rank corresponding to his own.

Imprisoned In a Mine.

Phenix, A. T., July 19.—James Stevens, the imprisoned miner, has been rescued from the Mammoth mine after an imprisonment of 14 days without food or water. He is frightfully emaciated, but his mind is clear.

Held For Disinfection.

New York, July 19.—Ten sacks of Bombay mail which arrived by the steamer Aurania from Liverpool and Queenstown have been held at quarantine for disinfection.

SWINDLED JEWELERS

HAD GAMBLED AT THE RACE TRACKS.

He Would Obtain Articles on Memorandum and Forget to Make Returns of the Sales to the Merchants. Partly Admits His Guilt.

New York, July 19.—William A. Bellwood, a well known dealer in antique books and rare jewelry at 1332 Walnut street, Philadelphia, who rents an expensive suit of rooms at the Plaza hotel, is under arrest at police headquarters charged with having swindled Marcus & Co., the jewelers at Broadway and Seventeenth street, out of jewelry valued at many thousands of dollars. The arrest was made on Saturday, and at the Center street police court the prisoner was remanded to the custody of the central office detectives.

A small portion of the jewelry has been recovered, and pawntickets for a large part of the remainder have been found. The detectives say Bellwood has confessed to his dealings with Marcus & Co., but denies that he has swindled other firms.

Bellwood is a Frenchman of good address and refined manners. He began his dealings with Marcus & Co. about a year ago. He frequently bought goods from the firm on memorandum, and so far as the police know his dealings were for a long time legitimate. Bellwood spent much of his time in this city, and first lived with his wife at the Imperial hotel, until they moved to the Plaza some weeks ago.

Bet on the Races.

Recently Marcus & Co. learned that Bellwood was seen frequently at the race tracks, where he was reported to have been a heavy loser. The firm then determined to keep a close watch in the event of the purchase of more goods by their Philadelphia customer.

Last Friday Bellwood appeared at the store of Marcus & Co. and called for a diamond necklace, which he said he wanted for a lady customer. He selected one valued at $7,500 and left the store. He was followed by an employee of the firm and was seen to go into a Bowery pawnshop, where he pledged a piece of jewelry believed to have been the necklace which he had just received on memorandum. The firm was informed of the transaction at once, and Mr. Marcus then consulted with the headquarters authorities.

Had a Large Number of Pawntickets.

It was decided to arrest Bellwood, and next day he was taken into custody on Broadway. On his person was found the costly necklace, together with a bundle of pawntickets, on which he had received $13,960. Of this amount $7,400 had been obtained on jewelry received from Marcus & Co. and $6,560 on jewelry which he claimed to own himself. The total number of pawntickets recovered was 42, and 12 of them represented the Marcus goods.

Bellwood admitted his guilt, as far as the jewelry which he had received from Marcus & Co. was concerned and said that his downfall was due to gambling on the race tracks. He stoutly maintained that he had swindled no other individual or firm.

The prisoner's wife has surrendered a beautiful necklace composed of pearls, amethysts and crystals, valued at $1,000, a double finger ring and an antique brooch set with a topaz in the center and pear shaped gems of every description in three rows with three pendant pearls.

Mrs. Bellwood, who speaks no English, claimed that the jewelry is her own private property.

Bellwood has secured property valued at $25,000 from the firm of Marcus & Co., upon which he has paid only $1,500. The police expect to find that he swindled other jewelers here in the same way.

Heroic Rescue of a Boy.

Cleveland, July 19.—John Norman, a carpenter, while crossing the Central viaduct on Friday evening, heard the screams of a woman on the docks below. He looked over and saw a boy struggling in the river. He leaped to the rail and poising a moment dove 101 feet through the air to the river. He struck the water cleanly and in a second came to the surface. The boy had sunk, but Norman went down again and brought him up unconscious. He struggled with his burden to the dock, where the two were dragged out. The boy, whose name is John Millard, after vigorous efforts was restored to consciousness, and in the meantime Norman walked away.

Drowned While Attempting to Escape.

New York, July 19.—Peter Connell, 47 years old, a 30 day prisoner on Blackwell's island, while working on Randall's island tried to escape by jumping into the river. He was drowned. Connell, with a gang of 50 prisoners, had to throw the contents of a number of buckets into the river. He was at the end of the line, and after emptying his bucket he threw it into the river and dived in after. He tried to swim to the opposite shore, but the tide was too strong, and he was carried away. He sank after going 100 feet. His body was not recovered.

Died From an Insect Bite.

Easton, Pa., July 19.—Christian Butz of Lower Mount Bethel, died in the Easton hospital from the effects of an insect's bite. Several weeks ago Butz, who was a wealthy farmer, was stung on the hand. He paid no attention to the bite until a few days since, when he came to the hospital suffering from blood poisoning.

Defaulting Cashier Confesses.

Little Rock, July 19.—John G. Meixell, the defaulting cashier of the South Bethlehem National bank of Easton, Pa., has waived examination before United States Commissioner O'Hair and was placed in the penitentiary, pending an order of transfer. He made a full confession, implicating the teller of the bank.

Acquitted on the Charge of Murder.

St. Louis, July 19.—Dr. Richmond Cornwall of Kansas City who, while defending his father, killed his brother, Herbert Cornwall, has been acquitted. The prosecution attempted to show that the killing was premeditated, but failed to do so. No further action will be taken in the matter.

NEW BRUNSWICK'S GLEE.

Poor, thirsty Plainfield! The Water Supply Company of that town is becoming aggressive in enforcing the rules governing the use of lawn sprinklers and hand hose. The Plainfield Press predicts many spats between the corporation and its patrons. One of the company's rules is that any person wishing to use a hose must first obtain a permit. Water will not be granted except between the hours of 6 and 9 a. m. and 4 and 7 p. m. Of course, if the company has only a limited water supply, this is but reasonable. Still, the enthusiastic townsman who desires to transform his share of Plainfield into a pretty garden spot will probably find his endeavors hampered. Suppose his gladiolus bed needs spraying at 8 p. m. when he returns from the metropolis, what then? New Brunswick grumbles over many things, but not a growl do we hear over our abundant and most potable water supply, as excellent as any in New Jersey.—New Brunswick Home News.

MOSQUITO EXTERMINATION.

While a great many Jerseymen are intensely interested in the proposition to exterminate the mosquito known as the Jersey species, the Plainfielder only looks on in a serene and curious manner as to the outcome, because in this immediate vicinity the iniquitous and itch-inoculating insect is only represented now and then by some tramp of the family who has escaped from Elizabeth and hied himself here without the knowledge that he is doomed to the executing sockdolager of the victim whom he selects for blood food. It is a notorious fact that the Elizabeth mosquito is a fat, sleek article, whose fangs are as sharp as needles and as strong as steel, but by the time the stray ones find their stamping grounds in Plainfield the trip has so exhausted them there is but little aggressiveness in their bodies.

NEWSPAPER ILL FEELING.

Adjectives that are used to add severity to the scathing terms applied to the New Brunswick Home News editor by the Times and Fredonian editors must be at a premium in the sanctums of the latter papers. From a disinterested standpoint, it seems to us that the editorial neighbors of Editor Boyd are altogether to aggressive and bitter in their attacks to have any effect. For several years The Press has been the subject of very much the same sort of tirades that the Home News is undergoining at present, and we know from personal experience that they are void of the result that was intended.

HARMONY.

Referring to the editorial in these columns a few days ago concerning the Democratic intentions of harmony in all parts of the State, the New Brunswick Fredonian has this to say of the Middlesex situation, but the comment is that of a Republican and must be taken with a grain of salt:

The question of harmony is not worrying the Middlesex Democrats in the least. They are at present enjoying a period in which harmony is as far away from their thoughts as the North Pole is from the South Pole. The gold and silver wings of the party cannot seem to coalesce, and each faction wants to be the controlling element in the party.

SEEN NO MORE.

"Stole to Play Races" read a newspaper heading this morning. Once upon a time this caption was not an infrequent sight to readers of New Jersey newspapers, but it is seen no more. And it is not likely to be observed again as applying to New Jersey as the place wherein the gambling temptation is offered.

F. W. Mauterstock, formerly ticket agent at Somerville, has been transferred to the new Whitehall street terminal of the Central Railroad in New York. His place at Somerville has been taken by George Ringleman, of Somerville.

C. W. McCutchen and family, of Rockview Terrace, have gone to their summer home at Lake Placid, Adirondack Mountain. Mr. McCutchen will return during this week and will make frequent trips to the mountains during the summer.

CHILDREN'S LAWN FETE.

A Pleasant Party Given at a Fanwood Cottage.

No pleasanter sight has been seen in Fanwood within the memory of the oldest inhabitant, than was seen in front of the pleasant cottage of Mr. Wm. E. Collins, on Park avenue, on Saturday afternoon, the occasion being a children's lawn party on the ninth birthnay of Miss Marjorie Morse Collins. About thirty children, probably from four to twelve years old, were there assembled. The piano had been moved out upon the veranda and Miss Edith Randolph, of Scotch Plains, was untiring in her efforts to please both children and the older people. A crowd of happy becomingly dressed children moving over the green lawn in playing games, their movements unconsciously keeping time to the sound of the music, made a scene long to be remembered. Mr. and Mrs. Collins, an ideal host and hostess, devoting every effort for the amusement of their little guests. There were all kinds of games played and some really fine singing by the little ones. Long tables were spread on the green and shady lawn and refreshments in the shape of cake, lemonade, ice cream, candies, and everything that children love, provided in abundance. Miss Marjorie was the happy recipient of very many beautiful presents. Mr. Geo. E. Hall, from across the street, kindly came over with his camera and greatly to the delight of the children, took several pictures of the group.

There was a peanut hunt, in which Master Duke Crockett, of Bridgeport, Conn., took the boy's prize, a miniature ship, and Miss Madeline Robinson, of Fanwood, the girl's prize, a beautiful bottle of perfumery. There was a little dog belonging to Mr. Wm. R. Stanberry that we think would certainly have taken one of the prizes, only they could not count his on account of the place he put them.

As the sun sank behind the western hills, the little guests departed to their homes, wishing as one little Miss expressed it, "That Marjorie would have a birthday every week."

Plain Speaking.

In these ads. of ours, that you read here every day, we try to tell the plain truth. It wouldn't pay us to say what is not so. We go on the principle that the average man and woman are capable of discrimination, and our theory seems to be the right one, for ours is by far the largest Piano business in the State.

You would naturally expect that "largest business" and "lowest prices" should go hand-in-hand. They do so here.

LACE JACKETS AGAIN TO BE WORN

(By Special Arrangement with the N.Y. Sun.)

The expression so often heard, that some women have a superior way of wearing their clothes, has a significance which is well worth considering, since the accomplishment can make a plain gown appear elegant. Change, too, is a vital thing in the fashionable world, particularly in summer, and the more variety we can give to the outfit the more successfully it will fulfil its mission. The coat and skirt gowns of piqué, linen duck, and various wool materials help out this scheme to an unlimited extent, for no end of changes can be made with a variety of vests. Checked taffeta silks, striped across in the form of a yoke, with narrow velvet ribbon, make pretty and serviceable vests, but this little accessory of dress is constructed out of any old bit of lace, silk, or chiffon which may be at hand.

For light weight wool costumes there is a new style of coat with a blouse back and close fitting front, well covered with a large collar, rather narrow in the back, but wide and extending to the bottom in front. Wide collars of some sort are a special feature of the new coats, and many of the very latest gowns, whether they are made with a coat or round waist, quite regardless of the kind of material. Very pretty collars are of taffeta silk, finely tucked in groups or closely all over, and to be correct the tucks must be in the narrowest possible width, with a finish on the end of tiny side plaitings. The collar, which is narrow front and back, meeting at the neck band and extending out over the sleeves in the form of an epaulette, is especially good style. The wide fancy collar is a feature of the new thin bodices of gauze or chiffon, as well as the heavier materials, and it is sometimes made of the same thin fabric, shirred full of tiny tucks or of tulle in some contrasting color, lined with silk of the color of the bodice. Batiste and muslin gowns of the daintiest description have the same style of collar, made of alternate rows of tucks and insertion finished around the edge with a lace frill, or entirely of lace over colored silk. An example of this in the new shape is shown in the first illustration, which is a charming model for a colored or white organdie or an écru batiste. White organdie is the material employed in this case, and the new fine Swiss embroidery so popular this season is the trimming, set in two rows of insertion down either side of the skirt and in the bodices and sleeves. Two ruffles of edging trim the bottom, and the collar of pale green and white shot taffeta is covered with the embroidery. The silk also forms the dress, and the underdress is of pale green, fine and sheer.

The underdresses of organdie or very sheer lawn are trimmed with ruffles at the bottom, which make the skirts stand out and preserve the lightness in effect much better than the silk linings.

Cashmere is coming into vogue again. Dealers say that its return is being greeted with enthusiasm. There never was a more manageable or graceful material.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE IN COLORADO

The report that comes from Colorado of the good work done by the women of the state during the three years they have been enfranchised may give a boom to woman suffrage in the East. One of the difficulties upon which great stress has been laid by the anti-woman suffragists here seems have been answered in Colorado. This is in regard to the unpleasant nature of primary meetings and polling places. This decidedly minor matter was one which, as in other small things in other large matters, has had great stress laid upon it by the controvertionalists. "Woman's presence has made a great improvement in primary meetings and polling places," says the Colorado statement, "and where they were formerly held in stables or drinking saloons, in many precincts, primaries are now held in home parlors and polling booths are arranged in respectable buildings, and voting is invariably conducted with decorum." The decorum in the Representative Hall, where there are women members, is also said to outrank that in the Senate, where there are no women. The general influence exerted by women upon politics is said to have been excellent, and there has been more general study of political economy by both men and women during the last three years than ever before in the history of the State.

It may be that a greater number of women in the newer States are brought into closer connection with questions of government than in older parts of the country, and this has given them an added dignity of thought and action. The conduct of some of the members of some of the women's organizations of New York, notably several of the patriotic societies, has been in several instances sufficiently disgraceful to kill any inclination for women suffrage in the minds of those generally well disposed to the cause. And this over small matters. An ordinarily charming and cultivated young matron, who belongs, as she would explain, to the Vere de Veres, who stands in a doorway of a hall and shrieks at a body of voting women where her side is in the minority, "You can't vote; you are illegal; you haven't a quorum!" is not dignified, and her paroxysms of rage afterward not pleasant to see. It savors of personal malignity. This was one example. Many of the so-called conservative women belong to these patriotic organizations. If they took these hysterical methods to defeat woman suffragists they did well. They were certainly effective. It is further stated in Colorado that, all rumors to the contrary notwithstanding, women will not be called upon for military duty.

TAX ON BACHELORS.

An Endeavor in a South America State to Force Young People to Marry.

New women and old women, young maids and old ones, are always and everywhere interested in the question of matrimony, says an exchange. At conventions the subject is brought forward and discussed; and yet statistics from all quarters of the globe present annually a steady decline in the number of marriages. Nowhere, however, has the matrimonial percentage reached so low a point as in the Argentine Republic. The existing state of affairs in that young South American state has attracted attention as a grave public evil, and her Senators and wise men have recently passed the following law:

On and after January 1, 1897, every male from the age of twenty to eighty shall pay a tax until he marries, and shall pay it once every month. Young celibates of either sex who shall, without legitimate motives, reject the addresses of him or her who may aspire to her or his hand, and who may continue contumaciously unmarried, shall pay the sum of 500 piasters for the benefit of the young person who has been so refused.

Climate of New Zealand.

New Zeland enjoys one of the finest climates in the world; trees present, as well as herbage, a never-failing verdure. The small portion of cultivated land yields in great abundance all the fruits and grains of Europe. In New Zealand it is quite practicable to raise two crops on the same soil within the year; and in the garden not an inch of ground need remain idle for any length of time.

A Costly Tiny Boat.

A jeweller in Tarin has made a tiny boat of a single pearl. The hull is finely shaped, and might serve as a model for a great sloop. The sail is of beaten gold, studded with diamonds, and the binnacle light is a perfect ruby. An emerald serves as its rudder, and its stand is a slab of ivory. Its weight is less than an ounce, and it is said to have cost £1,000.— Tid-Bits.

ETHERIZING PLANTS.

A Discovery Which May Add to the Resources of Horticulturists.

The discovery of the singular fact that plants can be developed earlier than is normal by exposing them to the influence of ether fumes would seem to add enormously to the resources of the horticulturist, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. It is found that after exposing sleeping plants to the fumes of ether and chloroform, they begin to shoot, having possibly been awakened from their previous condition of sleep or inactivity.

This raises two questions of which gardeners are now looking with keen interest for a solution. Can the ether dispel the condition of sleep from all plants? Can the plants awakened before their proper time, develop in a normal manner and become useful and salable? The plants to be etherized are placed in an airtight receptacle and exposed to the influence of the drug from twenty-four to ninety-six hours (usually about forty-eight hours). Cylindrical glasses are used for small plants. Large plants are enclosed in an oil-painted box, the interior of which is lined with tin foil. The box is four feet high, four feet long and 2 1-2 feet broad. On the lid a small hole is made, which is closed with a cork, and through this hole the ether is conducted. As the ether is very inflammable, great care is to be taken not to bring lighted candles or matches near it. It is dissolved at from 15 to 20 degrees centigrade. Experiments with lilacs, willows and other ligneous plants, as well as with bulbs and hyacinths, while showing widely varying results, seem to justify the belief that when the process is more thoroughly understood and systematized it will be most valuable in forcing plants to maturity at any time after the formation of their roots.

An Old Saw Proved.

Colonel Kaintuck—That's so, Cunnel Bluegrass. We gave that wife-beater, Si Hucks as fine a coat of feathers as a man ever woah, and yet he's only a jail bird, sah.—New York Journal.

She was discharged.
She didn't like it very much.
But it brought her $100 a time.
Strange how the public just loves to see a woman in tights shot out of a gun.

good qualities are easily determined from the poor. The solid chunks that are free from slate is the coal that brings the biggest prices. Crumbling coal is the kind that makes the dust and it's the kind you get when you are not careful where you buy. We sell the honest, solid coal for the price you've paid for the other sort,

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

DEATH OF A PHYSICIAN.

Dr. Hubbard of Bridgeport, Conn., Falls and Receives Fatal Injuries.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 19.—Dr. Robert Hubbard, a physician well known throughout the country, while ascending the steps to his office on State street, fell and received injuries to his head from which he died soon after.

Dr. Hubbard was a native of Cromwell, Conn., where he was born 71 years ago, and was graduated at Yale, class of '51, of which he was valedictorian. During the war he was surgeon of the Seventeenth Connecticut volnnteers and was actively engaged at the battles of Chancellorsville and Gettysburg.

He represented Bridgeport in the general assemblies of 1874 and 1876, and in the latter year was a candidate for congress from the Fourth district, but was defeated by the late William H. Barnum. His home had been here since 1851. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. C. H. Trowbridge of New Haven and Mrs. C. M. Everest of Rochester.

THROWN FROM A TRAIN.

A Tramp Killed During a Quarrel With a Newly Made Acquaintance.

Philadelphia, July 19.—Daniel Carron, a tramp, was thrown from a freight car on the Pennsylvania railroad near Overbrook, on the outskirts of the city, during a fight and was killed. His assailant was Richard Wilson, who says he lives in New York and through stress of circumstances has been forced to steal a ride to some other city in the hope of gaining work at his trade.

He fell in with Carron and some others. They were riding in the same car, when they began quarreling, with the above result. Wilson was arrested. His condition does not indicate that he is a tramp. He says he is a paper hanger by trade. He wore good clothes, had a change of linen, new russet shoes and had several dollars in his pockets. Carron and his companions, he said, had picked a quarrel with him, and he was forced to defend himself by striking Carron.

SUPPOSED KIDNAPING.

Two Boys Mysteriously Disappear From a Boat In Chicago.

Chicago, July 19.—De Witt T. Brown and John Brown, the young sons of Mrs. Annie Brown if this city, were kidnaped Friday morning and have disappeared as if they had dropped overboard from the steamer on which their mother last saw them.

The mother left Milwaukee Thursday night with her boys. A woman who had become slightly acquainted with Mrs. Brown in Milwaukee came down with them on the boat. On Friday morning, after the boat had tied in its dock, Mrs. Brown went to call her sons, but their stateroom was empty.

The woman was gone, and Mrs. Brown came to the conclusion that the stranger had stolen the children and had slipped ashore in the darkness, when the boat first arrived at its dock.

Jersey Potters Want an Increase.

Trenton, July 19.—It has been developed here that the working potters of this city had a conference last week with the manufacturers, with a view of securing a return of the 12½ per cent reduction in wages when the Wilson bill was in effect. No definite conclusions were reached, but the men feel confident that the manufacturers will return to the scale. On the other hand, it is said that while the manufacturers may be willing to give the increase, yet they will be unable to do so for some time, or until business has prospered with them.

Death of General Velasques.

Valparaiso, July 19.—General Jose Velasquez, the most brilliant officer in the old Chilean army and one who did distinguished service throughout the Pacific war, died in this city of lung disease. General Velasquez had served his country in the army for more than 40 years. During the last few years of his life he was subject to great persecution by his enemies in power, owing to his allegiance to Balmaceda. Finally, in 1895, he was forced to retire. Since that time he has lived quietly in Valparaiso.

Electric Car on Fire.

Cambridge, Mass., July 19.—By the burning out of a fuse of an electric car 40 passengers were in great jeopardy. A panic ensued as the car suddenly broke out into flames from underneath. As it was, five persons were severely burned. They are Mrs. Margaret King, her husband, John King, and their son John, Mrs. Sarah J. Nickerson and Miss Annie Bailey, all of Cambridge. Eyewitnesses said men, women and children fought to get out of the open car, so frightened were they. The car was a wreck.

A Chef Takes Morphine.

Pittsfield, Mass., July 19.—Eugene Coleman, aged 35, chef in the Pittsfield House, took a heavy dose of morphine with suicidal intent, and though every effort was made to save him he died. He leaves a widow and four children, living in Liberty, Vt. In his room was found a pathetic letter addressed to his wife, in which he said that had it not been for his own indiscretion and the treachery of others he and she would still be living happily together.

Ex-Mayor of Newburg Dead.

Newburg, N. Y., July 19.—Former Mayor Charles J. Lawson died suddenly here, aged 54 years. He was a leading merchant, prominent in church and society and a member of the board of education. A few months ago he was appointed to this board to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Gilbert E. Jacobs, who also died suddenly of heart disease. He leaves a widow and two sons.

Bicyclists Run Down.

Chicago, July 19.—Fred C. Billings, a bicycle rider, was run down and almost instantly killed on Michigan avenue by H. C. Wagner, a trooper belonging to troop A, Illinois national guard. The fault was entirely that of Wagner who, according to witnesses, rode his horse directly upon Billings. The latter was trampled by the horse and had his skull crushed.

Old Lady Killed by Lightning.

Erie, Pa., July 19.—Mrs. Horace Noble, a prominent lady of this city, was instantly killed at Gills Park, near here, by a flash of lightning. She was sitting in the parlor with some companions when the house was struck, killing her almost instantly. None of the others

CONDITION OF STRIKE

Statement of President Ratchford on the Outlook.

THE STRIKERS ARE WELL SATISFIED.

The Men Realize Their Responsibility and Will Remain Firm—The Movement Is Still Growing and May Seriously Impede Business.

"The manner in which the miners are conducting themselves commends itself to the country and gives their officers renewed encouragement and strengthens the belief that victory ultimately will crown their efforts.

"The history of industrial strife has no parallel to the present movement. Deputy marshals, coal and iron police and secret detectives have been at work, but their presence has failed to incite the miners to acts of lawlessness or even to a resumption of work. Their presence in peaceable communities with a chip on their shoulder gave some cause for alarm and ordinarily would have caused a resort to violence. But our miners in this instance, profiting by the experience of the past, would neither cause trouble themselves nor allow themselves to become involved in trouble by the action of others.

"Reports from some of the cities to the effect that the coal supply is not short are only intended to discourage the miners. If the coal supply is not short, why are prices avancing? Why is coal worth $1 a ton and even $1.50 more than it was two weeks ago? Why are the railroads confiscating coal shipments? Why are the shops and factories whose wheels are put in motion by the labor of the miner ceasing to operate? Why are operators all over the states offering their miners a rate even higher than the one demanded if they will only continue at work?

"The reason is patent to all. Coal is scarce. Those who have it to sell get fancy prices, and those who offer an advance, particularly in West Virginia and portions of Illinois, do it for the purpose of checking and defeating this movement, and miners who do not know this will realize it fully when the battle is over, if such operators have their way.

The Men Realize Their Responsibility.

"We have started into this movement, realizing fully the importance of the work before us and the responsibility resting upon us, and after two weeks of suspension, involving more than 150,000 miners, we are well satisfied with the results. Only those who are best acquainted with the condition of the miners have any idea of the extent of this suspension and its paralyzing effects upon the labor and business of the country.

"It has not yet reached its full proportions. The coming week will add 20,000 men to the idle column. The week following will bring greater accessions to our ranks. The movement will continue to grow not only from the point of the number involved, but public opinion will become crystallized more fully and through the press of the country will demand a solution of this great difficulty.

"The organized trades of the country are today in closer touch than ever before. Never in the history of labor troubles have they been found so closely allied. Our demand for living wages and the determination of our miners to secure it have brought expressions of sympathy and moral and material support from almost every branch of organized labor, whose efforts in our behalf will endear them to all lovers of fairness and establish for the miners, with their own efforts, a living rate of wages."

Indiana Miners Meet.

Brazil, Ind., July 19.—The block coal miners have met in mass meeting here and received reports from all points of the district. The reports were very encouraging. All the mines are closed, and the miners are quiet and hopeful of winning the strike. The committee soliciting aid in Indianapolis made a statement to the meeting of their success. Suffering and distress is rapidly increasing in this locality, and the miners decided to appeal to the governor for immediate aid.

Decide to Return to Work.

Huntington, W. Va., July 19.—The miners at Thacker, Logan and Dingess, who had decided to strike, have held a mass meeting and reconsidered their action. They will return to work as usual. The Elkhorn miners, who had also decided to strike, will, it is believed, follow their example.

Threaten to Employ New Hands.

Martins Ferry, O., July 19.—The miners at Dillonvale have been notified that they must return to work at once or new men would be employed. Two hundred carloads of West Virginia coal have passed through here. The Wheeling and Lake Erie road has orders for 1,500 carloads.

Killed by a Live Wire.

Monson, Mass., July 19.—James Lynch of Warren, a lineman employed by the Central Massachusetts Electric company, was instantly killed while at work, his leg coming in contact with a wire he had cut. Two thousand volts passed through his body, and he fell over backward, but his spurs caught in the wire, and he was suspended in midair for several minutes before he could be taken down. He leaves a widow and mother.

Killed by a Fall From a Bicycle.

Lynn, Mass., July 19.—Stephen H. Bartlett, a fireman of Melrose, was killed by a fall from his bicycle while riding on the Nahant road. Bartlett was going at a good pace along a dark stretch in the road, when he collided with an unknown woman, who was also riding a bicycle. He was thrown heavily to the ground and died in the ambulance. The woman escaped without a scratch.

Cloudburst at Bangor, Me.

Bangor, Me., July 19.—Bangor has been visited by a cloudburst, the like of which has seldom been seen here. The shower lasted about 20 minutes and was accompanied by sharp lightning and heavy thunder, while hailstones as large as robin's eggs fell all the time. The streets of the city were heavily drenched, and crops were damaged in the GOLF.

The New Brunswick Golf Club team came to Plainfield on Saturday and played a return match with the team from the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. The first game was played sometime ago and the home team was victorious by a good score. The team from Middlesex county was not satisfied, however, and they desired another game which was given them on Saturday. Not once during the game was there any prospect of the visitors winning and they were easily beaten. They put up a fair game, but were unable to play the high-class game put up by the home team. Below will be found the scores of the match:

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. S. G. Smith, of Putnam avenue, is confined to her home with serious illness.

Miss Edith Clapp, of Rockview avenue, has gone to Belmar for a few weeks' outing.

Henry C. Wells, of Washington avenue, has gone away on a two weeks' vacation.

Alonzo Dunham, of West Third Third street, has accepted a position in New York city.

Miss Ethel Green, of the borough, left town this morning for the south to spend her vacation.

Mrs. George Saums, of East Second street, left the city this morning to spend a few days in the country.

Letter-Carrier Daniel Shea has started on his fifteen days vacation. His place is being filled by Substitute Phillip Giese.

During the month of August Rev. Mr. Clare, of Colgate University, will occupy the pulpit at the Park Avenue Baptist church.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvaine VanName, of Elmwood place, left today for Staten Island, where they will remain for a time with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Dillenbeck, of Philadelphia, have been the guests of Mrs. Dillenbeck's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morrison, of the borough.

George Eckhardt, of the borough, has formed a partnership with Ira Ordell, of Orchard place, and the two will conduct an insurance business.

Last evening Rev. Orrin Snodgrass, son of Rev. W. C. Snodgrass, preached at the First M. E church. His text was "Work" and his discourse was a thoroughly interesting one.

Rev. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, has about given up the idea of going to Europe this year, and is thinking of taking a wheeling trip through Canada.

John Morton, of the Cold Storage Ice Company, who has been ill for a few days, is again on his wagon serving his customers as usual. Its the first time he has been laid aside by illness in over twenty-five years.

David Boehm, of Paterson, spent yesterday with his brother, I. H. Boehm, of the borough. This is the first time Mr. Boehm has been in Plainfield in ten years. He formerly was in partnership with his brother in this city.

PASSING COMMENT.

Of all the contemptible and aggravating persons that a newspaper reporter comes in contact with, it is the "practical joker," who supplies false tips and information of the alleged doings of some of his or her friends. This class of people is one of the banes of newspaper life, and it requires a good deal of careful judgment and quick perception to distinguish these erroneous items from the countless pages of copy that are handled in the course of a day.

There seems to be a tendency among Plainfield wheelwomen to ride high geared machines. Many become discontented with the original low gear and have it raised under the impression that it appears more skillful to ride a high geared mount. This is not the case. No more skill is required to ride a high geared than a low one, but very much more strength is required, as any one accustomed to a low gear will soon discover after having it raised. It certainly seems delightful to cover so much more ground with one revolution of the pedal than formerly, but is not worth the extra expenditure of force and the consequent fatigue, while when hill climbing has to be done the advantages of a low gear are manifest.

One of the residents in the east end of this city decided to take a drive last evening, leaving the servant in charge of the house. After the departure of the mistress, the maid decided also to enjoy an evening out and departed for a while, closing the front door, leaving the key on the inside and the spring catch on. The surprise of the lady of the house was great when she returned home at 10:30 o'clock to find her maid sitting on the piazza, unable to enter the house. They were obliged to appeal to the neighbors for assistance. A ladder was procured and one of their friends climbed up to the second story and gained entrance through a window and finally unlocked the door. The lady now declares that hereafter each member of the household shall be provided with a night key.

This is the season of the year when water offers particular attractions. Nearly everybody enjoys boating or sailing, swimming or fishing, and these attractions are proving important ones when the selection of a place for the summer outing is chosen. Some prefer salt water and others prefer the fresh water with its somewhat different attractions. Plainfield has no river, only little Green brook which is hardly to be counted in, and no pond or lake of any size. Boynton Beach, Perth Amboy, and even Bound Brook with the Raritan river, are visited by Plainfielders, but the popular resort of the kind is New Market. Its nearness, only a mile from the Dunellen terminus of the trolley, is probably what makes it so. While it is merely a combined ice and mill pond, it is large enough to make rowing possible and even a pleasure, and thither a string of young people wend their way every evening. There are boats to hire and the afternoon can be spent there very enjoyably. The upper end of the pond narrows down to a mere stream but it is sufficiently wild to seem far away from civilization There are mosquitoes by the hundred, or rather by the thousand, and they delight in fastening on the rich blood of the visitors from Plainfield. At night they are particularly abundant, if one happens to find their haunts in the upper part of the pond. Sometimes, when the weather is right, they come to meet the visitors and give them a musical welcome. Mosquitoes do not cut any figure with the young people, however, if they come bent on enjoying themselves, and the raids of this famous New Jersey "bird" merely add a mild excitement to the visit to the pond.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gavett and family are at Boynton Beach today for an outing.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Brokaw, of East Second street, spent Sunday with friends in Elizabeth.

Mrs. G. W. Saums, of East Second street, is spending two weeks with relatives in Trenton.

J. P. Hutchinson has returned to his duties at Leggett's pharmacy after a vacation of two weeks.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The Rev. George C. Needham will conduct a union Bible class in Y. M. C. A. Hall at 7:45 o'clock this evening.

—Rev. Oran Snodgrass, son of Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First M. E. church, preached in that church last evening.

—The members of the Mt. Olive Baptist church and Sunday-school will go on their annual excursion to Asbury Park on the 27th, in company with the First Baptist church.

—C. Stultz rode his wheel without a lighted lamp, Saturday evening, and Patrolman Vanderweg ordered him to appear before City Judge DeMeza, this morning. He came and was fined $1.

—Edward White will start tomorrow a sale that will interest every housekeeper. The goods that he will put on sale are table linens, napkins, towels, toweling, hosiery and handkerchiefs. As many of our readers know that the steamer, City of Rome, on its last voyage over had a fire on board that started in the cargo and to extinguish it they had to flood the ship. The goods were sold by order of the fire underwriters and were only slightly damaged by water, but were sold at half their real value. His advertisement tells the rest.

FELL OFF A BRIDGE.

Somerville Man Broke His Leg—Brought to the Hospital.

James O'Meil, aged 33 years, a resident of Somerville, was brought to Plainfield yesterday afternoon suffering with a fracture of the femur. The accident happened last Saturday night at Somerville, when Mr. O'Neil fell off a bridge a distance of forty feet. He was picked up by friends and made as comfortable as possible for the night and as he did not seem to be in a serious condition his friends were not in any particular hurry about bringing him to the hospital in this city. Yesterday noon it was decided that it would be best to bring the man to Plainfield, and he arrived here about 2 o'clock. He is now confined at the hospital where he will probably remain for the next six weeks.

This week Edward Mosher and his son, of Elmwood place, will leave the city for Penn Argle, Pa., where they will spend a brief vacation.

Theodore Swayzee, of East Ninth street, leaves this evening, for Washing to begin his duties in the coin department of the United States Treasury.

THE STRANGEST DINNER.

At Which the Wheat in the Bread and the Wine Were Hundreds of Years Old.

Perhaps the most remarkable dinner on record was that given by an antiquary named Goebel, in the city of Brussels.

At the dinner were apples that ripened more than 1,800 years ago, bread made from wheat grown before the children of Israel passed through the Red Sea, and spread with butter that was made when Elizabeth was Queen of England. The repast was washed down with wine that was old when Columbus was playing with the boys of Genoa.

The apples were from an earthen jar taken from the ruins of Pompeii. The wheat was taken from a chamber in one of the pyramids, the butter from a stone shelf in an old well in Scotland, where for several centuries it had lain in an earthen crock in icy water, and the wine was recovered from an old vault in the city of Corinth.

There were six guests at the table, and each had a mouthful of the bread and a teaspoonful of the wine, but was permitted to help himself bountifully to the butter, there being several pounds of it. The apple-jar held about two-thirds of a gallon. The fruit was sweet, and as finely flavored as if it had been preserved but a few months.

It Meant Something.

"Now," said the fussy old gentleman putting one of the biggest berries in his mouth and picking up another, "what is the sense of having that sign read 'fresh strawberries for sale'? Don't you see that 'fresh strawberries' would be enough? Don't you suppose everybody knows they are for sale?"

"I dunno," answered the grocer; "some folks seem to think I'm givin' them away," and then the old gentleman put the berry back in the box—Indianapolis Journal.

SHARKS AND ROUSTABOUTS.

How They Feast on the Poor Negroes Who Happen to Fall Overboard.

"Talking about sharks," said a New Orleans man, "you don't know what sharks are until you go down to the mouth of the Rio Grande river. I have made the trip from New Orleans by steamer frequently, and I have never landed at Matamoras that I have not seen some poor negro roustabout fall a victim to the greedy sharks that are as thick in the gulf at that point as fleas in a barn in August. It is a curious and a cruel fact that a steamer seldom touches at Matamoras that one or more of the negro deckhands do not "fall" overboard, and that is the last seen of them. I rather suspect that this is the method resorted to by the captain of the boat to preserve discipline among the negroes. The crew sees to it that a refractory member "falls" overboard, and this has a salutary effect on the rest. So accustomed have the sharks in the waters of that vicinity become to their weekly feast of negro meat that they follow ingoing steamers for miles out from Matamoras. I have seen hundreds of them hanging on the flanks of steamers headed for the mouth of the Rio Grande, and they have followed us sometimes for fifty miles, apparently fully aware that they would get a good square meal as soon as we cast anchor. They cling close to the sides of the boat when a landing is made, and woe betide the unlucky sinner who falls overboard. All that is seen of him is a little red splotch on the water where he struck. The sharks lie on their backs awaiting their prey. You know that they must place themselve in this position before they can do damage to anything that comes their way. A shark in a natural position is as harmless a fish as swims the seas. But when he flops over on his back and comes at you there isn't one chance in a thousand to escape his sharp teeth and iron jaws."—St. Louis Republic.

ANOTHER LITTLE BOOM.

A SOUTH JERSEY CONGRESSMAN TROTTED OUT FOR GOVERNOR.

Gardner Strong in Many Points—If North Jersey Gets the Senatorship He May Loom up Big in the Canvass for Executive Chair.

"How would Congressman John J. Gardner do for Governor?" was a question put by a prominent Republican politician a day or two ago. "It is already conceded," added this leader, "that the United States Senatorship is to go to the upper end of the State, and that, in the event of Republican success, either John Kean or Governor Griggs will get the prize. It would be a stroke of good politics, then, to recognize the ever-faithful army of Republicans in South Jersey by allowing them to name the candidate for Governor. Should an agreement like that be reached, and it probably will, then the nomination of John J. Gardner would be the logical sequence." This is a South Jerseyman's opinion, and, of course, it is naturally very friendly to Mr. Gardner. Should the Congressman become a candidate there would be an interesting struggle between him and Comptrolier Hancock in the event of his friends pushing him for the nomination. Congressman Pitney might also conclude to become a factor in the contest.

Congressman Gardner is a Republican war-horse. Twenty-one years ago he became a State Senator, and he served as such for an unknown period of fifteen years. In 1892 he was elected to Congress, and is now serving his third term. He has been president of the Senate, and during his career as a law maker has always been prominent before the public. He is quite an orator and a debater, and as a Republican leader in his own peculiar way, he has helped his party to a large extent. Mr. Gardner is a close friend of General Sewell, and it is well known that he has always been a stout champion of railroad interests. It is this latter fact which might seriously militate against Mr. Gardner should he permit the use of his name in connection with the nomination.

If nominated for Governor he would make an act've campaign, as he is a power on the hustings. At the same time Comptroller Hancock and Congressman Pitney are just as popular as Mr. Gardner. In these men the Republican party has good material from which to select a Gubernatorial candidate.

Another name mentioned in connection with the office is that of Judge John Franklin Fort, of Newark. He is one of the best orators and ablest lawyers in the State, and should Essex county conclude to go into the contest the candidacy of Judge Fort would cause much enthusiasm. But it seems that the upper end of the of the State cannot have the two big offices. Either John Kean or Governor Griggs will succeed Senator Smith unless the Republican chickens are counted before they are hatched. Then South Jersey must get the Governor, and the present situation indicates that the Republican nominee will be either Comptroller Hancock or Congressman Gardner.

Should Mr. Hancock be chosen as the Bepublican standard bearer it is suggested that about the strongest man the Democrats could name against him would be General Donnelly.

MUD THROWERS.

Dirty Trick of a Lot of Boys at Emory dale Station.

Early in the evening a crowd of small boys from Dunellen and New Market assembled about the end of the trolley and tried to amuse themselves. Many had been over to New Market pond for a swim and they wanted something lively.

They began by firing mud at Em ory's place and at the men inside Mr. Emory chased them away several times and finally, the boys finding that even that grew monotonous, op ened fire on the passengers. There was a general scurrying and everybody ran for shelter. Very little of the mud struck those for whom it was intended but one young man received a handfull squarely in the face and one young girl had her white gown sadly soiled with the mud.

There seemed no way to stop it and the bombardment continued for a few minutes. The crowd of boys lingered around the end of the trolley most of the evening, gathering behind the shed and tossing over a quantity of mud at intervals to lend a little excitement to the scene. At last, they departed.

FILLED WITH REMORSE.

THE BOUND BROOK MURDERER IN POOR SPIRITS.

Spends Most of His Time in Prayer and Says He is Afraid of Ghosts—To be Tried Again in September.

Joseph Chaldea, the Italian who murdered his wife at Bound Brook last February and who is now confined in the Somerset county jail at Somerville awaiting a second trial, seems to be down-hearted and has lost a great deal of the nerve that carried him through his first trial. He has fallen away in flesh, cannot sleep nights and refuses to eat his meals part of the time.

He still claims that he did not kill his wife, but says that on the morning when he and his wife had the fight, he did not have the fatal knife that was the cause of her death in his hand until after it was all over, when he picked it up from the floor and threw it into the fireplace. During the fracas, he says, she cut him two or three times with the knife, changing it from one hand to the other when he tried to get it away from her, and that finally, when they were clinched in a close embrace, the knife being in her own hand, it was forced into her breast below the heart, and afterwards dropped out upon the floor while she was sitting on the bed, she exclaiming, "Oh! Joe, I am cut!"

Chaldea sleeps with two lights burning in his cell at night, being afraid to remain in the dark as, he says, he is haunted by the spirit of his wife who visits him nights, and he makes such a noise about ghosts at nights that the other prisoners in the jail can get no sleep.

Chaldea has a way of praying aloud three or four times a day and night. He has been known to pray for one hour and a-half at a time.

He says that his friends in Connecticut, where he used to work as a fireman for stationary engines, have subscribed $700 toward getting him extra counsel for his second trial in September next.

Chaldea occupies No. 1 cell on the lower tier on the west side of the jail, and faces the window in front of which the scaffold was erected on which Johnson and Clawson were hung last May. He threatens if found guilty to make away with himself, saying that rather than be hung or go to prison at Trenton he would find a way to kill himself.

UNION COUNTY VALUATIONS.

A Large Increase Over Last Year—Appropriations For Various Purposes.

Union County's Board of Assessment and Revision of Taxes met yesterday to settle upon the valuations of the various wards and townships in the county for 1897, and also to fix the yearly tax rate.

The valuations, as approved by the Board, were as follows: Elizabeth, $16,916,300; Plainfield, $7,697,000; Rahway, $3,021,500; Summit, $2,195,000; Union, $1,790,000; Westfield, $1,452,000; Cranford, $1,177,600; Roselle, $880,000; Linden, $850,400; Linden Borough, $221,500; Fanwood, $566,500; Fanwood Borough, $212,500; Springfield, $337,000; New Providence, $274,600; Clark, $246,400; Mountainside Borough, $136,400. Total valuation for the county, $37,975,600. This is a gain over last year of $1,203,500.

The Board had to raise $200,000 for county purposes this year, an increase of $10,000 over 1896, and for the support of the public schools, $101,593.92 had to be raised—an increase over last year of $1,472.73. This year $4,638.54 had to be raised for interest on county bonds—an increase of $1,000 over 1896.

The Board did not finish its laborers and an adjournment was taken until today, when the tax rate will be decided upon.

WATER COMPANY SALE.

South Plainfield Property Sold at Public Auction.

The effects of the Midland Water Company located at South Plainfield were sold yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock by the president, Frank Bergen, of Elizabeth. There was a good crowd present and the sale was a short one. The engine was sold to Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, for $110, and the pulleys and shafting was sold to Morgan C. Bird, of Plainfield, for $16. Mr. Kaufman, of Elizabeth, purchased the elevator for $9. The buildings were purchased by F. A. Pope and Amos Andrews, of this city. A portion of the buildings, 50 x 30, will be moved to an adjoining lot and two houses will be constructed of it. The rest of it will be torn down and sold in quantities to suit. In the latter there is a good lot of yellow pine. All of the goods disposed of will be moved in a day or two.

ASLEEP IN THE CHURCH.

AWOKE TO FIND HERSELF ON THE WAY TO THE ROOKERY.

Bridget McCloskey Drank Too Much and Wooed Morpheus Where Minerva is Soon to Preside—Now in the County Jail.

Bridget McCloskey drank too much yesterday afternoon, and in her befuddled state of mind she imagined it was Sunday and that she must go to church. Being in the vicinity of the old Seventh day Baptist church, corner of West Fifth street and Madison avenue, she walked into the building. The fact that a force of workmen was busy remodeling the interior did not trouble Bridget. She sat down in a pew, and was sound asleep when the workmen discovered her. Policeman McCue was called, and arrested the woman.

Judge DeMeza, in the city court this morning, questioned her sharply as to her previous record. It was learned that she had been arrested several times before on the same charge and the Judge sentenced her to pay a fine of $10 or spend thirty days in jail. Bridget went to jail. She is employed as a domestic by a family in Netherwood.

Louis Daufinan, a peddler from Newark, was also arraigned in the city court, charged with selling matches and fly-paper on West Front street withaut a license. Policeman McCue saw the peddler this morning and, after a warning, arrested him. His Honor imposed a fine of $1, and on failing to pay the prisoner was sent to jail for five days.

THOMAS MINFORD SURPRISED.

His Wife Arranged a Pleasant Affair in Honor of His Birthday.

Thomas Minford, of Watchung avenue, celebrated his fortieth birthday on Sunday, and last night his wife arranged a little social affair in honor of the event that was a pleasant surprise to Mr. Minford. Mr. Minford was not expecting to be honored, especially since his wife had already presented him with several gifts, but this only added to the surprise.

Mr. Minford returned from his duties in New York a little after 6 o'clock and went to his home intending to spend a quiet evening in the company of his family. Shortly afterwards he was confronted with a number of his neighbors who had come in one by one until Mr. Minford realized the moment of the occasion. He did the honors in a gracious manner.

Mrs. Minford had prepared a course dinner, after which sociability by the guests and musical numbers by Masters Lives and Dickey Minford, Miss Agnes Minford and Mrs. Baerd, as well as dancing, passed the evening away.

The guests who were present were: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dryden, Mr. and Mrs. William Wilcox, Colles T. Pond, Mrs. Baerd, Rev. and Mrs. E. M. Rodman and Miss May Rodman.

Mrs. Minford presented her husband with a handsome and costly hand-painted table.

BUSINESS WITH PLEASURE.

The Midmer Glee Club or rather a quartette composed of the members of the club will spend two weeks in Asbury Park this summer and combine business with pleasure. They will spend the first two weeks in August at the shore and have arranged dates for concerts at the leading hotels for the evenings. On Sunday, August 1st, they will make their first appearance in the Asbury Park Auditorium at morning and evening services. They are at the Coleman, the Plaza, and all the leading hotels. They will also give a concert in conjunction with Bartow's Beach band which plays at the Fifth avenue pavillion every day.

The quartette will be composed of Robert M. Clark, George Smith, William Holmes, and B. T. Barnes. William E. MacClymont will be the accompanist, and Fred Van Eps the banjoist. Edward O. Clark will act in the capacity of business manager.

The Methodists Excursion.

There was a good-sized crowd that went on the excursion today to Asbury Park under the auspices of the First M. E. and Dunellen M. E. churches. The train consisted of twelve cars and there were about 400 people on board. One woman and her two children failed to reach the train before it left the city and they were obliged to take the next train. There were no accidents at the start and everything points to an enjoyable day for the Methodists and their friends.

Harry McCormick, of the street railway, has returned from a short vacation and has resumed his position.

BIG ESTATE INVOLVED.

CATLIN HEIRS TO BE HEARD IN THE ORPHANS' COURT.

Non-resident Relatives of the Late Charles E. Catlin Trying to Prevent a Son Born After His Death from Being a Beneficiary.

The Catlin estate case, in which Reed & Coddington of this city are counsel, will come up in the Orphan's Court at Elizabeth tomorrow. The case involves several interesting complications which have drawn much attention to it. Charles E. Catlin died about a year ago intestate, and his widow was made administratrix of the estate which consisted mostly of personal property from his mother's estate in New York City. This estate was valued at $200,000, and there were six heirs, who are fighting against the claims of Reed & Coddingtons' clients here and endeavoring to get the share of the estate which the son of Charles E. Catlin is entitled to.

This son was born several months after the death of Charles E. Catlin, and after letters of administration had been taken out upon his estate.

The non-resident heirs in New York city are now contesting the right of the son in this city to receive any part of the distribution of the funds of the estate. Pennington & Beam, of Paterson, and Wells, Waldo & Snedicker, of New York, are counsel for the non-resident heirs, while Reed & Coddington, of this city, represent the administratrix and the son of Charles E. Catlin.

Judge Coddington will be present at the trial in Elizabeth tomorrow.

LESSON IN ROAD BUILDING.

New Brunswick Not Satisfied With the Experience of Government Experts.

Residents of College avenue, New Brunswick, have reluctantly reached the conclusion that road building under government supervision is a failure. That they have formed this opinion is probably due to the fact that both experts and improved road machinery sent to Brunswick have been taken away when the pavement which was begun several weeks ago, on College avenue, is only half done.

In addition to these facts, Asher Atkinson, the city engineer, has made a report on the work, and, according to what he has learned, the road will cost the property owners much more than if it had been built in the usual way by contract, and it is not constructed as well as some of the roads which have been built in this manner. Some recently invented road machinery was given a practical test for the first time.

Aside from this, the road will cost the taxpayers more than under the usual method of giving it out to the lowest bidder. Had the government experts remained and finished the road, as it was expected they would do when they were sent to New Brunswick, there would have been no dissatisfaction. Just what practical value has resulted from the building of the rode in this manner the property owners are unable to determine.

FUNERAL OF MOSES CARNEY.

The funeral services over the remains of the late Moses Carney, who died on Sunday morning, were held today at 9:30 a. m. in St. Mary's church, and the procession of carriages was one of the largest ever seen in this city. At the church the requiem high mass for the dead was celebrated by Rev. P. E. Smyth, the pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. Father Murphy, assistant pastor, and Rev. Father Smith, of Cranford.

The musical part of the service was given by the regular church choir. The hymn "Jesu Me" was beautifully rendered by a trio, M. J. Cashin, Miss May Flanagan and Miss Tessie Keely. Miss Keely also sang a solo at the conclusion of the services in the church.

The floral offerings were handsome, one particularly, a pillow, given by the children of the decedent, with the words inscribed "Dear Papa."

The pallbearers were five nephews of decedent, and John Connolly, of Meriden, Conn.

The interment was in St. Mary's cemetery, this city, and the large number of people, by their presence, showed their last mark of respect at the loss of a man respected by all.

Fell From a Car.

Constable George Rockafellow was running to catch a car on Putnam avenue, last night, when he fell, receiving an injury to the right knee which prevents him from walking. The injury is to the knee cap, and is either a bad sprain or a fracture. Friends assisted the injured man to a trolley car after his injury, and he rode to his home in this city.

A FEATHERED DUELLIST

SCOTCH PLAINS WOMAN TRIFLED WITH A SETTING HEN.

A Game Fowl Resented Being Disturbed and Attacked Mrs. Benjamin Elliott in a Ferocious Manner With Beak and Claws.

A novel duel between a woman and a setting hen in which the fowl came off an easy victor, occurred in Scotch Plains, last Saturday. Benjamin Elliott, of Park avenue, is interested in the raising of game chickens, and has a number of them in his yards. On Saturday morning Mrs. Elliott was in need of some eggs for her cooking, and went to the nests to search for them.

Finding one of the game hens on a nest wishing to set she threw it off and removed the eggs. No sooner had she secured the eggs and turned to leave the chicken house than the enraged hen flew at her, striking its long spurs into each side of Mrs. Elliott's head. Blinded and dazed with pain, she staggered toward the house, while the enraged hen flew after her and fought fiercely with beak and spurs.

The wounds in Mrs. Elliott's head bled profusely and the nervous shock was also great. She is now able to be about the house again, but wears a bandage about her head.

The next time she meets a game hen with setting proclivities, Mrs. Elliot will think twice before ruffling its feathers.

THE ACTORS ARE HERE.

Kennedy Players Rehearsing for Two Weeks in Music Hall.

Once more people are reminded that the theatrical season is here in the thespians that are seen strolling along the Rialto of Plainfield. The Kennedy Players, to whom there is local interest attached on account of the Vail Brothers having made their debut with them last season, are rehearsing their reportoire in Music Hall for two weeks, and will open the season at that theatre on August 2d. The Kennedy Players, headed by the versatile and funny comedian, John Kennedy, played an engagement at Music Hall last season and proved to be one of the best reportoire companies that ever appeared in Plainfield. The Kennedy family is prolific with actors, but John is by far the best actor among them. E. P. Sullivan, who has been in reportoire for a number of years, and has played more roles than he can call to mind offhand, is a member of the company. Mr. Sullivan is well known in this city. Frank Vail will be a member of the company this year.

ASKED FOR WATER, TOOK A WHEEL.

Then the Beggar Accepted His Opportunity to Steal a Bike.

John Mundy, who lives in Piscataway township, had a bicycle stolen from his residence on Sunday noon. He, with other members of his family, were enjoying dinner, when a stranger approached the house and asked for a drink of water. The bicycle stood beside the porch and out of view of those at the table. The stranger was told that there was a cup at the well and that he might help himself to the water.

He seemed to follow directions without further questioning and the family supposed he got the water and nothing else. When Mr. Mundy arose from the table and looked for his bicycle he found that it had disappeared and that the man who had asked for water had rode away with it. The wheel had new tires and was in first-class condition in every way. Search was made for the thief, but he was not discovered anywhere.

TRAMPS ROB A CRIPPLE.

A New Brunswickian Fell in With Thieves Returning From Plainfield.

Charles Shepard, of 88 Railroad avenue, New Brunswick, is a cripple. His arms are strong and he wheels himself all around in a tricycle. Saturday night, while returning from Plainfield, and within three miles of home, he was held up in a lonely patch of woods by three tramps, who stole some small change. They overlooked $50 which he had come to Plainfield to collect and which was in his inside pocket.

Meeting for Labor Men.

A meeting will be held in Red Men's Hall this evening under the auspices of the International Order of Machinists, and Grand Master Machinist James O. Connell, of Chicago, will be present and address those present on the topics of the day. All machinists in this vicinity are invited to attend.

New Ferry is Popular.

TRAMPS TAKE A BATH.

A GENERALLY ACCEPTED THEORR DISPOSED OF IN A NOVEL WAY.

Bath Room in an Empty House in Roselle Used by Hoboes to Such an Extent That Water Connections Have to Be Cut Off.

Thomas Doud, a representative of the Plainfield Water Supply Company, was called to Roselle on a peculiar mission this morning that disposes of the generally accepted theory that tramps are as reluctant to come in contact with water for cleansing purposes as they are to come face to face with work.

For several weeks the residents of the pretty suburban town of Roselle have been wondering why it was that so many tramps invaded their precincts. Roselleites were not so hospitable and gracious to the fraternity that they would come under the professional designation of a "graft," in fact since the inflow of the "coal train commuters" on the line of the Central Railroad of New Jersey became so great its people have refused rather than appeased with a few cold morsels the appetite of the shiftless wanderers. But the "cold hand" and "marble heart" did not stem the tide of the Weary Willies. On the contrary, they seemed to be coming in greater numbers with each succeeding day. Just why Roselle should become the Mecca, or at least the stopping off place, of this floating population peculiar to the American soil was an enigma that no Roselleite could offer a solution for.

One thing was noticeable, however, about the tramps, and that was the rather startling and unusual fact that they were clean. According to tradition, the tramp must have the dirt accumulated in his wanderings imbedded so deep in his flesh that its extermination could only be accomplished by a Turkish bath or some other process equally as far away from the pecuniary possibilities of the hobo.

Even in trampdom there are reasons for all things, and the cause of the presence of members of the fraternity was produced yesterday when the officials of the water company found that, though a house had been vacant since last spring, a large quantity of water was being diverted to its interior. An inspector made an investigation and what was his surprise to find a tramp leisurely bathing in the bathroom of the house. He vouched the information that the "profession" had been tipped off all through this section of the country concerning the admirable facilities for taking a bath, and that a great many had wended their way to Roselle and indulged in a wash.

Inspector Doud cut off the water connections to day, and Roselle will once more become the peaceful borough that its denizens hope and long for.

WONT TAKE TO THE WOODS.

Instead of a Clambake, Union County Republicans Will Have an Excursion.

The Union County Republicans are going to have a harmony excursion, so as to be up to date with the Democrats, who will have an outing to Whitestone, L. I., on August 25th or 26th.

The Republican leaders intended at first to have a clambake in the woods, but County Chairman Charles N. Codding put his foot down on this arrangement. He emphatically declared this was no year for Repulicans to be taking to the woods, but they should come right out in the open like their opponents. His advice prevailed and he has been in Elizabeth making the preliminary arrangements.

The steamer Isabel has been engaged for the outing, and it is the intention to limit the tickets to about 400. Only the active workers in the party will receive invitations, as it is the programme to get together and fully discuss on the trip the prospects for the fall campaign and what steps should be taken to hold Union county firmly in the Republican camp. If it is possible, the excursion will be held on Labor Day. The destination of the harmonizers has not yet been settled upon.

CHASED WITH A KNIFE.

A Fight That Came Near Ending Fatally in Westfield.

A fight which came near ending fatally occurred in Burtis' Hotel, corner of Elm street and North avenue, Westfield, on Sunday morning. Robert Moore, Jr., went into the hotel and quarreled with Louis Johnston, a colored waiter. Moore is an expert pugilist, and started to punish Johnston with his fists, when the latter ran into the kitchen and returned with a large carving knife. The negro had Moore cornered and would have injured him badly but for the interference of several men about the place. No arrests were made, and an attempt was made to hush the matter up.

PASSED BY THE HOUSE

The Conference Report on the Tariff Bill Adopted.

VOTE STOOD: YEAS, 185; NAYS, 118.

Democrats Strongly Denounce the Sugar Schedule, Which Is the Principal Point of Attack In the Measure. Bailey's Closing Speech.

Washington, July 20.—The tariff bill as agreed upon by the conferees of the senate and house has been presented in the house and was the subject of one of the most spirited debates that has yet occurred on the measure in the lower branch of congress.

The schedule which has excited the greatest interest and over which there has been the most acrimonious discussion is that relating to sugar.

The sugar schedule agreed upon is neither the house schedule nor the senate schedule, but an entirely new one. It will provide more revenue by from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 than the schedule originally presented to the conference. It reads as follows:

"Sugars not above No. 16 Dutch standard in color, tank bottoms, sirups of cane juice, melada, concentrated melada, concrete and concentrated molasses, testing by the polariscope not above 75 degrees, 95-1,000 of 1 cent per pound, and for every additional degree shown by the polariscopic test 35-1,000 of 1 cent per pound additional, and fractions of a degree in proportion, and and on sugar above No. 16 Dutch standard in color and on all sugar which has gone through a process of refining 1 cent and 95-100 of 1 cent per pound; molasses testing above 40 degrees and not above 56 degrees, 3 cents per gallon; testing 56 degrees and above, 6 cents per gallon. Sugar drawings and sugar sweepings shall be subject to duty as molasses or sugar, as the case may be, according to polariscopic test."

In presenting the report of the conferees Chairman Dingley read a statement embodying the more important point in the conference agreement.

Mr. Dingley's report having been read Mr. Dingley said it was desirable if possible that some arrangement should be made for terminating the debate and asked for instructions in that regard from the minority.

Wanted Three Days For Debate.

Mr. Bailey responded that the Democrats had believed that three days was not more than a reasonable time in which to discuss the report, but consultations with the Republicans had satisfied them that they would not secure that period, and therefore he suggested that the vote be taken at the conclusion of Tuesday's session, giving two days for consideration of the report.

Mr. Dingley said that talk at this period was rather expensive, costing the government not less than $100,000 a day.

Mr. Bailey answered hotly: "Not so expensive, let me say to my friend from Maine, as it was during the ten days in which the conferees were trying to satisfy the greed of the Sugar trust."

Mr. Dingley retorted that never before in the history of the tariff legislation had the conferees been able to come to a conclusion in so brief a period of time as at the present instance.

After some further sparring as to the time of taking the final vote the formal debate of the measure was opened by Mr. Wheeler (Dem.) of Alabama, who criticised the bill as the most vicious and burdensome ever imposed on the American people. In particular he discussed the serious effect of the measure on the laboring and agricultural classes. Mr. Wheeler referred to the advance on sugar stock in the New York market and said this was the clearest evidence of the benefits conferred on the Sugar trust.

Mr. Swanson (Dem.) of Virginia spoke at length in opposition to the measure.

One of the greatest demonstrations of the debate occurred when Mr. Lanham (Dem.) of Texas paid a tribute to William J. Bryan. The Democrats cheered for several minutes, and many of the spectators joined in the demonstration.

Mr. Fleming (Dem.) of Georgia severely criticised the Democrats who had voted for duties on cotton and white pine.

Mr. Handy (Dem.) of Delaware said that the passage of the pending bill by the Republican party constituted a political betrayal of the sound money Democrats who had been the Republican allies in the last campaign.

A Populist Opinion.

Mr. Kelly (Pop.) of North Dakota thought that if an antitrust amendment had been placed in the bill its most dangerous fangs would have been drawn. He was proud of having supported a man last fall who was not indebted to any trust or combine, and if he was nominated in 1900 he would again support him.

Mr. Grosvenor (Rep.) of Ohio interrupted Mr. Kelly to say that the increase of the duty on lead ore was placed in the senate bill by Populist senators and held in the bill by the Populists on the conference committee.

The Republicans made no formal set speeches on the measure, and the minority put forward their speakers, who continued their assaults on the Republican breastworks, but not a shot was fired in return. Therefore, after Mr. McDowell of Ohio and Mr. Berry of Kentucky, both Democrats, had made brief speeches, Mr. Bailey, the Democratic leader, who had been reserving his speech for the close, took the floor. He made a carefully prepared argument, dealing more with the general principles involved than with details. Time and again during the progress of his remarks the Democrats were aroused by his eloquence to a high pitch of enthusiasm.

Mr. Bailey said in part:

"I am one of those who think that while the tariff is second in importance to another great question, it is nevertheless a question of vast importance to the people of this country. My judgment is that the questions of finance and taxation are our greatest economic questions, and though it may be proper to settle them one at a time, both must be settled wisely before this country can attain its highest prosperity. No tariff legislation can make this country prosperous under its present financial system, and no financial system could make the agricultural sections of this country prosperous under a tariff law which compels the farmers to pay exorbitant prices for their manufactured goods.

"I have never been an enthusiastic supporter of the present law, because I cannot subscribe to the theory of free raw materials, which is one of its marked characteristics, but with that exception it is very much better than it has ever been credited with being.

"While there is no reasonable doubt as to what the Republican leaders of the house expected and intended to do, their purpose has been, at least, partially, defeated by the amendments of the senate."

Bailey on Trusts.

Alluding to trusts, Mr. Bailey said:

"Another more practical but less potent reason why the Republican party cannot undertake in earnest to suppress these hurtful combinations of capital is that its vast and complicated scheme of taxation for private purposes is maintained by the active and financial support of those who have personal and business connections with these trusts, and as you rely upon the votes, the influence and the campaign subscriptions of trusts it is unreasonable to suppose that you will deny them a participation in the profits of a system which they have helped to fasten upon the country. We have sufficient and abundant proof of this fact in the pending bill, which gives to the Sugar trust a pure gratuity which experts estimate at not less than $4,000,000 annually. You have made some attempt to excuse the sugar schedule upon the ground that you are seeking to stimulate the production of sugar in this country, but if we admit that your duty on raw sugar is necessary to develop the sugar industry of the United States, it does not follow that the differential duty on refined sugar would be defensible. It is hardly pretended by the advocates of this bill that the sugar refiners of this country need this differential duty in order to continue their business.

"I am not willing to charge in this high place that the Republican party has sold its intellect and conscience to the Sugar trust, and I prefer to believe that it has been driven by the logic of its position to the assistance of a monopoly which has grown so bold under its special privileges that it scandalizes congress and defies the power of the courts. But, sir, the Republican party must confess that it has sold itself to the Sugar trust, or it must admit that protection cannot deny its benefits to monopoly."

Mr. Payne of New York and Chairman Dingley closed the argument for the Republicans, but neither of them made extended addresses. The former devoted his time to a defense of the sugar schdule. He figured out a differential in favor of the refiner in the present law at the prices prevailing in 1894 of 52½ cents per 100 pounds.

Mr. Dingley openly avowed that the schedule gave a slight additional protection to refined sugar, but at the same time it raised raw all along the line. Trusts, he said, could not be eradicated by epithets. "The way to break down the trusts," he cried, "is to establish a beet sugar factory in every congressional district in the country and make competition! That is the way to clip the wings of the trust!"

At the conclusion of Mr. Dingley's remarks a viva voce vote was taken, which resulted in the adoption of the conference report on the bill by a vote of 185 to 118.

New Postmasters.

Washington, July 20.—The following fourth class postmasters have been appointed:

Pennsylvania—Adamsville, A. B. Bollman; Austinburg, N. B. Schoonover; Bareville, Jeremiah Stump; Camden, J. H. Cothery; Chandlers Valley, P. L. Brooks; Ellisburg, M. T. Webster; Larabee, Z. H. Carpenter; Linesville, W. E. Brown; Noblestown, S. B. Craig.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES

Miss Jean Ingelow, the distinguished poet and novelist, now in her seventy-seventh year, is seriously ill in London.

The famous Broadmoor casino, the $100,000 pleasure resort of Colorado Springs, has been burned to the ground. Loss, $110,000.

The official papers at Yokohama say that Japan will probably agree to the Hawaiian proposal to submit the immigration dispute to arbitration.

Sir Edmond Monson, the British embassador at Paris, Lady Monson and their whole household were seriously poisoned by a dish of shell fish served for dinner. All will recover.

Of Local Interest.

When the striped pole or sign which now indicates a barber shop, was employed to let the public know where cupping or blood letting was professionally performed, close shaves were a daily occurrence, not the easy removal of the hirsute or hairy adornment of the head and face, but close shaves from entering eternity. More than one unfortunate entered the barber-surgeons doorway to leave it a corpse or so weak that it required weeks to get the victim of malpractice on his feet, blood-letting was used for everything from a heartache to a corn, and a pain in the loins was invariably treated with two incisions, one on each side of the spine. Like plasters and linements, these helped from the counter-irritation they created, and we may presume that had Mr. Silzer, barber, of 22 Hiram street, New Brunswick, N. J., lived in the time of George III of England, in place of taking the course he did a short time ago with his back, blood-letting would have been resorted to. Read how he treated his trouble. Silzer says: "I had no doubt but that my trouble arose from my kidneys, for the pain centered in the small of my back. It was very sore in that locality. It hurt me to stand on my feet, especially so on Saturdays, my busy day. An occasional griping pain passed through the abdomen to the groin. I went for a box of Doane's Kidney Pills and procured them from a drug store to see if they would relieve me from the pain. Well that is just what they did and they did it in short order. I cannot help but recommend Doane's Kidney Pills. They did all that I could expect and all that is claimed for them."

Stands at the Head.

Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I cannot say enough for its merits.' Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and to-day stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

Electric Bitters

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Mildred Ulrich, of East Fifth street, has gone to New York to spend two weeks with relatives in that city.

Miss Margaret Daly, of Manning avenue, has accompanied her sister-in-law to the home of the latter in California.

Reasons Why Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is the Best.

1. Because it affords almost instant relief in case of pain in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus.
2. Because it is the only remedy that never fails in the most severe cases of dysentery and diarrhoea.
3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhoea.
4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent bilious colic.
5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemical dysentery.
6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
8. Because it produces no bad results.
9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.
10. Because it has saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world.

The 25 and 50c sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park & North Aves.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ulrich, of East Fifth street, is recovering from the effects of a fall she had last week. She was descending a flight of stairs and was within two steps of the bottom when she slipped and fell, spraining her ankle.

"Last summer one of our grandchildren was sick with a severe bowel trouble," says Mrs. E. G. Gregory, of Frederickstown, Mo. "Our doctor's remedy had failed, then we tried Chamberlains Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which gave very speedy relief." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park & North Aves.

William F. Arnold, cashier of the City National Bank, has returned from Asbury Park where he spent Sunday with his family who are stopping at the above place for the summer.

Mr. C. L. Hasbrouck, a druggist at Mendon, Mich., says all of the good testimonials that have been published by the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy could be duplicated in that town. For sale By T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park and North Aves.

You may hunt the world over and you will not find another medicine equal to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. It is pleasant, safe and reliable. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park & North Aves.

A MYSTERIOUS CASE.

MADE NO STATEMENT BEFORE DEATH

No Reason to Suspect Suicide, as She Was In Good Health and Intended to Attend a Reception at Her Sister's Home.

Newburg, N. Y., July 20.—Was Miss Salona Lawson, who was taken ill on the train coming from Poughkeepsie and who died in the General hospital at Fishkill, a suicide, or was she murdered?

This is the question that is puzzling the authorities of Fishkill and Poughkeepsie. There is a great mystery in this case.

Coroner Bevier, when seen at Fishkill, declared it was one of the most peculiar cases he had ever been called upon to investigate. He would not go into details.

Coroner Bevier merely stated it was a case of poisoning. Whether death was the result of suicidal intent, was due to murderous design or to accident, Coroner Bevier would not say. "Wait until after the inquest," was his reply to all questions on these points.

He has had an autopsy performed.

Examination showed that the young woman had died from the effects of poison.

Even when she knew she was going to die Miss Lawson made no statement that would throw any light on the case. At the hospital the physicians say she was conscious from the time she arrived until she died.

She thought once that she was going to recover. She asked the doctors once or twice if they knew what was the matter with her. They told her they thought she had been poisoned. She could not be prevailed upon to tell whether she knew their suspicions were correct.

The stomach has been sent to Dr. Wand at Poughkeepsie for analysis. Coroner Bevier says that he does not yet know what the poison was.

Thinks It Was Not Suicide.

From what he says, however, it is evident Coroner Bevier does not think the young woman took the poison with the intention of killing herself. He evidently thinks it was administered by some one else, whether or not with her knowledge, it is impossible to determine.

The poison when once it began to show its effects worked rapidly. It is but 20 minutes' ride from Poughkeepsie, and when Miss Lawson's companion, who was with her at Poughkeepsie, left her and she continued on toward New York she seemed in perfect health and had not complained.

Dr. Barnes, the family physician of the Densmores, called on Coroner Bevier and said he would insist on an autopsy and inquest. He said the circumstances surrounding the young woman's death demanded a careful investigation.

Coroner Bevier says that Miss Lawson's companion of Saturday was anxious for an examination. The inquest will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The friends of Salona Lawson were making merry at the prospect of her return to New York on Saturday night. While she was in the thoughts of every member of the company that had assembled at the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles Wickstrom, 164 East Ninety-second street, and they were wondering why she did not appear, she was writhing on a cot in the General hospital at Fishkill.

Her mind was wandering, and she was calling for some one. Nothing did her friends know of the true cause of the delay until a messenger brought them a telegram about midnight.

Was a Great Favorite.

She was a beautiful woman, 20 years old. She was a favorite everywhere she went. She had lived during the winter with her sister, Mrs. Wiskstrom, in East Ninety-second street.

She was a young woman of remarkable accomplishments, considering that she was not wealthy. So it was not strange that Mrs. Densmore, a wealthy woman, heard of her and engaged her as a governess to spend the summer at the Densmore country home at Staatsburg.

Miss Lawson was greatly missed when she left New York. She had made friends by the score. She had many admirers, but her sister declares that she had no love affair.

Miss Lawson had started for New York on Saturday afternoon. The visit had been planned long before, and the little reception had been set for Saturday evening, so that her friends could have the earliest possible opportunity to welcome her back.

She was expected to go to her sister's house immediately on her arrival in the city.

When she started from Staatsburg on Saturday afternoon, she seemed in the best of health and spirits. Another young woman, employed in the Densmore house, went to the train with her.

The conductor was passing through the train after leaving Poughkeepsie when he noticed that the woman whom he had remarked as the prettiest passenger on his train was acting strangely. Miss Lawson began to rave. She was evidently insane. She was taken off the train at Fishkill suffering terribly. She was taken to the General hospital at once.

A Break In the Erie Canal.

Utica, N. Y., July 20.—There is a break in the Erie canal in this city that will close navigation on this level at least three or four days. The water has found a way through the bottom of the canal into a large trunk sewer, and a great stream went pouring into the river. Bags of sand, hay and other materials were used, but the break could not be stopped, and it was necessary to draw the water from the nine mile level. Work will be prosecuted night and day until the break is repaired.

His Injuries Not Fatal.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., July 20.—Morris C. Griffin, who fell a distance of 250 feet at Redwood on Saturday by the imperfect working of his parachute, has been brought to the hospital in this city, and examination shows both ankles fractured, but otherwise no injuries. He landed on his feet. The young man has been traveling about the country making ascensions with a circus company.

MINERS WERE ARMED

One Thousand of Them Met by Determined Deputies.

OPERATIONS HAVE BEEN SUSPENDED.

The Employers Ordered Work Stopped In Order to Avoid Bloodshed—Guards Are Being Re-enforced—The Situation at Pittsburg.

Canonsburg, Pa., July 20.—More than 1,000 miners from the Miller and Thomas run districts marched on the Boon and Alliance mines here. The miners came across the country with a brass band and drum corps.

The men were met at the entrance to the Boon mine by a force of deputies, who handled their winchesters, and the miners retreated. A council of war was held, and Superintendent E. T. Hitchman notified his men in the mine to stop work, and the mine is idle. A detail of strikers was left at the mine, and the procession made its way to the Allison mine, two miles farther up the railroad. The mine was shut down before the men arrived.

The managers of the mines say they will keep their plants closed for a day or two until the excitement subsides. The strikers are encamped near both mines. No trouble is feared as long as the mines are kept idle.

The suspension in the Panhandle coal district is absolute. The strikers are much elated and feel that they have scored a big victory. Should an attempt be made to operate the mine bloodshed will result. The force of deputies was increased at both mines. An additional posse is on its way here from Washington, the county seat.

The Situation Growing Interesting.

Pittsburg, July 20.—Unless the miners' leaders are able to get the West Virginia diggers out early this week the local strike situation promises to grow very interesting and to come to a crisis next Monday morning.

Several of the local operators have announced that they are tired seeing their contracts get away from them and that the mines now supplying their trade must be stopped or their own mines will be put into operation.

The district executive board of the miners' organization has been notified as above by a corps of the more important operators. As was said early in the strike, all depends upon Pittsburg, and unless Pittsburg is able to shut down the West Virginia mines it is probable that the strike will be broken before there is a chance to complete the arbitration uniformity arrangement.

The miners' officials admit that should any of the big mines of the district now idle be put in operation a majority of the other diggers of the district would return to work at once. It is said that should the Boreland, any of the Robbins or any of the Wheeling division mines be started up, the rest would soon fall into line. This admission was made by a member of the local executive board.

The Pittsburg operators have lost thousands of dollars since the trouble began. They have lost part of their best shipping season, and it has been necessary to turn their contracts over to operators in West Virginia and in the central Pennsylvania fields, to be worked until the strike is over. The prospects of a long strike and the possibility of it lasting until their contracts have all been filled is what has stirred the operators to action. They propose to get together and start one or two of the important mines in case the West Virginia expedition of the leaders and agitators is unsuccessful. They are to unite in an effort to get sufficient men to fully man one or more of the big mines, get a large force of deputy sheriffs and begin turning out coal for the lakes.

Part of the plan is to pay the miners 70 or even 75 cents if it be necessary to get them to work. It is not thought there will be much difficulty in getting men at that price and that after one or two mines have been gotten under way there will be no trouble in other mine operators getting started at that figure.

Refuse to Work at Fairmont.

Fairmont, W. Va., July 20.—As a result of the meeting at Willow Tree Grove, near Monongah, 225 miners have refused to go to work. The drivers, being in sympathy with the miners, refused to haul, and consequently the rest of the miners who had gone to work were compelled to come out.

The miners at Pritchard, about 60 in number, after hearing the news from Monongah, came out immediately, in accordance with a report that if Monongah came out the rest would follow.

Hutchinson, Luther & Palatine were the next to come, and all the men, with the exception of those at Hite and the shaft mine, will soon be out.

Released and Rearrested.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 20.—William E. Sidney, who has been in the Bridgeport jail for some weeks awaiting trial on a charge of manslaughter, alleged to have killed Edward Long in Greenwich, has been released by Judge Wheeler of the superior court on a writ of habeas corpus. Five minutes later he was rearrested on the same charge and was taken to Greenwich for a hearing.

Carpet Company to Resume.

Clinton, Mass., July 20.—C. B. Bigelow of the Bigelow Carpet company has announced that the card and combing departments of the plant will resume work next Monday and that probably the entire plant will be started up the following week. Mr. Bigelow says that the outlook at present is very good. Nine hundred hands are employed when the plant is in full operation.

Drowned While Fording a River.

Pittsburg, July 20.—While fording Licks run, near Snowden, Pa., a wagon, in which were six occupants, was swept away by the current. Four of the occupants succeeded in reaching the shore in safety, but James Boyd and wife of Elizabeth, Pa., were drowned. Their bodies were recovered.

Tin Plate Wages Advanced.

Joliet, Ills., July 20.—The Great Western Tin Plate company's plant, employing 200 men, has resumed work after an idleness of more than a month. The men get an advance of 8½ per cent over that of the previous six months.

SABBATH AND THE WHEEL.

More and more is the bicycle coming into use on Sunday and in many places ministers of the gospel are endeavoring to stay the inroads on church attendance by urging those who are enthusiastically inclined towards riding to bring their wheels to church. It is interesting, then, to read the following opinion of a Seventh-Day Baptist correspondent in the Sabbath Recorder of this week as to the practice of members of that denomination riding a bicycle on their Sabbath:

The subject of wheel riding on Sabbath-day is one that calls for immediate consideration by Seventh-Day Baptists. It does this for two main reasons. First, because this is against the Scriptures, and when we compromise ourselves and our actions with the busy world around us, we are losing sight of a principle based entirely on the Bible, for which we ought to firmly stand. Secondly, from a position as men in general see us, there is much need of great care on our part, for we are representatives of this creed; so the world will judge our earnestness, not by what we say, but by what we do. So before we ride our wheels again on Sabbath-day, let us ask ourselves whether or not we could ask Christ to go with us on that ride. R. T.

GOVERNMENT EXPERIMENTS.

Where experiments are made in municipal governments on a half-way theoretical and practical plan success is seldom attained, and the result of the government road building in New Brunswick, from which the town expected to reap great benefits at small expenditure, is but a verification of this fact. The only satisfactory and economial way for a city to be conducted is to have its affairs in every detail supervised by those whose interests are centered there. Uncle Sam has too many things to look after to expect that he is going to give something very valuable for nothing, even if it is known under the high sounding name of "government experiment."

POOR KIND OF A JOKE.

It may have been all a joke, but it is not the kind of a jest that Councilman Westphal enjoys—that report about his being responsible for Rule 9 of the Industrial Home regulations, which is not such a bad rule after all, it seems. The letter of the Fourth ward solon printed in The Press yesterday, in which Councilman Barrows is held up to severe criticism, is not conducive to Republican harmony.

TROLLEY REGRET.

Of course, we can get along without the trolley up the rugged side of Mount Watchung, but still it would be a very nice thing to ride up there in an open car once in a while for the breeze that blows in a cooling sweep. It is a matter, seriously, for deep regret that the projectors of the road have been effectively stalled in their efforts to build the road on account of the objection of two persons.

GOT SHOT INSTEAD OF CHICKEN.

Farmer Martine Retaliates on a Dog of Murderous Intent.

"Farmer Orator" James E. Martine has not had good luck with chickens this year. There have been dogs that visited his poultry yard and chewed up chickens, old and young. Mr. Martine has chased these canines and so has his hired man, until now the mere sight of a dog recalls to both the slaughter of the innocents that has been going on for the last six months.

George Coes, of Third place, has a favorite dog by the name of "Barty." "Barty" is a nice dog and everybody likes him, except chickens. "Barty" likes chickens, which accounts for the fact that he is now under the treatment of Dr. Pocock.

Yesterday morning "Barty" wandered over to Mr. Martine's and was having lots of fun with the chickens. The hired man appeared. He had something with him. It was a shotgun, loaded with bird shot. The load struck the dog in the side and badly tore the flesh. The dog ran home and Dr. Pocock was called to attend to the animal's wounds.

A GLASS-BOTTOMED BOAT

Among the ingenious contrivances for aiding biological study and for the general entertainment of the layman, the glass-bottomed boat of the Pacific is unique. Such a means of observation is possible only in smooth water, and the Island of Santa Catalina, which abounds in quiet bays, smooth nooks and corners and semi-tropic conditions, is the only place in Southern California where such a craft is found. At Avalon, the picturesque little watering place of the island, there are two rival glass-bottomed boats. The one I went in had a window of heavy plate glass, about twelve feet in length, over a well rising in the center just above the bottom, so that the boat can run in upon the beach without injuring it. The observers sit on both sides of the well, through which they look down upon the bottom, where in water not over thirty or forty feet deep the various objects are to be seen with startling distinctness.

One of the most beautiful objects seen through the window is known as physophora hydrostatica, a high form of jellyfish. As it poises in the water, slowly rising beneath the window, it resembles an inverted thermometer, the bulb filled with mercury forming the float. The bulb is an air or gas buoy, and its resemblance to quicksilver is perfect. This buoy raises or lowers the animal at will, and its normal position is at the surface. Three inches below the bulb are attached a series of delicate glasslike organs which resemble semi-circular pumps, called chalices. They are hollow, and a little piston drives the water out of them with great force, these being the locomotor organs of the animal. They are colored a delicate iridescent hue, while below are tentacles exactly like those of a sea anemone, of violet and green, which wave in every direction; below this, again, streams a veil formed of delicate pink tentacles. A more wonderful and attractive creature could not be imagined.—Philadelphia Times.

"Have you 'Bunyan's Progress?'" asked the young lady who believes in brevity.

"I uster have, Miss," replied the blushing book clerk, "but I stopped 'em with Dr. Cornfield's distilled extract of rutabaga."—Omaha World-Herald.

Imitation Pianos

are sold every day to unwary purchasers, who buy them because they look well and don't cost much. A man who buys a piano of this kind is simply throwing money away, just as much as if he had bought a garment from a tailor "at a low price" and found, after the first rainstorm, that he couldn't get it on his back. Good Pianos can be produced for so much and no less. A new Piano that is "Cheap" is not a Piano at all—only an imitation.

We don't sell imitation Pianos, but we sell more genuine Pianos at lower prices than anybody else hereabouts.

Two girls from this city went on the excursion to Asbury Park last Thursday. Neither returned. One had the consent of her parents to try and secure a position there. The other did not. Before they started, the latter fully equipped herself and friend at her father's expense, charging everything to his account. They went to the Park and did not return. The parents of the one girl became greatly worried about her, but they finally learned that she had declared her determination to run away. One of the girls returned after several days, but the runaway did not. She came later, however, and all was smoothed over between the anxious parents and the wayward daughter.

The up-to-date American boy sometimes does not know it all, as was shown recently when one was sent by his employer, a local business merchant, to a certain Plainfield home to get some tools that belonged to him. The employer told his boy that he would find the tools upstairs in the bathtub. The boy followed instructions, and when he came back to the store he told his boss that they had a funny-looking bathtub at that house, and when asked where he found the tools the boy said that he had to go to the garret where he found the bathtub, but the tools were not there. It happened that the boy had found a tank in the garret which was used for holding water and he took it for a bathtub. He found the tools on one of the lower floors.

Laying at the top of the foundry pond at High Bridge, Hunterdon county, are a number of reminders of the Rebellion. These silent sentinels are nine-inch Parrot guns which were made for the United States Government during the year 1864, but were never put into service, as the war closed before they were ready for use. These guns weigh nearly five tons each, and were taken to High Bridge from the United States Navy Yard at Brooklyn. They were purchased by the Taylor Iron and Steel Company for the excellent iron of which they are made. There are sixty-three of them in all. The cannon will be stood on end and burst with a charge of dynamite, which will be put in the bottom, while the cannon will be filled with water.

Yesterday afternoon, the pedestrians on Park avenue were rather surprised to see two young men, each leading a wheel, chasing each other about the street and sidewalk. At least one seemed in pursuit of the other. The pursued one finally escaped and mounting his wheel he hurried away while the other laughed loud and long at the result of his little joke. One of the young men was on his way to call on a young lady when he met the other. Now it happens that the one that was about to call cannot tie a necktie to save his life and the other knew it. So he announced that he was going to untie his friend's necktie as a joke. The friend objected to such a joke for the thought of having to ride all the way home again to have his necktie fixed was not a pleasant one, and so he tried to escape. The other thought it great sport.

Witness my hand this twenty-fifth day of June, A. D. 1877.

E. H. BIRD, Collector.

Effective Lubricants.

Oliver Wendell Holmes kept on hand a little pile of autograph extracts from his writings, and, when a visitor had reached the extreme limit of a call, yet seemed unaware of the fact, the doctor would kindly hand him one of these extracts, courteously asking him to keep it as a keepsake. "They can't stop after that, however tough," he said, "I call the extracts 'lubricant;' it greases the way to send them off."

He was Nearer to It.

Two Irishmen digging in a ditch. One was tall, the other short. The little fellow was digging away industriously, while the big one looked on. The foreman unbraided him for his idleness. "Ain't you ashamed to let that little fellow do all the work?"

"Sure's he's nearer to it," was the apt reply.

Prepared for It.

Family Physician (solemnly)—"Your wife is a very sick woman—do you want to know the worst?"

Husband (who has been there before)—"Certainly, certainly—tell me the worst—is it Long Branch, Saratoga, Richfield Springs, or Europe?"

Premonitory Symptoms.

"How still they are," remarked Mrs. Fogg, apropos of the young couple in the next room.

"Yes," replied Mr. F., "it reminds me of my army days. It was always wonderfully quiet just previous to an engagement."—Boston Transcript.

So Like Him.

Fenelon who had often teased Richelieu ineffectually for a charitable subscription, was one day telling him that he had just seen his picture.

"And did you ask it for a subscription?" asked Richelieu sneeringly.

"No. I saw there was no chance," said Fénélon; "it was so like you."

good qualities are easily determined from the poor. The solid chunks that are free from slate is the coal that brings the biggest price. Crumbling coal is the kind that makes the dust and it's the kind you get when you are not careful where you buy. We sell the honest, solid coal for the price you've paid for the other sort,

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

CHARGED WITH BIGAMY.

Woman May Be Made to Testify Against an Alleged Murderer.

Fall River, Mass., July 20.—In the district court Sarah Reagan, who was said to have married Jeremiah Manchester recently and to have been in his company when he killed Holder A. Tripp, her former lover, in Westport July 10, was arraigned here on a charge of bigamy.

The woman's maiden name was Smith. She married William Reagan in Connecticut. Later they parted, and inspectors located Reagan in North Adams. It is claimed that no legal separation has taken place. The case has been continued. If the bigamy charge is proved, the woman can be forced to testify against Manchester in the murder case. He is now here under arrest. This could not be required of her as Manchester's legal wife. She is the only person except the accused who knows just how the killing of Tripp occurred, and the point in her case has an important bearing on the murder trial.

UTTERED WORTHLESS CHECKS.

A Rome Man Is Also Said to Have Committed Bigamy.

Rome, N. Y., July 20.—A man named Girard B. Douglass is under arrest in Utica charged with passing a worthless bank check. In January, 1889, Girard B. Douglass was arrested in Rome on a serious charge. On Oct. 30, 1888, he married Miss Florence Barbier of 536 Ninth avenue, New York, and three weeks later eloped with her sister, Miss Emily F. Barbier. At Hartford a marriage ceremony was performed, and in December Douglass and Emily visited relatives in Trenton, this county.

Jan. 8 they came to Rome, and the next day Douglass' wife and her brother, Paul Barbier, arrived here. They took Emily home with them after first getting out papers charging Douglass with bigamy. Mrs. Douglass also sued for divorce.

Cripple Creek, Colo., July 20.—The heaviest hail and rain storm in this vicinity for many years has occurred here. Considerable damage was done to roads and bridges and to buildings in the lowlands between here and Mound City. The Palace hotel, which is built over an old water course, was threatened with destruction for awhile, but withstood the pressure of a big body of water which backed up against it.

His Son Saw Him Drown.

Malone, N. Y., July 20.—Charles Miles, a young man 30 years of age, was drowned at Chateaugay lake. He was in bathing with his 8-year-old son. The father could not swim and finally got into deep water. The boy noticed he was in trouble and called to him to come out. The father replied that he could not and begged for help, but the little fellow was powerless to aid him.

Dividends Declared.

Washington, July 20.—The comptroller of the currency has declared dividends in favor of the creditors of insolvent banks as follows: Forty per cent, the First National bank of Griswold, Ia.; 25 per cent, the First National bank of Hillsboro, O.; 10 per cent, the Dakota National bank of Sioux Falls; 5 per cent, the Consolidated National bank of San Diego, Cal.

Body Found In a Cistern.

Boston, July 20.—The badly decomposed body of Jacob Simmerson, a man of all work at a house on Mount Bowdoin, Dorchester district, has been found in the cistern on top of the house. Simmerson disappeared June 13. Tenants complained of a frightful odor about the premises, and search revealed the cause. The man probably committed suicide.

The Iowa's Silver Service.

Newport, R. I., July 20.—The presentation of a silver service to the battleship Iowa was made by State Auditor McCarthy, who acted in place of Governor Francis M. Drake, who was prevented from attending by a painful accident. It was gracefully accepted by Captain W. F. Sampson, the commanding officer.

Movements of Naval Vessels.

Washington, July 20.—The Monocacy has arrived at Han Kow and the Michigan at Detroit. It is said at the navy department that the repairs to the torpedo boat Dupont, necessitated by her breakdown on her trial trip last week, will occupy fully two weeks.

Wife of an ex-Mayor a Suicide.

Asheville, N. C., July 20.—Mrs. W. J. Cocke, wife of ex-Mayor Cocke of this city, has committed suicide at her home here. She was Miss Minnie Lyne of Cynthiana, Ky., and was married to Mr. Cocke less than a year ago.

RESERVOIR INQUEST.

MAY BE GIVEN TO THE GRAND JURY.

Damage Suits May Arise Out of the Killing of the Victims—The Water Company Watching the Proceedings. The District Attorney Present.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 20.—The inquest into the death of the seven victims of the flood caused by the bursting of the Melzingah reservoirs in the Fishkill mountains last Wednesday morning has begun at Matteawan.

The evidence, while not sensational, confirmed the interviews with experts already published to the effect that the disaster was due to an insufficient spillway or overflow in the upper reservoir, which allowed the water to run over the dam and thus eat it away until it collapsed. The jury has not yet heard all of the evidence, but there is little doubt that they will hold the Fishkill and Matteawan Water company responsible for the terrible loss of life. District Attorney Wood, who was present with Assistant District Attorney Hoysradt, examined the witnesses.

Patrick Murphy, proprietor of the Broadway House, in which five of the victims lived; John Conroy, engineer in Timoney's brickyard, whose wife and two children were drowned, and several other brickyarders were first examined to establish the facts. Their testimony was immaterial, except that they had not been warned of the swollen condition of the reservoirs.

Mr. Sheaf's Most Important Statement.

Edmund Sheaf, superintendent of the water company, testified that the reservoirs were in charge of a watchman, whose duties were to see that they were kept full of water.

"Our fear," said he "has always been of having too little water, and we never counted on the reservoirs running over. The watchman was not expected to be at the dams day and night. The dams were in perfect order, and I cannot account for the overflowing unless it was due to a centralization of the rains, which had been very heavy for three days. I have never seen the water over six inches deep on the spillway and never knew of its overflowing the dam before."

Mr. Sheaf said that no one had ever told him that the dams were considered unsafe in the village. He said that the president of the company is Giles F. Taintor of New York, and two of the directors are George H. Holt and Gaston D. L. Hutlier. He did not know the others. The company is incorporated and has an office at 11 Wall street.

The most important statement made by Mr. Sheaf was that the spillway was raised from 12 to 18 inches under his direction about four years ago.

John Gordon, 66 years old, who was the watchman in charge of the reservoirs, was not sworn, because the district attorney said that he might be charged with an offense, but he was called upon to make a statement, which he gave willingly. He said that he visited the dams in the morning of the day before they broke, and everything was safe and sound then. The water was seven feet from the crest of the dams. That night the heavy rain made him restless, and he would have gone to the reservoirs, he said, had he anticipated any danger. He had never known the dams to overflow in his nine years' experience.

The gates of both dams were opened, he said, and he could have done nothing more, unless it would have been to warn the people in the valley of their danger.

Neglect Charged.

Before that, William Thorn, a former caretaker, had testified that in his opinion if the gates had been open the dams would not have been overflowed.

Brevoort, the civil engineer who was sent by the district attorney to examine the reservoirs and dams, testified that the workmanship of the dams was first class in every respect. They would resist a pressure of 60 tons to the square foot, while the pressure of water when the reservoirs were full was only 1¼ tons. The trouble was with the spillway of the upper reservoir, said the engineer. This had been originally constructed 3 feet 7 inches lower than the crest of the dam, but later it was raised, evidently to increase the capacity of the reservoir.

"It was the insufficiency of the spillway and overflow of the dam that caused the accident," he declared. "If there had been six inches off the spillway or six inches more on the dam, according to my calculation, the latter would never have overflowed. As near as can be judged, the water had been running over the dam at least six hours before it gave way."

Mr. Brevoort was corroborated by John Robertson, an engineer of Dutchess Junction.

United States Vessel at Marocco.

London, July 20.—A dispatch from Tangier says that the United States warship Raleigh has gone to make a demonstration at the principal ports along the coast of Marocco. She has on board as the American representative Vice Consul Carleton, with Dragoman Abrines.

Killed by Lightning.

Bowmansville, N. Y., July 20.—Joseph Leifler, a hired man on Heist's farm, was found dead in the barn, which had been struck by lightning. It is supposed he was killed by the lightning, although he bears no marks on his body.

Seized With a Cramp and Drowned.

Troy, N. Y., July 20.—William Donovan, the 10-year-old son of Christopher Donovan of Tenth street, was drowned while bathing at the foot of Federal street. He was seized with a cramp. The body has not been recovered.

Oldest Priest In the Country Dying.

Troy, N. Y., July 20.—Rev. Peter Havermans, pastor of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church in this city and the oldest priest in the United States, is dying. All hopes of his recovery have been given up.

New British Consul at Peking.

London, July 20.—Mr. Henry Outram Bax Ironsides, second secretary of the British legation at Washington, has been appointed secretary of legation at Peking.

A "Good Roads" map of Montclair has just been issued by Dr. Albert J. Wright, which shows the macadam streets, also all as laid out, or projected, to July 1st.

1,233 renewals in the L. A. W. a week before last. New Jersey had 98, and it was an off week too, as the lists were closed one day earlier than usual on account of the holiday.

The Union County Roadsters, of Rahway, will have two road races on Saturday over the Rahway-Elizabeth course, one at three and one at ten miles, both handicap. Entries close tomorrow.

A few arrests by the police, for throwing glass on the streets, would be a good thing, and when it is done see to it that the local consul of the L. A. W. is present to see that the proper punishment is inflicted.

Walter B. Rittenhouse, of East Sixth street. Sydney R. Titsworth, of West Fifth street, Charles B. Morse, of Franklin place, and George A. Horne, of Willow avenue, started for Asbury Park on their wheels this morning. They will return on the excursion.

Coasting is not prohibited by the laws of the State, but the L. A. W. have very properly put up warnings on dangerous hills, so that all can understand that if they coast (especially without a brake) that they will exceed the speed limit of the law, and so be liable to arrest.

George Sanders and Horace Sherwin, of Orchard place, started on a bicycle run to Long Branch at 5 o'clock Sunday morning After passing New Brunswick they were stopped by the rain and were stalled in a road house for seven hours. At last in desperation they mounted again and rode to this city in the storm. Upon their arrival home both were in a much exhausted and bedraggled condition.

AROUND THE BASES.

It was Francis, the famous pitcher, and not Mack, that umpired the game for Somerville, Saturday. He made but one poor decision and that was an important one at the plate. Hollister was sliding for home and had his hand fairly on the plate, before Francis, the catcher, touched him with the ball, but the umpire said out.

One unpleasant feature of Saturday's game at Somerville was the crowd that kept pushing up close to the base line. Once Vroom had the ball struck from his hand when he rushed into the crowd after a foul ball. The solitary Somerville policeman looked at Manager Mumford with disdain when he requested the officer to clear that part of the field and Manager Mumford and some of the players tried to keep the crowd back while the officer watched the game and applauded the good plays.

There promises to be the old rivalry between the nine from Plainfield and Somerville as in the days of old. Those that saw the game Saturday feel that if the Crescents are given another chance, they will do even better. Manager Mumford is therefore anxious to arrange another series of games with the Somersets for he feels that there will be nothing that would please the local cranks better. The Somersets are not anxious to play, perhaps the last game was a trifle too near to defeat to suit their nerves, but it is to be hoped that they will show the right spirit and arrange the series of games.

That was a great game down in Somerville, last Saturday afternoon, even if the Somersets did defeat the Plainfield Crescents. MacLoughlin, who pitched for the Somersets, said he never saw a better or harder fought game. It was not a pitcher's battle, for both pitchers were hit freely. It can be said that, aside from those five unlucky minutes, McLarty pitched the better game of the two. He had splendid control of the ball and struck out some of the best Somerset batters at the most exciting moments when poor pitching would have irrevokably lost the game. Nobody can tell what was the matter with Mac in those few moments when he pitched the ball so wild and sent two men to first on four balls, forcing one home. "Let him hit it," begged Vroom from behind bat but after one run came in Mac woke up and struck the Somersets out in great shape.

CATHOLIC CLUB ACTIVITY.

The Members Greatly Interested in the Reorganization.

The meeting of the Catholic Club, which was held in the club house, corner of West Sixth and Liberty streets, last evening, was largely attended, and much interest was shown by those present in the work of completing the organization of the club.

George J. Tobin, the president, was in the chair. A number of new members were received, making the total enrollment 118. After transacting preliminary business, the members made a general inspection of the club house and talked over the question of needed repairs. It was announced by the chair that the repairs would be completed and the club house thrown open to members by August 1st.

The president then appointed a Literary Committee of three members, an Investigating Committee of three, and a House Committee of seven members. After the regular meeting adjourned, the Board of Directors and the House Committee met and discussed matters pertaining to the club's interests.

Troublesome Boys.

Silas Yerkes, of East Sixth street, is among the residents in that section of the city who are troubled with a class of boys who are considered about the worst in Plainfield. Mr. Yerkes, in speaking to a Daily Press reporter this morning, said that while he is away from home these boys come to his home and do all sorts of contemptible, mean things. They annoy Mrs. Yerkes, and when she tells them to go away, they use the most indecent and obscene language. They are destructive in nature, and will not stay away from the place. Mr. Yerkes says that the boys are known by sight, but not by name.

Extension of Trolley Lines.

The fare on the proposed Westfield and Elizabeth trolley line will be five cents from Elizabeth to Westfield. The time limit for its construction is July 1, 1898, but it is expected the line will be in operation by Thanksgiving Day. As soon as the line is built between Elizabeth and Westfield, which includes Elmora, Lorraine, Roselle, Aldine, Garwood, and Cranford, it will be extended to Plainfield, a distance of 12½ miles, when, it is expected, the fare will be ten cents.

New Jersey Line Opened.

A new "Royal Blue Line Terminal" was today established at the foot of Whitehall Street, New York, by placing the double-deck ferryboats Easton and Mauch Chunk in commission between the Bay Ridge ferry slip and Communipaw. The Royal Blue Line comprises the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Alexander D. Mallison is enjoying a fishing trip to New Market today.

J. N. Manning general secretary of the Y. M. C. A, will return tomorrow from East Northfield, Mass.

Harry Gwynette, of Prospect avenue, has just returned from a two months' stay in London and Paris. He witnessed the Queen's Jubilee.

YOUR TIRED STOMACH.

"I have no appetite," you say, "and the little I do eat does me no good. At first it feels cold and dead in my stomach and by and by I have aches and pains that sometimes go to my chest and back. I feel week, low spirited and out of sorts all over. I fancy the demon of dyspepsia has got me." That's the way you talk and no wonder. But wait a moment. Let us reason together. Perhaps thus far your stomach is merely tired. You have been eating to much, eating the wrong things, and irregularly. You have given it to much to do, and like all living things when overworked, it stops at length from sheer exhaustion. There may not be an actually diseased condition as yet. Still it is nature's warning, and you must heed it or worse will follow. "But I must eat or starve," you say. True enough, but safety usually lies in middle courses. Here is one for you. You don't need drastic purges or exciting stimulants. Your condition is one easily relieved if we go about it gently and sensibly The tired stomach won't work under whip and spur. It has probably had too much of that already. What you require is something that is once a food and a digester of food Such an article is the Shaker Digestive Cordial, discovered and prepared by the Shakers Community of Mt. Lebanon, N. Y. Taken right after eating, so as to mix with the food, it does the stomach's work for it, strengthens you in a natural way, and soon enables the stomach to do full duty. There is nothing else like this simple, safe, certain and palatable remedy. Yet the Shakers respect your doubts, and authorize druggists to sell a trial bottle for ten cents.

Y. M. C. A. Man Drowned.

Arthur M. Paine, eighteen years old, and Acting Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association at Morristown, was drowned yesterday in Shongum, at an outing he had arranged for the association. To three companions, Robert Leet, Clarence Bockoven and Arthur Bird, Paine proposed a bath and the others agreed. His companions had regained the boat, when Paine, who could not swim, started to wade to it. He suddenly found himself in deep water and shouted, but before his companions could reach him he sank. His body was recovered with grappling hooks.

Degree Conferred.

Wilberforce University, at the recent commencement, conferred the honorary degree of D. D. upon Rev. W. A. Alexander. He is pastor of Siloam Baptist church, Brooklyn, N. Y., and was a delegate from that Presbytery to the New York Synodical Congress, recently held in Poughkeepsie. Many will with pleasure recall the pastorate of Dr. Alexander for several years in Plainfield, at Bethel Chapel and extend congratulations. Correspondents may address Dr. Alexander, 202 Prince street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Odd Fellows Install Officers.

At the meeting of Plainfield Lodge, No 44. I. O. O. F., held last evening, District Deputy Stamets and staff of Westfield were present and installed officers. After the ceremonies refreshments were served. The lodge members will visit Westfield in a body tomorrow night to attend the installation ceremonies of Westfield Lodge, No. 131, to be held at that time.

Kenney Captured.

Walter J. Kenney, who was suspected of stealing bicycles and other articles in Bound Brook last spring and who on June 13th escaped from the jail at Norristown, Pa., has been recaptured at Chicago and on payment of the reward offered by the Norristown authorities will be sent on to serve his sentence of five years in the Eastern Penitentiary of Pennsylvania.

—Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., will hold a stated communication to night.

—The Saturday evening hops at the Hotel Hunterston are becoming popular with the people in this city. All who choose to attend are welcomed and a pleasant time is spent by all that avail themselves of the privilege.

—Former Judge William A. Coddington attended the sale of the Elliott property beyond Dunellen, which took place this afternoon under Chancery proceedings. He represents George F. Martens, of New York city, whose intereet in the property is that of a mortgage-creditor.

Miss Mamie Moynihan, of Bound Brook, is the guest today of the Misses Rafferty, of Park avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Willey returned today from their outing in the White Mountains. Mr. Willey is now busy preparing for the opening of Stillman Music Hall on August 2d.

RAILROADS DEFY THE CITY.

The "Royal Blue Line" Starts New Ferry Line Regardless of Officials.

In defence of the city authorities, says the New York Press, the "Royal Blue Line" yesterday established a ferry service between the foot of Whitehall street and Communipaw.

The double-decked ferryboats Easton and Mauch Chunk began making regular trips in the morning. The Royal Blue Line comprises the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Philadelphia and Reading and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroads.

When this ferry matter was broached Controller Fitch said that the franchise would have to be put up at auction and sold to the person or corporation willing to pay the city the largest percentage on its gross receipts.

The matter went to the Corporation Counsel's office, and the last heard from Mr. Turner was that "Nothing will be done until the law is violated."

When Controller Fitch learned that the boats were running yesterday he said:

"I shall apply to the Supreme Court for an injunction. The city should receive a revenue from that as well as all other ferries."

A test of the genuineness of an oriental rug or carpet, which a Constantinople gentleman says is sure, is to examine carefully, to see if each stitch is knotted, instead of trusting to those easily put on marks of age—patches, holes and crooked places. If the stitch is knotted and firm, the rug is genuine; but, if the stitch can be pulled out, it is imitation, no matter now closely the original rug may have been copied in pattern or colored. An oriental dealer's test is to drop a live coal on the rug, and when it has burned a little to remove it quickly with the fingers. If the scorching entirely disappears, leaving the original colors unaltered, it is proof of the genuniness of the rug.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

SAY IT IS A NUISANCE.

Mrs. Milliken Claims That It Has Ruined Her Boarding House and Isaac Stites Also Claims Lower Land Valuations

Of late very little has been said by Dunellenites concerning the Plainfield sewer farm as regards it being a nuisance. The fact of an intended action against the city of Plainfield has been kept very quiet, but the news has leaked out and it now looks as though Plainfield will have a suit to defend before a great while.

The action has been started by Mrs. Milliken, who, until this year, kept a large family of summer boarders not far from where the farm is located. Last year the farm was not completed and was not put in use until late in the fall when cold weather set in, but with this year's warm weather the stench from the farm is said to be noticeable to people living close to the farm. Mrs. Milliken has been unable to get her boarders to return this year as usual, and she has in consequence suffered a great loss, financially.

It is said that she has engaged a lawyer and is now prepared to prove that the sewer farm is a nuisance. If such is the case she will have no trouble in getting a hearing before a Justice. It is understood that Mrs. Milliken, together with other nearby residents, will combine in united action against the city of Plainfield.

A Daily Press reporter saw Isaac Stites yesterday afternoon regarding the matter. Mr. Stites owns a place about a half mile from the farm, and he was loud in his declarations against the latter. He said that not until this year had he ever experienced chills and fever, and at times he says that the smell from the farm is rank. He is now willing to sell his place for $500 less than he would have before the farm was located where it is. He considers that a great deal of the money he was obliged to work hard for over an anvil is now at stake.

The Craig family live close to the farm and it is understood that they are decided about combining with the others in an united action. Nearly all of the people living within a reasonable distance of the farm claim to have been more or less affected by the odor from the beds, and they feel determined to have the beds abolished, if possible. They do not consider that the question of money figures large in the action, for they feel sure they can prove the beds are a nuisance and that the court will give them a fair show.

It was reported recently that several Dunellenites engaged an expert to make a thorough investigation of the beds, and that he gave as his opinion that they are unhealthy. However, the outcome of the action will be watched with interest by both Plainfield and Dunellen people.

Brunswick Claims a Victory.

The officials of the Brunswick Traction Company have won another point in the trolley war for franchises from New Brunswick to Bound Brook. Chief Justice Magie has denied the motion of the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company to set aside the writ of certiorari brought by William Schure, of Bound Brook, against that company, refusing to set aside the writ or to vacate the stay. This leaves the certiorari before the Supreme Court to be decided on its merits. This is practically a victory for the Brunswick Traction Company.

Elizabeth Potteries to Resume Work.

It was announced yesterday that the potteries in Elizabeth would resume operations tomorrow, when the men will be put to work on full time. The potteries have been practically closed for two months and have not worked full time in over a year. At the Elizabeth Pottery Company's plant a new style of ware will be manufactured in competition with a foreign grade. This competition, it is said, will be made possible by the new tariff rates.

Dished a Wheel.

One of the cold storage ice-wagons dished a front wheel on Front street, opposite the Dime Savings Bank, yesterday afternoon about 8 o'clock, and delayed travel on street railway for a little time, and an express wagon with children's wagons had a similar misfortune happen to one of the hind wheels of the vehicle, on Watchung avenue, opposite North avenue, at about the same hour. Both were the result of trying to get out of the car tracks.

CUPID ALMOST FOILED.

YOUNG MAN RELEASED IN CITY COURT TO GO TO HYMEN'S ALTAR.

The Groom to be Had Been Looking for Work When He Fell Into the Hands of the Police on His Way Back to His Home.

Three boys went forth from New York several days ago to look for work. They traveled by coal trains toward Philadelphia, had an encounter with tramps who robbed one of the young men of his hat, and finally started for home to enable one of their number to celebrate his twenty-first birthday and his wedding. Then the Plainfield police spoiled all their calculations by arresting the trio and locking them up.

Patrolmen Watson and McCarty raided a train of freight cars at the North avenue station at an early hour this morning and aroused three sleepy forms, which were stretched out in the bottom of an empty car. The sorrowful young men were marched over to the city lock-up, where they spent the night.

This morning, the three were arraigned before the City Judge on the charge of trespassing on the cars of the Jersey Central Railroad. They gave their names as Washington Harman, twenty years, Léon Luenthal, seventeen years and James Stevens, nineteen years. They were fairly well-dressed and a glance at them showed that they were not of the ordinary class of "coal commuters."

Harman acted as spokesman of the party and told their story. They had all been living in New York, but the times had been hard and they had all lost their jobs. They had searched for others in vain and then decided to make a pilgrimage to Philadelphia to look for a position there. They had gone by the Pennsylvania and had ridden on freight trains to save their money. At Norristown, they had fallen in with a party of "Knights of the Road" who threatened to put them off the train and had robbed Luenthal of his hat. After a skirmish, the trio had retreated in good order and finally reached Philadelphia.

Then Herman confidentially told the Judge that tomorrow was his twenty-first birthday and that he had also planned that it should be his wedding day. He had hoped to get a job with salary sufficient to support himself and wife in Philadelphia, but as he could not they hurried home to be there on time, anyway. Then they had been arrested.

The Judge could not help sympathizing with the unfortunate prisoner, and so he suspended sentence on the trio and wished the would-be groom good luck.

With smiling faces the three departed toward the depot and waved a farewell to the Judge and Chief Grant.

WET FOR EXCURSIONISTS

ASBURY PARK WAS NOT A PLEASANT PLACE YESTERDAY.

The Most Enjoyable Attraction Was Bathing in the Surf—On the Return a Number of Boys Were Soaked by Water.

Yesterday was not a remarkably successful day for the 300 excursionists that went to Asbury Park on the excursion of the First M. E church of this city and the Dunellen M. E. churc. The rain threatened when the train started from this city at 8 o'clock, but the clouds broke away and a nice day was promised. Soon after 11 o'clock, however, the rain began to fall at Asbury Park and continued most of the afternoon Late in the afternoon, the sun came out again and the excursionists reached the train without a wetting, but another shower started as soon as the train left and continued until the excursionists reached Plainfield when it held off long enough to allow them to reach their homes without another wetting.

There were comparatively few people at the shore, but the water was delightful and many of the excursionists spent most of the day in the surf. The rain prevented many of the usual pleasures and many of the visitors spent the day sitting about the pavillions.

Several young men from this city road down on their wheels and returned on the excursion train. They found the roads in a terrible condition. Wheels and riders were covered with mud.

When the excursion train started for home, several of the young men established themselves on the front platform of the forward car. They did not know that the engine takes water near Long Branch from a tank between the rails. The water came pouring over the tender from the scoop and completely soaked the young men. They beat a hasty retreat into the car amid a general laugh from all who saw what had happened.

LET THERE BE ARC LIGHTS

STRONG ARGUMENTS MADE BY A PLAINFIELD BUSINESS MAN.

The Demands of the Business Men for the Improvement are Justified by the Heavy Proportion of Taxes Which They Pay.

The writer of this paragraph was talking with a well-known Plainfield business man, not many days since, about matters of current interest, and the conversation drifted around to the question of electric arc lights for the business portions of the city. "I am at a loss," said the business man in question, "to account for the action of our Common Council in refusing the petition of the business men for better street lighting. I think that, no matter from what standpoint you contemplate the matter or by what motives you may be moved, the advisability of giving the city arc lights ought to be plainly apparent. Looking at the matter in a purely financial sense, it can be shown that the withholding of the lights is a false sort of economy, because such improvements stimulate investments by outside capital, and thus inevitably raise the tax receipts to a figure which more than compensates for the additional expense of the improvement. I am, therefore, of the opinion that the introduction of arc lights into the business district of the city would be a good paying investment, in dollars and cents. Some people who live in the suburbs, one or two miles from the city, are asking why they cannot have the same improvements which the business district enjoys. I'll answer that question. In the business district the property valuation is possibly $50 a square foot while in the suburbs it is probably not over 10 cents. Now it stands to reason that a portion of the city which pays taxes on an amount of valuation approaching $50 a square foot is entitled to more improvements than a section paying taxes on a valuation of 10 cents a square foot.

"Now as to the cry that the introduction of the arc lights is wanted only by the business men and is intended solely for their benefit, allow me to say that the idea is a mistaken one. The better lighting of the central portion of the city would operate for the general benefit of the community. Most of the business houses close early, so that their trade is not benefited by better lights. The only benefit derived by these merchants would be in increased protection, which cities are in the habit of furnishing in sections where the property valuation is highest. Then there is the improvement which the presence of arc lights would make in the appearance of our streets. Strangers who happen to be in the city after dark will stroll about the business streets and will carry away an impression of the city from what they observe there. Most cities of the size of Plainfield have arc street lights. We don't want to give visitors the impression that this is an unprogressive city if we can avoid doing so. Such an idea might keep many enterprises away from us, and there is a great deal in first impressions, you know."

DEMOCRATS BY THE BROOKSIDE

Somerset Leaders Arranging For a Great Harmony Feast.

The Democratic leaders of the regular organization in Somerset county are in earnest in their endeavors to have a big harmony clam bake on the banks of Green brook at Sebring Mills, six miles from this city, sometime next month. The function will be arranged and carried out in every detail in the hope of uniting the two elements who split the party forces in twain in the last Presidential election. In the township elections last spring neither faction of the party was predominant as silver or gold representatives, and since then the breach caused by the Chicago platform has been lessened more than ever. The spot selected by the ones back of the harmony feast is an ideal one for an outdoor affair of a political nature, being centrally located for all sections of the county, and easy of access. To make it an assured success it is intended to get enough subscriptions from those who will attend at $2 a person to guarantee expenses. With all the party members pulling together the Democratic leaders believe that they have a good chance to elect some of the county officers next fall.

Engagement Announced.

EIGHT-HOUR WORKDAY.

PLAINFIELD EMPLOYERS SAID TO BE READY TO ACCEDE.

A Concerted Effort to Secure Shorter Hours After May 1st, 1898, in the Endeavor to Solve a Labor Problem.

At the meeting of the members of Watchung Lodge, No. 167, International Order of Machinists, held last evening in Red Men's Hall, George H. Warner, Business Agent of District Lodge, No. 15, made an interesting and surprising announcement when he said that the proprietors of the Plainfield machine shops were willing to give their men eight hours a day if they would ask for it. This is just what the machinists have been desirous of, and the statement coming from such a source that the employers stand ready to accede was greeted with much favor.

The chief officers of the lodge are endeavoring by a concerted action to arrange matters and organization so that on May 1st, 1898, they can demand of the employers all over the country the eight-hour day, and in connection with this they will also ask for time and a half for over-time up to 12 o'clock mianight; double time from the latter hour until morning, and double time for Sundays, holidays and Saturday half-holidays. In this way they hope to be able to break up the over-time method, which, they claim, is keeping so many thousands of machinists out of employment.

There was a large number of machinists present at the meeting and the first and most important speaker was Grand Master Machinist James O'Connell, of Chicago, who is making a tour of the country visiting all of the lodges for the purpose of agitating the matter. Mr. O'Connell is thoroughly conversant with the vital interests that are affecting the machinists throughout the country and he gave an instructive talk. He urged greater union among the machinists and stated that it was their only hope to better their condition and live like civilived men. As one man, they could do nothing, but with union they would be in a position to demand that which is due them. He mentioned a factory in Providence, R. I, where for eleven hours every day the men are not allowed to speak to each other; if they do they will lose their position. This eleven hours includes the noon hour also. This condition of affairs, he thought, was about as near to slavery as possible.

Another feature of the speaker's remarks was the selfishness shown by the machinists who have positions and are willing to run two machines, work over-time, and do everything else to get work themselves but are not willing to help their brother who is out of a job. He held that the over-time system and double machine work by one man is killing thousands of good men all over the country.

The next speaker, Mr. Warner, thoroughly aroused the men present as to what they should do. He said that he once had the opinion that the bosses and proprietors were the worst sort of men, but he had since changed his mind and come to the conclusion that it was the machinist who is to blame. He had personally interviewed the proprietors of each of the Plainfield shops and they had informed him that they are willing to abide by the eight hour law if the men would ask for it. They had told him that they thought it useless to bother with the over-time scheme but that they thought the eight hour law would solve all difficulties.

Judging from what was seen last night it appears that the Plainfield men will strive for stronger organization and will be ready to fall in line for May 1st, 1898, in the concerted movement for the eight hour day.

MESSEROLL'S BARN BURNED.

Good Work Done by the Farmer's Wife and by Rev. George Love.

Awakened by the frantic bellowing of one of his cows yesterday morning, Peter Messeroll, who lives in Piscataway township, discovered that his big barn was in flames. The family hastened out of doors and did all they could to rescue the stock from the burning barn. Three cows and a colt and a pig were gotten out by Mrs. Messeroll, the farmer's wife, at the risk of her life.

Among the neighbors who responded to the cry of "Fire!" was Rev. George Love, of the Baptist church. He did good work in subduing the flames and in getting out the carriages and wagons of the farmer. Three horses in the barn were cut off by the flames and could not be saved.

The barn had lately been stocked with the new hay crop, which was consumed. The loss will amount to several thousand dollars, and there is not much insurance on it. The origin of the fire is unknown.

JAIL FOR BOROUGH ONLY

Rather Than Take a Prisoner to Somerville for One Night Coustable VanHorn Paroled Him—What the Officials Say of It

A somewhat peculiar state of affairs exists in the borough were prisoners charged with a State offense are not allowed to be incarcerated in the borough lockup except in cases of necessity or where the officials desire to extend the courtesy of their offices in that direction. Last night there was an instance of this kind in the arrest of Yost Hortli and Frank Schafer, of Brook avenve, who were charged with assault and battery by Herbert A. Ives, of Arlington avenue. Schafer secured bail last evening, and Hortli was unable to get bail until this morning. It was desired that the latter be confined in the borough lockup over night instead of taking the prisoner to Somerville. The borough officials considered that the hour was not so late but what the prisoner could be taken to the latter place. This matter was reported to Justice Mattison and he paroled the prisoner until this morning when he called at the Justice's office and furnished the necessary $100 bail.

A Daily Press reporter called on Justice Mattison this morning to learn his side of the case. The latter thought that the ruling in the case was a most unusual one, and no reason had been given to him for it. He could have committed Hortli to Somerville last evening but he felt sure that he could secure bail this morning and he did not desire to go the trouble of sending a constable with the prisoner to Somerville at a late hour, and thought that the borough could extend to him the privilege of the jail for one prisoner over night. However, he allowed the man to go and appear before him this morning, which he did.

Borough Clerk J. K. Arnold informed the reporter that the borough is not supposed to hold prisoners arrested on a state warrant, except where they wish to extend the courtesy. He said the constable had plenty of time to take the prisoner to Somerville, if Justice Mattison desired to hold him.

The arrests were made by Constables Van Horn and Hansen during the early part of the evening and Frank Scafer was able to get Thomas Rutledge as bondsman, while Hortli was obliged to wait until this morning for his bondsmen. Each are under $100 baill to await the action of the Grand Jury next month.

PRIESTS CHASE A THIEF.

WHOLESALE ATTEMPTS AT BURGLARIZING IN METUCHEN.

The Burglar Had the Start of the Pursuing Reverend Gentlemen and Made His Escape—Six Houses Were Entered.

Two priests at the rectory of St. Francis's Roman Catholic Church at Metuchen, near here, gave a burglar an exciting chase about 2 o'clock yesterday morning, but as he had the advantage of the start he got away from them. The priests at the rectory were the Rev. J. A. Lawrence, rector of St. Francis's Church, and the Rev. James Cantwell, of Long Branch, who was visiting in Metuchen.

Father Cantwell was awakened by the noise the burglar made in rattling the silverware in the dining room under his sleeping apartment. He called Father Lawrence. They both got up and slipped on their shoes and trousers and laid a plan to trap the burglar. They were descending the stairs cautiously when the burglar heard them and made a break out of the back window through which he had entered.

The priests followed him and saw a tall, slim man, wearing a brown shirt and derby hat, disappearing through the yard. They went after him and chased him for half a mile, but the burglar got away. When the priests returned to the house they found that Father Cantwell had lost a gold watch and chain, but little else had been taken.

Later it was learned that at least six houses had been robbed in the night at Metuchen and the adjoining village of Menlo Park. At the home of Dr. A. C. Hunt a pocketbook containing valuable papers and railroad tickets was stolen and also a sum of money. The burglar discarded the pocketbook on the road and Dr. Hunt was much relieved when he found it.

Jewelry and money were secured at the homes of Samuel Glenfield, R. O. Fowler and Frank Patterson, all of Metuchen, and Thomas Freeman at Menlo Park.

SPIED BY THE VIGILANTS

WESTFIELD CITIZENS DETECT ATTEMPTS TO BURGLARIZE.

The Depredators Said to be a Gang of Six Men—Shots Were Fired at Them But the Marauders Got Off.

The town of Westfield was again visited by burglars at an early hour this morning. Attempts were made to enter four houses on South avenue, but the noise made by the burglars awoke the inmates and the marauders were driven away. W. H. Ward, J. D. Gluck and J. K. Dunham, whose houses are next to each other, saw the burglars attempting to enter and fired several shots. It is said there were six men in the gang. A short time afterward the home of Mrs. Amelia Randolph, nearby, was approached by the burglars. One of Mrs. Randolph's sons was on guard and shot at the men, who made a hasty retreat. The house of George B. Dickerson on Clark street also received a visit. The reception given the burglars here was a warm one, Mr. Dickerson shooting at them from an upstairs window several times.

On Monday morning two men attempted to force an entrance to a vacant house on Elm street, next to the residence of Andrew A. Smith. Mr. Smith was arcused about 1:30 o'clock by a noise and on looking out saw two men attempting to open a window in the next house. He fired four shots at the burglars, but the fellows made good their escape. It is probable they did not know that the house they were attempting to enter was unoccupied. They had succeeded in prying open the shutters at one of the windows when the noise awoke Mr. Smith.

Yesterday a number of the young men of the town met and organized a vigilance committee to patrol the streets after dark and run the burglars to earth. They met last night to the number of about fifteen and dispersed to different sections of the town where a watch was kept for burglars. It is probably due to the efforts of this vigilance committee that the town was not looted last night, as its members shadowed the burglars and fired at them in several instances when they approached residences. After leaving the houses on South avenue the men started toward another section of the town, evidently intending to renew their operations, but before going far they were challenged by two of the vigilants.

The burglars ran and the young men gave hot chase, but without effecting a capture. Others of the committee saw the gang and in every case gave chase. The burglars evidently found the town too hot a place for them and gave up for the night. The vigilants will be out in extra force tonight. Every part of the town will be patrolled by armed men, and every stranger on the street after 10 o'clock will be required to give an account of himself. Excitement in the town is running very high.

The Township Committee has been inclined of late to take some steps toward protection, and it is possible that this last series of robberies will lead them to take some effective action at their meeting Friday night.

There is also some talk among the citizens of raising funds by subscription and offering a liberal reward for the arrest and conviction of the outlaws.

Wheel of a Truck Gave Way.

A large truck belonging to H. Ferguson, of Newark, and heavily loaded with merchandise, was crossing Watchung avenue at its intersection with North avenue, late yesterday afternoon, when one of the wheels collapsed throwing the heavy load sidewise into the street. The horses were unhitched and the wagon remained in the street an impediment to travel until a wheelwright was secured to repair the damage.

Justice Neill Dead.

Police Justice George Neill, of Elizabeth, died early yesterday morning in his sixty-first year. Justice Neill was born in Ireland and came to Elizabeth more than thirty-five years ago. For many years he was a Justice of the Peace. Three years ago he was appointed Judge of the Police Court.

Painful Bee Sting.

Garrett Eick, of East Third street, is suffering with a painful bee sting which happens to be on one of his knees. The bee made a hasty trip inside of the trouser leg and remained just long enough to get in his good work. The knee is very sore and causes much pain.

Quarantine Removed.

Health Inspector Addis yesterday fumigated the house at 327 West Front street where two cases of scarlet fever existed, after which the yellow card was removed and the quarantine declared to be over.

REPORT ON GOLD LAND

Dr. Dall of the National Museum Reports on the Locality.

STORIES ARE NOT EXAGGERATED.

The Metal Was First Discovered In 1866 and Has Been Taken Out In Paying Quantities For Fifteen Years. Methods of Mining.

Washington, July 21.—Dr. William H. Dall, one of the curators of the National museum, is familiar with the region of country in which the Klondike goldfields are located through having been on several geological expeditions to the region in Alaska adjoining the gold district and says that in his opinion the reports from there probably are not exaggerated. He said:

"When I was there, I did not find gold, but know of it being taken out in profitable quantities for 15 years or more. It was first discovered there in 1866. In 1880, when I was up in that country—my last trip having been made two years ago—the first party of prospectors who made the mining a profit started out. The gold is found on the various tributaries of the Yukon, and I have been within a comparatively short distance of the Klondike fields. I made one trip to Circle City, just over the boundary of Canada.

"The gold bearing belt of northwestern America contains all the goldfields extending into British Columbia—what is known as the northwestern territory and Alaska. The Yukon really runs along in that belt for 500 or 600 miles. The bed of the main river is in the lowland of the valley.

"The yellow metal is not found in paying quantities in the main river, but in the small streams which cut through the mountains on either side. These practically wash out the gold. The mud and mineral matter is carried into the main river, while the gold is left on the rough bottoms of these side streams.

"In most cases the gold lies at the bottom of thick gravel deposits. The gold is covered by frozen gravel in the winter. During the summer, until the snow is all melted, the surface is covered by muddy torrents. When the snow is all melted and the springs begin to freeze, the streams dry up. At the approach of winter, in order to get at the gold, the miners find it necessary to dig into the gravel formation.

Methods of Operating.

"Formerly they stripped the gravel off until they came to the gold. Now they sink a shaft to the bottom of the gravel and tunnel along underneath in the gold bearing layer. The way in which this is done is interesting, as it has to be carried on in cold weather, when everything is frozen.

"The miners build fires over the area where they wish to work and keep these lighted over that territory for the space of 24 hours. Then at the expiration of this period the gravel will be melted and softened to a depth of perhaps six inches. This is then taken off and other fires built, until the gold bearing layer is reached. When the shaft is down that far, fires are built at the bottom, against the sides of the layer, and tunnels made in this manner.

Blasting would do no good on account of the hard nature of the material and would blow out just as out of a gun. The matter taken out containing the gold is piled up until spring, when the torrents come down, and is panned and washed by these. It is certainly very hard labor.

"I see many reasons why the goldfields should be particularly rich. The streams which cut through the mountains have probably done so for centuries, wearing them down several hundred feet and washing out the gold into the beds and gravel.

"It is a country in which it is very hard to find food, as there is practically no game. Before the whites went into the region there were not more than 300 natives. They have hard work to support themselves on account of the scarcity of game."

Mob Rush For the Goldfields.

Victoria, B. C., July 21.—This city is full of prospective miners waiting for steamers to take them north. Scores of men are throwing up good positions in order to seek their fortunes in the Klondike fields. John Peircy, a wholesale merchant, has offered to pay the Dominion government $50,000 per annum for a period of five or ten years for the privilege of collecting duty on goods going into the Canadian section of the Yukon country. The authorities have not as yet vouchsafed an answer, but it is believed that the customs officers will be sent up there to collect the duty on American goods which are being taken into the country.

Complaints Against American Steamers.

Ottawa, July 21.—The Richelieu and Ontario Navigation company has complained to the minister of customs that American steamers are reported to be carrying excursions between Canadian points contrary to the law. The steamers ply for excursions between Canadian points and evade the law by merely calling at an American port en route, thus giving the coloring of international trade to the proceeding. It is probable that the practice, which has been largely patronized by church picnics and which extends all over the St. Lawrence, even down to Montreal, will be suppressed.

Washouts on the Plains.

Cheyenne, Wy., July 21.—Very heavy rains have prevailed throughout southwestern Wyoming and western Nebraska, causing numerous washouts along the railroads. The east bound Union Pacific flier was tied up at Medicine Bow by a washout at Miser station. Assistant Superintendent Culrose has gone to the scene with a wrecking train. The west bound flier, held at Sydney by a washout at Chappell, Neb., will be run via Julesburg and Lasalle, Colo., and over the Denver Pacific branch to reach here.

Kipling's "Recessional" to Music.

London, July 21.—Sir Arthur Sullivan has set to music the "Recessional," Rudyard Kipling's latest poem, composed in honor of the queen's jubilee.

NEW TRIAL REFUSED.

Sentence of Death Has Been Passed Upon Murderer Schulz.

Milford, Pa., July 21.—Judge Purdy has refused to grant the motion for a new trial in the case of Herman Paul Schulz. Sentence of death was then passed upon the prisoner. Schulz, on June 13, after a trial which lasted a week, was convicted of the murder of his wife. Schulz still maintains his innocence. He says that there was no reason why he should have killed the woman. Mrs. Schulz was found dead in bed, having died from a bullet wound.

Schulz said he found her dead in the morning and claimed that he had not heard the pistol shot. He expressed the belief that she had committed suicide. After her burial Schulz was arrested in New York city when about to sail for Europe, the charge of murder having been sworn out by his son. The jury after hearing the evidence was convinced that Schulz had murdered his wife and returned a verdict to that effect.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS OFF.

The Sultan Flatly Refuses to Accept the Embassadors' Propositions.

Constantinople, July 21.—The porte has refused to accept the strategic frontier laid down by the military attaches of the foreign embassies.

The embassadors have in consequence suspended the peace negotiations.

Tewfik Pasha, the foreign minister, has sent to the government the suggestions of the embassadors regarding the measures that are now necessary, and the question is now in the hands of the cabinet.

Italy to Coerce Turkey.

Athens, July 21.—It is stated here that Italy has proposed coercive measures against Turkey.

I had pains in the small of my back, and could not lie still in bed, and felt miserable and nervous. My urine was very much discolored and reddish. Hearing of the good done by them, I bought a box of Dr. Hobbs Sparagus Kidney cure at Dr. Wright's drug store, Virginia and Atlantic Aves., and took them as ordered. The pain left me entirely, the color of the urine became natural, and my nervous condition disappeared. The cure was complete and the pills were pleasant to take, not inconveniencing me in any way. Electric Bitters
Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at L. Reasons Why Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is the Best.
1. Because it affords almost instant relief in case of pain in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus.
2. Because it is the only remedy that never fails in the most severe cases of dysentery and diarrhoea.
3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhoea.
4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent bilious colic.
5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemical dysentery.
6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
8. Because it produces no bad results.
9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.
10. Because it has saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world.

THE LARSEN CASE.

The Inquest May Reveal the Motive For Poisoning.

THE DEAD GIRL HAD AN ADMIRER.

Was Accompanied by a Young Man on the Train—A Letter Was Found on the Body Which May Possibly Explain Matters.

Staatsburg-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., July 21.—Selma Larsen, the young Swedish woman who died at the General hospital at Matteawan from the effects of poison, did not poison herself. Of this fact there is no doubt, judging from the statements of Mrs. Clarence G. Dinsmore of The Locusts, Staatsburg, by whom the Larsen girl was employed as parlor maid. When seen, Mrs. Dinsmore said:

"The death of Selma Larsen is a terrible thing. She was a beautiful girl and I have always trusted and thought much of her.

"Who is this Charvauill?" was asked, but Mrs. Dinsmore flushed, bit her lip and would say nothing.

"I am bound to secrecy," she finally exclaimed, "and cannot say a word until after the inquest. Then the truth must come out. If it takes me my whole life," continued Mrs. Dinsmore agitatedly, "I shall solve the mystery."

Mrs. Dinsmore said that she had always taken an interest in the dead girl. "She left here Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock," said Mrs. Dinsmore, "saying she was going to the station to take the train for her sister's in New York. I told her the heat was so great she should not walk and ordered the carriage for her.

"She went to the station and boarded the train alone. We heard nothing from her until we received the dispatch from Matteawan saying that she was dead, and then I at once sent Miss Campbell, my housekeeper, down to see her, and she staid with her until she died.

"The girl will be buried at my expense. My own physician, Dr. Parmelee of Staatsburg, saw the girl before she died, and both he and myself have our suspicions as to how she got the poison that caused her death. It would, however, be unfair for me to reveal anything now or to implicate any one."

The Girl Had an Admirer.

Inquiry revealed the fact that the dead girl had an admirer. The servants said they had been warned not to talk regarding either the dead girl or her lover. It was learned that of late the Larsen girl and her admirer had been constantly together. Others in the house had heard the girl sobbing at night on two occasions.

When the body of the girl was searched at the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles Wickstrom of 164 East Ninety-second street, New York, a sealed letter was found addressed to her sister. This letter Mrs. Dinsmore has telegraphed Mrs. Wickstrom to send her as she says she has a right to know its contents, so that the mystery may in some way, if possible, be made clearer.

The authorities here think it is strange that the mysterious sealed letter referred to by Mrs. Dinsmore as having been found on the body of the dead girl has not been given to Coroner Bevier. He is said to know nothing regarding the existence of such letter.

A dispatch from Poughkeepsie sheds some light on the mystery. It appears that when the news of the sickness of the girl at the Fishkill hospital became known at Dinsmore's place, a young man who knew the Larsen girl came down to the hospital post haste on his bicycle. He secured a parcel of letters which had been in the girl's possession and went away with them. The man is known at Dinsmore's place.

It is also said that the same young man accompanied the girl on the train and when she was taken ill quickly left her to look out for herself.

Coroner Bevier is making an autopsy at Fishkill, but will not make his report until tonight. Professor Cooley of Vassar college is also making a chemical analysis.

Knew of No Reason For Suicide.

Mrs. Wickstrom, who was seen at her home in New York, said she was unable to tell any circumstances that could give any reason for the suicide of her sister. She said that the girl was a governess in the family of Mrs. Clarence Dinsmore at Staatsburg. She saw her sister just before she died in the Fishkill hospital. She appeared to be in great agony.

The girl told her that she did not know what was the matter with her; that while coming down in the train she was suddenly seized with such terrible pains that she was forced to cry out.

The girl further said that she had eaten nothing that day to cause her illness and was in perfect health when she left Staatsburg. The only admission that the girl made was that she was accompanied by one of the Dinsmore servants and that this servant had left the train at Poughkeepsie shortly before she was stricken. Mrs. Wickstrom said that Selma Larsen had no love affairs.

Indian Prisoners Escape.

Miles City, Mon., July 21.—Yellow Hair and Sam Crow, two Cheyenne Indians, who were arrested as accessories with Eugene Standing Elk for the murder of John Hoover, over whose death occurred the late trouble on the upper Rosebud, broke jail by digging through an 18 inch wall. They were confined in the woman's department of the jail. They broke off a piece of iron from the bed which they made a hole about 2 by 1 feet. A posse is out scouring the country for them, but with little hope of catching them.

Rescued From a Barren Island.

San Francisco, July 21.—Twenty-two seamen of the lost British ship Kinkora, who spent nearly two months on the barren island of Clipperton, in the South sea, has arrived in port on the warship Bennus. They will be provided for by the British consul until an opportunity occurs for their return to England.

Murderer Killed by Pursuers.

Kingman, A. T., July 21.—Information is received that Mouse, the Papute murderer, has been killed at Muddy Creek in Lincoln county, Nev., by a posse of pursuers. Mouse killed Stearns and Davis on the Colorado river last winter near White Hills.

THE MINERS' STRIFE

THE PROGRAMME OF THE STRIKERS.

They Intend to March on the Allison Mine, Which Has Been Closed, and Expect to Get the Men to Join In the Movement.

Pittsburg, July 21.—The attention of the miners of the Pittsburg district is now riveted on the Allison, Boone and Enterprise mines near Canonsburg. The Boone and Allison mines, which were closed by the owners to prevent trouble between their men and the marching strikers, resumed with nearly a full force. No attempt was made to start up at the Enterprise mine. The strikers fear that if these mines continue in operation it will induce the Enterprise men to go back to work.

The programme of the strikers is to make another march on the Allison mine. The leaders say that more than 2,000 diggers would be massed in the Panhandle district and another march made on the mines. The miners of the Panhandle district are gathering above Bridgeville, and it will not be surprising if 1,000 miners are found on the Washington pike. The men in the Millers and Toms run districts are all idle and have plenty of time to make another march. They were supplying themselves with several days' rations, and if the proposed march is made they will stay about the offending mines for several days.

Up to a late hour no word relating to a march had been received at district headquarters. If the march is made, the time will be kept a secret.

Just at this stage of the strike sensational developments are expected. The men are beginning to feel the pangs of want and are in a condition bordering on desperation.

It has been learned that organizers have been secretly at work among the miners of the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal company for several days. One of them was served with an injunction to remain off the company's property and leave the men alone. He said that he had been at work among the men at Plum Creek and expressed great hopes of being able to have them join the general suspension. As near as can be learned a concerted effort will be made in the near future to bring out the men at Turtle Creek, Sandy Creek and Plum Creek mines.

Just what procedure will be resorted to has not yet been decided on. The officials feel that in order to make the strike a success in this district these miners must be brought out. They admit they have a difficult job on their hands, as De Armitt's men seem determined to remain at work. The mines are running to their fullest extent and are supplying a large quantity of coal to the trade.

The coal market has been quiet. Much coal was offered at $1.25 a ton. Slack took a big jump and sold for 85 cents a ton. Before the strike it was sold at 40 cents a ton. There are hundreds of tons of slack coal at the mines in the Pittsburg district, but the miners' officials will not permit any of it to be loaded.

A number of strikers interfered with men who were loading from barges into cars coal that had been purchased by W. H. Summonds, a dealer from C. Jutte & Co. The men were compelled to quit work. Miners' Secretary Warner disapproved of the action and issued orders to the strikers to molest no men who are handling coal that was mined before the strike was inaugurated.

Wheeling Men Refuse to Work.

Wheeling, July 21.—The 100 miners employed in the works of the Glendale Coal company, eight miles below here, have notified the management that they would not return to work. A few days ago the 60 cent rate was conceded to the men, with the understanding that they would not strike. Since then, however, the officials of the Panhandle district have been at work on the Glendale men, and their efforts have proved successful. The efforts of the miners will now be turned toward getting the Moundsville mines stopped, also the two or three still at work in other parts of the Panhandle district.

Notwithstanding desertions among the miners in the Fairmont district, large quantities of West Virginia coal are passing through Wheeling for the west and lakes. There has been no repetition of the driving of spikes into frogs on the Wheeling and Lake Erie, which occurred on Monday, and the miners' officials in the eastern Ohio district are strenuous in their denial of any knowledge of the act. So far there is no clew to the perpetrators.

The Canonsburg Situation.

Canonsburg, Pa., July 21.—Boone mine of the Canonsburg Coal company and the mine of Cook & Son at McGovern, which have resumed operations, ran all day yesterday without experiencing any trouble. These mines will be operated in full today. At the mine of Cook & Son about six miners refused to go in. They were given their tools and paid off. Six of the strikers from Millers run who came over were employed to take their places. The Enterprise mine has been closed. The men refused to work because they were told that Cook's men had joined the strikers. The Enterprise mine will resume, as the men have learned of their mistake.

The visit of the strikers had no effect whatever on the miners here, as they claim they were fooled last year and will not come out again. It is rumored that the miners are gathering again to come over to the mines. It is said there are 500 or 600 ready to move, and others from Toms run are going to join them.

Have Advertised For Hands.

Scottdale, Pa., July 21.—The Scottdale Iron and Steel company will attempt to resume operations with non-union men. An advertisement for men to take the places of the Amalgamated workers has been inserted in the Pittsburg papers, and the mill will be started as soon as a force is secured. The Amalgamated men say the company cannot get competent men and that no trouble will follow the appearance of nonunion men at the mill.

DOYLE GETS A PLUM.

The fight for the postmastership of Grand View, a little hamlet in Somerset county, was ended yesterday by the appointment of William Doyle. It will be remembered that it was said that Senator Reed was urging the claims of Doyle, who has been a staunch friend of the "Tall Sycamore from Somerset" in county conventions when the political life of the Senator was a trifle uncertain. Doyle's petition for the office was opposed by some of the patrons of the postoffice and it was threatened that if Senator Reed persisted in his advocacy of Doyle's claims he would receive but little support from that section again It was evident that the Senator's action was not influenced by such forces, however.

AMENDMENTS MAY BE BEATEN.

There is apparently very little interest felt in the State in the constitutional amendment election to be held in September, and if this feeling of indifference continues the fate of the racetrack amendment is problematical. There are active influences opposed to that amendment, and they will employ every means to encompass its defeat at the polls. It will be a deeply mortifying experience if the amendment should be defeated, and should this happen the good people of the State who have failed to vote, or to get their neighbors to vote, will know that they defeated the amendment by their default.—Newark Advertiser.

ONE WAY OF RAISING MONEY.

Chicago has set the pace, probably, for many other cities in levying a tax of one dollar a year upon bicycles and from two to ten dollars upon other vehicles, from which a revenue of over $1,000,000 annually is expected for the improvement of the streets. Efforts of the kind in some other cities have met with deserved failure because they have been directed at the bicycle alone. Few wheelmen will object to a moderate tax—it need not be anything near $1—if the sum is to be honestly devoted to the betterment of the highways, and no discrimination is to be shown among those who use the public streets.—Paterson Press.

THE JERSEY FARMER.

If New Jersey farmers would read the daily newspapers they might know something about the tricks and devices of the guileful bunco artist.—Tribune.

If The Tribune had said "farmer" its point would have been well taken and very opportune. However, it did not, and so we rise to say that as a class the New Jersey farmers are about as clever and as farseeing in perceiving a trick as any class of individuals on the face of the earth. When you fool a Jersey farmer count yourself a pretty slick man. He reads the papers and is generally well-informed in spite of the presumptious superiority of the urban citizen.

STRONG ARGUMENT.

The interview of a Press reporter with a prominent business man, published on annother page today, concerning the refusal of the Common Council to grant the petition for arc electric lights in the business section of the city, is prolific with good strong points why such unfavorable action was not justified. The points made by the business man ought to appeal with such force to the Council that the matter will be reconsidered and the petition granted.

COUNTY TAX RATE.

The County Board of Assessors finished their duties yesterday by fixing the county tax rate at .54, which is an increse of two points over that of last year.

No Sentiment

in this Piano business! We don't refrain from selling poor Pianos only because we're too conscientious. It's plain hard-headed business with us. We sell five times as many Pianos as anybody else in Jersey, because we have steadily refused to sell any but good ones, and people have come to recognize that here they are sure of fair treatment. Straight dealing is more profitable in the long run than crooked.

There's no sentiment about this. It pays.

Miss Louise Stillger is spending a week with friends in Freehold.

The Misses Hayes, of Fanwood, are spending several weeks in Tennessee.

Preparations are being made for the annual Sunday-school excursion to Ocean Grove, on August 3d. All the schools of Scotch Plains and Fanwood will participate.

The committee of the Scotch Plains Baptist church have issued the following announcement: "The 150th anniversary of the Scotch Plains Baptist Church will be commemorated on Thursday, the 5th of August, 1897. The peaceful village surroundings, the hallowed associations and the tender memories of the past will be a sufficient inducement to the old members and friends of the church to take this opportunity to visit the revered church home. A full and accurate history of the 150 years has been prepared and printed and will be ready on the occasion. An ample tent will be set up on the old church green and dinner and supper provided by the ladies of the church, and furnished without expense to all who will honor us by partaking of it. A cordial invitation is extended to all members and friends of the church wherever located, to be present at all or any of the three services of the day, morning, afternoon and evening. Trains leave New York and Newark via Jersey Central Railroad to Fanwood, at 8:40 and 10:00 a. m., 12:00 m., and 1:10, 1:30, 2:30, 3:30, 4:00 p. m. and later, and returning trains at convenient hours. Church stage will meet each train.

Edward N. Brown will lead the prayer meeting in the Congregational church tonight.

Mrs. Marie Austin, of Brooklyn, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. George T. Cruttenden.

The Westfield Building and Loan Association held a meeting last night and sold $2,000 stocks at auction.

Mrs. Miller and her daughter, Florence, of Mountain avenue, leave Monday for a week's visit at Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

"The Blessed Hope" will be the subject of the prayer meeting in the Baptist church tonight. Rev. G. A. Francis will lead.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Criswell, of Shippensburg, Pa., who have been visiting at the Presbyterian parsonage, returned home yesterday.

F. P. Condit and W. J. Bogert, Jr., played off their games in the tennis tournament yesterday afternoon, Condit winning by the scores, 6-3, 6 3.

The Gospel meeeting at the fresh air camp this evening will be in charge of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church, of Plainfield.

The prayer meeting in the lecture room of the Presbyterian church this evening will be in charge of the Christian Endeavor Society. "The Christians's Armor," will be the subject, and Miss Mary E. Cunningham will lead.

The Bard Cycle Company held a meeting yesterday afternoon and elected George L. Colgate president, and George W. Wrennick secretary. The company was recently incorporated with a capital stock of $5,000, of which $2,500 is paid in. Its specialty is the Keating bicycle.

The New York Avenue Baptist church will give an old fashioned Southern barbecue and lawn party at the church, tomorrow evening. The pastor, Rev. W. M. Dortch will be present, and members of the Mt. Olive and Fillmore Baptist churches, of Plainfield, will also attend. The proceeds will go into the church treasury.

The installation of officers of Westfield Lodge, No. 169, I. O. O. F., will take place this evening, and a large attendance of members and visiting delegates is expected, as this is the last installation that will take place under the leadership of the present grand officers, who are from this lodge. Another interesting fact concerning the installation is that it falls upon the birthday of District Deputy W. M. Stamets, who will have charge of the ceremonies, and a large number of his friends in other lodges will be present in honor of the occasion. He has been a member of Westfield Lodge since 1884. Among the visitors from out of town who will witness the ceremonies will be a delegation of Odd Fellows from Plainfield Lodge, No. 44. After the ceremonies a collation will be served.

The divinity which doth hedge a schooma'am doen't count for much with the Westfield Board of Education, if the action taken at its last meeting concerning the salary of one of its women teachers has any significance. Miss Brown is teacher of drawing and music in the Westfield schools at a salary of $45 a month. During May she was ill and unable to attend to her duties. Her expenses during the sickness were of course large, and it was supposed that the trustees would take a reasonable view of the matter and would pay her salary as usual for the period of her sickness.

When the Board met, however, and the matter began to be discussed, it became evident that a majority of the members were opposed to the payment of the salary.

A lively discussion followed during which the majority was reminded that it had established a precedent by paying Principal Edwards his salary for two months last fall when he was ill with typhoid fever.

The amount paid the principal in this way was $360.

No one objected to the payment of

PASSING COMMENT.

South Plainfield is the mecca to which all the Izaak Waltons wend their way now. Catfish are biting in a manner to bring joy to the fisherman's heart, and perched upon an old tin can or some other handy article, the fishermen intently watch the lines thrown from ten to fifty feet out into the pond in much the same manner as a cat watches a mouse or some other prey.

* * * *

In the line of sensations New Jersey offers more to the readers of the New York papers than does the metropolis itself. One of the latest is the divorce proceedings instituted by two Indians who went on a big drunk one day and woke up the next morning to find themselves married. They make affidavits to the effect that they were too drunk to know what they were doing and want the courts to declare the blessedness of being single men again.

* * * *

A Plainfield meat dealer, who has been making a trial for the past two or three weeks of an enclosed glass dust-proof and germ-proof delivery wagon, announces that the vehicle is a success in every particular, and he has given orders for two more of similar construction. The sides and top are of glass and in the bottom is a place for the storing of ice, so that when the meat is placed within the wagon and the doors closed, the interior is cool and perfectly protected from the dust particles and germs of various sorts with which the air of a city is laden. It would not be surprising if these enclosed delivery wagons soon came into general use in the city.

No matter how many pessimists cry that times are hard, there is one industry in Plainfield that is making rapid strides to large proportions, and that is the bootblacking business. No matter which way you walk in the business section of the city the cry of colored gent is heard thuswise:

"Polish, sah, black your shoes, shine 'em up. Give yere a nice polish there gent."

The boys who formerly filled this field of industry by scouring the town with a box containing their implements of trade slung over their back, have been superseded by the chairs that are stationed in front of every barber shop and almost on every street corner, wherein the customer sits in an easy attitude while his shoes are made to resemble a looking glass. The bootblacks in this city make between $3 and $12 a week.

City May Do the Work.

Asher Atkinson, the City Engineer of New Brunswick, hopes to complete the paving of College avenue, which was begun under the supervision of government experts, within another week. The work is more that half done. Several days ago the road machinery, which was sent to New Brunswick, was removed to New York state, where another experiment will be made. From the report that has been made by Engineer Atkinson it is believed that the road has been built at too great a cost.

Consumed too Much Coal.

Officials of the Central Railroad were in Plainfield this morning making an examination of the steam heating apparatus at the North Avenue station. Last winter the present system consumed almost thirteen cars of coal and this was not satisfactory to the company. It was decided that a new system should take the place of the one now in use and before long the change will be made.

PUTNAM & DEGRAW.

MRS. BEECHER'S GREAT LOVE.

Her Affection for Her Husband that Endured Until Her Own Death.

In preaching Mrs. Beecher's funeral sermon in Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, Rev. Dr. Abbott, who knew her well, said: "Her life could be summed in a word, 'Faithfulness,'" and that if he were asked to put an appropriate text upon her tombstone it would be: "Love is Stronger than Death."

Very few women have exemplified the rare fidelity of which she gave proof and the steadfast love which she bore. Her regard and affection were not lightly given; but, once won, they were true and enduring—always to be relied upon without diminution.

From when, as a young girl at the home of her parents, she first met Henry Ward Beecher in her 18th year to her marriage with him seven years later, during which period she resisted opposition to her wedding a penniless student, to her following him to their first home in Lawrenceburg, where they arrived with less than $1 in their possession, she showed the same unswerving devotion, and during the ten years of their western life, which were filled with many hardships, she was the faithful wife, wonderfully ingenious in covering up the bare spots and making $1 do duty for $5. This was an enormous advantage to the brilliant young preacher, whose impediments by her loving care were smoothed from his pathway, leaving a clearer field for his progress. After ten years of hardship in the West, she reached Brooklyn with her husband, who had been newly called to Plymouth Church as its pastor. Here, for the first time since her marriage, the full sunshine of comfort and prosperity shone upon Mrs. Beecher. Honor, wealth, the power to gratify desires, were hers, and above all her loved husband, who, from the first, was to her a great genius among men, was now so acknowledged and recognized by all who knew him.

Mrs. Beecher entertained many distinguished guests at her home. She assisted her husband wisely and efficiently in his undertakings. In the hour of the nation's need—the civil war—while his burning words were inducing the enlistment of regiments to assist the government in its peril, she was diligently employed in the effort to equip and subsist them until they were mustered into service. While he pleaded for the freedom of the slaves she was assisting to the best of her ability. When the day of Mr. Beecher's supreme trial came, the scandal that cost him so dear, his wife proved that calumny could not shake her opinion of his goodness. Mrs. Beecher looked into the subject, believed in her husband and loyally took her stand by his side, assisting his defense with all the force of her steadfast nature. During the period of that long trial in the Brooklyn city court (occupying about 150 days), she sat by her husband, her faith in him unshaken to the last. Well might Dr. Abbott say, as he did while conducting the services over her remains, "If I were asked to put an appropriate text upon her tombstone it would be: 'Love is Stronger than Death.'" Unchanged and unchangeable, her credence survived shocks that must have wrecked that of one less faithful, and her love, which knew no waning, was stronger than death.

Everything in her little house was a memento of her husband. His pictures were on every hand, with other relics of their happy married life. In her eighty-fourth year it was her craving desire to visit and spend her coming birthday with her son Herbert and his family at Port Townsend, Washington, but how to accomplish this object was the perplexing question. A way was found, however, through the kindness of great-hearted men in Chicago, who, admiring Mrs. Beecher's many excellencies of character displayed in her long life, arranged the trips and return from ocean to ocean, that she might, as she pathetically said, "once more see her 'gray-haired baby boy,'" of whom she was passionately fond.

The longing of the venerable mother for a last sight—last words with her child coming to the knowledge of H. H. Kohlsaat, he at once procured transportation by rail for herself and attendant, while P. D. Armour arranged for the accommodation in sleeping coaches. Her trip was a free will offering spontaneously given. It cost her nothing from her purse, everything being provided. For this her great gratitude to Chicago could not be adequately expressed. Of those friends who courteously enabled her to gratify the mother-longing in this last visit to her son she spoke or wrote most gratefully, while power remained for her to do so, to the last day of her life.

Coining Jokes

This is a common and very legitimate figure of speech as applied to the labors of burlesque writers and contributors to comic periodicals; but there is an instance in which a joke was actually coined, struck from a graven die, and issued from a legal mint. The fact is historical, and is as follows:

In the year 1679 the Danes advanced with a large force upon Hamburg, but after a siege of considerable duration, seeing little hope of ultimate success, they finally withdrew and marched back.

Thereupon the Hamburgers caused a medal to be struck in commemoration of the event. In one side of this numismatic curiosity was this inscription:

"The King of Denmark came before Hamburg. What he gained by it will be seen on the other side."

On the other side was a total blank.—Golden Days.

FATHER KNEIPP.

A Priest Known Throughout the World by Reason of His Water Cure.

Sebastian Kneipp was born on May 17, 1821, in Stefansried, Bavaria. He was a weak and sickly boy, and was expected to die of consumption in his youth. He became a weaver, and followed that trade till he reached his majority, when he turned to the Church and to medicine. In 1848 he began his experiments according to the ideas that have since made him noted, and succeeded first in restoring himself to perfect health. Then he began treating the country people about him, and with a success that caused his reputation to spread rapidly. His work in this way was continued for many years without pay. A few years ago he published an account of his treatment, entitled, "My Water Cure," which made him still more widely known. He had all these years attended to his patients personally, giving them baths himself and personally directing their treatment. So great were the demands on his time that finally the Kneipp-Verein was established, supported by charity, to take charge of the work. Two years ago the Pope sent for Dr. Kneipp to come to Rome and treat him for ailments that arose from a disordered stomach, and in his case Dr. Kneipp was highly successful. The Kneipp institution is now an immense affair, caring for twelve hundred patients, and with all conveniences, under the direction of twelve resident physicians.

Father Kneipp's system was introduced into this country last summer, when a sanitarium according to his methods was established in New Jersey. The chief elements of the system are application of sunshine, fresh air and water. Its most striking feature is the early morning walk, barefooted, in the dew, or even in the snow, that is required of patients. Though this has attracted the most attention, there are other more important matters insisted on, such as baths of certain kinds and frequency, the use of clothing of a sort to admit light and air, the prohibition of alcohol, and the limitation upon a meat diet.—New York Tribune.

HE ENJOYED THE BOOK.

And was Desirious of an opportunity to Read the Second Volume.

The Prussians tell a good story of an aide-de-camp to the King, Colonel Malachowki. The man was an exceedingly brave fellow, but very poor, and the King, noting this, hit upon the following plan for presenting him with some money without wounding his feelings. He had a book hollowed out and neatly bound in morocco. In it he deposited five hundred crowns in gold and then sent it to his aide. Malachowki met the King not long after, and in response to the question "How did you like the book?" he made the following reply:

"Sire, I enjoyed the book immensely. It was so excessively interesting that I am more than impatient to receive the second volume."

The King was much pleased at the reply, and when the officer's birthday came around he sent him another book similar in every respect, but engraved upon the front were the words, "This work is complete in two volumes."—Harper's Round Table.

Blind Watch-Makers.

There have been blind watch-makers. In former years there was one living at Holbeach, in Lincolnshire. His name was Rippin, and although completely blind he could take to pieces and put together again watches of most delicate construction with surpassing ease. He was robbed once of some of the tiny belongings of his trade, such as wheels, hair-springs, etc.; the thief was traced, and Rippin identified and swore to his property by the touch.

At Barnstaple, too, in the early part of the present century, there was another such prodigy. His name was William Huntley; he was born blind, and was brought up by his father, who was a clock and watch maker, to that business. The inhabitants had great faith in him, and he had plenty of employment; musical clocks and watches even were repaired by him without difficulty; and it is said that in some cases where other tradesmen had failed to discover a defect, he detected the fault, and set it right.—Tid-Bits.

Accomplishments of Royal Persons.

The Prince of Wales is said to have learned in his youth to make stockings. His son, the Duke of York, learned the trade of rope-making. His late cousin, the Czar Nicholas II, could plough, sow, and reap. The Emperor William is a practical typesetter. King Humbert is not only an excellent shoemaker, but cobbles also to perfection. Oscar of Sweden handles the axe with dexterity, like an approved woodman, not yielding the palm in this respect even to Mr. Gladstone. Queen Victoria is exceedingly fond of knitting. Not many days ago she finished a woolen coverlid and presented it to the oldest and most deserving of the inmates of an asylum for disabled working women in the Isle of Wight.

The Business for Him.

Mother—I wonder what we can do with Johnny, he has such a way of exaggerating everything. He is always making a mountain out of a mole-hill.

Father—I think, my dear, we had better make him a real-estate agent.—New York World

WHEN WE WERE BOYS.

An Incident of the Last Day of School Recalled.

When we lived in the country; when vacation began the Friday before the Fourth; when every boy and girl in the school dressed up in good clothes and "spoke a piece"—wasn't it a great day, that Friday before the Fourth? All the school trustees were there; your mother came, and you wished she wouldn't look at you and smile so much. You were afraid the boys would tease you when school was out, and call you "Mamma's pet."

You got up early in the morning and went into the garden and picked sweet elysiums and old-fashioned clove pinks and sweetbriar roses and Bouncing Betties and bachelor buttons and white and pink sweet peas. Your grandmother made them into a nosegay, and ran to school without stopping to look for a bird's nest. All the boys and girls were there early. Each one brought a basketful of flowers. The teacher had her clean pink muslin pinned up over her stiff white skirts. She was standing on the platform, bossing the big girls. The big girls were making wreaths of oak and maple leaves. They pinned the leaves together with their green stems.

"When Freedom from her mountain heights
Unfurls her standard to the air."

The teacher sent the big boys out for big maple branches, and the big boys went whooping off to the grove.

When you went in the door with your nosegay all the big girls exclaimed "Oh, ain't it lovely!" and the little girls said "Teacher, teacher, here's more flowers!" Then you went into the entry and put the flowers in a great tub full of ferns. Then the teacher called you in and said "Now, you little fellows, come hand me the flags." The teacher climbed up on her desk and you little fellows handed her the flags. Then the teacher nailed the flags up above the blackboard, crossed just like the flags in a picture. All the big girls stood off and said "A little more to the left," and "Now that's right," until the flags were just right.

Some one who was very clever and who was going to the city to be an artist some day had drawn two beautiful blue-chalk eagles on the board. And some one who could write better than the teacher had written "Hurrah for the Glorious Fourth!" in red chalk. Altogether the blackboard looked beautiful to you.

Then the big boys came tramping in with the maple boughs. When the boughs were all nailed up, and when the wreaths drooped in festoons around the room, the teacher took the bouquets and set one on each desk. Then she unpinned her pink skirts and rustled them all out, nice and stiff, marched up on the platform and rang the bell. You all scuffled to your seats and folded your arms from ear to ear with pure delight and excitement.

The teacher touched the bell again and you all stood up like soldiers. She touched it again and you all burst out singing "Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue." The little girl in the seat across the aisle looked just like a little wild rose, in her fresh dress, with a bunch of flowers pinned to her belt. The boy in front of you had a deep bass voice, he couldn't get a tune and he just mumbled along.

He couldn't keep his eyes off the girl across the aisle, either, and you made up your mind you'd have something to say to him when school was out. When the song was done the teacher called "John," and a big boy lumbered up to the platform and recited "At Midnight in His Guarded Tent." He was giggling at the time. The teacher scolded and he said he could not help it.

Four little girls got up and sang the song of the four seasons. Then you recited "The Midnight Ride of Paul Revere." You forgot your lines and stammered, and went on again. A funny little girl recited "Barbara Frietchie." Before you knew it the morning was gone and the rehearsal was over.

Some one knocked and there stood the trustees; some one else knocked, and there stood the minister; and then a whole stream of people came, a perfect crowd, fifteen or twenty. They filled the little schoolroom up, and you kept thinking of that awful ride of Paul Revere. All you could remember was "Now listen, my children, an' you shall hear."——

At that moment the teacher rang the bell and you found yourself standing, you didn't know how. And before you knew it "Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue" rang through the little school house with a vigor and a fire in it that would have moved a multitude to enthusiasm.

When the "last day" was over and the Fourth came, do you remember the getting up at sunrise? Do you remember the torpedoes you put in the cracks of the door hinges? Do you remember the picnic, and the oration, and the fireworks in the evening? Do you remember—but these are never forgotten.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

MURDERER LYNCHED.

Report Confirmed of the Hanging of Dr. Ryder by a Mob.

Atlanta, July 21.—Dispatches received from Talbotton confirm the reported lynching near there of Dr. W. L. Ryder, who murdered Miss Sallie Emma Owen at Talbotton a year ago.

When the case against Ryder was called, Judge Hart, on the evidence that the leading counsel for Ryder could not be present on account of sickness, continued the case until the regular term in September. Ryder was to have been returned to Muscogee jail on the 8:20 p. m. train, and was taken to Waverly hall, the nearest station from Talbotton, for that purpose.

A few minutes after the deputies arrived at the station a mob took the prisoner from the officers and returned with him to a point just across the county line and there lynched him. His body was found hanging from a limb at an early hour in the morning.

Deputy Sheriff Murphy, who was in charge of the prisoner, says that in company with Mr. Boswell and Dr. Ryder he reached Waverly hall just before dark in a carriage and that the prisoner was seated in the rear seat. He sat on the left of Ryder and Boswell on the seat in front. Just after dark Boswell, who was looking out of the carriage window, exclaimed, "Look out, there is a man on a horse!"

"There they come!" he shouted, and in an instant the two deputies were on the ground and found themselves covered by pistols.

The mob ordered them to throw up their hands and deliver their pistols. This Murphy says he refused to do at first, but his pistol was snatched from his hands. Then he began to plead with the crowd for the safety of his prisoner, but was immediately ordered to shut up.

Ryder made but little resistance to the mob and while they were dragging him from the carriage did not utter a word.

The prisoner was placed in another carriage and driven back to Talbot county and hung to a tree just over the line, near the house of J. C. Willis. The mob, while returning with Ryder from Waverly hall, was met by Sheriff Richards and his posse, but owing to the darkness the sheriff could not distinguish the persons nor gain any clew to their identity.

Richards was informed by the men who had Ryder in charge that he was too late, so he pushed on to Waverly hall, only to find that he had been misled.

The action of the mob is ascribed to the indignation of the people at the case being continued. It is also said that the friends of the prosecution had given up all hope of ever bringing Ryder to the gallows, by reason of his being insane.

Steamer Aground.

Montreal, July 21.—At the offices of the Dominion line, the agents of the Furness line, it is stated that the Baltimore City is aground in the straits of Belle Isle. The ship is commanded by Captain Matthews and has a crew of 25 men and about a dozen cattlemen board. The Baltimore City is a steel vessel built at Glasgow in 1888. She is of 1,534 tons register and is 290 feet long, 39.1 feet beam and 22.8 feet deep. She hailed from West Hartlepool. She is a freight steamer.

China to Reorganize Her Army.

London, July 21.—The Daily Mail's Berlin correspondent says that China is about to reorganize her army on the lines of the German military and that orders for rifles have been placed in Germany. A new Chinese fleet is to be constructed, half of the contracts for the new vessels going to England and half to Germany. The Armstrongs will supply the guns for the new fleet.

Actor Ratcliffe Gets an Order.

Monticello, N. Y., July 21.—Actor E. J. Ratcliffe has obtained an order from the judge of Sullivan county compelling a Dr. Lyon of New York to appear within 24 hours and show cause why he has Ratcliffe's wife Florence detained. Dr. Lyon is at White Lake, Sullivan county, a popular summer resort for New York city people, and has Mrs. Ratcliffe with him.

A Strike Settled.

Detroit, July 21.—S. G. Carter, national secretary of the Metal Polishers, Platers and Buffers' union, has announced that the 18 months' strike of the polishers employed by the Overman Wheel company at Chicopee, Mass., had been settled and declared off. The cause of the strike was alleged discrimination by the company against union men.

Archbishop Corrigan's Tour.

Buffalo, July 21.—Most Rev. M. A. Corrigan, archbishop of the diocese of New York, who is making an archiepiscopal tour, has been entertained here by Bishop Quigley and the clergy of the diocese of Buffalo. A yachting trip on the Niagara river was followed by a luncheon at the bishop's residence on Delaware avenue.

Death of a Jersey Judge.

Elizabeth, N. J., July 21.—Judge George Neill, who for three years past has been a police justice, died of Bright's disease. He had been ill several months. Three years ago he was made a police justice and had another year to serve. He was prominent in the fraternity of Odd Fellows.

England and Bimetallism.

London, July 21.—The negotiations between the American bimetallic commission and the representatives of France and Great Britain have now reached the stage which renders it extremely probable that Great Britain will agree to participate in a conference to be held in Washington next fall.

Lake Erie and Western Dividend.

New York, July 21.—At a meeting of the board of directors of the Lake Erie and Western Railroad company the usual quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent on the preferred stock was declared, payable Aug. 14. The books of the preferred stock will close on the 31st inst. and reopen Aug. 16.

Armistice Signed In Montevideo.

London, July 21.—A dispatch from Montevideo says that a 22 days' armistice between the insurgents and the government troops has been signed, pending negotiations for a compromise. A proposal has been made to nominate Senor Ramirez as a candidate for the presidency.

CONFERENCE REPORT

FOR THE COMPETITOR PRISONERS.

Representative Mitchell Introduced a Bill Into the House Asking the Establishment of a Reserve Fund For Redemption of Notes.

Washington, July 21.—The tariff conference report has been presented to the senate, though but little progress has thus far been made on it beyond the formal reading of about two-thirds of the report. There is no indication of when the final vote will be reached.

Mr. Tillman (Dem.) of South Carolina openly threatened a filibuster until next December if cotton bagging and cotton ties were not restored to the free list, but the threat was regarded as somewhat facetious.

The sugar amendments occasioned a long debate, during which Mr. Allison stated that the conference rates were lower than those of the senate and largely a concession to the house. Senators Vest, Jones, Berry and White questioned this statement, urging that the Sugar trust secured larger benefits from the conference schedule than from any previously offered.

The senate passed a joint resolution authorizing and requesting the president to take all necessary steps for the release of the Competitor prisoners from prison in Havana.

Representative Mitchell of New York has introduced in the house a bill to establish a currency reserve fund for the redemption of United States notes and treasury notes of 1890. The fund shall aggregate at the start $150,000,000, of which not over $1,000,000 shall consist of gold and the remainder of United States and treasury notes.

The fund shall be added to from time to time as the treasury's cash balance exceeds $75,000,000, but shall never aggregate more than $200,000,000. The fund shall be used to redeem United States and treasury notes, which shall not be reissued except in exchange for gold to be deposited in the reserve fund.

Land Districts For Alaska.

Washington, July 21.—Commissioner Hermann of the general land office has stated that he will recommend the establishment of two land districts in western Alaska, the two offices to be placed on the Yukon river or its tributaries, in anticipation of a great number of contentions over mineral land locations in various sections where the gold discoveries have lately been made. He says that as that region is practically without law, especially as to the settlement of contests, the local land offices will be of infinite value to the land interests and indirectly to the preservation of law and order. The offices, it is probable, will be located at Circle City and Dawson City. The general land office is in hourly expectation of petitions and requests for some such action.

Pension Decision Reversed.

Washington, July 21.—Assistant Secretary of the Interior Webster Davis has reversed the action of the pension bureau in rejecting the claim for back pension made by Mrs. Louisa V. Kilpatrick, widow of the famous major general, and has reopened the claim for further adjudication. She probably will get the pension, as the evidence shows that the cause of General Kilpatrick's death, Bright's disease, was incurred in the service. The widow already draws a pension conferred by congress in 1884, but the claim is for a pension from Dec. 2, 1881, date of his death, to July 1, 1884, date of the action by congress.

Collectors Must Make Liquidation.

Washington, July 21.—The treasury department has notified the collectors of customs at New York and other ports to make final liquidation of all entries made since the passage of the tariff bill by the house. The bill as it passed the house, it will be remembered, contained a retroactive clause, and under this clause Secretary Gage ordered only tentative liquidations. As this retroactive feature was discarded by the conferees the secretary has ordered final liquidations.

Lynching In Iowa, Perhaps.

Sioux City, Ia., July 21.—Both night and day shifts of the local police force, every deputy sheriff in the county and a dozen posses of citizens are scouring the territory about Sioux City in search of the assailant of Nellie Anderson, the daughter of W. B. Anderson. He was probably a tramp, and if captured he will certainly be killed. Twice within a week have such crimes been committed in the county.

Bellwood Makes an Assignment.

Philadelphia, July 21.—William A. Bellwood, the dealer in antiques who is under arrest in New York on the charge of swindling jewelers, has made an assignment for the benefit of creditors to William Shippen Roney, attorney at law. Maurice Joly, Bellwood's partner, joined with him in the deed. The firm's place of business here was at 1332 Walnut street. The document conveys no real estate.

Emperor William's Injury.

Berlin, July 21.—The Reichsanzeiger publishes a bulletin from Emperor William's physician, the Duke of Bavaria, saying that an examination of his majesty's eye, which was recently injured by a blow from a piece of rope at Oddo, shows that the sight is in no sense impaired, though there are still symptoms of irritation, compelling the exercise of great care in the use of the organ.

Secretary Gage to Visit Boston.

Boston, July 21.—Secretary of the Treasury Gage has accepted the invitation of some 70 of the most prominent business men of Boston to attend a dinner given in his honor next Tuesday evening. The dinner will be given at the Hotel Tuilleries. Secretary Gage will be the only guest.

Mrs. Creede's Claim.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 21.—Mrs. N. C. Creede has arrived from Iuka, Miss. She refused to say anything about her projected contest for the estates of the dead miner except that she would claim about two-thirds of the estate.

MRS. JACOB TODD FOUND.

Lived on Berries in Picket Mountain Since July 6th.

Mrs. Jacob Todd, a widow, 55 years old, who disappeared from her home on July 6th, and who has eluded her relatives and friends by hiding in Picket Mountain and vicinity ever since, was captured at Stanton late yesterday and removed to her home in Fairmount, Tewksbury township, Hunterdon county.

The death of Mrs. Todd's husband recently is supposed to have unbalanced her mind. The day following her disappearance M. R. Cook, administrator of her husband's estate, offered a reward for her apprehension. The woman's relatives were joined by neighbors, who made an extensive search for her. She was reported to have been seen in Round Valley, Lebanon, Annandale, Clinton and other nearby towns.

The last seen of her prior to yesterday was last Tuesday morning about 5 o'clock, when Peter Schafer was driving to White House. He reported the incident, and a posse numbering fifty persons searched, but failed to find her. Mrs. Todd appeared at the residence of Johnson Gary, near Stanton, yesterday afternoon, and asked for something to eat. Charles Yawger happened to call at the house then and recognized her. Yawger told Mrs. Todd that he was an officer, and she readily consented to accompany him to White House and later to her comfortable home in Fairmount.

Her friends think that by careful nursing she will be restored to her usual health. Mrs. Todd says she lived on berries and slept out of doors mostly during her absence. She remembers seeing the searching party hunting for her.

A Golf Comparison.

The devotees of the popular game of golf will be interested in a special article which is to appear in next Saturday's issue of the Evening Post. The subject will be a comparison of the different styles of the leading players, and it will be such an article as will not only interest, but will prove instructive to, most players.

The golf department of the Evening Post is like all the other departments of that paper, in charge of an expert, and, consequently, is considered a leading authority in matters of tennis, cricket, whist, chess and other prominent sports, the Evening Post has made for itself a very enviable name. At the recent Whist Congress, which met at Put-in-Bay, the Evening Post was the universal favorite among the expert players, so many of whom were present from all parts of the country.

We Have Devoted

Exempts Anniversary Day.

The Plainfield Exempt Firemen's Association is making preparations to celebrate its tenth anniversary on Thursday, July 29th. The trustees of the association held a meeting last evening and arranged many of the details. It is the purpose of the officers to make the celebration a notable affair. One of the features will be a dinner, to be served in the association rooms on Park avenue in the evening.

Ten Horses Pulled.

The big boiler located in the North Plainfield Electric Light Station was removed today to Greenbrook, where Charles Sebring will use it in connection with his electric light works. It required ten horses to move the boiler, which is an exceedingly large one.

Louis Darling, of South avenue, rode to Asbury Park, yesterday morning. He expected to return in the evening, but the rain prevented him from so doing.

A THIEF PURSUED.

Caught in the Street and a Hand to Hand Fight Ensued.

Two men were seen to grapple with each other and struggle on West Second street at 8 o'clock this morning. At length one of the men, Moses Bender, the West Second street shoemaker, snatched a piece of sole leather from under the other's arm and belabored him about the head with it.

"I'll teach you to steal, you villian," he cried, punctuating the sentence with blows. The object of his ire soon freed himself and fled down West Second street. He was John Vintella, a shoemaker living in Battle Row, a famous tenement on West Fourth street, near Plainfield avenue.

This morning he went into Bender's shop to purchase a piece of leather, and Bender alleged that his caller helped himself to another piece which he concealed under a bundle in his arm.

Bender refused to have the man arrested.

WANTS REDRESS FOR CAT'S DEATH.

Joseph Sherman's Angora Ruthlessly Filled With Shot.

Joseph Sherman, of Lawrence avenue, Westfield, is trying to find out what redress there is for a man whose pet cat is ruthlessly killed. Mr. Sherman was the owner of a particularly fine puss of the Angora species, which he valued at $20.

On Monday night the animal was left out of doors and the next morning its body was found riddled with bullets in a vacant lot nearby.

The owner of the cat suspected a neighbor of the shooting and went to a justice of the peace to set the law in operation against the offender. The justice, however, informed Sherman that there was no cause of action for the killing of a cat as the animal is not classed as personal property, as dogs are.

The man suspected of the killing denies it, and Mr. Sherman is now trying hard to discover who is responsible for his pet's untimely taking off.

A SAFE ENTRANCE.

Charles H. Hand to Make Alterations to Cycle Academy.

Charles H. Hand, owner of the Pierce Cycle Academy, has decided upon a plan that will obviate the dangerous features that now characterize the narrow front entrance to the building. The partition to the front office siding on the present hallway will be suspended on a metal track with rollers and hinges and whenever the building is used for conventions or public purposes, where crowds of people will assemble, the partition will be run to one side of the room on the rollers and thus add the present width of the office to the entrance leading from the doors. Of course, this will necessitate the changing about of the office fixtures each time but that will be comparatively little work and will provide an easy and satisfactory method of complying with the law.

PRINT EXHIBIT PLANNED.

Camera Club Arranging for an Active Season This Winter.

The preliminary plans for the coming photographic exhibition of the Plainfield Camera Club were made at the meeting of the club on Monday evening. A committee of ten was appointed to take charge of the exhibition which, it is expected, will be opened to the amateur photographers of the State. There will be awards for the best prints in each class. The committee was selected as follows: Harold, Serrell, chairman; Harry Coward, Harry W. Marshall, J. Hervey Doane, Asa F. Randolph, John E. Stewart, Mrs. A. W. Rand, George E. Hall, Edmund Rushmore, Henry W. Webb and Robert L. Lee.

J. C. H. Hall and G. W. V. Moy were elected members of the club.

—Prof. O'Reilly furnishes music for a picnic at High Bridge on the 31st.

—Rev. Charles E. Herring will address the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Sunday afternoon.

—Bathing hours at Asbury Park next Tuesday—the day of the Baptist Sunday-schools excursion—are from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

—The funeral services of Ethel, the twin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Feiring, of West Third street, took place this afternoon from the house at 2:30 o'clock. Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

RECKLESS DRIVING.

After Running Down a Carriage and Wheelmen, The Drivers Disappeared.

A horse going on a dead run, with a buggy attached containing three unknown men, ran into a buggy occupied by William Bartell, of Washingtonville, and a young woman, Sunday evening, on the county road between Netherwood and Plainfield, and threw both the occupants out. The horse was also thrown and two wheels of the buggy wrecked. The strangers went on and ran into three wheelmen from Elizabeth.

Fred Brown, one of the wheelmen, was badly bruised and had his wheel wrecked. The others escaped serious injury to themselves or wheel.

Dr. Herbert came along after the accident and took home Mr. Bartell and his companion, neither of whom was seriously injured. The horse was taken to a stable.

The only trace to the identity of the stranger was a set of house plans that were dropped from the unknown buggy. Mr. Bartell intends to trace them up and have them punished if it is possible.

MURDERER'S RESTING PLACE.

Long Mystery Which Hung Over the Grave of John Fox.

For nearly half a century the burial place of John Fox, the murderer of John Henry, who was hanged in New Brunswick in 1856, has been a mystery. There was a great deal of interest taken in the execution. Some New York men who witnessed it wanted to gain possession of Fox's body, thinking they might make some money by exhibiting it. They watched the jail narrowly in hope of ascertaining where it would be buried.

The night after the execution Sheriff Acken smuggled the corpse out of the jail. Because he drove to his home first it was long supposed that he had buried the body on his farm. Instead, he drove to Smith's road house, on the road to Piscataway-town, which was then occupied by David and John Kirkpatrick, and rousing the family, interred the remains at the foot of one of the large trees on the place. Many efforts to find where the body rested were made, but all proved fruitless, as the Kirkpatrick brothers held their tongues. It was only recently that the facts were made known.

New Jersey Guardsmen.

The rain of last night made the camp ground at Sea Girt soggy again this morning, but nevertheless the members of the Fourth Regiment executed the different drills cleverly. Since the arrival of the men in camp it has rained more or less every day. Nearly all the men have recovered from the attack of "camp cholera" from which more than 100 of them were suffering on Monday. The regiment is today cleaning up its uniforms and helmets preparatory to the reception of Gov. Griggs, tomorrow.

Colored People Married.

Mrs. Julia Ferguson and Isaac Thompson were united in marriage last evening by Rev. W. M. Dueth, at the residence of Charles Barber, 508 West Fourth street. The bride and groom are colored people who have lately come to this city from Virginia. They will make their home in this place.

—Orrin Holmes went on a fishing trip to Sebring's Mills today.

—There was only one case to come before Justice Newcorn today. The contract case of Reed et al., against Hawthorne et al., was tried and judgment rendered for the plaintiff.

—On Friday evening of this week the trustees of the East Third Street Mission will meet and consider the plans for the new chapel to be erected on East Third street this summer.

Mrs. H. S. Taylor, of 61 Fairview avenue, left yesterday for Cape Cod, Mass.

A Tale of Divorce.

Its Author Prostrated By Overwork.

Hammersmith is a suburb of London. Its inhabitants are interested in Mrs. Ellen B. Wayne, a young woman of literary tastes, who lost her health through overwork. Her color left her, her appetite gradually disappeared, she became sleepless, nervous and restless, she was so exhausted, that after working at her table for four consecutive hours, she fainted while writing "A Tale of Divorce." Her physician said, "she has nearly divorced body from soul, she needs iron."

Five weeks later the story was published, and Mrs. Wayne, through taking Capsuloids alone, had become one of the rosiest of English women.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price by The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York.

AN ORDINANCE

WHEREAS, The Common Council has judged and hereby judges that the public good requires the widening of Westervelt Avenue between the points named in the title of this ordinance, therefore,

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Westervelt Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, from the northwesterly side line of East Front Street to a point one hundred and eight and 66-100 feet southeast of Orange Place, be widened and laid out so that said Westervelt Avenue shall be of the uniform width of twenty-five feet on each side of the center line thereof, which said center line is described as follows: Beginning at a point in the northwesterly side line of East Front Street, said point being distant three hundred twenty-four and 56-100 feet in a southwesterly direction along said northwesterly side line of East Front Street, from the centre line of Sandford Avenue, as now laid out and opened; and running from said point in a magnetic course of north forty-four degrees and fifty-six minutes west, a distance of three hundred sixty and 2-100 feet to the northwesterly line of property owned by William C. Kelly.

The land to be taken for the widening of said Westervelt Avenue includes that portion of the property of Antoinette De Baud, Mrs. Sarah Bird and William C. Kelly, which lies between the present Southwesterly side line of said Avenue as now laid out and opened and a line parallel with the center line of said Avenue and distant therefrom tweny-five (25) feet in a Southwesterly direction.

The land to be taken and the lines of Westervelt avenue, as the same is hereinabove ordered to be widened, are shown on a map on file with the City Clerk, entitled: "Assessment Map for the widening of Westervelt Avenue from East Front Street to a point 108.66 feet Southeast of Orange Place, March, 1897," to which reference is hereby made for greater certainty.

Adopted by the Common Council July 8, 1897; approved by the Mayor July 12, 1897.

THREATENED THE CADI.

A PRISONER GROWS HYSTERICAL IN THE CITY COURT.

Said He Was a Free American Citizen and Demanded to be Released As He Had a Position—Insolence Cost Him 20 Days.

"I'm a free American citizen," exclaimed the prisoner. "And this is an outrage." The Judge made no reply.

"Aren't you going to discharge me?" demanded the prisoner.

"I said $3 or ten days," replied the City Judge.

The prisoner in question was William Harris, of Jersey City, who was arrested last evening by Patrolman McCarthy for sleeping in an empty freight car near the North Avenue station.

"I tell you I've got a job up the road," shouted the prisoner. "I would have been half way there by this time. Why don't you arrest those that do something. I haven't done anything. You've no right to send me to prison!"

"Take him out," said the Judge to Patrolman McCue.

"What? You are going to condemn me to jail?" fairly screamed the stranger and he turned his one eye full on the Judge. "All right, I'll go. I'll lose the job. But," he half whispered as he turned to the little group of officers and reporters who were gathered by the rail, his one eye blazing with wrath, "I'll pay somebody for this if it takes ten years. I'll fix 'em some day. Wait!"

Then he burst into hysteric cries declaring that he was innocent and that be was being driven crazy. Terrible threats followed each other and the dingy old jail resounded with his yells.

"Make it $5 or twenty days," commanded Judge DeMeza, "And tell that man unless he stops that noise, I'll make it five months." Patrolman McCarthy conveyed the message and a fresh outburst was heard. The officer who made the arrest explained that Harris had been inclined to resist when arrested and had sworn terribly at him and everything that came in his path.

There were three other men who had been arrested with Harris and who had been quiet spectators of the little scene already described. Henry Smith, formerly a farm laborer, could not give a good account of himself and was sent to jail for ten days.

Andrew Fisher and Mike Crummel, two stove polishers, told a pathetic and creditable little story of their wanderings and were released.

Charles E. Maxwell, a hatter from Reading, was going home to Jersey City, having spent his last cent in an endeavor to get work. He was an inoffensive looking character, who had been taken off a night train by patrolman Saffron. Sentence was suspended on him.

Andy Gallagher was found fast asleep in the gutter on Liberty street, last evening, by Patrolman Higgins. He admitted the facts and said that he was drunk. He had never been arrested before and so the Judge let him off with the one night in jail with the creeping and crawling things.

NEW PASSENGER STATION.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey has begun the operation of a new ferry between the foot of Whitehall street and the Jersey City terminal.

The great convenience of such a ferry will readily be appreciated by those that desire to reach almost any part of New York city, Brooklyn or Staten Island. Adjoining the Whitehall street terminal are the Brooklyn and Staten Island ferries and the steamboat line for Coney Island and Manhattan Beach via Bay Ridge. The four lines of elevated railroad terminate here, as well as the Broadway cable and belt line street railroads, making it the most central point in New York city.

Ladies on shopping missions, persons destined to the theatres and Coney Island will find this the shortest, most direct and convenient route.

Ferryboats "Easton" and "Mauch Chunk," both new, are in service and make half-hourly trips between Jersey City and New York, connecting direct with principal trains.

Snowballs on July 5th.

C. V. Cuyler, of Washington avenue, has just returned from a three weeks' trip in western States, during which he made the ascent of Pike's Peak and enjoyed snowballing in July. His name appears in the Pike's Peak News as one of the arrivals on Monday, July 5th. The fact that this was one of the hottest days in this section of the country, and that Mr. Cuyler enjoyed throwing snow balls on the peak that day, shows what a great and wonderful country we live in. The west is a great section, Mr. Cuyler says, but he would rather live right in Plainfield.

RAIN IS INJURING CROPS

FARMERS ARE SUFFERITG FROM THE CONTINUAL DOWNPOUR.

Unable to Get Their Products Into Barns—Merchants Wear Long Faces, While Their Clerks Have an Easy Time of It.

The nursery rhyme of "rain, rain, go away, and come some other day," reflects the child's wish as well as its parents at this particular time. A few drops of water descended from the clouds last Friday and Saturday, and they were welcomed by the whole populace with the hope that they would have a cooling effect on old Mother Earth, whose denizens had been sweltering in a blistering hot sun for days. But the slight sprinkles were followed by the appearance of Old Sol in all his glory, and the people as one man wished for more rain. And they have it—more than they want.

Sunday morning those weary with their week's work awoke to hear pattering rain drops striking the ground with a splash that denoted they were coming with considerable force. A casual glance out of the window showed small rivulets in street gutters, while ponds of murky water stood in the undrained places of the roads.

"My, but isn't that fine," said the people who had been wishing for rain, and they were many.

They got up, partook of their morning meal, sat down to read the paper and waited for the rain to stop so that they might go to church. As if scheduled for their convenience there was a letup of the downpour for a little while. Then it rained some more. Then it stopped again. Then it started again, and so it has been going on ever since. And now the people say:

"Will the rain ever stop?"

All lines of business is affected by the unfavorable weather conditions and merchants wear long faces while clerks loll about stores waiting for customers that do not come.

There was no class of people who felt the need of rain more than the farmers, but now there is none who are more apprehensive of serious results from its long continuation than the agriculturists. There are hundreds of acres of grain in fields that is in danger of being ruined, if it is not already so. Acres of rye, barley, hay and other farm products are soaked with the water and liable to not before the rain ceases and they become dry enough to store in barns.

MAYOR TIED LOVE KNOT.

BOROUGH'S EXECUTIVE OFFICIATED IN A PLEASANT CAPACITY.

Young People Who Do Not Believe in Ordained Ministers Sought Mr. Wilson to Make Them Happy in Marital Bliss.

Mayor Wilson, of the borough, was called upon last evening to perform a marriage—his first duty this kind. The bride was Miss Mary Emily Cathcart and the groom Andrew Rea Stevens, both of the borough, and the ceremony was performed at the bride's home, Rockview Heights. The groom is a New York business merchant, while the bride is a most estimable young woman of the borough. Both are members of the Christian church, and owing to the fact that the members of that church do not believe in regular orda ned ministers, they called on the Mayor to perform the ceremony in a condensed form.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens will reside in the borough where they have both lived for sometime past.

WEDDED AT MOUNT OLIVE

North Plainfield Young Couple Joined in Matrimony

The marriage of Miss Anna Johnson and Harper Luck, both of North Plainfield was celebrated last evening at 8 o'clock in the Mt. Olive Baptist church. Rev. P. S. Gibson officiated in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. The bride was gowned in white satin trimmed with cream lace and satin ribbons, and wore a veil and orange blossoms. The bridemaid, Miss Mary Swackhammer, wore a gown of white trimmed with satin ribbons and lace. The maid of honor, Miss Ethel Johnson, sister of the bride, was also gowned in white. The flower girl was Marie Lemon. The best man was Daniel Thomas, of Sing Sing, N. Y.

Constitution Adopted.

The home Mr. and Mrs. Milton C. Barkalew, 85 Duer street, has been brightened by the presence of a little girl, born early this morning.

ALL EIGHT MAY RETURN.

LONG SERVICE IS AN ADVANTAGE IN THE HOUSE OF CONGRESS.

Jerseymen Have Not Been Much Inclined to Return Congressman for More Than a Term But Now a Different Feeling Exists.

There is a possibility that all eight of the Republican Congressman in New Jersey will be returned, says the Philadelphia Press. In some districts, this may be against the custom, but the Republicans are not such sticklers for political custom as they have been in the past. The general constitutency are beginning to discover that a good Congressman gains rather than loses by a long term as Congressman.

As the custom has been, a Jersey Congressman seldom ever acquired any prestige in the House of Representative, because he was hardly educated to the duties before his term was over and he went back to civil life. Other States have continued their Congressman as long as they were worthy, and as a result they acquired prominence and became of great value to themselves.

When Congressman Loudenslager, of the First District, came up for the third term, there was a general howl throughout his district about custom and precedent. He secured the nomination and has proven what his friends claimed for him, that the longer a good man stays in Congress the more valuable he becomes to his constituents. Congressman Loudenslager has received more recognition than any recent Jerseyman in Congress, and the other Congressmen see what continuous service has done for him. There is no doubt of his getting the fourth term. The same honor will go to Congressman Gardner, who has been of great value to the pottery manufacturers of his district in securing for them a proper schedule in the tariff bill. In the Third the general disposition is to give Congressman Howell a third term. There is, however, a candidate in the field against him, and that is Senator Reed, of Somerset, but it is understood Reed will withdraw when he finds how general is the demand for Howell's reelection.

In the Fourth Congressman Pitney will surely be returned unless he becomes the Republican candidate or Governor. In the Fifth there is some doubt about Congressman James Stewart getting the third term. It is said that Vice-President Hobert and Governor Griggs favor the nomination of Col. William S. Barbour. He is a wealthy silk manufacturer, who is growing fond of public life. Congressman Stewart is not in any mood to give up the office without a struggle, and a very warm fight can be had in this district.

Congressmen Parker, McEwan and Fowler are all in the line for a renomination. The Jersey delegation was unusually strong and there could be no mistake made in returning the whole eight members. This is likely to happen.

ST. MARY'S EXCURSION OFF.

The Peltering Rain Caused a Postponement of the Event.

A steady downpour of rain effectually drowned the excursion of St. Mary's church to Asbury Park, this morning. There was simply no use of thinking of going to the seashore on a day like today and the excursion was postponed until a later date. There were quite a number who came down to the North Avenue station, this morning, to see if the excursion would not go after all. Some waited around the station for some time and then departed homeward to think of the good time they might have had.

For the Fresh Air Fund.

A children's fair will be held on Saturday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Ross, 721 Plainfield avenue, corner West Eighth street. The proceeds are to go to the fresh air fund and is under the management of Jeanie Douglass, Florence Macloy and May Batchelor. If the weather is stormy the fair will be postponed to Monday afternoon. Mrs. Ross has kindly given the use of her lawn, and it is hoped that the fair will be liberally patronized.

Stole Valuable Chickens.

Thieves entered the premises of William Swanson, a Passaic Valley farmer, Monday, and breaking an entrance into the chicken house, departed with 127 chickens, mostly valuable Plymouth Rock fowls. The family was away at the time and on their return they found their faithful watchdog had been given poison and that the robbery had been committed.

Granted a Pension.

NEW WATER COMPANY.

TO SUPPLY A SECTION HERETOFORE WITHOUT GOOD SUPPLY.

It is Expected That the Effect Will be the Inducement of Manufaturing Concerns to Use the New Water Supply.

A new water company has just been formed by consolidation of the Midland Water Company and Middlesex Water Company. The original companies were organized about a year ago. The Midland Water Company pany acquired extensive water rights at South Plainfield, in Middlesex county, capable of supplying at least 10,000,000 gallons of pure water daily. The water is obtained from wells driven through sand rock to the depth of 200 feet. Water flows from the wells without pumping.

The Middlesex Water Company was organized to supply the village of Woodbridge, and factories and railroads along the sound in the vicinity of Cartaret.

The consolidated company assumed the name of Middlesex Water Company—the name of one of the constituent companies. The new company is now engaged in laying a main from South Plainfield to Staten Island Sound through Cartaret, by way of Metuchen and Woodbridge. The length of the principal main will be fourteen and three-fourths miles. Lateral systems are being constructed in Metuchen and Woodbridge. At least twenty-four miles of mains will be laid by the 1st of October. More than eight miles have already been laid, and the work is progressing at the rate of about two miles a week.

A large tank reservoir, 50 feet in diameter and 30 feet high, will be constructed on Bloomfield's hill, a mile and a half east of Metuchen, and three miles from Perth Amboy and Woodbridge. The hill is 212 feet above sea level. All the distributing mains of the company will radiate from that point. The company expects to begin supplying water in Metuchen about the 1st of September, and in Woodbridge and Carteret by the 1st of October.

The directors of the company are Senator Foster M. Voorhees, William H. Corbin, Edward M. Wood, Edward C. Woodruff, Meline W. Halsey and Frank Bergen of Elizabeth, and Harry G. Runkle of Plainfield. Mr. Bergen is president of the company, and Mr. Halsey secretary and treasurer. The capital stock of the new company is $200,000. All the capital stock has been subscribed, and among the stockholders are some of the most prominent business men of the state.

The territory between Elizabethport and Perth Amboy, fronting on Staten Island Sound, is an admirable locality for factory sites. Many large factories have already been constructed there, as well as the terminal of several important railroads. The principal impediment to the prosperity of that region has been the lack of water fit for manufacturing purposes and boilers. This want the company proposes to supply.

A BUG IN HIS HEAD FOR SURE.

A Bed Bug Crawled Into the Ear of a Prisoner.

The officials of the Somerset county jail thought that Joseph Chaldea, the Italian charged with the murder of his wife last spring in Bound Brook, had surely gone crazy a few days ago when he raved and tore around the jail as though mad. Chaldea woke up one morning and groaned, moaned and yelled as though suffering with great pain. As soon as released from his cell he sprinted around the corridor at a great rate. All efforts to quiet him or find out the cause of his antics were unavailing until another prisoner suggested that a bed bug had crawled into Chaldea's ear. Various remedies were suggested and tried until the juice of an onion was poured into the Italian's ear and a few more moments after a bed bug of fair size made a live exit from the ear channel. After that Chaldea became more composed. The cells in the jail are infested with thousands of the bugs and it is supposed that one crawled into Chaldea's ear while he was asleep.

FINED FOR PROFANITY.

A Westfield Man Paid $1 Because He Swore.

J. H. Albrecht, a tailor, living on Broad street, Westfield, was arraigned before Justice Collins yesterday afternoon, on a charge of disorderly conduct preferred by his neighhor, John Robinson. Mrs. Robinson and other neighbors were present and testified to the effect that Albrecht was in the habit of using profane and indecent language to the annoyance of those living in the neighborhood. After hearing the evidence the justice fined Albrecht $1 and costs, which was promptly paid.

AT MRS. HUBBARD'S BIER.

LARGE ASSEMBLAGE OF FRIENDS PAY A LAST TRIBUTE.

Remarks Made by Several Ministers Who Spoke of Her Excellent Character and Christian Life—Many Floral Offerings.

The funeral services of Charlotte Elizabeth, wife of Joseph A. Hubbard, was held at her late home, 109 West Fifth street, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. A large number of relatives and friends were present to pay a last tribute of respect to the departed. The services were begun by a hymn "The Homeland," by a quartette consisting of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Titsworth, Miss Nancy Randolph and Elmer Runyon.

Rev. A. E. Main next read selections from the Scriptures. President T. L. Gardner, of Salem College, a nephew of Mrs. Hubbard, next gave a reading of favorite passages in the Gospel of St. John, which the deceased had marked in her Bible. The passages indicated the strength of her faith and her aspirations for a Heavenly life. An eloquent prayer by Rev. Dr. R. E. Livermore, followed. A brief funeral sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, from the text, "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints," Psalms 116:15. The speaker dwelt upon the definition of the term "Precious," especially as applied to the welcoming of earth's weary ones into the Heavenly rest, and God's evident delight in receiving them after earth's services.

Dr. Lewis then spoke feelingly of the exceptionally patient and charitable Christian life of the deceased, and of her excellent influence in her own home, church and community. The speaker then mentioned the beauty of the heavenly life and the removal of the sting of death from all those fully prepared for the change. Ho gave great comfort and encouragement, by his remarks, to the bereaved family and friends.

At the close of the sermon the choir sang the hymn "Asleep in Jesus," and the services were brought to a close.

The floral offerings were many and beautiful, consisting mostly of bunches of pink and white roses and carnations. A wreath of pink roses encircled the casket. There were also a number of bunches of lilies of the valley.

The pallbearers were J. A. Hubbard, the husband of the deceased, William C. Hubbard and Frank J. Hubbard, her two sons, Charles Robertson, of Friendship, N. Y., a brother, and I. N. VanSyckle and W. H. Rogers, nephews.

The interment was made at Hillside cemetery, in the family plot.

THIEVES IN THE CITY.

BARNES BROTHERS GROCERY ENTERED LAST NIGHT

Burglars forced an entrance to the grocery store of Barnes Brothers, at 330 West Front street, last night, but so far as is known failed to secure plunder of any value.

Entrance was gained by cutting away the putty and removing a pane of glass from a door at the rear of the store. The thieves then reached in and drew back the bolts, which gave them free access by the door.

The store was ransacked and the safe in the office was opened, but nothing of value was found by the burglars. The fact that the safe door was open and uninjured was rather puzzling to the proprietors, as it is always locked securely at night. The only explanation is that the thieves in tampering with the combination made a lucky guess at the right number and the door came open. Some cheese and other provisions were taken.

When Firman A. Long, of the grocery firm of Kirch & Long, reached his home on Grandview avenue, last evening, he found about twenty of his friends waiting to receive him. Mr. Long had almost forgotten that yesterday was the twenty-seventh anniversary of his birthday, but his friends reminded him and he entered into the pleasures with his accustomed zeal and energy. The affair was arranged by Mrs. Long. The evening was passed chiefly in a social manner. All present wished Mr. Long many returns of the day.

—John L Blackford this afternoon at the auction sale of J. A. Thickstun's house, No. 66 Duer street, became the purchaser of the property for the sum of $2,410.00. He also purchased Mr. Thickstun's life interest in the property No. 10 Grove street, known as the Conklin property.

STOLEN JEWELS TRACED

J. D. SMEDBERG ACCUSED OF THE MARSHALL ROBBERY.

Arrested While on His Way to Work at Scott's Press Works This Morning and Sent to the Union County Jail.

Trace has at last been found of the missing Marshall diamonds and circumstances that have been learned since the robbery, together with the discovery of part of the plunder in a New York pawnshop, have woven a strong net of evidence about the person of Joseph Duncan Smedberg, a young draughtsman, employed at the Scott Printing Press Company works, and a personal friend of Harry W. Marshall, from whose house the diamonds were taken. With the supposed discovery of the thief, there comes to light a romance that promises to have a very sad ending.

John L. Blackford, a State detective living in this city, has been working on the case and has ferreted out the mystery, bringing the missing diamonds to light, and securing the evidence that resulted in the arrest of Smedberg on his way to his work, this morning. Smedberg now lies in the county jail at Elizabeth to await his hearing while his pretty young wife, a girl of nineteen, remains in Plainfield alone.

On the evening of June 30th, Harry W. Marshal and his wife locked up their home on East Fifth street and went bicycle riding with two other friends. They returned home about 11:30 o'clock. It was not until morning that they discovered that the house had been entered during their absence through a window on the first floor and that $800 worth of diamonds and jewelry stolen. Mr. Marshal first missed his Knight Templar watch charm, valued at $100, the gift of his wife. Then they looked about and found that Mrs. Marshall's gold watch, valued at $75, four diamond rings, valued at $150 each, a diamond pin and Mr. Marshall's revolver were also missing. The dining room window, opening out on the backyard, was found wide open and showed where the thief had gained entrance.

There was no clue, however, to the thief and the police were helpless. Mr. Marshall was not content to let his possessions depart without a struggle and offered a reward of $200 for the return of the stolen articles, no questions to be asked. He also put the matter in the hands of Newark detectives.

John L. Blackford, one of the state detectives, resides on East Fifth street, about a block from Mr. Marshall's home. He became interested in his neighbor's loss and started a search for the missing articles and the men who took them.

The rings and watch had been kept in a covered cushion, which was known only to those who visited at the house frequently. That they were found and taken pointed to the fact that the thief was someone who was acquainted with the house and knew where to find the valuables. Suspicion at first rested on a colored man, the son of a colored woman, who was employed about the house, but it soon became evident that he was not the guilty one.

Meanwhile Detective Blackford has been diligently searching for the diamonds. He visited the New York pawn brokers' establishments and started a systematic search for them. Mr. Brookheimer keeps a pawn shop at 2,108 Third avenue, New York. Detective Blackford visited it and found a ring, pawned for $50, that tallied exactly with the description of one of the missing rings. He made further inquiries of the proprietor of the place and learned that the ring had been pawned by a young man who gave his name as H. C. Marshall. He had also pawned a gold watch and a revolver but had called for them later and taken them away, said Brookheimer. He had taken a note of the number of the watch and gave it to Blackford. The number was the same as that of Mr. Marshall's watch. Of the charm, there was no trace. Then the detective felt that his search had been rewarded and he returned to Plainfield with a complete description of the man that had left the articles at Brookheimer's shop on July 6th.

If Detective Blackford had happened to be in Salt Lake City, Utah, one eventful evening last winter, he would have seen a good looking couple going to the theatre. The young man was Joseph Duncan Smedberg, from Chicago. The young woman was the daughter of a well-known resident of Salt Lake City. Smedberg had met her in society and the young people had soon become fond of each other. The young woman's parents were wealthy and they were not pleased with the young man. That night the couple went to

NEWS OF THE STRIKE

More Trouble Expected For the Canonsburg Mines.

STRIKERS WILL MARCH ON THE PLACE

Some of the Men Want to Return to Work, but Are Afraid to Do So. Sheriff Armed and Prepared For Action.

Pittsburg, July 22.—Trouble and much of it seems to be in store at the Allison mine, three miles west of Canonsburg. The men want to go to work, but are afraid. They fear another invasion of the strikers and do not want to be targets for a mob that is liable at any moment to lose control of itself. Everything is quiet about the mines, and the citizens of Canonsburg are awaiting the arrival of the invaders. It was the intention of the strikers to begin their march to Canonsburg last night, but a telegram from Bridgeville announced that, owing to the heavy rain of last evening, it was decided to postpone the tramp until today.

The men are fully determined to carry out their threat of making the march. They expect to start with 600 men and be re-enforced with about the same number from Bridgeville and Toms Run. The men will start with several days' rations and expect to be in shape to watch the offending mines for several days. Yesterday morning a number of men going to the Allison mine were stopped by the committee of strikers. Many of them did not go to work. J. H. V. Cook said that the names of the strikers would be procured, and they would all be arrested for intimidating his employees.

Sheriff Vernor Clark of Washington county is fully prepared for any army of marching strikers that may invade his domain. It is not generally known that he has nearly 300 deputies sworn in, who are available at any time. From the most reliable information it was learned that they are all ready, with the requisite number of firearms, and are prepared to do business.

The sheriff is on the ground in person, and if there is a false movement made on the part of the strikers drastic measures will be resorted to.

Miners Afraid to Go to Work.

The miners who want to go to work are stricken with fear and anticipate trouble. The Allison mine had 40 men at work till noon yesterday, when the plant was shut down, apparently in anticipation of trouble. During the afternoon a committee from the Enterprise mine, three miles up the road, paid them a visit. The committee wanted to find out the status of the situation. They decided that the Enterprise would not work under the present surroundings.

At the Boone mine a game of peekaboo is in progress. The men want to work as long as there are no strikers in sight. Manager Hitchman of the mine said that he would not make an attempt to operate the plant as long as there was any indication of trouble. He said he was prepared for any emergency and intimated that the trouble would blow over in a few days.

At a committee meeting at the miners' headquarters in this city the question was discussed how it would be possible to march a body of men to stop the mines of the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal company from working. Every phase of the subject was discussed, but no plan could be hit upon. It was the general opinion that the mines of this company are impregnable to attack because of their geographical position.

The expected meeting of the board of arbitration did not take place, the western members not reaching the city. As soon as they arrive arrangements will be made for a general meeting of operators.

The situation among the strikers in this district is practically unchanged. The suspension is complete, with the exception of De Armitt's mines, and, though considerable destitution and suffering is reported among the strikers and their families, the determination to fight it out is apparently as strong as on the first day of the strike.

Situation Unchanged at Wheeling.

Wheeling, July 22.—There is little change in the local coal mining strike. Some of the miners who struck at the Glendale works have returned to work rather unexpectedly. They are engaged in mining coal for the engines of the Baltimore and Ohio and Ohio River roads. But for this partial resumption at Glendale the Ohio River road would have been greatly inconvenienced.

There is no change in the situation at Dillonvale. There will be a demonstration by the miners of this city and vicinity for the purpose of inducing the men at the Boggs Run mines to join the strike. Employees of five companies will form in line and march to the Boggs Run mines with a brass band. The Glendale men who are working will offer to quit work entirely to induce the Boggs Run employees to join in the sympathetic strike.

British Vessels For Bering Sea.

Vancouver, B. C., July 22.—The British government is sending a much stronger patroling force up to the Bering sea sealing fisheries than usual this season. Already two men-of-war, the Wild Swan, 1,200 tons, and the Pheasant, 800 tons, have sailed for the Bering sea, and they will be followed in a few days by the Amphion, a powerful cruiser of 5,000 tons and ten guns. Besides these vessels two others are to be detached from the China fleet, one of them being the Rainbow, a powerful modern cruiser of 4,100 tons and eight guns.

Denies Strained Relations.

London, July 22.—The Paris correspondent of The Daily Mail says: "The Japanese minister here denies that the relations between Japan and the United States are strained and says: 'We wish especially to avoid war with the United States. If we had wanted war, we would have resisted Russia when she interfered after our war with China, but we decided that it was best to strengthen our army and navy and develop our resources.'"

Representative Doolittle Ill.

THE BIG WATERMELON.

Received by the President With Thanks and a Witty Remark.

Washington, July 22.—President McKinley was the recipient of a unique compliment in the shape of a huge Georgia watermelon. Several members of the delegation in congress, accompanied by several ladies and W. N. Mitchell of Atlanta, the southern freight agent of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, made the presentation in the blue room of the White House.

The melon was about 2½ feet long and measured six feet in circumference. It was packed in a golden hamper, wrapped in the American flag and entwined in white silk ribbon, on one end of which was the flag of the United States and on the other the arms of the state of Georgia.

It weighed 78 pounds. It was secured by the southern office of the Baltimore and Ohio, which offered a prize for the largest melon grown in the south this year. The states of South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama competed for the prize.

Representative Livingstone made the presentation speech. In doing so he referred to the old adage about the Greeks bearing gifts and assured the president that when opened no office seeking enemy would emerge.

The president made a happy response, saying, among other things, that he was especially gratified for the assurances that it contained no office seekers.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

General D. W. Caldwell died at Cleveland. He was unconscious when the end came. His two nieces and his physicians were at the bedside.

Mrs. Frances Samuelson of Breckenbrough Hall, Yorkshire, England, died from injuries received while her hair was being dressed with a petroleum hair wash which ignited.

A dispatch from Bourges, capital of the department of Cher, 144 miles south of Paris, says that the northwestern part of the department has been devastated by a hurricane.

The British steamer St. Fillans, Captain Stabb, which sailed from Rotterdam on July 19 for New York, ran into and sank the Belgian steamer Concha. Nine of the crew of the Concha were drowned.

A dispatch from Barcelona says that serious riots are in progress in that city. The gendarmes who attemped to restore order were stoned by the rioters, and it has been necessary to send re-enforcements to their assistance.

Mrs. Fannie W. Korn, who was four years ago committed as an insane criminal to the state asylum at Matteawan, N. Y., for having murdered her 6-year-old daughter Florence, has been released from that institution by Justice Smythe in the supreme court.

Important Arrest of Counterfeiters.

Washington, July 22.—Colonel Hazen, superintendent of the secret service of the treasury, has received telegraphic information from Chicago of the arrest there of N. J. Travine and John Williams, alias Harry Lynn, who were captured with lithographic stones for the front and back of a $5 United States treasury note, printing presses, paper, ink and tools in their possession. No bills had been issued. Colonel Hazen regards this as a very important capture.

Woman's Work

Is never done, and it is especially wearing and wearisome to those whose blood is impure and unfit properly to tone, sustain, and renew the wasting of nerve, muscle and tissue. It is more because of this condition of the blood that women are run down,

Tired, Weak, Nervous,

Than because of the work itself. Every physician says so, and that the only remedy is in building up by taking a good nerve tonic, blood purifier and vitalizer like Hood's Sarsaparilla. For the troubles Peculiar to Women at change of season, climate or life, or resulting from hard work, nervousness, and impure blood, thousands have found relief and cure in

Of Local Interest.

When the striped pole or sign which now indicates a barber shop, was employed to let the public know where cupping or blood letting was professionally performed, close shaves were a daily occurrence, not the easy removal of the hirsute or hairy adornment of the head and face, but close shaves from entering eternity. More than one unfortunate entered the barber-surgeons doorway to leave it a corpse or so weak that it required weeks to get the victim of malpractice on his feet, blood-leting was used for everything from a heartache to a corn, and a pain in the loins was invariably treated with two incisions, one on each side of the spine. Like plasters and linements, these helped from the counter-irritation they created, and we may presume that had Mr. Silzer, barber, of 22 Hiram street, New Brunswick, N. J., lived in the time of George III of England, in place of taking the course he did a short time ago with his back, blood-letting would have been resorted to. Read how he treated his trouble. Silzer says: "I had no doubt but that my trouble arose from my kidneys, for the pain centered in the small of my back. It was very sore in that locality. It hurt me to stand on my feet, especially so on Saturdays, my busy day. An occasional griping pain passed through the abdomen to the groin. I went for a box of Doane's Kidney Pills and procured them from a drug store to see if they would relieve me from the pain. Well that is just what they did and they did it in short order. I cannot help but recommend Doane's Kidney Pills. They did all that I could expect and all that is claimed for them."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

PROPOSAL.
Office of the Board of Education.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Board of Education of the city of Plainfield, N. J., at a meeting held July 8th, 1897, notice is hereby given that the Board of Education will meet on July 22d next at the Board room, in the High School, corner of West Fifth street and Arlington avenue, in the city of Plainfield, at 8 o'clock at which time and place said Board of Education will receive sealed proposals for furnishing 500 tons, more or less, of the best coal suitable for steam and hot air heating in pea, No. 1 chestnut, stove and egg sizes, all coal to be thoroughly screened, trimmed and placed in the bins within the public school buildings, without any extra expense to the Board for such handling and to be delivered at such time as the Board may direct. Bids to specify the quality of the coal and whether long or short tons. Payment for all coal contracted for to be made after September 1st next. All proposals to be endorsed proposals for coal.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Board will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided such parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Board. By the order of Board.

Stands at the Head.

Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I cannot say enough for its merits.'

Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and to-day stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

Electric Bitters

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of West Seventh street, has gone on a trip to New England.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rhiber, of Newburgh, are guests at the home of Albert Hedden, of West Fourth street.

1. Because it affords almost instant relief in case of pain in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus.
2. Because it is the only remedy that never fails in the most severe cases of dysentery and diarrhoea.
3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhoea.
4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent bilious colic.
5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemical dysentery.
6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
8. Because it produces no bad results.
9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.
10. Because it has saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world.

"Last summer one of our grandchildren was sick with a severe bowel trouble," says Mrs. E. G. Gregory, of Frederickstown, Mo. "Our doctor's remedy had failed, then we tried Chamberlains Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which gave very speedy relief." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park & North Aves.

—The chemical engine at fire headquarters was in charge of Frank Rickert yesterday, owing to the fact that George Feiring was off duty attending the funeral of his brother's daughter.

You may hunt the world over and you will not find another medicine equal to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. It is pleasant, safe and reliable. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park & North Aves.

Mr. C. L. Hasbrouck, a druggist at Mendon, Mich., says all of the good testimonials that have been published by the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy could be duplicated in that town. For sale By T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park and North Aves.

THE GOLD REGIONS.

Reports That They Are Richer Than at First Reported.

SOME HAVE MADE LARGE FORTUNES.

Steamers Leaving For the Scene Are Besieged by Crowds Who Are Anxious to Take Passage—A Railroad May Be Built.

San Francisco, July 22.—The steamship Umatilla, which has arrived from Puget sound ports, brought down almost $2,000,000 worth of Alaskan gold, of which $1,250,000 was in gold dust from Seattle, consigned to Wells Fargo company. There were several other shipments of gold in sacks. Some was shipped direct from Juneau, and advices from that place are to the effect that at least $750,000 worth of dust is awaiting shipment at various Alaskan stations.

Among the sensational advices received was one from St. Michaels to the effect that over $4,000,000 in gold dust which had not been included with the fortunes brought here by miners, will be shipped through Wells Fargo company, other lucky miners having reached the island since the departure of the Excelsior and Portland who have secured greater fortunes individually than those whose stories have already been told.

Although the capacity of the steamers Portland, which goes to St. Michaels and the Excelsior, which sails on the 28th, is limited to about 110 passengers over 1,000 applications have been made for berths. Most of the disappointed ones are making arrangements to travel hence to Tacoma by rail and secure passage on the Mexico and Topeka which sail thence next week, but many must inevitably wait until next spring.

Steamers Pressed Into Service.

Seattle, July 22.—The principal excitement which now prevails in this city in connection with the Klondike craze is over the departure of boats. A half dozen different steamship lines announce that they will run steamships north.

The excursion steamship Queen sails for Juneau on Friday and will have every berth filled. There will be an intermission until Sunday, when the Mexico will sail, also full.

A conservative estimate is that 40 person will go north on the boats whose destination is the Yukon. All going by the Portland have that intention and 250 of those going by the Queen and the Mexico. These last will be thrown on the Chilcoot pass or the Skagaway pass just before the closing of the warm season. It is a general expressed opinion that it will be folly to leave here for the Klondike later than the first week in August.

The Canadian Pacific steamship Islander, scheduled to sail from Victoria on July 28 and again on Aug. 15 will be loaded down with passengers. It is an instance of the great excitement prevailing that the inception and carrying out of the plan of sending the Islander to Dyea and Skagaway bay from Victoria was the result of less than a week's thought.

Captain John Irving contemplates building next spring 60 miles of railroad in White pass. This plan is remote, but will be surely carried out under favorable conditions.

The building of flat bottomed boats on Lake Linderman will also be accomplished next spring.

Stories which come in from Alaska tell of great riches, and no day passes without some new letter coming to light, written by men who left here poor and who are now rich.

Arrested For Intending Counterfeiting.

Chicago, July 22.—Captain Porter of the United States secret service has arrested V. J. Trevan, a Frenchman, who was, according to Captain Porter, about to make counterfeit money. Trevan says that he was going to make labels for a Cuban planter and that the planter desired his labels made in the shape of a $5 note. He seems to be rather hazy as to the identity of the planter who ordered the labels. John Williams, who was a helper of Trevan, was also arrested. No spurious money was found, but for all that the government officials regard the arrest as an important one. Williams has been arrested before for making counterfeit money.

Two Mine Fatalities.

Shamokin, Pa., July 22.—Two mine fatalities occurred here. In an explosion of gas at the Girard mine Frank Sheridan, an engineer, suffered a compound fracture of the skull, which soon afterward caused his death, and John Bubine, driver boy, and John Francis, doorboy, were painfully burned. Sheridan was married only four weeks ago. A fall of coal at the Richards mine killed Wallace Anton, aged 31 years.

Glass Company Opens on Full Time.

Kokomo, Ind., July 22.—The Pittsburg Plate Glass company has posted notices here that the plant would resume operations today in every department. When the plant closed down several weeks ago, it was stated that operations would not be resumed until Sept. 1, but an unexpectedly large demand for glass is the cause of the early resumption. Eight hundred men are interested.

R. G. Dun's Summer Villa Robbed.

Narragansett Pier, July 22.—Two thieves broke into Dunmere, the summer villa of Mr. R. G. Dun of New York. Mrs. Dun awoke and discovering the robbers gave an alarm, but the burglars got away, taking with them some valuable household goods and a horse from the Dunmere stables.

Paterson's Silk Strike Settled.

Paterson, N. J., July 22.—The strike at the Dolphin silk mill is over. It was settled by an increase of 5 per cent being granted to the spinners. The strike of 500 broad silk weavers at Gallant Bros.' mill has also ended by the firm granting an increase of 20 per cent to the weavers.

Death of Father Curley.

Saratoga, July 22.—Rev. Father John M. Curley, senior assistant pastor at St. Michael's Catholic church, New York city, died at the Windsor hotel. Death resulted from blood poisoning. He arrived here Monday in poor health. His remains have been sent to New York city.

TARIFF CONFERENCE.

Senate Has Concluded Formal Reading of the Report.

SENATOR JONES MADE A CONTEST.

He Was Finally Overruled, and This Removed the Only Obstacle So Far Encountered—The Final Adjournment Predicted For Saturday.

Washington, July 22.—The senate has concluded the formal reading of the tariff conference report. The debate was spiritless in the main. Early in the day Mr. Jones of Arkansas made a protest against the conference committee on the ground that it had exceeded its authority in so amending the paragraph relating to printing paper as to place a retaliatory duty against the countries paying an export bounty on wood pulp.

His point of order was debated at much length and finally overruled by Vice President Hobart.

This removes the only obstacle thus far encountered by the report. The reciprocity amendment and the abandonment of the stamp tax on bonds and stocks developed much criticism.

These nominations have been confirmed by the senate: Brainard H. Warner, Jr., of Maryland to be consul at Leipsic, John K. Ames of Maine to be collector of customs of the district of Machias, Me.; Charles H. Isham of Baltimore to be a commissioner in and for the district of Alaska, George Christ of Nogales, A. T., to be surveyor general of Arizona and A. P. Hanson of Sun Dance, Wy., to be surveyor general of Wyoming.

When the senate adjourned, the understanding was general that the final vote would be taken on the conference report on the tariff bill not later than Friday, but there was no formal agreement to this effect. Both Senators Jones and White, who have been leading the opposition to the bill on behalf of the Democrats, expressed the opinion that the vote would not be postponed beyond this time.

Senator Allison also stated that while he still considered a vote possible today he felt very confident that it would not be postponed beyond Friday. In the event of a vote on the tariff Friday final adjournment is generally predicted for Saturday.

Naval Orders.

Washington, July 22.—The following naval orders have been issued: Lieutenant Commander E. B. Barry, detached from naval intelligence office and ordered to the Cincinnati; Captain E. M. Shepard, detached from the Cincinnati and granted two months' leave; Captain C. M. Chester, detached from the Minneapolis and ordered to the Cincinnati; Lieutenant A. C. Baker, ordered to report to the secretary of state for special duty for the state department as an attache.

Life Saving Order Issued.

Washington, July 22.—Lieutenant Kimball, superintendent of the life saving service, has issued an order which will prevent the scramble which annually occurs at the life saving stations on the Atlantic stations for the position of "seventh" or "winter man," who is employed for the winter work. The order provides that hereafter the "winter man" must fill any vacancy that may occur during the active season.

The Costa Rica Counterfeiting Case.

Washington, July 22.—The minister of Costa Rica at Washington, with regard to the proceedings instituted by reason of the counterfeiting of the notes of the Bank of Costa Rica, declares that his government has made no charge against any person whatever; that the commitment of the parties arrested is in pursuance of the laws of this country and by order of the authorities of the United States.

Will Visit the G. A. R. Encampment.

Buffalo, July 22.—Department Commander Shaw of this state has officially invited Governor Black to attend the national encampment. Secretary Turner received a dispatch from the commander stating that Governor Black had accepted the invitation. A reception will be given the governor, probably Wednesday night of the encampment week. With President McKinley and the governors of other states he will be on the reviewing stand. Thursday night of the encampment week he will deliver an address on behalf of the state to the veterans in Music hall. John Ramsey, representing the G. A. R. men of New Jersey, arrived here and secured quarters for 500 veterans.

Charged With Extensive Forgeries.

Boston, July 22.—Walter C. Leach, a young man well known to Boston police inspectors, is under arrest at headquarters charged with committing extensive forgeries. All the amounts involved are small, but several big business houses are losers by Leach's alleged transactions, and the aggregate of the alleged forgeries will be several hundred dollars. Leach was arrested in Denver last year on the charge of uttering a forged note to the value of $3,000, Mr. Wilbur's name being also used in this instance. He was brought to Boston, but was finally released on parole. Leach is 27 years old.

Died of an Alleged Beating.

Providence, July 22.—Police Constable Alfred A. Johnson of Silver Hook has died from the effects of a beating he is alleged to have received Sunday morning from Constable Charles Ballou and the latter's son Walter. Warrants against the assailants, which have been issued charging assault with a dangerous weapon, will be changed to manslaughter.

The Grounded Steamship.

Montreal, July 22.—The agents of the steamship City of Baltimore, ashore in the straits of Belle Isle, have received a telegram stating that there is no possibility of floating the vessel at present. A steamer has left Bonny bay to assist her. The City of Baltimore carries a general cargo of merchandise in addition to 225 head of cattle and 225 sheep.

Steamboat Burned.

Higginsport, O., July 22.—The steamer Silver Wave has been burned. The steamer was on the docks for repairs, and the fire was caused by the explosion of a lamp. The Silver Wave was of 63 tons capacity and had been running between Augusta and Portsmouth.

VALUE OF TROLLEY FRANCHISE.

An idea of how valuable a trolley franchise may be in Plainfield in a few years, when the city is twice as large as it is now,—a very probable result—can be gained from the knowledge that in Newark last year the trolley capitalists paid the city $60,000 in special taxes on the operation of their cars. This special tax was the sum of $5 levied against each car, a rule that cannot be considered oppressive to the corporations. Newark sets the example in this matter which we should follow. No car is allowed to pass through that city unless it has conspicuously displayed in or upon it a certificate of license, signed by the Mayor and City Clerk. This enables the city to keep a correct record of the number of cars and to know just how many cars to bill the consolidated corporations for.

A MORAL QUESTION.

Some cities never seem satisfied with themselves unless they are wrestling with some great moral question. Jersey City is one of these. It has a law providing that revenue derived from liquor licenses shall be expended in the building of new schools. Now the prohibitionists declare such a law immoral and assert that every school house so built will be a "monument to a collection of jags."—New York Press.

AN AMICABLE FEELING.

In these times when differences are so frequent between employes and employers, and result in strikes that do more evil than good, it is pleasant to note the amicable feeling between the machinists and their bosses in Plainfield, as evidenced in the report of the meeting held Tuesday evening and published in The Press yesterday.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—East Front street is undergoing a macadamizing.

—Free postal delivery has been established at Ocean Grove.

—New Brunswick bicyclists are arranging for a cycle carnival.

—The flint glass factories at Millville have closed for the summer.

—Albert Hedden's livery stables have been improved in appearance by a new coat of paint.

—All of the letter boxes about the city have been repainted by Mr. Clark, of West Front street.

—The present rainy weather has temporarily stopped the work of macadamizing East Front street.

—There will be an initiation at the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., to be held this evening.

—Justice Nash has issued summons in the case of Dugan against Merrill, landlord and tenant, returnable on the 26th.

—The sterilized milk furnished by B. Meyer has all the health giving qualities. Orders left at 327 Watchung avenue will receive prompt attention in delivery.

—Fourteen eels and fifty-nine catfish, all large ones, were the result of an all night's fishing trip to Ash Swamp that Frank Hedden and John Welch made Tuesday night.

—F. A. Pope has purchased the factory building in the rear of the South Plainfield mill, which was sold at auction several days ago, and is now having the building torn down.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF INTEREST TO CITY AND BOROUGH.

In Brief are Told the Daily Doings of Many Residents and Visitors Who Go and Come in a Social and Business Way

Miss Elimore Kreger spent Tuesday in New York city.

Mrs. P. Van Fleet, of West Front street, is spending a few days in Newark.

Richard Waring, of Park avenue, has returned from South Bridge, Mass.

Mrs. Disbrow, of Central avenue, has gone to New Brunswick for a few days.

Mrs. D. S. Miller and son, of Orchard place, are stopping at Asbury Park.

Fred J. Keer, president of the Keer and Martin Cycle Company, sails for Europe today.

Mrs. William E. MacClymont, of Washington avenue, has returned from a visit with her parents at Westfield.

Mrs. Volkman, of Richmond street, is improving, and yesterday she attempted to walk with the aid of crutches.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. MacIlwaine, of New York, who have been stopping at the Hotel Hunterston, have gone away for the summer.

Mr. Bennett, of Duer street, is now able to walk about with the aid of a cane. His ankle which was fractured is mending nicely.

The engagement of Miss Norton and William Reusswig, both of Somerville, is announced. The marriage will take place in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Huff, of Codington avenue, will return from their vacation the last of this week. They have been visiting relatives at Centreville, Hunterdon county.

The first of next month Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., of Washington Park, will go to Point Breeze Camp, Wolfboro, N. H., where they will remain for the rest of the summer.

The quarantine, which was placed about the home of Percy I. Phillips, of Madison avenue, on account of the illness of one of his sons with scarlet fever, was removed by Inspector Addis on Tuesday.

The funeral services of Ethel Feiring, eight months' old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Feiring, of New street, were held from the house yesterday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. Father Murphy officiated. There was a large attendanee of friends and relatives of the family. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Steven Kurnett, of 433 West Fourth street, has returned home from Philadelphia much improved in health. Mrs. Kurnett went to Philadelphia about five weeks ago to have an operation performed which proved successful under the care of Dr. Baldy, of the Pennsylvania Hospital, and the kind attention of the nurses and her many friends in the Quakar City.

—One of the most delightful sails out of New York is to Cornwalton, on Long Island Sound, and that is just where the excursion of the Grace, Monroe Avenue M. E. and Dunellen Presbyterian churches with their Sunday schools are going tomorrow. If the weather is clear tomorrow everyone will be anxious to take a day's outing.

—In the St. Mary's R. C. church of Bayonne a decided change for the better has taken place since Bishop Wigger relieved the former rector, Rev. Thomas M. Killeen, and retired him on a small pension. Rev. Isaac P. Whelan came from Paterson and took charge a year ago. The new rector announces that the church debt has been decreased $5,000 during this time, and is now $28,000. During this year the former large but divided congregation has been united, and is working in harmony.

There has been lots of talk about town as to the cause of the defeat Saturday by the Somersets of Somerville. Everybody that saw the game agrees that the Crescents outplayed the home team. Some believe that McLarty was not to blame after all but that the umpire showed poor judgment in calling strikes and balls. Those who saw the game remember, however, that many of the balls that gave the Somerset man his base and the Somerset team the run that tied the score, were wild and could not be called strikes. McLarty did not lose popularity by the game. In fact, his praise has been sounded all over town, for the rest of the game he pitched was a magnificent one and well worthy of commendation.

PASSING COMMENT.

There are two places within the city limits where the macadam road needs to have a top dressing of crushed stone, and they are on Park avenue near the Park Avenue Baptist church and on South avenue near the Scott Prees Works. Both stretches of ground are traversed by hundreds of vehicles and bicycles every day and in passing over them one experiences a sensation somewhat similar to riding on the streets of New Brunswick—a practice that no one ever cares to repeat after the first trial.

Amateur photographers from this city who go to Asbury Park are apt to get into trouble if they attempt to take any pictures on the beach or board walk without first getting a permit. It is one of the rules that Founder Bradley has established that no one shall take pictures there without securing a permit from the officer, William B. Rogers, at the Bradley pavillion. There is no charge for the permit and they are very easy to secure, the object being to keep the crowd of professional photographers off the board walk and beach. The privilege of taking the photographs to sell is awarded by Mr. Bradley.

Two Plainfield young men went fishing the other evening. It happened that the rain came down quite heavily that evening and one of the young men carried an umbrella to keep it off. They met with fairly good luck and started to return home. The destination of their expedition had been the South Plainfield mill pond. Seeing what they supposed to be a covered wagon, they ran after it, hoping to get a ride home. Just as they reached it, they discovered at the same time that there was a bull dog following close behind it and that it was a closed carriage. The bull dog growled and made a savage dive at the calves of one of the young men. With startling dexterity the young man skipped about and wielded his umbrella in self-defence. The umbrella came down on the canine's head and collapsed and the young men had to walk home in the pelting rain.

Have you ever noticed how few signs there are in this city that give the names of the streets. Instead of at least two on every corner, it is the exception rather than the rule when there is any there at all. While the Plainfielders do not feel the need of the signs very much, the outsider is completely at sea whenever he tries to find a street. Even after he has a general idea of where the street ought to be, he is unable to locate it without making several inquiries of passers-by, who do not always know where the street in question is to be found.

All the principal streets are well known to the local residents, but the short and unimportant ones are seldom heard of, and it is very difficut sometimes to find out where the street is.

Then Plainfield streets have the habit of suddenly changing their name as they pass through a different part of the city. There are no signs to indicate any change in name and a stranger can walk along East Ninth street and continue out Franklin place without any idea of where he is or the name of the street which he is traversing.

Is it Good Sense?

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I note in my walks about town that crosswalks two feet wide in the east aristocratic end are torn up and replaced with walks four feet wide. Is this justice or good sense, when so many crossings are without stone of any kind? Truly, this is an extravagant and a rich man's Council.

An Old Resident.

There has been more of the old time enthusiasm over base ball shown in the last week in Plainfield than has been seen since the days of the old Crescents. Evidently the new Crescents are rapidly growing in popularity. The game at Somerville had much to do with the increase in the interest. The close result and the fact that the contests with Somerville have revived were the principal factors. Next Saturday a large crowd may be looked for at the game.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ryno and Miss Ella Hedden started for Boynton Beach on their wheels yesterday morning. They found the trip a CHURCH FACTS.

Journal Issued of the Recent Episcopal Convention in This City.

The journal of the proceedings of the 125th convention, the 112th year of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the Diocese of New Jersey, has been issued. The convention was held in this city May 4 and 5. Right Rev. John Scarboroug, D. D, is the bishop of the disocese. having held his position since 1875.

New Jersey is di ided into two dioceses, Right Rev. Thos. A. Starkey bishop of the Diocese of Newark. The Diocese of New Jersey reports 121 parties and missions; clergymen canonically resident of the diocese, 113; churches, missions and chapels, 140; candidates for holy orders, 15; lay readers, 72; confirmations during the year, 1010; Sunday-school scholars, 11,540; communicants added, 1351; present number of communicants in the diocese, 14,912.

Among the parochial expenditures are the following: Diocesan missions, $4472.85; Episcopal, $3344.52; general missions, $2408.25; domestic missions, $3737.44, foreign missions, $2402.74; missions to colored people, $1101.34; total parochial expenditures, $254,572.40; total diocesan, $11,645 02; total general, $13,611.82; total for all objects, $279,829.24.

SOMERSET COUNTY FAIR.

Those Who Will Supervise the Various Exhibits.

The prices of admission for the Somerset county fair have been agreed upon as follows: Single tickets will be 25 cents; children under 12, 15 cents; carriages, 25 cents; grand stand, 25 cents. Theo. Barcalew was appointed Chief of Police for the occasion.

Department superintendents were appointed as follows: Cattle, Bernhard Meyer; sheep and swine, Peter Tiger; poultry, pigeons and pets, Wm. J. Logan; merchants and traders, display, E. Stevens; art and ladies' fancy work, Geo. W. Cooper and S. Kenney; home and dairy products, James Q. Ten Eyck; agricultural and horticultural products, Geo. H. Miller; farm machinery and implements, John Enk; carriages and vehicles, James U. Case.

Plain Logic.

Our assertion that we save the Piano buyer Twenty Five to One Hundred Dollars is an entirely reasonable one. It is not "say so" unsupported by facts; the magnitude of our business makes it plain to all. As we sell five Pianos for every one sold by any other house in the State, it is evident that we can afford to sell at lower prices than any one else. It's simple figuring: the expense of selling five is not nearly so great proportionately as the expense of selling one. That's where the gain comes in for the purchaser who buys his Piano here.

According to the opinion of experts the finest sweet corn to be seen in this vicinity is on the Plainfield sewer beds. It is fully twelve feet high and the ears are exceptionally large.

Word has been received by friends in the borough that Rev. A. I. Martine, pastor of the Presbyterian church, will arrive home from his California trip next Saturday. It is expected, however, that he will occupy his pulpit next Sunday.

WESTFIELD

ODD FELLOWS INSTALL.

NEW OFFICERS FOR WESTFILD LODGE NO 169.

Attempt to Burglarize A Stable—Fined for Disorderly Conduct—Other Items of a Newsy and Personal Nature.

Westfield Lodge, No. 169, I. O. O. F., held its semi-annual installation of officers last night, and notwithstanding the bad weather the attendance of members and visiting delegates was very large. The installation ceremonies were conducted by District Deputy W. M. Stamets and staff. The officers are as follows: J. E. Folson, N. G., C. F. Decker, V. G., W. M. Stamets, R. S., E. J. Wilcox, P. S., J. Perry, T., M. B. Frazee, R. S. N. G., C. W. Sortor, L. S. N. G., M. Snyder, R. S. V. G., Geo. F. Trimmer, L. S. V. G., J. Z. Hatfield, W., J. H. Sortor, G., F. Henicke, R. S. S., W. H. Trenchard, L. S. S., B. J. Crosby, chaplain, W. S. Smith, S. P. G. The District Deputy gave an account of his work and J. H. Carney, of Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, gave several fine recitations. Visitors were present from Plainfield Lodge No. 44, Memorial Lodge No. 165, Somerset Lodge No. 43, and Hohokus Lodge No. 18. Addresses were made by several members of the lodge and also by a number of the visitors. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

Burglars attempted on Tuesday night to gain an entrance to the stables of J. Warren Brown's place, corner of Dudley and Lawrence avenues. Mr. and Mrs. Webb, who live next door, heard the noise about 1 o'clock a. m., and looking out saw two men at the stable door. Mr. Webb started after his revolver, but the thieves, seeing that they were discovered, made a hasty escape. An investigation of the stable door, the next morning, revealed the marks made by them in attempting to force the lock. The men probably belonged to the gang which entered a number of residences in the town on the same night; and is supposed that their object was to steal a horse and wagon from the stable and use it for carrying off the booty secured at other places.

John Frowery drank heavily yesterday and beat his wife. He was arrested by Constable Marsh and last night was arraigned before Justice Hart on the charge of assault and battery. He was remanded until this afternoon for examinatian.

The Jr. O. U. A. M. will hold a meeting this evening.

Mrs. R. Wiggs has joined the ranks of Westfield's wheelwomen.

Miss Augusta McQuoid is spending a week at Lake Hopatcong.

Chester Moffett has accepted a position with B. H. Woodruff.

B. J. Crosby, of Westfield avenue, is improving after a long illness.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Worl have returned from a visit at Rye, N. Y.

Nathaniel Day, of Cranford, visited Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Brown, yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Woodruff are spending two weeks at Ocean Grove.

The Westfield Township Committee will hold a meeting tomorrow night.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Gildersleeve are summering at Centre Moriches, L. I.

Charles Clotworthy is spending a two weeks vacation at his home in this place.

Mrs. Stephen S. Mapes, of Prospect street, has been spending a week at Oyster Bay, L. I.

Robert Woodruff is erecting a large storage warehouse on North avenue, near the railway station.

The Epworth League of the Westfield Methodist church will lead the gospel meeting at the fresh air camp tonight.

An old-fashioned southern barbecue and lawn party will be held at the New York Avenue Baptist church this evening. The proceeds will go into the church treasury.

Rev. N. W. Cadwell, of the Presbyterian church, will have completed the 15th year of his pastorate here next Sunday. At the morning service the celebrated basso, H. W. Frillman, will sing a number of solos.

Appleton Morgan, LL.D., of this place, is now preparing a history of the Morgan family dating back to 1068. Among the interesting matter which the volume will contain is a portrait and biographical sketch of General Morgan, of Revolutionary fame.

A valuable English setter dog belonging to J. A. Woodward was shot some time ago. Its owner has placed the case in the hands of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and an action will be brought against Colonel E. L. Coals, who is said to be responsible for the killing.

The Headache Habit.

There is habit in human ills—especially in those of nervous origin. The intervals between headaches are apt to grow shorter unless you promptly stop the ache as soon as it appears.

Sometimes people exchange the pain habit for a drug habit, which is worse. There is need of a perfectly harmless and perfectly sure headache remedy. We offer such a one in our

"IT'S A NICKEL OR WALK."

Trolley Magnates Who Attempt to Use Boxes Are Sued.

C. W. Boynton, president of the Union and Middlesex Traction Company, was served with papers yesterday in damage suits for $5,000 each by Walter Shires and Edward Marshall, of Rahway. Both men were passengers on a trolley car operated by the company and were put off by the conductor and compelled to walk from Woodbridge to Rahway.

The company has a peculiar method of collecting fares instead of allowing the conductor to handle the money. They are furnished with glass jars with a top similar to a nickel-in-the-slot machine. The passengers must each drop a nickel, which registers each fare. The collecting machine is about four by ten inches and looks like a square fruit jar.

Marshall and Shires boarded a car at Boynton Beach and started for Rahway. The conductor came around and pushed the money jug in their faces. Shires started to drop in five pennies, but was stopped by the conductor, who said the orders were "a nickel or walk," as pennies would not register. Shires refused to tender anything but the pennies and was put off the car.

When the conductor came to Marshall he offered a 10-cent piece and demanded five cents in change. This was also refused and Marshall, too, was put off the car.

Both men walked to their homes in Rahway. Hence their suits.

NEW JERSEY ENDEAVORERS.

At Yellowstone Park and Enjoying a July Snowstorm.

Two special trains have taken 500 more Christian Endeavorers to Yellowstone Park, including the New York contingent, a few from Pennsylvania and the remainder from the New Jersey delegation, the first section of which arrived there on Saturday. They are being handled by the Park Transportation Company without accident and on schedule time.

The delegates that arrived there Saturday, and who are now in the interior of the park, experienced the novelty of riding in a snowstorm in July. The snow melted almost as fast as it fell.

BLIND TOM'S OLD AGE.

HIS CHARACTERISTIC DIVERSION AT HIS HOME IN JERSEY.

Like a Child in Many Ways—Selfish in Some Respects and Deeply Religious in Others. Has no Desire for the Companionship of his Relation.

"What has become of Blind Tom?"

This question is often asked by old theatre-goers, who remember the days before the war, when the gifted musical idiot was the star attraction in lyceums, town halls and lecture rooms, with which the simpler tastes of most amusement seekers of those times were satisfied.

Tom was only a lad then, the slave of a Georgia planter, and his mental weakness, together with his blindness, served to increase the interest of those who saw and heard this ignorant little fellow, with unerring touch, draw from the piano-forte its sweetest and most melodious strains as well as its grandest and most solemn harmonies.

The question as to Blind Tom's whereabouts can be answered best by a tall, broad-shouldered, neatly dressed colored man, whose gray hair and sightless eyes increase the impressiveness of his appearance, in a comfortable cottage at the Highlands of Navesink, on the New Jersey side of the lower New York bay. This elderly colored man is the Blind Tom of today, and for several years he has lived there in ease and comfort with his guardian, Mrs. Eliza Lerche, who was appointed ten years ago by Justice Andrews of the Supreme Court as committee of the person and property of the musician. She was then the widow of John G. Bethune, who had charge of Blind Tom for many years, and the old man was given into her care only after a long legal struggle with her father-in-law, James N. Bethune.

When Mrs. Bethune took charge of Tom she found that his popularity as a public attraction had greatly waned, owing to the fact that he had been before the public many years, and that his former managers had made all the money they could out of the peculiar musical talent of the simple-minded colored man without preserving his value as an attraction by replacing his worn-out repertoire with more modern musical pieces. Tom was also getting old, and was physically worn out by the night and day travel consequent on one-night-stand performances. He had been handed over to Mrs. Bethune with no money and no property, personal or otherwise, out of the hundreds of dollars which he had earned during the previous quarter of a century. So it was necessary to keep him at work a while longer to provide for his future maintenance in case he became disabled by age or infirmities, and also to enable him to take care of his old mother, who was still alive in one of the Southern States, and looked to Tom for support.

More than three years ago Mrs. Bethune, who was then Mrs. Lerche, having married Albrecht J. Lerche, the lawyer, who had fought her legal battles in the courts, had saved enough money to warrant the temporary withdrawal of Blind Tom from the amusement world, so that he might recover his health, and, at the same time, familiarize himself with modern musical compositions.

Tom enjoys his long rest, after so many years of incessant travel and work. He does very little visiting among his neighbors and receives few callers at his cottage. He finds sufficient companionship in his piano. He passes hours at a time at the piano, playing his old pieces and practising new ones.

In spite of his advanced years and his reserved, formal demeanor in company, Tom is merely an overgrown child, and has to be carefully watched by a male nurse, specially hired for that purpose. He has all the selfishness of a spoiled child, and is jealous of any attention paid to any one else in his presence. He has little natural affection and cares only for those who minister directly to his wants. He is willing that his mother should be taken care of out of the money he has earned, but he does not wish to have her or his brother and sisters near him, for fear that they may annoy him or prevent his being the sole object of the attentions of those around him. With the exception of this child-like selfishness Blind Tom is extremely moral and religious in his habits and disposition. He never eats without first offering a prayer, and on Sundays will only play church music on his piano. He will have nothing to do with any one who drinks liquor, and will quickly order from the room any person who uses profane or improper language in his presence.—New York Sun.

For the Reputation of the Sex.

A stylishly attired young woman boarded a market street car and stared haughtily over the occupants. A young man arose and offered his seat. She sank into it without even a glance or nod in acknowledgment.

A white-haired, kindly-faced old lady who sat opposite looked surprised, then pained, then rose, and with a bow and a smile, said to the young man:

"For the reputation of our sex I must thank you for your courtesy."

The young lady flushed, and fixed her gaze on the opposite sidewalk.—San Francisco Post.

The bald-headed man stroked his pate. "I was a football player once," said he. "I raised a lovely shock of hair—just for novelty's sake, you know. Now"—the bald-headed man stroked his pate again—"the novelty seems to have worn off." Spare Moments.

OPIE READ AS JOURNALIST.

Used Horseshoe Nails for Type with Great Success.

Before Opie Reed wrote The Jucklins, in fact before he "went in for" literature at all, he was a high private in the ancient and honorable army of journalists, and earned his cordwood, garden truck and other luxuries of life by the sweat of the brow of the man who "pulled" and old-fashioned hand press for him. Then he used to tell funny stories about himself, and some people think he told better stories then than he tells now, but he didn't get paid as well for them. This is one of the little tales that linger in the memory of many of his old-time friends: It seems that he was printing a little paper in a little town in Kentucky—or perhaps it was in Arkansas—the state cuts no figure. One day his printer came rushing over to the grocery store, where the editor was sitting on an apple barrel, conversing with other great minds on problems of state and other things, and demanded an immediate audience with the potentate of the paste pot. He had news of a dire calamity to the printing office. The only letter W in the shop had been lost. Read hurled all the powers of his gigantic intellect into the breach, as it were, and after a few seconds cerebration gave command that a sortie should immediately be made toward the sanctum of the village smith and horseshoer for the purpose of capturing a horse shoe nail. This order was obeyed. A horseshoe nail was secured, cut so as to stand "type high" and dexterously substituted for the lost W. So far so good—very good, indeed; but other troubles came. The Y was lost next, and another onslaught was made on the horseshoeing academy. The W and Y loomed up so well that it was decided to throw away the M, which had become somewhat decrepit, and use a third horseshoe nail, and so the paper came out that week. It was a trifle spotted, true, where the new W and the new Y and the new M were used, but they were bright spots, and the comments were commendatory. Next week several more letters were lost, and other horseshoe nails were put in the tin can where the type was kept. About this time the horseshoer bought a new keg of nails, and then Editor Read decided on an exhibition of that wonderful genius that has since brought him fame. He boldly threw away all his old type, set the entire paper up in horseshoe nails, and then posed before an admiring public. That week the postoffice of the town handled more mail than ever before or since, and the entire increase was made up of letters congratulating the great editor on the improved apearance of his paper.

DU MAURIER'S JOKE POTS.

Stories Sent by His Friends of which He Made Good Use.

Du Maurier has been much written about in the press by men pretending to be his most intimate friends, though in one or two conspicuous instances the family of the late lamented were rather surprised at this presumption. One of Du Maurier's institutions was a pair of vases which he called his "joke-pots." He used to receive a large number of contributions from English and American friends, all purporting to be true, and worthy of an illustration by him I know at least several instances where friends of mine have sent him texts, which he very soon afterwards used to good advantage. As these contributions arrived he threw them into one of these "joke-pots," by way of filing—a new kind of pigeon-hole. Then when a moment arrived in which he had to scratch his head for a subject, he would dip his hand —or rather his arm —into this lottery, and fish up one contribution after the other, until he found one that might be regarded as a prize ticket.

In order that he might insure himself against repetition, he observed the routine of never putting a contribution back into the same "joke-pot" from which he had extracted it, but deposited it in the second vase until the first one had been cleared. Then he attacked the second one and emptied all the lottery slips back into the first, and so on, daily weeding out the worthless ones, and refreshing his memory as to those best adapted to his purpose. The fact that these two "joke-pots" were kept so well supplied by friends who volunteered their contributions is in itself ample testimony to the personal charm widely exercised by this warm-hearted master of black and white.—Harper's Weekly.

Rag Picker Worth $100,000.

Odd stories have often been told of the chiffonniers of Paris, but even more curious perhaps is the case of Mother Carpio, a female rag-picker, said to be worth $100,000, who went out to America from her native Italy when she was a girl of twenty, and has for the last five-and-forty years honored New York by helping to relieve it of unconsidered trifles. Even now this human beast of burden, with back bent by the accumulated weights of countless sacks of rubbish, works some fifteen hours a day—from 2 in the morning until 5 in the afternoon—on the scanty support of two meals, and she is said to have invested carefully all her savings.

The Sketch says that under such conditions life would seem scarcely to be worth living, but Mother Carpio keeps on with the old routine of rag-picking year after year, and the lucky heir presumptive is a young nephew of hers, who will thus come into a not to say baggish, aunt passes hence. —Harper's Round Table.

HIGH PRICED DOGS.

MORE VALUABLE THAN HORSES NOW IN THE NORTHWEST.

A Great Demand for Them to Haul Supplies to the Gold Miners in the Yukon County in Alaska. Boarding Houses Kept for their Special Purpose.

Word comes from Tacoma, Wash., that dogs have suddenly become more valuable than horses in that section of the Northwest. This state of affairs results from the great and growing demand for dogs to be used in hauling sledges in the Yukon country, Alaska. While thousands of horses for which their owners cannot get $8 a head are roaming over the plains of Eastern Washington and Oregon, good-sized dogs are bringing from $15 to $30 each in the local market. At Jeneau their value is double what it is here, and on the Yukon River a good dog brings from $100 to $150. To the Yukon miner the dog has become what the reindeer is to the Laplander and the pony to the cowboys of Texas and Mexico—a beast of service and a most valuable one.

The sledge dogs are too valuable not to be taken well care of where that is possible. Their owners' first thought in this respect is to obtain plenty of food for them. Their food consists principally of fish, usually salmon, caught in the Yukon River by the natives. An ordinary dog will eat daily two pounds of dried salmon, which equals seven pounds of fresh fish. At Forty Mile last winter dried salmon sold at from 20 to 50 cents a pound, and bacon that was fit only for dogs to eat sold for 37½ cents a pound. In some of the larger camps on the Yukon dog boarding houses have been established, where the animals are properly cared for at from $6 to $15 a month, according to the season and the price of dog food.

The native Yukon dog is much more valuable than the importations from Puget Sound. The dogs must be acclimated in order to stand the severities of winter. It is found that dogs taken from Montana and Dakota endure the Yukon winters with less suffering than those bred in the milder climate of Puget Sound. Two splendid specimens of native Alaska dogs were brought here a few days ago, their owner finding it cheaper to pay their passage on the steamer than to have them boarded at Dyea during his trip here for supplies. The animals weigh, one 82 and the other 88 pounds. The large one cost its owner $117 at Circle City. Both animals are stout, well proportioned and muscled, and have exceptionally short and heavy necks. Their ears are short and lifted like those of the Eskimo dog. Their coats are dark, and the hair, while not close, is smooth and heavy enough to form a comfortable protection against the Arctic winters and the Yukon mosquitoes, by the side of which the ferocity of the New Jersey variety pales into insignificance. A specially prepared dog food made out of meal and coarse meat from the packing houses is now being manufactured in the form of a cracker and seems likely to come into general use.

Buskskin moccasins are provided by many owners to keep the feet of the animals from being worn raw on the ice and snow. They are about nine inches long and made much after the pattern of a child's stocking. Pack saddles are also coming into use this spring. These are so arranged that dogs can carry a weight of from 10 to 20 pounds besides drawing a sled. The saddlebags fall on either side, and straps are arranged to prevent the pack from sliding forward or backward.—New York Sun.

Jenny Lind's daughter, Mrs. Raymond Maude, of London, has much of her mother's brilliancy of voice, but has always refused to cultivate it for the stage. "I suppose there was too much music at home," she explained to a friend. Mrs. Maude has three children, none of whom is musical.

Carmen Sylva has received the decoration for Arts and Science from the Emperor of Austria. She is the first woman to win this title.

The anniversaries of victories won in the Crimean War are never forgotten by Florence Nightingale, in spite of her 76 years and her broken health. She always remembers to send a message to the veterans of the Crimea, and at Christmas time she never fails to send some token of remembrance to the workers in the institution for trained nurses which she founded at St. Thomas' Hospital not long after the close of the war.

According to the London Court Journal, Li Hung Chang has a most arduous task before him. The story is that the Chinese Emperor, being anxious to learn French, appointed the erstwhile possessor of the yellow jacket as his tutor. But when he discovered that his teacher had but a smattering of the tongue, he ordained that Li be incarcerated until he learns

Mrs. Nansen, Sr., mother of the well-known explorer, Dr. Nansen, is accredited with having inaugurated the healthful pastime for women of tobogganing and gliding on snowshoes. She was the first woman of Norway to become an enthusiast along this line which has since become so popular in that country.

Count Tolstoi's enthusiasm for chess is unbounded, and it is said that the tables in his house are nearly all marked out as chess-boards, and even the dogs and other family pets have received the names of chess pieces, Rook, Knight, Pawn, and so forth.

5-YEAR OLD ANATOMIST.

Astonishes Chicago Physicians by His Marvelous Knowledge of Osteology.

Little D. Will Gwyn, son of Dr. Howell B. Gwyn of Chicago, is the only child who holds a certificate of proficiency in anatomy from professors of recognized medical colleges.

Though scarcely 5 years of age and no taller than a table, this little tot is perfectly familiar with the human skeleton and the work of the dissecting room. In fact he has witnessed nearly every capital operation known to surgery in the New York, Louisville, New Orleans and Chicago hospitals.

He is a marvel of precocity, and knows every bone in the human body as well as does a medical student at his final examination. That is not all. He can tell you with equal ease and accuracy everything that is to be known about the heart structure and its complex functions, so that, were it not for the sweet little face and the fresh childish smile that illuminates his bright features, and the childish prattle that follows on the heels of his wisdom, one might imagine him a little automaton of anatomical wisdom.

It is not an uncommon thing to see a child able to repeat by rote things which he does not understand, after the fashion of the parrot. Such children are frequently found. But this little one knows what he is talking about. It is a feat of the brain and tongue combined. It is seldom he is ever "stumped," even when one questions from one part of the anatomy to another remote and little used. When he seems to have forgotten the answer his memory gropes for the name of the particular bone or portion of the body, and no matter how hard the term is to pronounce his quick thought grasps it in a second, and then he rolls it out with the ease and readiness of an old practitioner.—Chicago Times-Herald.

A PRECOCIOUS PICKANINNY.

Began Talking When a Week Old, a Statement it is Said, That can be Verified.

Few will believe it possible for a three-months-old child to talk. However, such is the case, and any one can verify the truthfulness of this statement with very little trouble. The parents of the child are Richard and Frankie Cleveland, colored, living at 17 Short street, and the child has been talking since it was only a week old. Hundreds have visited the little wonder, and have left the house completely mystified at what they have seen and heard.

The child is a girl, and differs only from other babies in that it can talk as plainly and be understood as distinctly as a grown person. The voice, of course, is naturally weak, but has none of the baby prattle about it.

Some people called at the house to convince themselves of the truth of the rumors which had been circulated concerning the child. The little one seemed to enjoy the presence of the crowd for a while, but, soon tiring, remarked to its mother, in a voice audible to all present: "I wish all these folks would go home, as I am tired." The callers took the hint and soon departed.—Nashville Banner.

NEW LIFE FOR OLD ROSES.

A Pretty and Dainty Use for the Queen of Flowers.

The rose jar, no matter how costly and beautiful, is a thing of the past. The up-to-date woman no longer prizes it as a receptacle for dried roses with sentiment attached to them. In its place has come the rose sachet—not the ancient form of sachet, either, with its cotton and batting and ounce of powder. It is a dainty thing made of the finest organdie or mull, beribboned and adorned with lace, just as the owner sees fit.

A pretty one shown the other day was of the finest of rose flowered organdie, with drawing strings and bows of pale green silk. The rose leaves of pink, yellow and deep red that shone through it and filled the room with their perfume were brought all the way across the continent from Tacoma. Another rose bag, for most of the new designs are in the shape of bags—was of white chiffon embroidered with butterflies, with a ruffle of the chiffon to set off the sides and bottom. The roses were picked in Southern California at Christmastime for an Eastern friend. Some women are using their pretty handkerchiefs to make designs for bags, but these precious sachets are not put in the chiffonier to waste their beauty there, but are suspended by their long ribbon strings to the back of an artistic chair. When the rom is well heated they emit a delicate perfume.

The Editor's Leading Article.

It was the practice of a certain London editor some years ago, to write his leading article or articles at home the night before publication. The rest of the week he did nothing. One night his articles had not come to hand at the office. Ten o'clock came; 11, 12, and still no sign of an article.

There was commotion in the office, and at last a messenger was sent to the editor's house. He found him with a glass of brandy and water before him, and newspapers scattered about. There was no article written.

"What do you want?" asked the editor. "The article for to-morrow." "Didn't I send it?" "No; at least, it has not come to the office." "Give me 'The Times.'"

"The Times" was found and handed to him, and with unsteady fingers he cut out one of his leading articles. This he stuck upon a sheet of paper, and then, taking up his pen, wrote at the top: "What does 'The Times' mean by this?" In that form and with that introduction it appeared next morning as the editor's leading article.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings make them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the materia, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

THE LARSEN INQUEST

Begun Before the Coroner's Jury at Matteawan.

SOME OF THE TESTIMONY TAKEN.

Four Physicians Testify, but Fail to Agree on the Cause of Death, and the Case Is as Mysterious as Ever.

Newburg, N. Y., July 22.—At the inquest which was held at Fishkill to determine the cause of the death of Selma Larsen, the pretty parlor maid of Clarence Dinsmore of Staatsburg, who was taken sick on a New York Central train last Saturday and subsequently died in the Fishkill hospital, Coroner Bevier presented the testimony of nearly a dozen witnesses, but they failed to satisfy the jury, and an adjournment was taken for ten days in order to have the stomach and organs of the dead girl examined by an expert chemist.

Four physicians, who performed an autopsy on Miss Larsen, testified, but as they failed to agree in their opinions as to whether the girl's death was due to poison their evidence was mystifying rather than helpful to the jury, and the sudden death of Miss Larsen remains almost as much a mystery as ever.

One thing, however, was quite satisfactorily established by the evidence, which was that William Charvill, late butler at the Dinsmore house, was not implicated in the girl's death. Charvill, after being subpœned in New York, came to Fishkill and voluntarily told all that he knew about the girl, after which he was allowed to return to New York.

The weight of evidence also discredited all the cries of suicide, and the indications are that the girl either died from poison taken into her stomach by accident, or her death was due to natural causes.

Examination of Witnesses Begun.

The examination of witnesses was conducted by District Attorney Wood, who had earlier in the day made an investigation at the Dinsmore house, but learned nothing of importance. The first witness called was Miss Christine Campbell, the Dinsmores' housekeeper. She said that Selma Larsen had been in the employ of Mr. Dinsmore since May 1. She had no friends or associates in Staatsburg and did not seem to be intimate with any of the other servants. Her work required her to assist the butler in the pantry a great deal, but she had never noticed any particular friendship between her and Butler Charvill.

There was never anything to indicate that they were lovers. The witness saw Selma three hours before she left for New York, and she was as well and cheerful as ever. She was singing after that.

"When I saw her in the hospital, she could not explain her sickness," said Miss Campbell. "She said that she had eaten nothing but some lamb and green peas and a few ears of corn for lunch at noon. I had no suspicion that she had been poisoned. When Charvill came to the hospital, he asked how Selma was, but did not ask to see her. When I told the girl that he was there, she expressed no particular interest. I gave him a short note to deliver to Mrs. Dinsmore."

Testimony of the Laundress.

Maggie Rhattigan, laundress at Dinsmore's, who accompanied Selma as far as Poughkeepsie on her fatal ride, testified that at the Staatsburg station Miss Larsen got a package from the station agent. This package contained the two bottles of wine which Charvill took from the wine cellar and gave her for a present and which resulted in his subsequent discharge. Charvill was at the station, but he had no private conversation with the girl. On the train Selma was in a happy mood and seemed to be well. This witness said that she had never seen any sign of a love affair between Selma and the butler.

The girls slept together in one room, and Miss Rhattigan said that Selma never complained of being ill, although she had often heard her cough and had advised her to consult a physician.

Miss Elizabeth Miller, matron of the Fishkill hospital, testified that Selma was in a state of collapse when she was brought into the hospital. There was nothing in her appearance which caused the witness to suspect that she had been poisoned. The girl seemed perfectly ignorant of the cause of her sickness and kept asking what could be done for her, seeming to be anxious to get better. When she was admitted, she vomited, and the nurse thought it was blood, but Selma explained that she had been drinking sarsaparilla.

The Testimony of Charvill.

There was quite a stir in the courtroom when Charvill took the stand. He said that he had known Selma Larsen only since May. They were good friends, but he denied that he was the girl's lover. When the district attorney questioned him about the package which he gave to Selma, Charvill said:

"The package contained two bottles of wine which I gave the girl as a present. I left it at the station for her in the morning so that it would not be detected. When I heard that she was sick in the hospital I went there to get the wine so as to save myself from getting into a row at home. I was anxious to learn how she was. Just before she left the house I gave her a glass of ginger ale, with a dash of claret in it, and this looked like sarsaparilla. I also gave her a box of candy from the Dinsmores' private stock."

Charvill was asked to explain why he bought the girl's ticket for her and said:

"Well, sir, she had done a great deal of extra work for me in the pantry, and I had never given her anything for it, so I bought her a round trip ticket to New York and gave it to her as a present. I had never bought her anything before. The bottles of wine were corked and wired, and they were still so when I got them at the hospital."

Mrs. Augusta Wickstrom, sister of the dead girl, testified that Selma was 20 years of age and had been in this country five years. She was not engaged to be married, but she kept company with a young man whose name Mrs. Wickstrom wished to be excused from giving. It was not William Charvill, she said. Mrs. Wickstrom further stat-

FOREST PRESERVE BOARD.

Hold a Meeting and Decide to Purchase More Woodland Property.

Albany, July 22.—The forest preserve board held an all day meeting considering propositions that have been made for the sale of more acres of forest lands than the board has dollars to pay for. The members of the board have recently spent ten days in the woods personally inspecting the land which has been offered for sale, and as such a great quantity of land has been offered they are in a position to dicker for favorable prices and pick whatever land is most favorable.

An offer has been received of 70,000 acres of land in the Moose river tract, which is claimed to be virgin forest, without reservation of any kind at a price the board considers very favorable. The board ordered an inspection of the tract by one of its special inspectors. About 18,000 acres on the Black river watershed, Herkimer county, half of which is said to be unlumbered, is also offered for sale, and the board has ordered a special inspection of this tract.

It has been decided to purchase about 2,000 acres at $1.50 an acre in Hamilton and Herkimer counties.

ALASKA SEALING CASE.

Action Brought to Recover a Counter Claim Against Government Referred.

New York, July 22.—Judge Wallace of the United States circuit court here nearly a year ago in one of the suits brought by the United States against the North American Commercial company awarded the government $107,257.29 as rentals and royalties for sealing privileges on the Pribylov islands, Alaska, during the year 1894.

The company set up a counter claim of $280,000, which they claim had been lost by an order of the secretary of the treasury restricting the seal catch that year to 7,500 head. It was claimed that the provisions of the revised statutes which applied to a lease prior to 1894 allowed a catch of 160,000 and that the secretary of the treasury had no right to issue the order.

The matter was carried to the United States circuit court of appeals, which has referred the question of the counter claim to the United States supreme court for instructions and refused to give a decision.

Houses Struck by Lightning.

Middletown, N. Y., July 22.—The heaviest electric storm of the year passed over this city yesterday afternoon. The thunder was terrific. One brick dwelling in the center of the city, owned by John King, was struck. The bolt passed through the wall, knocking a hole in the building three feet in diameter. It wrecked articles in the room and disappeared mysteriously in another part of the house. The molding was knocked off picture frames, and the walls were scorched. Another bolt struck the house of Cornelius Keefe. It entered the chimney and went to the ground after breaking into every room, wrecking furniture and firing bedding. Mrs. Keefe was stunned and had a narrow escape. Neighbors extinguished the fire.

New Shoe Company Organized.

Augusta, Me., July 22.—The Boyd Corey Shoe company of Augusta has been organized in this city, with a capital stock of $100,000, of which all is paid in. The officers are: President, Hon. S. C. Darling of Boston; vice president, W. H. Aldrich of Boston; treasurer, Hon. M. V. B. Chase of Augusta; clerk, Hon. H. M. Heath of Augusta. The directors include, besides the officers mentioned, Hon. P. O. Vickery, Hon. J. H. Manley and C. S. Hichborn, the latter being the secretary of the board. The plant which the company proposes to establish will employ 300 hands.

Afro-American Conference.

Newport News, Va., July 22.—An Afro-American educational conference was begun at Hampton Institute in Hampton and will last until Friday. The most prominent colored educators of the state are present. Reports upon home trades, schools, business, habits, land and religion were read at the morning session. Papers on education were read by W. C. Price, J. Hugo Johnson and others. A large number of papers on educational topics will be read at today's session.

Stay of Judgment Denied.

Boston, July 22.—A stay has been denied in the cases of Finneran and Mulrey, the employees of the city of Boston who were found guilty of obtaining money under false pretenses from the city, and they must serve sentence. They were charged with making false entries in the accounts of the paving department, and Mulrey has been sentenced to eight years' imprisonment and Finneran to serve 28 months' imprisonment and pay a heavy fine.

Murdered by a Colored Woman.

Atlantic City, July 22.—While Henrietta Hewson was asleep in her home at 131 North Delaware avenue she was attacked by Maud Jones, who, rushing into the house flourishing a razor, stabbed her in the stomach and face and almost severed her right arm. Mrs. Hewson died shortly after. Both women are colored. The murderess was captured while running from the place. It is believed that jealousy actuated the deed.

To Climb Mount Tacoma.

Tacoma, Wash., July 22.—The main party of the Mazamas mountain climbers has started for the peak of Mount Tacoma. Among the prominent scientists who will participate in the expedition are Dr. B. Turner, chief of the forestry division of the United States agricultural department; Dr. C. Hart Merriam, Professor Bailey, assistant of the biological survey, and Professor J. C. Russell and party of the geological survey.

Donation For a Free Library.

Southport, Conn., July 22.—Mrs. Edmund B. Monroe of Tarrytown, N. Y., has made an additional donation of $30,000 to the Free library of this place. Mrs. Monroe presented the town with the land and building at a cost of $60,000. Her latest donation is to be used for the maintenance of the institution.

Two Boys Cut With a Hoe.

Wheeling, July 22.—At a farmhouse near Moundsville Stanley Mason, 12, and Willie Mason, 4, were attacked by an unknown man with a brier hoe and terribly cut. The older boy will die.

GOSSIP OF THE CYCLERS.

TEMS INTERESTING TO DEVOTEES OF THE STEEL STEEDS.

The Popular Exercise Provides Incidents and Expressions That are of Especial Moment When Wheeling is the Rage.

Wheelmen have not been able to do much riding during the last few days on account of the wet weather and muddy roads.

George Mahon, formerly of this city, now representative of A. M. Scheffey & Co., dealers in bicycles and sundries in New York, visited in Plainfield yesterday in the interest of his company.

There are several prizes open to the members of the New York Athletic Club for the greatest mileage made on bicycles. Among the leading candidates for the honors in that direction is Peter B. Matthews, of Grove street. Mr. Matthews is a member of that club and one of the most enthusiastic cyclists in the borough as well as of that leading metropolitan club.

AROUND THE BASES.

"Jack" McLarty, the pitcher for the Crescents, has an old trick of John Harkins, the famous twirler for the West Ends, of Somerville, in the days gone by. He sends a ball that curves in or out at the very last moment and cuts the corner of the plate in time to be called a strike. When the umpire is standing behind the pitcher, it is impossible for him to see it but when behind the catcher, many of the so-called balls become strikes.

There is a good game in prospect for Saturday afternoon at the Crescent's grounds at the corner of La Grande avenue and Richmond street. TheCrescent's opponents on this occasion will be the Domestics, of Newark. The players are all employes in the Domestic Sewing Machine Company's factory in Newark, and include many excellent players, who bring a record of being good ball players from start to finish. The club is looked after to some extent by the firm, as the well-known Hackett, Carhart's used to be, and is said to be one of the strongest teams of its class in Newark. The game, as usual, will begin at 3:30 o'clock. The teams will be made up of the following players:

Crescents.	Domestics.
Corbin, 1b.	Thickstun, 1b.
Lederer, 2b.	Scale, 2b.
Cooney, 3b.	Nealy, 3b.
Hollister, ss.	Swain ss.
Symons, rf.	Small, rf
MacBeth, lf.	Dlinburg, lf.
Mumford, cf.	Budlick, cf.
McLarty, p.	Humble, p.
Vroom, c.	Drake, c.
	Ryan, sub.

Manager Mumford has written to the manager of the Somerset team, of Somerville, trying to arrange a series of games between that team and the Crescent's for later in the season. As the Crescent's schedule extends to Sept. 18th, the games will probably be played after that date. One game may be played before that time. Mr. Mumford is expecting a reply shortly. The cranks are hoping that the series can be arranged.

the theatre and on their return they stopped at the house of a clergyman and were married.

If they had hoped that all would be forgiven and forgotten by the bride's parents, they were mistaken. There was a scene when the newly married couple returned to the bride's home and made the announcement of their marriage. "For rich or for poor, for better or for worse," had the minister said and so the plucky western girl stood by her husband and bid farewell to her home. She was then but nineteen years of age he was about twenty-five.

The young couple came east and finally reached Brooklyn where a favorite aunt of the bride lived. Smedberg did not have much money, but he wanted to support his wife in the same style in which she had been living. He secured a position with the Standard Gas Light Company, of 115th street, New York. Board was high and wages were small. Smedberg was a smart young man, well educated and had become quite an expert draughtsman. He entered in communication with the Scott Press Works in this city and finally secured a position with that company as draughtsman.

He came here with his wife about two months ago and he went to work. They boarded at first at the corner of East Fifth and Sycamore streets. Then they moved to 327 East Fifth street, the home of Mrs. Durant. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall went there to take their meals. The Smedbergs and the Marshalls became acquainted. The Smedbergs had no friends in this city, and they had very little to do with the other boarders. The strangers often went over to call on Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, and all went well between them.

Mrs. Smedberg was a very stylish looking blonde, with pretty face and fascinating eyes. Her husband was a man of medium height, smooth face, with eyes rather sunken. Those who have seen him lately saw that he has grown very pale and sickly looking, and was so nervous that he could not pass a dish at the table without his hand trembling. At the office where he was employed, he seemed to be a hard worker. He never was very talkative and was not at all intimate with any of his fellow workmen. It was remarked there that he always seemed short of money and frequently drew part of his salary before the week was up.

Then came the robbery and the disappearance of the Marshall diamonds. The Smedbergs continued to board at Mrs. Durant's home. Twice, Mrs. Durant states, she saw Smedberg come out of her own room. She says that she asked him what he was doing there and his reply was that he went in to see the time. Then Mrs. Durant missed about $50 in cash which had been laid aside for rent and other expenses. She suspected her boarders from the west and a search warrant was issued by Justice Nash. A search was made in the Smedberg's room, but nothing was found. Then the Smedbergs left and went to board with Mrs. Dayton, on East Fifth street, next to Neuman Brothers' grocery store.

The description of the man who pawned the diamonds as secured by Detective Blackford answered to that of Smedberg. So Blackford appeared before Justice Nash last evening and made a charge against Smedberg of grand larceny. A warrant was issued and this morning Blackford served it on Smedberg as he started for work. He was taken before the Justice but refused to say anything until he had consulted with an attorney. Justice Nash committed him to the county jail to await a hearing. He will be brought to this city Saturday afternoon and given a hearing before the Justice. His wife was informed of his arrest and is now remaining at her boarding place.

The day that Smedberg is alleged to have pawned the diamonds was on Tuesday, July 6th. Monday was the 5th, which was celebrated as Independence Day. Neighbors say that Mr. and Mrs. Smedberg went to New York and spent Sunday and Monday there. The time book of the Scott Press Works shows that Smedberg worked only seven hours in all that week and that was on Thursday, July 8th.

SCIENTIFIC FARMING IN CHINA.

A $3,000 Salary for the Man Who Will Teach the Celestials Agriculture.

It is evidence of the intention of the Chinese Government to improve the material condition of the people of that country when it comes to America to secure the services of a man who will be able to teach the coolies how to farm according to modern and scientific principles. China is one of the greatest agricultural countries upon the face of the earth. The larger portion of the empire, is favored by climate and natural conditions, yet the old civilization has not been able to secure the best and most fruitful results. The new civilization is therefore appealed to, and Chang Chi Tung, viceroy of the province of Hu-Kwang, has requested President Schurman, of Cornell University to select a graduate of the agricultural department of that institution who is competent to establish and take charge of a model farm in that province.

The salary offered is $3,000 in gold, which is equivalent to about $6,000 in the silver money of China. Such a sum must be regarded as enormous by the Chinese themselves and that they should offer it shows their anxiety to secure the benefits of American agricultural methods. There can be no question that it will be a wise investment if it shall have the effect of inducing the Chinese farmers to abandon their rudimentary and obsolete methods. Unfortunately there are many obstacles in the way, chief of them being Chinese superstition, which blocks progress in that country. The natives have hitherto been inclined to pay more heed to the supposed commands of the "gods of the winds and the water" than to the advice and suggestions of "foreign devils."—Detroit Times.

FOUND HIS WIFE AFTER 47 YEARS.

A Tale That Proves Fiction is no Stranger Than Truth.

A romantic story developed recently at Wilder's, Ind., by the arrival of William Easley, living near Elkton, Ky., to claim his wife after an absence of nearly forty eight years.

Easley left his wife, a bride of fifteen months, and a babe in the cradle in 1849 to seek a fortune for his family. He sold his property, and with $1,000 started overland for the Pacific coast to prospect in the mines. He took up a claim, and letters to his wife told of promised success. He was gone a year when his letters stopped. The wife did not despair, but months lapsed into years, and still Easley was not heard from. Mrs. Easley, after ten years of waiting, concluded that her husband was dead, and five years later she again married and moved to Indiana. Her second husband died in 1886, leaving the widow in indigent circumstances.

Easley having learned that his wife, whom he believed dead, was living, and the sequel was that he found the bride of his youth in Wilder. Easley said he received advices in California that his wife was dead. He went from California to Todd county, Ky., where he is the owner of a large farm, and where the aged couple will spend their declining years.

The Value of Nuts as Food.

It is popularly believed that nuts are indigestible, and doctors agree that nuts and raisins after a full meal, or rich nut cakes, puddings or fritters, cause dyspepsia; but this is because they are eaten as luxuries after the appetite has been satisfied. Nuts, if well masticated, and eaten not as a dessert, but in place of other food, are more nutritious and sustaining than many fruits and vegetables, and are said to be specially valuable as brain and nerve builders. They may be eaten uncooked, in the usual way, or in soups, sandwiches, salads, or cooked with vegetables; for instance, egg plant with nut stuffing. Peanut or chestnut sandwiches are an approved delicacy.

Dog With a Cork Leg.

Lady Nell, a beautiful white fox terrier, was injured by a coal wagon while chasing a rat. The wheels passed over one of her slender paws, crushing it to a jelly, but the plucky little creature held on to the rat and shook the life out of it before she crept moaning to her master. He immediately carried her to a surgeon, who amputated her leg above the first joint. For days the little creature's sufferings were intense, and she was nursed like a baby. Gradually the wound healed, and Mr. Raymond had a cork leg made for her, which she soon used with ease and pegged around like a veteran.—Chicago News.

Rev. H. J. Johnston, of Craig place, is suffering with a painful finger, injured recently while playing ball. The ball struck the end of the finger and fractured a small bone. The proper treatment was given the finger and it is now doing nicely.

An Unexpected Verdict.

A very famous lawyer explained his almost uniform success by saying that he never flew over the heads of the jury, which meant that he never indulged in language beyond their comprehension. A young lawyer who had not learned this rule, not long ago, paid dearly for his ignorance.

"You see, gentlemen," said the counsel for the defendant, complacently—it was a compensation case—"I have got the plaintiff in a very nice dilemma. If he went there, seeing that the place was dangerous, there was contributory negligence, and, as his honor will tell you, he can't recover. If he did not see it was dangerous, neither could my client have seen it, and there was no negligence on his part. In either case, I am entitled to the verdict."

The jury retired.

"Well, gentlemen," said the foreman, "I think we must give him fifteen hundred dollars."

All agreed except a stout, ruddy gentleman in the corner, who cried hoarsely:

"Give him another five hundred, gentlemen, for getting into the dilemma. Verdict accordingly.

BREAK IN COAL COMBINE

Awarded the Contract for Supplying 500 Tons to the Public Schools—His Action a Surprise to Local Dealers.

It was a genuine surprise party that was prepared for the coal dealers of Plainfield last evening. There has always been a unanimity of opinion and prices among the local dealers who have formed the Plainfield Coal Dealers' Exchange, and have always bid the same for any contract that has been offered in the city. Last night bids were opened at a special meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education for the coal supply for the public schools, and one of the prominent members of the Exchange, C.H. Rugg, bid considerably below the schedule of prices arranged by the Exchange and was awarded the contract.

Never since the formation of the Plainfield association has there been any differing from the schedule adopted by the association. All the local dealers have advanced the same price for their commodity, and there has been no discord between them. Last year TenEyck & Harris, the agents for the Lehigh Valley Coal Company in South Plainfield, came over and underbid the local dealers and carried away the coveted plum, the contract for the school coal supply. There was considerable talk at the time about giving the contract to outside parties, but it did no good.

This year, the South Plainfield dealers came in the combination and agreed to the schedule of the local association. There was no thought of any of the local dealers deserting the schedule and the information came like a thunderclap to the rest.

It was a special meeting of the Board called for the purpose of awarding the contract for the winter supply of coal for the schools. All the members of the Board were present. There were also present representatives of most of the bidding firms. Mr. Rugg was not present. The first business was the opening of the bids.

The contract called for 500 tons, more or less, to be delivered at the different schools, cleaned and screened. Bids were received and opened from Michael Powers & Son, E. H. Holmes, Boice, Runyon & Co., W. D. Manning, Rheaume and Saxton, all of Plainfield, and Ten Eyck & Harris of South Plainfield. The price of egg, stove, broken or nut coal was $5.20, and pea coal $4. These were the schedule prices and such were all the bids except that of Rugg. He bid $5 a ton for egg, stove, broken or nut coal, and $3.50 for pea coal. When Rugg's bid was read there was a general movement among the dealers.

After the reading of the bids, Mr. Holmes, secretary of the Exchange, made a few remarks. He said that he was greatly surprised at the action of Mr. Rugg, which, he declared, was very strange. Mr. Harris spoke for the South Plainfield dealers and read a letter he had received from Mr. Barrett, general sales' agent for the Lehigh Valley Company in New York, in which he was instructed to conform with the schedule of the local dealers. He explained that he had done so.

Then the Board went into executive session and considered the bids while there was a steady hum among the representatives of the bidding firms who were completely taken back by Mr. Rugg's action. The break in the schedule was a great surprise to the members of the Board who had not looked for it in that quarter. The difference in the bids was worth considering, however, and the Board at last decided to award the contract to Mr. Rugg. That ended the meeting as far as the coal dealers were concerned and they departed accordingly.

A report was made by the building committee concerning the macadamizing of the school yard at the Lincoln school. The committee had secured a bid of $390 for the work from Smalley Brothers but the Board at the last meeting had directed the company to secure more bids. The committee reported that J. H. Wilson & Co. would do the work for $440, and John G. Cook, of Scotch Plains would do it for $390. The contract has been awarded to Smalley Brothers.

The Board again went into executive session and accepted the resignation of Miss Mary E. Lavers, drawing teacher at the schools. Miss Lavers was anxious to secure a position near her home and had been offered one at Woonsocket, Rhode Island. Her successor will be appointed at a future meeting.

Mr. Harris was very angry at the Plainfield dealers at first, claiming that he had been the victim of a put-up job, the local dealers fixing a price, and then agreeing to have one of their number underbid it and cut him out

GEO. THATCHER'S PARTY.

MINSTREL MAN GAVE A TROLLEY RIDE LAST NIGHT.

The Host Was Unable to Be Present Himself, But Fifty of His Friends Were Out in Force and a Royal Time Was Enjoyed.

The business of George Thatcher—he of minstrel fame—is to make people laugh, but last night the merry comedian fulfilled a two-fold function in that he occupied the boards of Kieth's vaudville theatre with his old time friend, Ed Marble, and entertained the urban citizens for half an hour, while at the same moment his suburban friends were having "a hot time in the old town" at his expense. To be concise, George Thatcher gave a trolley party last night. The only thing lacking in the affair was the presence of the host himself, but as George believes in business before pleasure he tore himself away from his friends and became, for the nonce, the stellar attraction at Kieth's.

Convivality and all-around good-fellowship is one of the marked characteristics of the comedian and long ago Plainfielders were made aware of his handsome hospitality while "off the road." The trolley is the thing nowadays and so Mr. Thatcher proceeded to utilize its advantages for one night to give his neighbors and cronies a good time.

A few days ago his friends received a neat little badge in the shape of a blue ribbon which served also as an invitation, with the appropriate wording that "You are invited to George Thatcher's trolley party." A miniature photograph of the minstrel man accompanied the badge.

Last night, a trolley car gayly decorated with flags and Chinese lanterns arrived at North avenue at 7 o'clock where a crowd of the guests were waiting for the commencement of the trip. Soon after, the car, occupied by about fifty of the guests, started out. A trip was made over all the branches of the street railroad, meanwhile the guests entering into the spirit of the occasion and enjoying sociability as well as vocal and instrumental music by a party of colored gents whose race the genial George was at that moment impersonating with unctious humor. That made a strange anomaly—George essaying the negro for the delectation of his white brethern in New York while the real article of Southern nativity was doing the same thing for George's bosom friends in Plainfield.

After viewing the sights of Plainfield by trolley and under electric light, the party made a stop in front of Charles Smith's dispensary and hurried inside, where their thirsts were quenched with various decoctions. Then the trip was resumed to the Dunellen terminus of the road, where three stages awaited their coming. Transferring to the vehicles the party was driven to Nelson's hotel at New Market, where refreshments of liquid and material quality were served with lavish hand. After spending a couple of hours in an enjoyable manner at the hotel the return trip was made and the guests arrived home at 1 o'clock this morning.

In the absence of Mr. Thatcher, Charles Smith, Wm. Emery and Lewis McIntosh officiated as masters of ceremonies. There were a few guests from out of town.

NO AMERICAN DAY.

The Junior Order of United American Mechanics in this State has for the last four years observed August 19 as American Day and has celebrated it at Asbury Park. These gatherings have served the double purpose of exhibiting the strength of the order in New Jersey and affording amusement to the members. Last year over 20,000 members attended. The affair was only successful, however, in that it afforded recreation. The State officers could not as in former years get the members to parade and exhibit the strength of the organization.

It was the custom for each retiring State Councillor to suggest on retiring from office that American Day be kept. Owing to the omission of the parade, the last State Councillor failed to make the recommendation that all the Councils observe American Day this year. The result is that some councils will observe the day by holding the regular annual excursion to Asbury Park, while others are ignoring it entirely and are planning excursions on other days.

The Soldier's Friend.

Gen. W. H. Sterling, the soldier's friend, has taken an interest in the claim of Mrs. Anna M. Smith, widow of Garrett P. Smith, deceased, for a pension. Recently he received a letter from Senator Sewell which stated that the claim has been taken up and will undoubtedly be granted.

TO RUN DOWN BURGLARS

TERRIFIED WESTFIELDERS TO PUBLICLY CONSIDER THE MATTER.

Vigilants Seem Unable to Cope With the Outlaws and a Public Meeting Will be Held to Decide Upon a Plan of Protection

The gang of burglars which is operating in Westfield nightly and keeping the town in a state of great excitement, are probably contemplating with interest the following circular which has beeen scatterred broadcast in the town:

"Important! In view of the many burglaries which have recently occurred, a meeting of the citizens of Westfield Township is hereby called for Friday, July 23d, at 8 p. m., at the Westfield Club to determine upon some action in the matter. Please do not fail to be present.

A vigilance committee which was organized on Tuesday to patrol the streets has not succeeded in putting a stop to the burglaries nor effected a capture; and the feeling exists that some more effective action should be taken. On Tuesday night about twenty armed men were on the streets doing police duty; but their presence did not deter a gang of six burglars from attempting to loot a number of houses on South avenue. The vigilants pursued the outlaws, however, and fired upon them in several sections of the town.

On Wednesday night the volunteers who had done duty on the previous night were worn out and in need of sleep, and in consequence there was a smaller force of patrolmen upon the streets. About five men were on duty during the night.

The burglars were out and attempted to enter the house of George T. Crittenden, on Clark street. Mrs. Crittenden heard the men at the parlor window and awakened her husband who climbed out upon the piazza roof and fired at the fleeing forms of three men. An examination showed that the shutters of the parlor window had been pried open with a jimmy. An attempt was made the same night to enter the home of Mrs. N. L. Moore, on North Broad street. George W. Wrennick, a nephew of Mrs. Moore, was awakened and fired at the burglars. They decamped hastily. Yesterday, when the news spread that more robberies had been attempted, the men in town gathered in little groups upon the streets and in the stores and talked over the situation.

Nothing else is talked of but the burglaries, and the feeling is that something must be done to stop them at any cost. The meeting tonight is called to hit upon some means more effective than those at present employed. Everyone appreciates highly the efforts of the vigilants, but the matter is growing so serious that no stone will be left unturned to ferret out the outlaws.

Excitement in the town is so high that very few people think of attempting to sleep at night. Lights are extinguished and the families gather on their front piazzas or at upstairs windows, and converse in whispers. Everyone passing along the streets is closely watched, and it is necessary for citizens who have business out of doors at a late hour to keep moving while on the street, as it is dangerous to stop in front of a house anywhere.

A PLAINFIELD ROOTER FINED.

Somerville Couldn't Stand the Jibes of Walter Higgins.

Walter Higgins, who came to town with the Plainfield contingent, to witness the ball game at the West End grounds, on Saturday afternoon, became disorderly and used vile language in the presence of ladies.

One of their escorts tried to quiet him. He showed fight, and the escort proceeded to wipe the south west corner of the ball field with him, until he was relieved by Patrolman Koch. Higgins was finally taken before Justice Kitchen, who committed him to the county jail. Later in the day a number of his friends paid his fine of $5 and he was released. The fermentation of a large quanity of Plainfield beer which Higgins carried with him is said to be the cause of his troubles.—Somerville Unionist-Gazette.

Nominated For Grand Warden.

The Grand Secretary of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of New Jersey, Lewis Parker, officially announces the nomination of William A. Stryker, Past Grand of Mansfield Lodge, No. 42, of Washington, and formerly District-Attorney of Warren county, as Grand Warden, by twenty-three lodges of the State. The election will take place in October next.

New Form of City Invoice.

The form of invoice for bills against the city has been changed, and those having bills against the city can have the new form by applying at the office of the City Clerk. Bills will not be taken by the city except as made out on the new form of blank.

YOUTH WAS A LIFE SAVER

TWELVE YEAR OLD BOY RESCUED A FOUR YEAR OLD CHILD.

A. C. Lazzi's Son Fell Into Tier's Pond While Playing on the Bank—Heroic Conduct of Henry Myers Saved His Life.

There was a splash in the race at Tier's Lake, two small hands and a head struggled to the surface and sank again. Henry Myers, twelve years old, of 44 Manning avenue, heard the sound as he was playing in the vicinity and running quickly to the race, saw the water close for the third time over a small child. Myers plunged into the water and brought the small bundle of humanity to the shore.

It proved to be Henry Lazzi, the four-year-aid son of A. C. Lazzi, a stonecutter living on Watchung avenue within a few doors of the brook.

The child was playing about as usual this morning, when it wandered off to the race and in attempting to pull a flower from the stream fell in at the race gate where the water is at least seven feet deep. The little fellow made no outcry, but sank like a bullet. When pulled from the water he was insensible and had to be carried home. The little fellow's breath soon returned, however, and he was playing about the house when a Press reporter called an hour later.

The accident occurred at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

WORK FOR 1,000 TO 2,000 MEN

Plant of a German Explosive Company to Be Moved to Spotswood.

At Spotswood, nine miles from New Brunswick, work has been commenced on the buildings which are to form the plant of the Rhenish-Westphalian Explosive Company of Germany. Men are now at work on the foundations for the dwelling houses of employes. The factory buildings will be started later. The Rhenish-Westphalian Company's plant is at Cologne, Germany. When the company's agents came to this country to select a site the Pennsylvania Railroad induced the company to establish its plant at Spotswood, on the line of the old Camden and Amboy Railroad, a branch of the Pennsylvania system. Frank H. Pownall, of Jamesburg, secured the building contract. All the men employed by him are residents of the villages around Spotswood. The factories will, it is said, give employment to from 1,000 to 2,000 men.

PEDDLER FIRES ON THIEVES.

Highwaymen Foiled in Their Attempt to Rob a Plainfield Man.

A Plainfield peddler was stopped near the old railroad cut between Fanwood and Westfield Tuesday night as he was on his way to market. Two men stepped out from the brush beside the road and ordered him to stop and give them a ride. He drew his revolver and opened fire.

In a few seconds he emptied his revolver, and when the footpads saw that his ammunition was gone they gave chase, but they could not outrun his horse. The peddler ran his horse all the way to Westfield, where he told his story. He left without giving his name.

In the Bastile.

The following have been lodged in the Somerset county jail the past week: Thursday, Robert Krohn, of North Plainfield, disorderly, 30 days; Friday, Mary Fleming, of Somerville, disorderly, 5 days; Saturday, Wm. A. Biggs, of Somerville, assault; Peter Canick, of Bound Brook, disorderly, 10 days and $10; Sunday, Wm. Wilson, of Jersey City, disorderly, 10 days; Geo. Barney, of Somerville, disorderly, 10 days; Monday, George Farrington, of Bound Brook, disorderly, 15 days; John O'Brien, of Somerville, larceny.

Against Sunday Amusement.

Bayonne's Woman's Christian Temperance Union is undertaking a crusade directed against places of amusement on the Hudson County Boulevard and shore resorts. Objections are raised to the disturbing of rest on Sundays by baseball games and various other attractions provided by these resorts to draw crowds there. The two branches of the union have forwarded petitions to the various churches for signatures, and will present them to the mayor and council.

Salvation Army Notes.

The Salvation Army will have a special demonstration at their hall on West Second street, tonight. Adjt. and Mrs. Brewer, of New York, who have charge of the mercy box department, will lead the meeting. Ensign Garabed, more commonly known as "Joe the Turk," will remain in the city till Monday. Captain Lamprey, of Berlin, N. H., has arrived to take charge of the local work.

NOT ENOUGH EVIDENCE.

CITY FAILS TO PROSECUTE THOSE CHARGED WITH GAMBLING.

Officiating Corporation Counsel Moved That They Be Discharged and a Crowd of Curious People Were Quite Surprised

"I move to dismiss the complaint," pleasantly remarked Former Judge Nelson Runyon, who is acting in the capacity of prosecuting attorney for the city during the absence of the Corporation Counsel, Craig A. Marsh. The several score of citizens, some of whom had been summoned for jury duty and the others who had dropped in out of curiousity, were all attention.

It was the opening of what was supposed would be an interesting gambling trial in the Council Chambers this morning. The City Judge, lawyers, witnesses and jurors were all present when the representative of the city made the above request. He stated that after looking over the complaint he felt that it would be impossible to convict the prisoners, and to save everybody from the trouble of a trial on such a warm day, he moved to dismiss the complaint. The Judge granted the motion and declared that the prisoners were discharged. The business men who had been called from work gave a sigh of relief and departed without delay, while those who had come to see the fun slowly made their way out rather disgusted with the turn of events.

The charge against the prisoners was that of playing poker for money on the second floor of a club house on East Second street. The offense was alleged to have been committed during the first week in July. Roundsman Frederickson raided the place with the assistance of several other officers and alleged that the men were gambling. The men arrested on that occasion were Gilbert Sutphen, Adam Smith, James Smith and Arthur Jackson.

When arraigned before City Judge DeMeza all four pleaded not guilty through their counsel, former Councilman Walter L. Hetfield, and their trial was set down for the following Saturday. It was afterwards adjourned until today at the request of the defendants' counsel.

Considerable interest was taken in the case, particularly after a jury was ordered to try the case. A number of the representative business men of the city were summoned on the jury and the case promised to be an exciting one.

Mr. Runyon gave no special reasons as to his action in moving to dismiss the complaint, except to say that he felt perfectly sure in his own mind that the prisoners could never be convicted.

Firemen's Carnival.

It is the intention of the volunteer fireman of Trenton to hold an inter-State carnival in Trenton sometime during September or October, and Mayor Welling G. Sickel, of Trenton, has communicated with Chief T. O Doane, of this city, asking him what support he thought the Plainfield volunteer firemen would give to the carnival. Similar letters have been sent throughout the State, and if favorable responses are received the affair may be held. It is proposed to have a large parade, also a test of speed, and valuable prizes will be offered.

Not Committed for Examination.

Michael Joyce, whose mental condition borders on insanity, was committed to the county jail from North Plainfield over two months ago for examination. He still remains in jail, but up to the present time no action has been taken in his case.—Somerville Unionist-Gazette.

A Press reporter made inquiries relative to the above among the officials of the borough, and was informed by Chief Marshal Wilson that Joyce was sentenced to the county jail for sixty days on a charge of vagrancy. He was not committed for an examination.

Councilmen Are Interested.

Regarding the communication of "An Old Resident" in yesterday's Press, referring to the laying of four foot crosswalks to replace two-foot crosswalks in the eastern end of this city, the street committee of the Common Council would esteem it a great favor if the "Old Resident" would personally appear before the committee at the committee meeting which is to be held on Monday evening or else send a communication stating the place where the change is being made.

Rain Prevented a Drill.

The inclement weather prevented the drill of Gazelle Hose Company from taking place on Wednesday evening as announced. When the drill does come off, an interesting feature will be the experiment of throwing five streams of water from a four-way hydrant.

A BRICKYARD STRIKE.

TROUBLE BETWEEN BOSSES AND MEN AT BERKLEY HEIGHTS.

A Dispute as to When the Men Should be Paid and Almost a Free Fight—Legal Aid is Now Sought.

While the Pennsylvania miners are attracting the attention of the country by their great strike, there is a little strike in the brickyards at Berkley Heights that but few know of. The men were not organized. They had no Debs to lead them, but they were determined to secure their rights if they had to fight for them. The work at the brickyards is still at a standstill, but the men at last gave up trying to win the battle by waiting and came to this city to secure legal aid.

P. Macaroni is an Italian and John Veretta is a Frenchman. Together, they run a brickyard at Berkeley Heights. They began work during the latter part of May and hired a gang of men to make the bricks, pile them up in the kilns and perform the other necessary work about the yard. Among the men employed were Henry Wagoner, Adam Berg, Oliver Ripper, Patrick MacIntyre, Henry Pieffer, Thomas Reynolds, William Madden and William Gillies. The last two are from this city. The agreement on which the men were hired was that they should receive $26 a month and board. The men claim that Veretta, who made the contract, agreed to pay them after the kiln of bricks should be burned.

All through June and part of July the men worked. Then Veretta wanted the men to load the bricks on the cars for transportation. The laborers demurred and asked for their pay. Then the trouble began.

Veretta is a Frenchman and somewhat excitable. He declared that the men would receive their pay when the bricks were loaded in the cars and not until then. There was a conference and Oliver Ripper was chosen spokesman. The men left their work and went to the member of the firm with whom they had had their dealings and demanded their pay. The men claim that Veretta went forth armed with a horsewhip and wanted to attack them all. He ordered them off the place, they say, and threatened to shoot them if they came around.

The Frenchman was in earnest and so were the men, so they camped out in the brickyards with the intention of tiring out the boss. That all happened on Tuesday and since then they have been waiting and living on the provosions Veretta had provided for them before the strike. Today, tiring of the wait, a delegation came to this city and invaded the law offices of William Newcorn and have retained him in the matter. He will try to adjust the matter micably.

Bergen to Push His Trolley Scheme.

Frank Bergen, who proposes that the county of Union should build the trolley lines on its county roads, will in September next call a public meeting to consider the feasibility of his proposition. The meeting will be of the same nature of the public meeting which was held to discuss the project of building county roads. Citizens of all parts of the county will be welcomed, and expressions of opinion will be free for all. Mr. Bergen will present his plan, and will have specifications showing how the work can be done, and the costs, together with the advantages.

A Ball Bearing Wheel.

The Turner Manufacturing Company, of No. 245 Broadway, New York, gratuitously placed a new ball-bearing fifth wheel on Zephyr Hook and Ladder truck a few days ago. This idea is a new one and Chief Doane is much pleased with the way it works. With the old method a great deal of grease was required to keep the turning point in good order and then it never could be depended upon. The new method works much easier and so far proves that it can be depended upon.

Their Pictures Seen all Over.

Recently the New York Coupling Supply Company, of New York, through one of their agents gave an exhibition of a nozzel near the Plainfield Electric Light Station Chief Doane and Driver Townley, together with Fireman L. M. Dunavan, assisted in the exhibition and views were taken by G. Thorn of the various tests. These views have just appeared in a convenient form and are being circulated all over the country. The pictures are excellent and especially good of the local firemen.

—Creamery butter tomorrow at J. F. MacDonald's at 15 cents per pound.

—George Eckhardt, of the borough, has formed a partnership with Ira LaRue, in the real estate and insurance business. Their offices are in the Marsh building on Park avenue.

FOR THE FINAL VOTE

Republican Senators Want Time Set For Ballot on Tariff.

THE FIRST DEFINITE MOVE MADE.

Senator Allison Will Protract the Sessions In Order to Obtain a Vote—The Debate Was Participated In by Several Senators.

Washington, July 23.—Shortly before the senate adjourned Senator Allison, in charge of the tariff bill, made a strong effort to have a time fixed for the final vote on the tariff conference report. Failing in this, Mr. Allison gave notice that today's session would be protracted with a view to securing a vote. It was the first definite movement made thus far toward bringing the debate to a close. Mr. Allison's first proposition was for a vote at 5 o'clock this afternoon, but this was objected to by Mr. Pettus of Alabama. Then he proposed a vote some time before adjournment, which was objected to by Mr. Morgan.

The suggestion of Saturday at 1 o'clock met with like objection from Mr. Morgan. The Alabama senator explained his last objection by stating that he thought all debate on the report would be exhausted today, so that it was needless to make an agreement in advance. Finding that there was no disposition to reach an agreement, Mr. Allison finally gave notice that hereafter, while the report was pending, the senate would not adjourn at 5 o'clock without a yea and nay vote.

The debate on the report was participated in by Senators Chilton of Texas, Jones of Arkansas and Pettigrew of South Dakota in opposition, while Mr. Aldrich took frequent occasion to defend the report against the criticism of these senators.

The President's Vacation.

Washington, July 23.—President McKinley will leave Washington next Wednesday for his summer vacation on Lake Champlain provided congress adjourns in time to permit it. He will proceed directly to Plattsburg, on the west side of the lake, not stopping at any intermediate point if it is possible to avoid so doing.

It is the intention of the president to have all official announcements of executive action taken while he is on his vacation made through the regular machinery at Washington, his purpose being to secure relief from the cares of business as far as possible.

Secretary Sherman has arranged to leave Washington for Amagansett, on Long Island, today. His daughter, Mrs. McCallum, is summering at that place, and the secretary expects the change in climate will assist him in recovering his health.

Second Assistant Secretary A. A. Adee will act as secretary of state in the absence of Secretary Sherman and Assistant Secretary Day.

The Seal Question.

Washington, July 23.—The Mexican government, through Mr. Romero, the Mexican minister, has advised the department of state that his government will render all the aid possible to the commissioners of the government in their investigation to determine whether the seals on the island of Guadalupe are the same as those which breed in the Pribilof archipelago.

The contention of our government in the correspondence with Great Britain has been that they are not the same. The British experts have pointed out the number of seals in the vicinity of Guadalupe island as proof that the seal herds have not diminished in number, alleging that they are the same seals that migrate in the summer to Bering sea. The fact to be developed is for the use of the commission, which probably will meet in Washington next fall, if General Foster succeeds in his mission.

Secretary Sherman and the Hay Letter.

Washington, July 23.—The attention of Secretary Sherman was directed to the published statement that he had been induced to sign the letter of instructions to Embassador Hay relative to the seal controversy which has so excited the British press only under severe pressure and against his own judgment. The secretary had just come to the state department after an illness of a few days' duration, but that he had kept himself informed during his stay at home of the affairs of the day was evident from the fact that he had already read the story and was prepared to enter a prompt and specific denial of the allegation. He said that there was not a word of truth in it and that as a matter of fact he had been in perfect accord with the president in every step of the correspondence relating to the seal question.

Sudden Death of a Physician.

Providence, July 23.—Dr. George D. Wilcox, one of Rhode Island's most noted physicians, a member of the British Homeopathic Medical society, London, and correspondent of Mitglied des Homeopathischen Central vereins of Leipsic, died suddenly of heart disease at his home in this city. He was born in West Greenwich on Aug. 28, 1825. In 1856 he began practice in Providence, later studied in Germany and London and returned here in 1860.

Autopsy on Supposed Murdered Man.

Providence, July 23.—The autopsy upon the body of Police Constable Alfred A. Johnson of Warwick, who died from the effects of a fight with Constable Charles Ballou and his son Walter, has been held. The examination disclosed the fact that death was due to cerebral hemorrhage and a fracture of the skull.

New Gunboat at Washington.

Washington, July 23.—The new gunboat Helena has arrived at the Washington navy yard, being the first actual warship in many years to reach the capital city. She is to receive here a silver service from the citizens of Montana. The arrangements have been left to Senator Carter and Captain Swinburne.

Arrested on a Serious Charge.

Gloversville, N. Y., July 23.—David S. Thompson, a prominent dry goods merchant, has been arrested charged with obtaining money under false pretenses from Mrs. E. J. Brown in 1894. He was held in $3,000 bond.

A COURT MARTIAL

An American Citizen Tried at Havana In the Presence of General Lee.

Havana, July 23.—The trial of Manuel Fernandez Chaquello, an American citizen, by ordinary court martial took place at the jail in this city. The prosecutor asked that sentence of death be imposed, but the court did not render a verdict. United States Consul General Lee was present at the trial as a private citizen. He made no protest, as the proceedings were in strict conformity with the third article of the protocol of Jan. 12, 1877.

Chaquello, who is 21 years old, was captured on July 9, 1896, near Jaruco, about 20 miles east of Havana. He had landed three days before with an expedition and was captured during an engagement between the band of insurgents which he joined and a party of Spanish troops under Colonel Ochoa. He was born in Key West and has been confined in the Cabanas fortress since his capture.

After the trial of Chaquello General Lee paid a social visit to Captain General Weyler and was very cordially received, and a pleasant chat between the consul general and General Weyler took place.

DECISION IN TROLLEY CASE

A Court of Appeals Verdict Affects All the Roads In the Country.

New York, July 23.—In the circuit court of appeals for this circuit a decision has been handed down in the case of the Thomson-Houston Electrical company versus Hoosick Railway company. In this decision, which was written by Judge Wallace, all of the judges concurring, the court held that the Van Depoele trolley patent is invalid by reason of the same invention having been described and disclosed in an earlier patent to Van Depoele.

The decision therefore invalidates the patent because it was claimed to cover broadly the idea of the undercurrent trolley on an overhead wire.

The court's finding affects all the trolley railways of the country, as the patent may be now used by any one without paying royalty.

A TOWER ON FIRE.

Excitement Caused by a Blazing Structure In England.

London, July 23.—A dispatch from Blackpool, Lancashire, says a fire broke out in the top of the Eiffel tower, 350 feet high, which was erected on the promenade at that place four years ago.

A strong sea breeze fanned the flames, which spread rapidly through the upper part of the structure, and great masses of burning timber and iron fell with terrific crashes upon the roofs of the pleasure buildings in the gardens below.

Thousands of persons turned out to watch the fire, and there were continual stampedes, caused by the fear that the heat, which was intense, would disturb the equilibrium of the tower and that the whole structure would fall.

The Hope at Sydney, C. B.

Sydney, C. B., July 23.—The steamer Hope, with Lieutenant R. E. Peary and party, on their Greenland expedition, has arrived here, having made the run from Boston lightship in 72 hours. All on board are well. The coal supply for the expedition will be taken on board here, and it is expected the steamer will sail today. The first stopping place after leaving here, it is expected, will be Cape York, in 76 north latitude, where arrangements are to be made with the Eskimos, who will go with Mr. Peary when he returns next year to attempt to reach the north pole. From Cape York several places on the Greenland coast will be visited before the return this fall.

Dr. Eggleston Not Injured.

New York, July 23.—The announcement, conspicuously made in a Philadelphia newspaper, that Dr. Edward Eggleston, the novelist and historian, lay in a Yonkers hospital with a compound fracture of the skull and with very small hopes of his recovery, created great excitement among his friends in this city. Inquiry, however, disclosed the fact that the announcement was entirely without foundation. Dr. Eggleston is in perfect health at his cottage, The Owl's Nest, on Dunham bay, Lake George.

Sudden Death on a Train.

Buffalo, July 23.—Frederick Parker said to be a resident of Ogdensburg and traveler for the New York house of Abbey & Imbric, had an engagement to go fishing with a friend at Niagara Falls. When the train reached Niagara Falls, all the passengers but Parker passed out. Trainmen went to awake him and found him bolt upright in his seat dead. Heart disease is pronounced to be the cause of his death.

Skull Fractured by a Door.

Albany, July 23.—Charles A. Graul, a "tourist," whose wife lives at Stephenville, Sullivan county, and who has a brother in New York city, had his skull badly fractured by a freight car door slamming on his cranium when the train was south of Albany. The strange feature of the case is that he walked about a mile to the City hospital, and the physicians say that he will die.

Drowned In Lake Champlain.

Plattsburg, N. Y., July 23.—Napoleon Veo and his 13-year-old son Henry have been drowned in Lake Champlain. The boy, who could not swim, went into the water first and soon called to his father for help. Veo went to the boy's assistance, but after going down did not come up to the surface. The bodies were recovered. The boy's body was found resting on his parent's feet.

Don't Make a Mistake

When you have a painting job on hand. It's the painting quite as much as the paint that costs, and only good paint is worth the expense the work entails. To be sure of getting what will stand the severest exposure better and longer than anything else, drop in and select what you require from our stock. Knowing exactly what is needed to produce a paint that will answer every purpose and thus be economical as well as satisfactory, we turn our knowledge to practical use.

Electric Bitters

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Mary Van Eps, of East Front street, has returned from a visit with New York and Orange friends.

Reasons Why Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is the Best.

1. Because it affords almost instant relief in case of pain in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus.
2. Because it is the only remedy that never fails in the most severe cases of dysentery and diarrhoea.
3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhoea.
4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent bilious colic.
5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemical dysentery.
6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
8. Because it produces no bad results.
9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.
10. Because it has saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world.

DON'T LIKE THE ALIEN LAW.

Philadelphia Chinamen Will Fight the One Recently Passed.

Philadelphia, July 23.—The Chinese of this city intend to fight to the end against the enforcement of the recently enacted alien tax law of this state, by which every alien is compelled to pay a tax of 3 cents a day while working until such time as he shall become an American citizen. Rev. Frederic Poole, local missionary to the Chinese, has gone to New York to consult with Chung Eng Tze, the Chinese consul, as to the best manner in which to fight the law.

Missionary Poole and Lee Toy, the mayor of Chinatown, will carry the matter, if necessary, to the United States supreme court to settle the point whether or not in the case of Chinamen who are refused citizenship it is constitutional to tax them because they are not citizens. Preparations are being made to carry into court the case of Tay C. Lee, a young Chinaman who is learning the construction of locomotives at Baldwin's works.

CHARGED WITH ROBBERY.

Arrested on a Charge of Stealing Diamonds In Plainfield, N. J.

Plainfield, N. J., July 23.—James Durcan, who six months ago eloped from Salt Lake City with the daughter of a wealthy citizen, has been arrested here charged with stealing $800 worth of jewelry and diamonds from Harry C. Marshall, a laundryman of this city, on July 1.

State Detective John Blackford visited many of the pawnbrokers in New York in search of the missing articles, and a day or two ago he says that he discovered that Brookheimer of New York had one of the diamond rings. His description of the young man tallied with Smedberg, who was already under suspicion, and the arrest followed just after Smedberg had parted with his young wife at their home in this place.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The Democratic state committee of Massachusetts has decided to hold the state convention at Worcester Sept. 23.

The commander of "Mack's Black Horse battery," who is said to have fired the last shot in the war, died at Rochester.

A woman was murdered in Newark, N. J., by her jealous lover in the presence of her husband. The murderer was arrested and has confessed.

The furniture factory of Keeler & Co., corner of Thorndyke and Second streets, East Cambridge, was partly burned, the loss being about $25,000; fully insured.

A carrier pigeon was caught near Tromso island, Norway, bearing the message, "North pole passed 15th." It is believed to have been sent by Balloonist Andree.

Uruguay is now practically in the hands of the rebels, and the war is ended. The government, to secure peace, gives the rebels the presidency and governorship of six provinces.

KILLED BY BURGLARS

A Wealthy Connecticut Farmer Murdered at Night.

HIS SISTER IS FATALLY WOUNDED.

After Committing the Bloody Deed the Thieves Helped Themselves to Eatables and Enjoyed a Feast at Their Leisure.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 23.—George Marcus Nichols, an aged and wealthy resident of the town of Trumbull, living in the neighborhood known as Daniels Farms, was murdered in cold blood yesterday morning by two masked burglars.

His sister Mary, aged 55 years, the only other occupant of the house at the time, was also shot, but is still alive, and there is a chance of her recovery.

Mr. Nichols was awakened by a noise outside the house. He looked out the window and saw a light near the chicken coops in the rear of the house. He called his sister, and together they made a search.

No intruders were found, and they returned to the house. They had fastened the kitchen door after coming in and were about to retire to their bedrooms when a crash came at the door, and it flew open, and two men, both masked, each with a revolver in his hand, stepped through the doorway into the kitchen.

Without a word being spoken one of the robbers fired. The aim was true, and Mr. Nichols fell, with a bullet in his breast.

Then fire was opened on the woman. Three shots were fired, one passing through the woman's neck. She fell to the floor.

Nichols was not killed instantly and managed to crawl to a sofa at the side of the room.

Told Where the Money Was.

Miss Nichols was unconscious, but the robbers brought water and revived her. Then they made a demand for money, saying if she would give them $50 they would leave. She had $65 in her room, and so told the robbers. They assisted her to the room, and she secured the money and gave it to them. They then demanded more money and forced her to go to her brother's room, where they secured $100. After securing the money the robbers placed Nichols, who was dying, on the sofa and gave him a drink of water.

One of the men then went to the cellar and secured two bottles of cider and from the pantry took pie and cake and brought it to the room where their victims were and sat down to the table and ate a hearty meal. They seemed to be familiar with the locality and asked about a Corkin family living some distance down the road, and also if they were in the habit of keeping money in the house.

After remaining in the house for more than an hour they left after telling Miss Nichols that they would leave word with some of the neighbors to come and help her. Miss Nichols managed to crawl to the window and could see that the men drove away in a team which had been hitched in a dark spot under some trees. After the robbers had gone she turned her attention to her brother. By this time he was unable to speak, and she was too weak to render him assistance, so she watched by his side until he died, a short time after the robbers left. When daylight came, she mustered all her strength and started for a neighbor's house.

Unconscious on the Road.

She had gone about half the distance when her strength gave out, and she fell unconscious to the ground. She was found by a man soon after daylight who was on his way to the Nichols home.

Miss Nichols revived and after a time was able to tell the story. She says she would be able to identify one of the robbers, as while he was in the room his mask become disarranged, and she could see his face very plainly. Both men were of heavy build, and the one she saw was very dark, with very heavy, dark eyebrows.

The tragedy has caused a great sensation in Trumbull, and almost the entire male population of the town is out searching for the murderers. Nichols was wealthy and a prominent citizen; but, as is the custom in the country, lived almost alone and in a very simple style.

Heavy Floods In Minnesota.

Ada, Minn., July 23.—The worst floods in the history of this section are now on here. Long continued rains amounting to five inches, coming at a time when the ground was thoroughly soaked, have flooded half of Norman county. The water rose unprecedentedly. Fields where Monday the grain was waving four feet high are now under water, covering the heads of the wheat. The water rose so fast at Ada that people were rescued in boats. The damage is especially severe on farmers who had trouble last year from floods. It is feared the Red river will not be able to carry off the water and that the lowlands and wheat farms will be flooded from Hendrum north for miles.

Medal of Honor Awarded.

Washington, July 23.—A medal of honor has been awarded to Brevet Colonel Andrew McGonnigle of Asheville, N. C., who at Cedar Creek, Va., while acting chief quartermaster of General Sheridan's forces, operating in the Shenandoah valley, was severely wounded while leading a brigade of infantry on that field and was commended for the greatest gallantry by General Sheridan.

Body Found In the River.

Hartford, July 23.—The body of Henry Trainor has been found in the Connecticut river near the New England railroad bridge. Trainor was identified by his brother shortly after the body was taken to the morgue. It is said that Trainor had been demented and had once tried to throw himself into the river, but had been prevented. He had been missing since Sunday.

The Vitriol Victim Dead.

Parkersburg, W. Va., July 23.—William A. Beattie, the wealthy oil operator, victim of the vengeance of Mrs. Edna Hitchins, who threw vitriol on him three weeks ago, is dead. His wife left several days ago without seeing him. Mrs. Hitchins is still at large.

SUNDAY OBSERVANCE LAW.

Since the Sunday observance law is so strictly enforced in Plainfield it will be interesting to read what the New York Evening Post has to say about a similar law recently passed in Connecticut:

Only one Sunday has passed since the new Sunday law went into effect in Connecticut, but if that day's experience is to be repeated on succeeding Sundays, the law will be as much of a dead letter as was the one which preceded it. There was little attempt anywhere throughout the State to enforce it. Newsdealers, barbers and vendors of drugs, confectionery and cigars, transacted their Sunday business as usual, with the few exceptions where timorous dealers kept up their shutters, or where the officers, placing their own interpretation upon the law, required a suspension of business between 10 a. m. and sunset. In fact, the observance of the law appears to depend largely upon individual interpretation of what is or what is not proper to be done on Sunday. It is universally recognized that public opinion is not back of the law, this feeling being sharply expressed in the attitude of the prosecuting officers, who have tacitly agreed to take no action except on a formal complaint. The only value of the law will be as an emergency measure in aggravated instances of Sabbath-breaking. It is more liberal than the old law in exempting "recreation," such as driving or bicycling, from the Sunday prohibitions, but it extends the ban against Sunday business or amusements, making the close season, which was formerly from sunrise to sunset, from midnight of Saturday to midnight of Sunday.

ELIZABETH'S CALAMITY.

While hundreds of people may have suffered financial loss because of the week of almost steady rain, they can consider themselves lucky as compared with the denizens of Elizabeth, lovely town by the Kill Von Kull and the odoriferous stretches of meadows to the northwest. Veracious newspaper chroniclers from the county seat aver that the people are suffering untold tortures from the mosquito, somewhat familiarly known as the "Jersey bird." The continued rains have flooded the great salt meadows in the "Port" end of the town and driven the festive insect to the residential part of the city, where lotions and screens are in such need that merchants supplying these commodities are working unceasingly in response to the almost insatiable demands made on them.

A POSTOFFICE GRIEVANCE.

Newark's postmaster is complaining of a practice which Postmaster Hetfield, of this city, has also had occasion to comment on ere this—the practice of many local people of buying large quantities of stamps at the New York postoffice. Many do this, probably, under the misapprehension that the local postal station does not carry a large enough stock of stamps to supply an order for a 1,000 or more, but it is a fact that they do. It should be remembered that the rating of an office is determined by the amount of business transacted, and that the higher the rating the more money the postmaster is allowed to expend in improving the service. Sometimes a few additionals dollars in receipts at a postoffice permits the expenditure of several hundred dollars.

ASTUTE EDITOR'S ERROR.

We are surprised at the astute and genial editor of the Somerville Unionist Gazette in that he should be prone to impeach the truthfulness of the story appearing in The Press a few days ago concerning the conduct of Chaldea, the alleged murderer confined in the Somerset county jail, and before he had concluded the criticism of the story as it appeared in these columns reiterated as facts almost the very same things that were related as specimens of the erratic actions of Chaldea. An official of the Somerset county jail told us that the story of Chaldea's conduct as exploited in the columns of The Press was correct.

OF MUCH MOMENT TO JERSEY.

An enterprise of great magnitnde that is of more than ordinary moment to the people of New Jersey is the building of a bridge from the shore of this State across the North river to New York city. The work of preparing the details of the structure in a manner satisfactory to government officials and obtaining the financial aid needed to carry the project to completion is going forward as rapidly as the immensity of the enterprise will permit. The completion of the bridge will make one of the greatest railroad terminals in the country.

Weather Favorable for Methodists.

The weather was more favorable to the Methodists today than it was yesterday when the members of St. Mary's church wanted to go on their annual excursion. This morning the members of Grace M. E. church and Dunellen Presbyterian, together with the Flemington brass band, filled eleven cars in which they went to Jersey City where they boarded a boat for a trip to Cornwalton Grove up the Hudson. There was about five hundred people in the party and a successful day's outing is looked for. So far as known none were left behind and no mishaps occurred at the start.

We wish to express our thanks, through the columns of The Daily Press, to those of our friends who so kindly blended their sympathies and rendered us assistance in our late bereavement and funeral of our daughter Bertha.

Mr. and Mrs. Snyder and family.

YOUR TIRED STOMACH.

"I have no appetite," you say, "and the little I do eat does me no good. At first it feels cold and dead in my stomach and by and by I have aches and pains that sometimes go to my chest and back. I feel week, low spirited and out of sorts all over. I fancy the demon of dyspepsia has got me." That's the way you talk and no wonder. But wait a moment. Let us reason together. Perhaps thus far your stomach is merely tired. You have been eating to much, eating the wrong things, and irregularly. You have given it to much to do, and like all living things when overworked, it stops at length from sheer exhaustion. There may not be an actually diseased condition as yet. Still it is nature's warning, and you must heed it or worse will follow. "But I must eat or starve," you say. True enough, but safety usually lies in middle courses. Here is one for you. You don't need drastic purges or exciting stimulants. Your condition is one easily relieved if we go about it gently and sensibly The tired stomach won't work under whip and spur. It has probably had too much of that already. What you require is something that is once a food and a digester of food Such an article is the Shaker Digestive Cordial, discovered and prepared by the Shakers Community of Mt. Lebanon, N. Y. Taken right after eating, so as to mix with the food, it does the stomach's work for it, strengthens you in a natural way, and soon enables the stomach to do full duty. There is nothing else like this simple, safe, certain and palatable remedy. Yet the Shakers respect your doubts, and authorize druggists to sell a trial bottle for ten cents.

WESTFIELD

FOR THE SOLDIERS' PLOT

TWO BRONZE CANNON PRESENTED TO THE G. A. R.

Second Quarterly Conference of the Methodist Church—Frowery Goes to Jail—Entertainment at Willow Grove

The only monument in Union county erected to the memory of the soldiers and sailors of the War of the Rebellion, is on the soldiers' plot at Fairview cemetery, Westfield. The plot, which is in the custody of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., of Plainfield, is now to be further ornamented by two handsome cannon, which Past Commander S. W. Reese has secured from the U. S. Bureau of Ordnance, at Washington. It was learned some time ago by those interested in G. A. R. matters, that the war department had a number of cannon which were slightly out of date and were being presented to Grand Army posts. An application for two of the guns was accordingly made out and forwarded to Congressman Fowler, who gave it his endorsement and presented it in person to the war department. Yesterday an order for the cannon was received and they will be shipped to Westfield at once. They are 12-pound howitzers, of bronze, and are mounted upon field carriages. The guns are in perfect condition, and can be used for the firing of salutes or for any other active service. They will be an ornament to the soldiers' plot when put in position.

The second quarterly conference of the Westfield Methodist church was held in the church last evening. Rev. G. W. Smith, D. D., the presiding elder, was present and had charge of the conference. An interesting report was read by the pastor, Rev. W. H. Ruth; showing 12 new members received during the quarter, one dismissed by letter and one lost by death. Reports were also presented by Rev. F. B. Ham, by the Sunday-school superintendent, E. L. Taylor; and class leaders, P. R. G. Sjostrom and William S. Welch.

Jacob Frowery, of Broad street, who was arrested Wednesday night on a charge of beating his wife, came before Justice Hart for examination, yesterday morning. The evidence was against the prisoner. Mrs. Frowery is a hard-working woman whose best efforts are directed toward the support of herself and her children. Frowery is inclined toward the flowing bowl, and when under the influence of drink, is given to assaulting his helpmeet. After hearing the evidence the Justice committed Frowery to the county jail, in default of bail to await the action of the grand jury.

The case of Schwinefurth against Anders, on contract, will be tried in Justice Collins' court tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The suit is brought to compel the payment of $25 which Anders claims to have paid to Schwinefurth's hired man. The hired man has departed, and the plaintiff claims never to have received the money.

An entertainment and ice cream festival will be held at the Willow Grove chapel tonight for the benefit of the chapel building fund. The programme will include recitations and music, and ice cream, cake and lemonade will be served.

The ladies of St. Paul's Episcopal church will give a lawn festival at the residence of Mrs. L. Bastable, on North Broad street, tomorrow after noon and evening.

The Westfield Junior baseball team will play the New Jersey Athletic Club Juniors, of Bayonne, on the North Broad street grounds tomorrow afternoon.

John B. Green and Master Harry Green will leave tomorrow for Put-in-Bay, Lake Erie, where they will attend the National Lawyers' Convention.

W. Haegner spent yesterday in Newark.

The Headache Habit.

There is habit in human ills—especially in those of nervous origin. The intervals between headaches are apt to grow shorter unless you promptly stop the ache as soon as it appears.

Sometimes people exchange the pain habit for a drug habit, which is worse. There is need of a perfectly harmless and perfectly sure headache remedy. We offer such a one in our

PASSING COMMENT.

The numbering of the houses in the borough is, in some cases, rather remarkable. There is supposed to be a regular order or system under which all the houses have different numbers, but on one street there is a remarkable state of affairs. Three houses in one block all have the same number. Now the local people usually know who lives in the different houses, but a stranger is apt to think that he has been drinking and "got them," or else that this is a most remarkable town.

* * * *

The summer is now half over and there is still no attempt to get up open air concerts in this city. From present prospects, it looks as if there would be none here this year. It has been suggested that as there is no one man who cares to start the movement going, the Town Improvement Association would be the organization to take hold of such a matter and carry it out successfully. The concerts are certainly much enjoyed and make the summer evenings far more bearable for those who cannot spend the summer in some cool resort.

There is nothing quite as dismal as a seaside resort in the rain, especially if there are several hundred excursionists around. The young men who are unfortunate enough to wear white duck trousers bid a sad farewell to all attempts at keeping them presentable while the stiff-brimmed straw hats lie down and droop as the moisture affects them. The young women give up all hopes of curly hair and their once curly bangs hang down in "raving stringlets" while duck suits are soon decidedly out of place. There is nothing to do but go in bathing and the excursionists don't care for that all day. So they sit about on the pavillions and wish that they were home again.

In the course of newspaper life many strange and unique things come in the way of the writers. In its career The Press has had its share of articles attached to which was a bit of romance or history that gave them value as such, but when a few weeks ago the editorial sanctum was redecorated many of these relics, which literally covered the walls, were cast into the waste basket. Now a new collection is gradually accumulating, the latest attraction to which is the clay pipe that Elmer Clawson, the executed boy murderer, smoked while confined in the Somerset county jail awaiting the punishment of death for his crime.

Among the queer experiences that a ticket agent is subject to Edward Nelson at the North avenue station comes in for a large share. This morning someone called at his house about 1:30 and aroused him from his slumbers. When he came to the front door he learned that the party had a certificate for a ticket at reduced rate, and the certificate was locked up at the ticket office. They wanted Mr. Nelson to return to the station with them so they could get their ticket, as they expected to leave the city early this morning. This did not strike Mr. Nelson favorably and he declined the offer. They then asked him if he would allow them to have the key to the drawer in which was their ticket. This the genial agent declined to do as he did not know the party well enough. After they had learned that there was no show of getting their tickets they politely thanked Mr. Nelson and apologized for awakening him. Early this morning the party was at the station awaiting Mr. Nelson's arrival and when they received their ticket they breathed a sigh of relief.

CRANKS' COLUMN.

Suggestions that Emanate from Pens of Bicycle Riders.

From all present indications this season will produce better racing on the bicycle path than any previous season in the history of the sport in this country. There are more men in training than ever before and, altogether, they are faster than those of any former year. From all the training camps of the south come tales of good performances by the speed merchants who will follow the circuit and the report that nearly every man of them is in better condition for fast work than usual at this early period.

The great number of men of prominence in the racing game this year gives the principal promise of success for the season. In many former years nearly all the prominence of the bicycle track was monopolized by one or two men like Zimmerman, Sanger, Johnson and Bald. This season that is not the case. Bald and Cooper are without doubt the most prominent of all the racing men on the track at present, not more by virtue of their racing ability than because of judicious advertising, but they have no monopoly on bicycle fame and it is by no means sure that the present season will not see them pushed back to obscure positions by some of the rising and promising riders, who will do it in some not far distant year if not in this.

From all parts of the country of late have come protests against bicycle road racing—protests uttered with such vigor and from such sources as to threaten the continued existence of this branch of bicycle sport. Nobody except the ambitious youngsters who engage in road races seems to have much use for them now, and any action that tends to stop them is greeted with general applause.

Here in Chicago, where the streets used to be given up almost entirely to half-dressed young scorchers every Saturday afternoon, road racing has been limited to one day in the year in the parks on two sides of the city. The action of the park commissioners placing this limit was enthusiastically welcomed by a long-suffering public.

Hunting on bicycles seems to be a popular pastime in the south of England. According to the latest departure, the "hare" is a rustic cyclist mounted on an ancient bicycle. He has a quarter of an hour's start of the hounds, and trails behind him a rabbit's skin soaked in oil of aniseed. A pair of beagles are then laid on the "scent," and with half a dozen terriers and the cycling huntsmen start off in hot haste. The "hare" checks the course at intervals with paper, and if he be at all cunning, can cut out a very exciting "scent" by going through a wood, crossing a hedge, or wading a stream, thus at the same time giving the dogs a "breather."

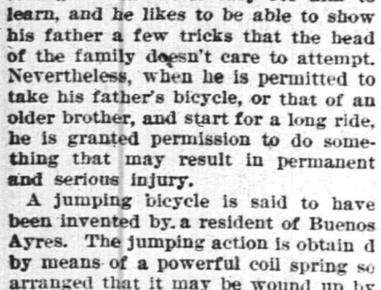
When the bicycle first appeared in India, it was not at all an uncommon thing for natives to fall down and worship it. Calcutta can probably claim more women cyclists than any other city in India. They ride very well, too. Bicycles have a rough time in India, chiefly owing to the ignorance of the native servants who clean them. They have never improved a bicycle yet, and the state of rust the bearings get in, and even sometimes the rims and frames, is heart-rending to those who can appreciate a good bicycle. There are laws in India compelling cyclists to carry lights, but most of the constables being natives, and the cyclists white, arrests are rare.

Physicians have issued a warning to parents who allow their children to ride upon bicycles that are not fitted to them. Every small boy wants to ride a wheel. It is easy for him to learn, and he likes to be able to show his father a few tricks that the head of the family doesn't care to attempt. Nevertheless, when he is permitted to take his father's bicycle, or that of an older brother, and start for a long ride, he is granted permission to do something that may result in permanent and serious injury.

A jumping bicycle is said to have been invented by a resident of Buenos Ayres. The jumping action is obtain d by means of a powerful coil spring so arranged that it may be wound up by the pedalling action of the rider. At the moment the leap is to be taken a knob is touched and two strong light steel rods are released on either side of the front wheel, which, striking the ground just below the pedals, causes the machine to rise in the air and clear the fence or other obstruction. The arrangement is not, however, thought to be of much utility.

There are indications that the festive scorcher will tire of his fun before long. The police are arresting these fast youth in all directions, and it costs every one of them from five to ten dollars to attain his freedom. That is too costly sport.

The real secret of riding a bicycle safely on a crowded street is to ride slowly, never to relax your watchfulness, and to keep from three to six yards behind the vehicle you are following. A slow rider can stop and dismount, or jump at a moment's notice. The fast rider cannot do it with safety, or quickly enough.



She—When we were married you said our life would be one long tandem ride.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Next year four new steamships will be ready for service between Great Britain and Canada, the former allowing them an annual subsidy of $250,000 and the latter $500,000.

The enlarged city of New York will contain one farm of 280 acres in a high state of cultivation. This is one of the ideal kinds of rural life that agricultural writers do not mention.

The popularity of the American bicycle abroad may be inferred from the fact that the United Kingdom bought $613,292 worth last year, and Canada's investment was $492,685.

A Hartford paper says that woman suffrage bills in Connecticut pass one house, out of courtesy, and are killed in the other, out of regard for the women themselves. The agitators insist that they want something more than a combinaton of courtesy and chivalry.

Gen. Lew Wallace in discussing the neglected opportunities of the Greek navy in the present war, declares that a Faragut could take a fleet right up to Constantinople without losing a ship. It appears to be a fact that Greece has built an excellent navy without producing the men to make it useful. As to Farraguts—they are not grown outside of America.

A large majority of those who ride bicycles unquestionably respect the rules of the road and obey the ordinances of Councils, but there is a minority who risk their own lives and limbs and the lives and limbs of others by tearing at breakneck speed along the crowded thoroughfares in open defiance of the rights of others. The reckless acts of the minority tend to bring the whole army of wheelmen into disrepute.

In the course of a long and—it is pleasant to make the admission—convincing demonstration of Philadelphia's claims to respectful treatment from the newspapers of other cities, the Inquirer lists among the attractions of the place the fact that there visiting strangers "can go to sleep when they wish and get some sort of rest." This is a statement upon which the humorists about whose jeers The Inquirer complains are sure to base a long series of new references to the quietude of Philadelphia.

Governor Bushnell's proposition of a pension for every Union veteran, whether disabled or not, may be all right, but it is difficult to see where his special plea for it, on the ground that it would dispense with the services of an army of examiners and clerks, comes in. It would require more rather than less of this kind of service, since the clerical work would be increased and a much larger force of examiners would be required to prevent fraud and preserve the proper ratio in pensions among the disabled veterans. There may be patriotism in the Bushnell scheme, but there is no economy.

A New York insurance company, which added burglar insurance to other lines some time ago, has dropped it again, for reasons of its own, and has published some interesting facts derived from its experience with the business. One of these is that the losses by burglary are usually small, the largest loss reported being $2,000. From this figure the claims run all the way down to $5. To people accustomed to reading of great burglaries this may be a surprise; but it is, perhaps, to be accounted for, on the hypothesis that only bulky goods, of which it would be impossible to carry off a very great value, are insured. Banks and jewelers have their easily portable valuables so well protected by watchmen and burglar alarms that they probably do not feel the need of insurance against burglary. It is also intimated that the profit in this branch of insurance is greatly diminished by what is delicately called "the moral risk," or, in plain language, the tendency of the intruder to "burglarize" themselves. Altogether, it would appear from the company's report that burglar insurance is more calculated to give the insurer a knowledge of human nature than to increase his store of wealth by the profits accruing from it.

A PARIS SUGGESTION.

Corporation Notice.

Public notice is hereby given that at a special meeting of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, held on Thursday, the eighth day of July instant, an ordinance of which the following is a true copy, to wit:

AN ORDINANCE

to Provide for the Construction of an Addition to the System of Sewerage Already Constructed in the City of Plainfield.

WHEREAS, At an adjourned regular meeting of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, held on the 21st day of May, in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-four, a petition signed by the owners of at least three fifths in value of the real estate in said City as shown by the Assessor's books, was presented to the said Common Council, praying them to provide for and cause to be constructed a system of sewerage in the said City in the manner provided in and by a certain act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled "An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in Cities of this State," approved April 7, 1890;

AND WHEREAS, On said 21st day of May, A. D. eighteen hundred and ninety-four, the said petition was by a unanimous vote of the said Common Council referred to the Committee on Finance for verification;

AND WHEREAS, On the fourth day of June, eighteen hundred and ninety-four, said committee reported that they had duly investigated and ascertained that said petition contained the requisite number of signatures as aforesaid, which report was then and there duly accepted by the Common Council and ordered together with the said petition spread upon the minutes of the said Common Council;

AND WHEREAS, It has appeared and does appear to the said Common Council and the said Common Council has found and determined and doth hereby find, ascertain and determine that the owners of at least three fifths in value of the real estate in the said City as shown by the Assessor's books have petitioned said Common Council to provide for and cause to be constructed a system of sewerage for said City in the manner provided by said act;

AND WHEREAS, In the opinion of the said Common Council the public good required that a system of sewerage should be constructed in and for said city under the provisions of said act, and the said Common Council so determined and adopted "An Ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage," approved July 25, 1894, and an ordinance entitled "A further ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage," approved June 21, 1895;

AND WHEREAS, In the opinion of the Common Council the public good requires that an addition, as hereinafter described, to the system of sewerage already constructed under said ordinances should be constructed in and for said City under the provisions of said act and the Common Council has so determined and does hereby so determine; therefore,

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the Common Council doth hereby direct and order that an addition to the system of sewerage already constructed under said act be constructed in and for said City under the provisions of the act of the Legislature aforesaid with all the appurtenances necessary to complete the same, and of such dimensions and meterial and according to such plan as the said Common Council may hereafter direct in and through the following described streets, avenues, property, land, and rights of way, described, mentioned and referred to in this ordinance, to wit:

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings make them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the materia, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

THE YUKON DISTRICT

CAN ENGLAND EXCLUDE AMERICANS?

British Officials Say There Is Nothing In the Treaties to Prevent Such Action, but It Is Unlikely Such a Step Will Be Taken.

London, July 23.—Sir Donald Alexander Smith, the Canadian high commissioner in London, has been besieged for several days past by inquirers who desire to go to the Yukon mining districts. Most of the applicants for information are young men without money who are employed on farms and in factories. Would be emigrants of this class are urged to stay at home, but hardy men with a capital of £100 or more are encouraged to leave for the goldfields.

Several solid London capitalists are interesting themselves in the mining territory and are making investigations with a view of organizing mining companies. Experts have been dispatched to inspect the region.

Sir Donald Smith has issued a pamphlet containing much information concerning the new goldfields.

Regarding the suggested exclusion of Americans from the Yukon region, officials here say there is nothing in the treaties between Great Britain and the United States to prevent such action on the part of the British government, but that, as a matter of policy, it is unlikely that the step will be taken.

Various steamship companies report that few persons have left England for the new goldfields thus far. This is probably due to monetary considerations.

Gold on American Soil.

San Francisco, July 23.—The steamship Excelsior leaves for Alaska on July 28. When she returns, she will bring between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 in gold dust. This amount has been consigned to the Wells Fargo Express company, as was learned yesterday through advices received from St. Michaels.

This sum represents the clean up of the miners who remain on the Yukon instead of returning home. None of it has been counted in with the fortunes recently brought to this country by successful miners. The Excelsior is expected to return here about Sept. 5, and the present excitement is mild compared with the craze which will follow the arrival of all this gold.

By the steamship Umatilla, which has arrived here from Puget sound ports, came about $200,000 worth of Alaska gold. Most of this was from Seattle and was consigned to the Wells Fargo company.

Returning miners declare that startling discoveries of gold may shortly be looked for in Alaska in territory which belongs unquestionably to the United States. A report is received from St. Michaels of two very recent discoveries below Forty Mile, in Alaska territory. Many miners are going to these places in preference to the Klondike.

These two discoveries were made on American and Minook creeks. It is believed that since the last news was received from these points much greater developments have been made. Information may yet be received from there which will cause a great portion of the rush northward to be diverted to American rather than to British territory.

The Boundary Question.

Ottawa, July 23.—The attention of the government has been called to the claims advanced in the United States press that the Yukon goldfields are in American territory. The ministers are reticent. It is learned, however, that the government regards the convention under which the boundary commission was appointed as being of the nature of a treaty and that any act in contravention of that convention would be regarded as the equivalent to the denunciation of a treaty. The government regards the delineation of boundary on the basis of the Mount St. Elias line as a scientific proposition, but admits that the ownership of some of the islands on the coast may be subject for argument.

This ownership depends upon the question whether the coast line is to follow all indentations of the coast, or whether—the distance from headland to headland is six miles—the coast line is to be taken as the line drawn from headland to headland.

As regards future proceedings, the statement is made that for 22 years Canada has been anxious to have the boundary line clearly and finally settled, and any feasible and amicable proposition to effect this will be seriously considered.

Coal Miners Off to the Goldfields.

Victoria, B. C., July 23.—A special to The Times from Nanaimo says: Many coal miners have left here for Victoria on their way to the Yukon. Some 30 of the best miners in the pits of the Vancouver Coal company have thrown down their picks to prepare to leave for the promised land. On every corner, up street and down street, common conversation is the Yukon. Many are trying to raise money on property which cost them over $1,500 and been unsuccessful, even to the amount of one-third of the original cost. Among those who will go are Thomas Keith, ex-member of parliament; J. McKenzie, for many years special correspondent of The Times; Alderman Arthur Wilson and about 50 others, who will bid adieu to Nanaimo within the next three weeks. Every effort is being made in Victoria and other provincial cities to have Canadian customs officers sent up to collect duty on American goods. It is expected that officers will go up on the next steamer.

Some War Items.

Athens, July 23.—The Turkish military authorities have ordered the surrender of the Volo Larissa railway to the Greek railway officials within eight days. It is stated that the evacuation of Thessaly has already commenced. Eight regiments of Turkish troops from Domoko have passed Larissa en route for Elassona. Several officers have started for Salonika. Edhem Pasha, commander in chief of the Turkish troops in Thessaly, is expected to arrive at Volo shortly to superintend the evacuation. General Smolenitz, commanding the Greek forces at Arta, has

MARCH ON THE MINES

Pennsylvania Strikers Bring Out the Men at Work.

TROUBLE MAY OCCUR AT ANY TIME.

The New Antiscreening Law Just Passed Is to Be Fully Tested—The Coke Region Not Likely to Become a Factor.

About 500 miners from the Finleyville district have marched on the Bunola mines and succeeded in bringing out the men at work. Sheriff Lowry of this county has a force of deputies ready for duty at a moment's notice, and trouble is looked for at any time. The deputies are in readiness to go to the mines of the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal company. A march on the Turtle Creek, Plum Creek and Sandy Creek mines is expected at any time. It is learned from reliable authority that such a march is in contemplation, but will not take place until tomorrow.

At Canonsburg it is reported that 1,000 men will march to the Cook mines and stay there until the diggers come out. Sheriff Clark of Washington county is on hand with a large number of deputies, and trouble is expected if the strikers attempt to force the men to quit work.

The miners' leaders continue at work in an effort to stop work, but dispatches from Uniontown and Dunbar indicate that they are meeting with poor success. A Uniontown dispatch says the leaders are very much disheartened and admit privately that they have failed to create any strike sympathy.

Coke Men Not Likely to Join.

The Red Stone miners, it is claimed, will be back next week. Dunbar dispatches say there is very little probability that the coke region will become a factor in the strike.

The new state law to compel operators to weigh the coal before it is screened and to pay the miners on its basis is to be tested to its fullest extent, and the whole uniformity agreement hinges on this test. A large number of operators are putting in scales so as to weigh the coal according to the new law, but others are preparing to fight it. Among the latter is W. P. De Armitt, who says the law can be abrogated by the right of private contract, and he intends to test it by the contract he has with his men. Under this contract he agrees to pay his men 54 cents per 2,000 pounds of coal, screened over a one-half inch screen, with nothing to be paid for coal dropping through said screen. He claims the miner has a right to mine coal to be paid after screening, and that the operator can also pay the miner in this fashion.

A member of the arbitration commission said that the new antiscreening law would cut a figure in the new agreement, and the law will be thoroughly tested before it is incorporated in the agreement.

The arbitrators are at work among the Pittsburg operators, and they are trying every means to bring about a meeting of the operators. So far they have been unsuccessful in arranging for a meeting, but it is hoped to accomplish this shortly. Mayor Ford said that he had not consented to call a meeting and would not do so, although it had been suggested to him that such a proceeding would be the best thing to do under the circumstances.

A Wheeling dispatch says the miners at the Boggs mines refused to come out when requested by a committee of strikers to do so, and arrangements are being made for a demonstration of strikers. While it is declared to be a peaceful demonstration another refusal to come out may precipitate trouble.

Armed Deputies Guard Mines.

Fairmont, W. Va., July 23.—Armed deputy sheriffs of the county now guard the Hite mine at Kings, three miles above here on the Tygarts Valley river. The sheriff was called there yesterday afternoon, as the operators feared an outbreak, but no arrests were made.

The drivers at that mine joined the strikers as a result of the efforts of Crawford Temple, a Monongah miner, who since joining the union has proved as efficient a missionary as the organizers could desire. The operators secured new drivers in an hour, and soon after over half of the miners came out. Then the second lot of drivers threw up their positions, and some of the men began stoning the miners, who were forced to leave their work and who had assembled in front of the mine.

Rolf Hite, the superintendent, soon had his winchester in his hands, and three shots quenched the enthusiasm of all the strikers but one, who made for Hite with a pick, but he was driven off at the point of a revolver. The operators, however, feared another outbreak and called on the county officials for aid. Organizers are there, and they say all the men will join the strikers, but Hite stated that all or most of the men would continue at work.

"At our conference," said President Ratchford, "it was decided to give the Fairmont district more attention, as we feel confident that the miners can be got out."

Railroads Confiscate More Coal.

Kansas City, July 23.—Local packing houses are laying up extra stores of coal. Swift & Co. and Jacob Dold & Co. have begun putting in extra supplies as fast as possible. The Armour Packing company is unloading coal in all the available space about its docks. It has already received about 150 carloads, enough to supply it for about seven days. Although coal is becoming very scarce, prices to regular customers have not yet gone up. The railroads, taking advantage of the privilege the government gives them, are already appropriating for their own use some of the coal shipped into Kansas City. They are reported to have seized for their own use about 800 carloads so far, which they are loading and nailing up in box cars.

Barnato's Mansion Sold.

London, July 23.—The mansion of the late Barney Barnato, the South African diamond king, has been sold to Sir Edward Sassoon. The price paid was £100,000. Barnato's will, it is stated will not be probated for two months. The document contains no legacy for

AROUND THE BASES.

The Westfield boys will be coming in shortly for another game with the Crescent's. The game will be played in Westfield. Judging from the recent showing of the Crescents, there will be something in the order of a surprise for the Westfield contingent.

An excellent game of baseball is promised to the cranks tomorrow afternoon on the grounds of the Crescent's at the corner of Richmond street and LaGrande avenue. The Crescents are to meet the Domestics, of Newark. The personnel of the two teams was published yesterday in The Press.

A series of games that promises to attract considerable attention in this city is the series that the Crescent's are to play with the Cranford Athletic Club. The Cranford's have a good team, but if the Plainfield boys put up the game they did in Somerville last week, then victory is pretty certain to rest on the Crescent's.

The Somerville papers are inclined to give the Crescents credit for making fourteen hits in the game with the Somersets, instead of twelve as credited by The Press. The difference was in two balls that the Somerset infielders failed to hold and which were scored as hits rather than errors. It is a hard matter sometimes to decide whether an infielder could have fielded the ball.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

If present negotiations are carried to a successful conclusion, which seems more than likely, New Jersey will have a five-cornered State Rugby Football League before the season opens. The prospective members of the league are the Oritani Field Club, of Hackensack; the New Jersey Athletic Club, the Elizabeth Athletic Club, and the Entre Nous team, of Paterson.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Bert and Robert Schreiner, of New street, have purchased new wheels.

CHANGED PRISONERS.

One of the Strange Things That Comes Under the Law.

Charles Blany, of Rocky Hill, was brought to the Somerset county jail on Friday, on the charge of murderously assaulting William Biggs of the same place. It was discovered that Blany's commitment was improperly made, and Constable Todd was sent back to Rocky Hill with his man to have the papers corrected. When Todd returned, he left Blany behind and brought Biggs instead. This surprising change was effected by a counter charge of atrocious assault preferred by Blany against Biggs. Blany had obtained bail on his return home and was released.

Biggs had been stabbed in the back and neck, and was suffering from his wounds. He remained in jail until Monday, when he was released on bail.

The trouble between Blany and Biggs, it is alleged, took place in a drinking place kept by Blany, at Rocky Hill. Biggs is said to be the aggressor, and Blany did the stabbing in self defense.

AN EMINENT SPECIALIST.

Dr. Marcley Has Established an Office in This City.

Dr. Marcley, an eminent specialist on the treatment of ruptures, has opened an office at 325 West Second street, this city. His advertisement appears in another column of The Press.

There are very few surgeons in this country, not over half a dozen, who make the treatment of rupture a specialty. This is remarkable on account of the large number of cases and the expert attention such a serious condition would seem to demand, both as to health and comfort. Dr. Marcley ranks as one of the best, if not the very best. The following from the Buffalo Times speaks volumes for the esteem in which the Doctor is held in that city where, and in New York city, he has practiced for the past 23 years. The Times speaking of the establishment of the hospital for the ruptured, etc., says: "The staff includes such a successful specialist as Dr. J. I. Marcley, who is at the head of the institution. Dr. Marcley is well and favorably known and has had just that experience and success which places him at the topmost round of his profession. He has received honors and high tributes from the public and his associates. He has practiced in Buffalo for 20 years; is a a graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York; a member of the Erie County Society; Buffalo Medical and Surgical Association; of the Microscopical Club; of the Socioty of Natural Sciences, etc.; has held the office of district physician, special health physician, and United States Health Officer and Sanitary Inspector. Dr. Marcley has the highest testimonials from professional and lay people in Buffalo as to the remarkable results he has obtained." c.

STONEMASONS STRIKE.

Claim They Were Not Treated as the Contractors Promised.

Forty stonemasons under William Adigotz went on strike yesterday at the foundations of the Somerset Chemical Company's buildings in Bound Brook. The leader of the strike is James Festenit, who says they quit because the bosses do not as they promised. On the other hand the bosses say they have not stone enough to give all steady employment, because the rains have made the roads so soft that they cannot haul the stone. Contractor Egbert says the men are paid regularly.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

A TERRIFIC RAIN STORM.

TORRENTS OF WATER FELL AND FLOODED THE LOWLANDS.

Accompanied by Sharp Lightning, Heavy Thunder and a Strong Gale That Made Things Lively for an Hour Yesterday.

A storm of unusual violence swept over New Jersey yesterday afternoon, leaving in its wake destruction on every hand. A remarkably heavy fall of rain, a high wind, a hail storm and an atmosphere heavily charged with electricity, all combined to make the storm a destructive one.

Yesterday promised to be a beautiful day. There was a suggestion of cloudiness at the start, but the clouds soon floated away and the sun shone forth in all its glory. Blue sky was on every side and everybody rejoiced that the long spell of rainy weather was at an end. The roads dried up and the farmers harnessed up their horses and prepared to go forth to work once more.

At noon, the delightful weather continued and the mercury joined in the general celebration by climbing up to the ninety mark. Pedestrians mopped the perspiration from their brows and declared that the day was a hot but delightful one.

Soon after 2 o'clock, a little cloud appeared over in the northwest, over the top of the ridge of the Watchung Mountains. Nobody noticed the insignificant little cloud and it continued on its way unheeded. Bicycle riders started forth in the afternoon and the little cloud laughed as it saw them go forth, for from its lofty perch it could see an army of little clouds that were steadily advancing to take the city by storm. The little cloud was joined by other little clouds and soon a bank of murky black clouds had formed and hovered over the mountains.

People glanced apprehensively at the gathering storm but the clear blue sky that covered the rest of the heavens assured them. At first, the clouds came in a long unbroken line but soon they broke and ugly grey clouds boiled forth and rolled and tossed as if struggling to be free. Then it was seen that more rain was at hand and everybody hurried for shelter.

There was a puff of wind that heralded the storm and then the rain began to fall, gently at first but gradually increasing. A cold wind came at first in gusts and then, growing in force, twisted the limbs of the trees and shrieked and sighed amid the swaying boughs. The mercury has stood at ninety when the storm struck, but the breeze, which was as cold as if it came from an ice field, caused it to fall with great rapidity. Fifteen minutes after the storm began, at 3:30 o'clock, the thermometer registered 72 degrees.

The rain fell in torrents and soon the streets became veritable rivers. The storm sewers could not carry off the water fast enough and small-sized lakes were formed under the railroad bridges. The downfall of water amounted to over 1.05 of an inch. All the gutters were filled to overflowing, and in some cases the water covered the entire width of the street. South avenue, just west of Netherwood hill, was flooded for several hundred feet. On the centre of the roadway the water was four inches deep.

With the rain came wind, and the rain was blown in sheets that veered and shifted in every direction with the blast. The wind was very high, reaching a velocity of 52 miles an hour part of the time.

The lightning was very sharp and seemed almost incessant, while the thunder pealed and crashed at very short intervals. Hail was reported up the road; it is not known that any fell in this vicinity. The wind that that came from the hail storm was very cold, and those who ventured out were glad to wrap up to keep warm.

At Orange a house, in course of construction for a Miss Burgh, was blown down and lightning struck Dominie Malt's house in South street, causing a slight fire.

At High Bridge, hail broke the windows of houses and piled up on the ground until it was two and a-half inches deep. The track of the hail storm was half a mile in width and eighteen miles long.

At Flemington, Three Bridges, Landsdowne, Stanton, Jutland, Clinton and Annandale hail also fell, and some of the hailstones were one and a-half inches in diameter.

At Trenton, lightning struck the flagpole on the foundry of Duncan Mackenzie's machine works and knocked off all but two feet of it at the base. The same pole had been struck on Thursday and three feet of its top splintered.

SHE PREFERRED JAIL.

UNUSUAL DETERMINATION OF A WOMAN PRISONER IN COURT.

Michael Watson's Wife Said That the Bastile Would Be Preferable to Returning to Her Husband's Domicile.

The outcome of the arrest and punishment of his wife was not exactly what Michael Watson, the hotel keeper on Grant avenue, expected. Rather sensational were the developments, which promise to involve Watson in more trouble. In addition to his matrimonial troubles, Watson is likely to run athwart the city in another illegal liquor selling case in the city court. Charges have been made against him which, if proven, may go very hard with him.

Married life at Watson's has not been a success. Some time ago Annie Watson, wife of Michael Watson, was arraigned before the City Judge on the charge of disturbing the peace of the neighborhood. She escaped with a light sentence.

Yesterday, Watson made another complaint against his wife, charging her with being drunk and disorderly, throwing crockery at him, and generally disturbing the peace of the neighborhood. She was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza in his office, this morning.

She pleaded guilty to the charge, but went on to explain that her husband threw a soap dish at her first and she retaliated with two cups She said that she was not allowed enough to eat or drink, and while the doctor had ordered her to have two or three quarts of milk a day for herself and baby, that her husband had said that one quart was enough. Her brother-in-law, she said, had charge of the food, and if he felt gracious would allow her to have some, otherwise, she said, she went hungry. Watson and his attorney, S. S. Swackhamer, denied all her charges.

When the Judge suggested a term in the county jail, she explained:

"I'd rather go to jail than live with him." And she glanced at her husband.

"I will impose a fine of $5, or twenty days in the county jail," said the Judge.

"I'll go to jail," promptly replied the angry wife. Then Watson and his counsel filed out of the room and the woman continued to relate her grievances. Then the told the Judge that her husband had been regularly selling whiskey to his customers although he had no license and she declared that she could prove it in court. She also declared that she was going to try to secure separation papers.

Told Her Little Boy to Tell Papa She Had Gone With Woods.

Edward Fanning, of Aldene, between here and Elizabeth, has asked the police to help him find his wife, who, he declares, has run away with Eugene Woods, a summer boarder, taking two of her children with her. He says he does not want his wife back, but he wants the children.

Fanning and his wife had been married for ten years. They had four children and they were happy. Woods, who is a young man, engaged board of them a few weeks ago and at once became a popular member of the household.

Fanning, several days after Woods came to board at his house, heard of a vacancy in the shop in which he worked and got the place for his summer boarder. Woods seemed fond of the four bright boys of the Fannings, and their father was highly pleased with him.

Fanning one day heard that Woods was making love to his pretty young wife. Mrs. Fanning told her husband that she hadn't a spark of affection for the boarder, and Woods was seemingly much surprised and aggrieved when the husband took him to task.

While Fanning was at work a few days ago Woods helped Mrs. Fanning to dress the two elder children, seven and nine years old respectively, and their mother told the older of the other two, a boy of six, to tell papa that she had gone away with Woods.

When the husband came home and found his wife gone he quietly got supper for himself and the children left behind and then began an investigation. Learning that Woods and Mrs. Fanning were in Brooklyn he asked the police to help him find them.

Dr. Turner is Acting City Physician.

Dr. M. S. Simpson, the city physician, will leave tomorrow for two weeks of service on the U. S. S. Portsmouth, of the naval reserve. Dr. Simpson's private practice and also his practice as city physician will be in charge of Dr. I. F. P. Turner.

WESTFIELD IS AROUSED.

A BIG REWARD TO BE GIVEN FOR DETECTION OF BURGLARS.

Largely Attended Meeting of Citizens Held Last Night and the Suppression of Raids Considered in an Earnest Spirit.

In response to a circular letter calling upon the citizens of Westfield to meet and take action for the protection of the homes from burglars, about two hundred citizens met last night in Westfield Club Hall.

The meeting was called to order at 9:30 o'clock, and S. W. Reese was appointed chairman, and C. K. Pennington secretary. Among those present were a number of citizens who had suffered from the visits of the burglars.

After the object of the meeting had been stated, those present were invited to give their views as to the best means of securing protection for the town. Among the citizens who spoke were F. S. Smith, H. C. Cook, C. D. Losee, Theodore McGarrah, William Kennedy, J. T. Burke, Dr. J. B. Harrison, E. L. Taylor, A. K. Jones, A. L. Alpers, R. Mills, O. Knight, C. B. Peddie, A. L. Russell and J. J. Schmitt.

A suggestion of several present that the citizens raise a fund by subscription and either employ a detective or offer a reward sufficiently large to attract detectives to the town, was discussed.

Before the meeting had progressed far a committee consisting of H. G. Cook and Frank S. Smith was appointed to wait upon the Township Committee, which was then in session at the town rooms a few blocks away to inquire what action if any the Town Fathers intended to take in the matter of protection. While this committee was absent the discussion continued at the Club Hall. Several citizens, including Theodore McGarrah, C. B. Peddie and C. D. Losee made strong arguments to the effect that the Town Committee should provide protection for the property of the township. "It is one of the functions of government to protect its citizens" exclaimed Mr. McGarrah, and the meeting applauded.

C. B. Peddie wanted to know why, if the Township Committee had the power to borrow without the consent of the citizens nearly $100,000 for the construction of a sewer system, and bond the township for the amount, it did not also have the power to raise a few hundred dollars for the protection of homes and property.

The committee returned and reported that the Township Committee desired the meeting to appoint three, with power, to confer with them as to the best means of securing protection.

The chair was instructed to appoint a committee of three, and C. B. Peddie, Theodore McGarrah and C. D. Losee were selected. The meeting then passed the following resolution:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that it is the duty of the Westfield Township Committee to appropriate sufficient funds to protect the town from burglary and violence, and that it is the duty of the committee to borrow sufficient funds for the purpose."

The committee at once waited upon the Township Committee and reported the resolution.

After some discussion, which hinged mainly upon the question of the Town Committee's power at this time to raise funds for the purpose of police protection, Mr. Harden offered a resolution that if advised by counsel that it has the power, the committee offer a reward of $300 for the arrest and conviction of the burglars who are committing depredations in the town.

The resolution was passed unanimously.

Without waiting to hear the action of the Town Committee, the citizens' meeting adjourned subject to the call of the present chairman.

If the action of the township authorities is not considered adequate to the needs of the situation, a call for another meeting will be issued early next week, and money will be raised by private subscription to employ detectives and ferret out the burglars.

The Largest Catch.

The Asbury Park Daily Spray says that U. B. Crane and his son, Robert, of this city, have the record of the largest catch of sea bass for the season. They captured thirty of the bass, weighing over fifty pounds.

—Everything for a headache, and one thing in particular—Effervescent Hydrobromate of Caffeine—at Rowley's drug store, worth remembering —The children's fair that was to take place this afternoon on the lawn of Mrs. Ross, of Plainfield avenue and Eighth street, has been postponed on account of the weather until Monday afternoon.

MILK THIEVES ABROAD.

BOTTLES OF LACTEAL FLUID MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARED.

One Morning, However, a Small Boy Was Seen to Approach a Rear Piazza and Run Away, With the Bottle of Milk.

Several of the milk dealers who supply a large trade in Washington Park and other parts of the borough as well are accustomed to bring the milk in bottles which are left at the rear of the house, on the steps of veranda. The bottles are afterwards returned and an allowance made for them. It was nearly two months ago when the milkdealers began to have complaints made by their customers that the milk was not received. A few cases might be accounted for but the marked increase in the number of disappearing bottles showed that there was something out of the regular order of events.

Early one morning, a resident of Grove street happened to be looking out of a rear window and noticed a small boy in a neighbor's yard. The lad stole silently around to the back of the house and cautiously gazed about the place. He could see no one. Then he carefully crept up on the back steps and seized the bottle of milk and fled. The boy was too far off to be recognized but the cause of the disapearance of the many milk bottles was no longer a mystery.

It is evident that there are several youngsters who are getting in the habit of making a circuit of the place and carrying away the milk bottles. They not only get the milk but may return the bottles which are worth six cents.

ON THE WILD SEA WAVES

EXCITING TIME OF THE EXCURSIONISTS IN A GALE.

The Storm Was of Such Severity That the Steamship Was Anchored—Three Young Ladies Were Nearly Blown Overboard.

Those who went on the Methodist church excursion yesterday will always remember the trip, as aside from the pleasant features there will be a remembrance of things not quite so pleasant. The excursionists had reached Cornwalton-Grove on Long Island Sound, and had spent their allotted time there in an enjoyable manner. At the appointed hour all boarded the Steamer Tolchester for the return trip. They had not been gone from the Grove over ten minutes when the boat run into a terrible gale which lasted nearly fifteen minutes. The thunder roared and the lightning flashed vividly at frequent intervals.

During this time the water was exceedingly boisterous and rough, while the wind played havoc with everything in sight. Those in charge of the boat decided that it was best to cast the anchor until the storm was over, and this was done. All the time the rain fell in torrents and many on board were thoroughly soaked.

Most of the passengers went inside, but there were a few who desired to see the storm and were more venturesome and remained outside. It was during this gale that Miss Lulu Randolph, Miss Mary Woolston, Miss Mamie Steiner and several other passengers were completely taken off their feet and thrown a considerable distance against the cabin. Miss Woolston and Miss Randolph came very near going overboard and it was only the quick actions of D.W Littell, Mr. Brouard and Rev. H. J. Johnston that they were saved from a terrible fate. However, none of the passengers were injured, although nearly all were frightened beyond description. The ones who suffered mostly from the gale were taken in the cabin and were well taken care of. In a little while they recovered from their fright and the excursionists all reached home safely.

Fell in a Quarry

George Natoli, an Italian, in the employ of Smalley Bros., at their stone quarry on Somerset street, fell a considerable distance yesterday while on the side of the quarry. In falling he received a number of scratches and bruises about the body and face, and he suffers a great deal of pain in the back. Dr. Long had the man removed to the hospital where he is being treated properly. Natoli's injuries are not serious.

Double Leadership.

The double leadership idea was tried at the meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church, last evening. The leaders were Miss Lizzie VanWinkle and Miss Emma V. Fish.

Death of an Editor.

Robert P. Miller, formerly editor of the Asbury Park Shore Press, and who also conducted the Beach Patrol at Belmar, died at his home last night from apoplexy. The funeral will be next Monday.

HOLDUP AT NOON HOUR.

DARING ACT OF TWO MEN AT GARWOOD YESTERDAY.

Asked for a Ride With a Peddler and Then Assaulted Him With the Evident Intention of Commiting a Robbery

Two higwaymen attempted to hold up a Hebrew peddler on the county road between Westfield and Garwood yesterday. The peddler was driving a wagon, and upon leaving Westfield was accosted by the two men who asked to be allowed to ride to Cranford. The men, who were young and well dressed, were allowed to climb into the wagon. When a short distance out of Westfield the two men fell upon the peddler and attempted to eject him from the wagon, with the probable intention of stealing the horse and conveyance.

The cries of the victim attracted the attention of employes at the Garwood Steel Tubings Factory and at the C. and C. Company, who went to his aid.

The United States Express Company's delivery wagon also came along and the drivers, John and Carl Zell, joined the rescuing party. When the highwaymen saw that help for their victim was at hand they jumped from the wagon and fled into the woods that border the road.

The peddler was severly bruised by the blows of his assailiants, and it was some time before he could be induced to venture on toward Cranford.

It is thought that the two highwaymen are members of the gang of burglars that are operating in Westfield. Their description tallies with that of two suspicious looking characters who have been seen loitering about the town, and whom the authorities have been watching closely.

DOWNFALL OF THE ROOKERY.

The downfall of the condemned city jail began last evening. For the information of those who have never had occasion to visit that establishment, it may be stated that the first floor of the jail, on which are the cells and the courtroom, is two feet below the level of the ground. The entrance is made through a door which opens into a sunken areaway. The areaway is covered on the top and sides and is reached by a flight of dilapidated stone steps.

This morning, the startling news went forth that the rookery had caved in. Examination proved that the damage was slight, but that the downfall of that building, which was condemned some time ago by the Board of Health, has begun. The sides of the areaway are made of boards. Yesterday's storm was a severe one and the weight of the wet earth was so great as to cause the boards in the rear of the areaway to give way and allow the earth to come tumbling into the hollow, right in front of the door to the jail.

Morgan Bird, the owner of the building, will repair the break and the jail will probably last another week, at least.

OLD PORTSMOUTH READY.

Will Take New Jersey Naval Reserve on Their Annual Cruise This Afternoon.

With fresh black paint gleaming along her hull, a long white streak marking the water line, spars all in place and white sails ready to unfold and catch the fleeting breeze, the fine old man-of-war Portsmouth, at the end of the dock, foot of Fifteenth street, Hoboken, is ready to receive this afternoon the members of the Battalion of the East of New Jersey Naval Reserve, and bear them whither they shall direct her.

Commander Irving has been continuously on board the vessel all the past week, personally supervising the completion of the arrangements for the two weeks' cruise of his battalion, which begins this afternoon. Yesterday a pair of tug boats hauled the Portsmouth clear of the mud alongside the dock and today the vessel is in deep water at the end of the dock with her lines ready for casting off.

The men are under orders to report on board promptly at noon, and 2:30 is the time designated for departure. The moment the men reach the deck of the Portsmouth they will enter upon the discipline and routine of the regular naval service.

Bids For New Chapel.

A meeting of the trustees of the East Third Street Mission was held last evening and there were about six bids received from different contractors. Owing to the fact that their bids were too high the trustees decided that it would be necessary to reconsider and to also raise a little money to build a new chapel. It was also decided that there would have to be some slight modification in the plans. The meeting adjourned subject to the call of the chair.

ESCAPED A BIG WRECK.

ROYAL BLUE LINE EXPRESS PICKED UP A STRAY PLANK.

It was the Same Train and Engineer That was in the Skillman Wreck—Considered to be a Most Miraculous Escape.

A peculiar accident occurred on the Central Railroad last evening which was not discovered until the arrival of the 7:29 eastbound Royal Blue Line train in this city. Somewhere between this city and Bound Brook the second coach of the train picked up a long heavy plank which became fastened between the brake beam and forward axle, and in this position it was held for some distance. A large hole was burned in the plank caused by the friction of the wheels, and parts of it were also splintered. It was fully six minutes before the plank could be taken from its position. It had not damaged the trucks or other parts of the coach. That the plank did not derail the coach and a terrible accident occur, is considered a miracle.

Engine No. 682, drawing the eastbound Royal Blue Line train due in this city at 5:14 a. m., was delayed in this city this morning a half hour owing to the break on both sides of the engine of the main rod. It was not detected until the train was leaving the station, when the rapid revolving of the front wheels caused the engineer some suspicion. An examination developed the above facts. There was a large flaw in the rod on one side of the engine, and the heavy pressure caused the other side to break. The damaged parts were removed and the engineer was able to run his engine into Jersey City. If the accident had occurred while the train was running at a high rate of speed, no doubt another frightful accident would have been recorded.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Brief Items of More or Less Interest to Plainfielders.

The Rev. T. J. Valentine, of Brooklyn, will preach at All Souls church tomorrow.

Mrs. Capell, of Brooklyn, who has been visiting Plainfield relatives, has returned home.

The sons of Mayor Charles J. Fisk, of West Seventh street, have gone to Jefferson, N. H. for the rest of the summer.

Max Wiertz, of Arlington avenue, started this morning to join his wife and family who are stopping in the Catskill Mountains.

Miss Addie Weaver, of West End Park, left today for Reading, Pa., where she will be the guest of Mrs. Passmore for a month.

Mrs. J. O. McKelvey's uncle, who has been seriously ill at the home of the former on Grandview avenue, is reported as being improved.

Whit Frazee, of South avenue, has gone to Coney Island for a week. His express business will be in charge of Charles Remson, of this city.

H. C. VanEmburgh, of East Second street, and his brother, F. M. VanEmburgh, of Westfield, are at the Delaware Water Gap for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles MacKillop and daughter, of Brooklyn, who have been visiting their parents on Westervelt avenue, will return home tomorrow evening.

Elmer Mantz, of Boehm's dry goods emporium, will leave Monday on a two weeks' vacation to be spent with his grandfather in Washingtonville, where he will take lessons in truck farming.

A Great Purchase.

Yesterday Edward White attended the second sale of linens and wash goods that were slightly wet during a fire on board the steamer City of Rome. The goods from the first sale were nearly all sold in two days and many were disappointed in missing that sale. This, the second sale, will be greater than the first. Mr. White was in the auction room all day and bought nearly 200 lots of napkins, table linen, towels and handkerchiefs at about half their real value. The sale commences Tuesday morning and will continue all next week.

—The new bridge on Green brook at the foot of Duer street has been completed.

—Miss Alice Spangenberg will lead the Christian Endeavor meeting in the First Presbyterian church of Dunellen, tomorrow evening, —Rev. A. E. Main, pastor of the Seventh-day Baptist church, will preach in the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow morning and evening.

FEARFUL EXPLOSION

Four Killed and Others Wounded on a Steamboat.

SUPPOSED TO HAVE BEEN NAPHTHA.

Dreadful Havoc Caused by the Accident. Some Were Killed Instantly, While Others Were Badly Mangled or Burned.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 24.—At 6:30 o'clock last evening a dreadful explosion occurred on the steamer Nutmeg State of the Bridgeport Steamboat company while she was lying at her slip at the foot of South street, and as a result four men are dead, three others are thought to be fatally injured and a number more in a serious condition. The steamer was damaged about $1,000.

The dead are: Patrick Moran, head shattered, killed instantly; Jerry Connors, leg torn off, internal injuries, died while being taken to hospital; Jerry O'Connell, both legs shattered, internal injuries, died at hospital; unknown man found dead in hold.

The injured: Michael Reardon, aged 27, burned about face and neck, internal injuries, not expected to live; Patrick Glennan, 33, deckhand, thought to be fatally burned; Michael Maguire, 26, probably fatally burned about face and chest; Edward Lynch, burned about face and head; John Hartwell, seriously burned on chest and arms and limbs; John Connolly, burned about face and chest. The men are all connected with the boat.

Immediately after the explosion an alarm of fire was sounded, but the fire was quickly extinguished, and the firemen had little to do but to assist and care for the injured.

The explosion was probably caused by the igniting of naphtha vapor. When the boat returned from her trip to New York, Burton M. Reed of this city, according to custom, went aboard to clean up the forecastle and sprinkled the beds and mattresses with naphtha and then left.

Stevedores Thrown In All Directions.

The employees were eating supper on the "supper" deck just over the hold when the explosion took place, and the men were thrown in all directions against the woodwork. Two of the men were thrown overboard and rescued uninjured, while none of the others escaped unharmed.

The deck under the supper table was blown open at least 10 feet wide, while both sides of the boat forward of the gangway were torn into splinters and thrown in all directions. A huge mass of fragments was scattered all over the lower deck, and as far back as the engine room all the carpenter work was wrecked.

The interior of the dining room in the forecastle was completely wrecked also. An examination showed the hull to be uninjured, however.

The officials are reticent as to the direct cause of the explosion. It was at first alleged that lightning struck the boat, but it was later ascertained that a deckhand went into the hold to light his pipe, and it is believed that the lighted match in the closed forecastle caused the naphtha to explode. The injured were all taken to the General hospital, while the remains of the dead men were removed to the morgue. Coroner Doten was notified and will hold an investigation.

Frustrated an Attempt to Break Jail.

Hudson, N. Y., July 24.—A bold attempt to escape from the Columbia county jail has been made here by prisoners who, with the aid of tools smuggled in to them, made a hole in the outer wall nearly 2 feet square. They had a rope ready to lower themselves to the ground when the noise they made attracted the attention of Sheriff Jessup. The prisoners were covered with guns when the hole was discovered and afterward placed in steel cages. Charles Acker, indicted for murdering his mistress, and a Troy thief named Lavinski were the ringleaders.

Accident to Excursion Steamer.

New York, July 24.—The excursion steamer Sam Sloan of the Starin line, which makes trips from this city to Glen Island in the sound, while on her way to the excursion grounds yesterday snapped her shaft. The accident occurred off Fort Schuyler, and there were about 400 passengers on the steamboat at the time. The latter were transferred to another boat and taken to Glen Island. The Sam Sloan was afterward towed to the repair yards at Port Richmond, S. I.

Portuguese Sailors Massacred.

Lisbon, July 24.—A letter received here from Quilimane, Mozambique, East Africa, confirms the announcement made in the chamber of deputies that the crew of a Portuguese gunboat had been massacred near Chinde, on the Zambezi river. According to this letter, the gunboat was seized by Chief Cambuimba and his followers, who killed all of the crew and nearly all of the native soldiers who were on board and captured two cannon.

Church Struck by Lightning.

Middletown, N. Y., July 24.—The second terrific thunderstorm this week hovered over this city yesterday afternoon. Bolts struck in half a dozen places. The pinnacle of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church was shattered, large pieces of wood flying in all directions. The Postal Telegraph company's test station was struck and the system ruined. In the shops about town many of the workmen sustained slight shocks.

Another Tennessee Killing.

Middlesboro, Ky., July 24.—David Cody shot and killed James Davidson in Hancock county, Tenn., who had arrested Tony Cody at Manchester, Ky., for killing James Mullins at a Baptist meeting. The Mullins family are known as moonshiners and the Codys as desperadoes. All factions are armed, and trouble is expected.

Governor McCord Sworn In.

Washington, July 24.—Myron H. McCord took the oath of office as governor of Arizona before Justice Harlan of the United States supreme court yesterday. Secretary Bliss has notified Governor Franklin and directed him to turn over the office to the territorial secretary. Governor McCord left for Phenix last night.

FINANCIAL REVIEW.

Settlement of Tariff Controversy Gives Greater Confidence.

SOME FEATURES OF THE MARKETS.

Many of the Industries Show a General Improvement, While Failures Are Less Than Last Year In Both the United States and Canada.

New York, July 24.—The following is Dun's review of the market for the past week:

The end of uncertainty regarding duties on imports gives greater confidence alike to those who have opposed and those who have favored the change. The great strength in stocks, particularly in those of the granger list, reflects assurance of heavy crops. The remarkable rise in wheat, notwithstanding that assurance, is based on heavy buying for export and belief that foreign demands will be large. To these must be added another element of confidence scarcely observed a week ago. The heavy increase in receipts of gold, whether from one side of the Alaska border or the other, swells deposits at the mints and in the banks of this country, and if the yield from new regions answers current expectations may have an influence akin to that of gold discoveries in California. The one retarding force, the strike of coal miners, has caused closing of a few manufacturing works for want of fuel, but negotiations for settlement are still pushed with hope.

The wheat market is the sensation of the month. Since July 2 the price had risen 12 cents by Wednesday, when a reaction of 4 cents was not surprising, but the close was five-eighths of a cent higher for the week. It is notable that this rise came in the face of highly encouraging crop news which is not disputed and had for support nothing but foreign conditions and demand. Actual buying for export has at times been heavy, and loading of cargoes here and in California for countries which usually contribute to European supplies greatly strengthens the impression produced by continental reports. That there is speculative handling behind the great advance is evident, and the buying for export has not yet resulted in Atlantic exports quite as large as last July to date.

Advance In Stock Market.

The stock market has advanced in average price of 60 active railway stocks every day since July 8, as it had then advanced with little interruption about seven weeks.

With a radical change in foreign trade at hand, heavy imports and withdrawals of merchandise are important only because they strengthen the treasury against any future wants. Exports of merchandise last week were $2,100,000, or 30 per cent larger than last year, but for July show no material change.

Both because of the season and because of the pending action on the tariff industrial operations are waiting, and yet with an improvement which under such circumstances is significant. There is a general advance in boots and shoes, averaging about 1½ per cent, with a larger demand as dealers lose hope of lower prices, but leather is unchanged, and hides at Chicago average 2 per cent lower.

The textile industries have lost no ground, as the curtailment of production in cotton for a time is really a gain. The demand has somewhat increased, but the accumulated stocks of goods must be reduced before impatience to buy can be expected. The demand for woolens increases as to low and medium grades, with reported large sales at advances of 5 to 10 per cent over last spring. Speculative sales of wool continue large, and prices are very strong, especially at the west. Clearing house payments for the month increased 8.9 per cent over last year and for the first time slightly exceed exchanges in 1892. Failures in 15 days of July were only $2,815,842 against $8,214,281 in 16 days last year, $6,599,751 in 1895, and $6,317,696 in 1894. Manufacturing were $1,189,010 against $4,187,733 last year, and trading were $1,605,232 against $3,399,847 last year. Failures for the week have been 227 in the United States against 281 last year, and 28 in Canada against 29 last year.

Silver and Copper In Pennsylvania.

York, Pa., July 24.—The fact of valuable silver and copper discoveries in the South mountains in which York county capitalists are interested has been made public in York. The discoveries were made by a Colorado miner of experience, and the yield of copper is said to be unusually rich. Congressman Sulzer of New York, Edison and other well known men have been interested in the find, and 99 year leases have been secured on properties from which a rich output is promised. A representative of the projectors who visited Edison says the wizard will furnish a process which will make the copper mining unusually profitable.

Electric Bitters

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

Reasons Why Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is the Best.

1. Because it affords almost instant relief in case of pain in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus.
2. Because it is the only remedy that never fails in the most severe cases of dysentery and diarrhoea.
3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhoea.
4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent bilious colic.
5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemical dysentery.
6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
8. Because it produces no bad results.
9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.
10. Because it has saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world.

CONVICTS SET AT WORK.

Experiment Made by the Warden of Sing Sing Prison.

Sing Sing, July 24.—Warden Sage of Sing Sing prison has set a gang of 25 convicts at work on the road improvements he intends to make on Durston avenue, the main approach to the prison from the railroad station, and the Secor road.

This is in the nature of an experiment on the warden's part to see how the convicts will work in chain gangs, and he got an appropriation from the legislature and the consent of Superintendent of Prisons Lathrop to build a 15 foot high retaining wall between these much used thoroughfares.

All last winter he had a large gang of convicts cutting and dressing the white marble blocks which will make the facing of the wall. Over 2,500 of these blocks have been placed in readiness, and the preliminary work of preparing for the foundations was begun yesterday.

The work is in charge of Captain Charles Hilbert and William Purcell, the latter an expert in such work. The convicts are "short time men" or those who have only a few months to serve, and it is thought it would not pay them to attempt to escape.

BIG SALE OF BEER STAMPS

The Newark Internal Revenue Collector's Office Cleaned Out.

Newark, N. J., July 24.—The rush for beer stamps here has cleaned the internal revenue collector's office out of that kind of stamps, and those who applied for stamps yesterday were told they must wait. The sale of these stamps on Thursday alone amounted to $177,000. Of these $153,000 worth were taken by local brewers.

The rest went to Paterson. Collector Rutan said that the demand for the stamps came in $10,000 lots, and in some cases $15,000 and $20,000 were taken in a lot, and more would have been sold if they had been on hand. Even if the Washington office has the stamps to supply him the collector said he would not be able to furnish them to applicants until some time today.

KLONDIKE COMMERCE

A Subport of Entry to Be Established at Dyea.

SECRETARY GAGE ISSUES AN ORDER.

Permits British Shippers to Carry Supplies Through American Ports to the Goldfields—An Official Report on Alaska Mining Developments.

Washington, July 24.—In view of the present rush of travel to the Klondike goldfields, Secretary Gage has established a subport of entry at Dyea, Alaska. The action was taken as the result of an application to the treasury department by Canada for permission for Canadian vessels to enter at Dyea, Alaska, and land passengers and baggage there. Dyea is about 50 miles north of Juneau, and it was desired to save passengers the annoyance of disembarking at Juneau and awaiting another steamer for Dyea, the head of navigation on this route to the Yukon frontier. The granting of the application would have made it necessary in all cases of vessels clearing for Dyea to give a special permit to the deputy at Juneau in the case of each vessel.

In order to obviate this difficulty, the secretary of the treasury constituted Dyea a subport of entry in the district of Alaska. This action he took under the authority of the act of March 16, 1896, which authorizes the secretary to establish subports at such places in Alaska as he may deem proper. Some objection was made by representatives from the Pacific coast to the granting of the application to permit Canadian vessels to proceed to Dyea, but on full consideration of the question it was thought advisable by the secretary to exercise the right clearly given him by statute to make Dyea a subport, thus relieving passengers from the annoyance of disembarking at Juneau and awaiting other means of transportation to Dyea.

Notice to the Canadians.

The Canadian government will be notified immediately of the decision to create a subport of entry at Dyea for the benefit of British shippers of supplies for the gold district.

Vessels carrying men, provisions and supplies will be allowed to proceed past Juneau to Dyea, where the supplies are to be put into bond and shipped over the short intervening stretch of United States territory to the British Columbia boundary line and thence to the Klondike fields. All of the cabinet were agreed upon the course to be taken.

In the brief discussion over the matter it was pointed out that it was not only a very neighborly action to take, but would be helpful to citizens of the United States as well. Nine-tenths or thereabout of the men now rendezvoused in the gold belt belong to this country, it was stated, and failure to make the concession might deprive our own citizens of needed supplies. Beyond all this, it was intimated that in case the privilege was denied by this government Canada might take up the matter and by way of retaliation restrict operations upon such part of the goldfields as are on Canadian soil to citizens of that government.

Wonderful Accounts of Gold Discoveries.

Captain C. L. Hooper, commanding the Bering sea patrol fleet, in a report to the treasury department dated Unalaska, July 5, says that the Alaska Commercial company's steamer Excelsior arrived at that port on July 4 with about 40 miners from the Yukon district and about $500,000 in gold bullion. Continuing, he says:

"The Excelsior brings wonderful accounts of rich discoveries in the Klondike, or Reindeer river, where fortunes are being made in a few weeks. According to these reports, nothing has ever been discovered on the continent approaching it in richness.

The Klondike is a tributary of the Yukon, a few miles above Forty Mile, and is wholly within Canadian territory. Gold was discovered there last autumn and during the winter attracted miners from all directions. It is said that over 2,000 men are located at Dawson, the principal town, while Circle City, Forty Mile and other places are nearly deserted. Owing to the sudden influx of people provisions were high, but so far as I can learn there was no actual suffering. Of the 40 passengers on board returning from these mines, it is said none has less than $8,000 and some have $50,000. Others who have made their pile are coming on the steamer Portland. Two packages of coarse gold, one containing $120 and one $130, are shown as the result of washing one pan of dirt each.

The principal mines are on the Bonanza and El Dorado creeks, small branches of the Klondike, and extend in the aggregate 16 or 18 miles. Being in the bed of the river, the claims can only be worked in the winter when the outsoil is frozen. The pay dirt is melted by a fire built in the shaft and the gold extracted by the usual washing out process. A claim is 500 feet in the direction of the river and from bank to bank, provided it does not exceed 666 feet. The cost of recording a claim is $15, and the yearly rental $100. Claims have sold as high as $50,000, and a still higher price has been refused for others.

Chinese Steamer Wrecked.

London, July 24.—A dispatch from Singapore says that the Chinese steamer Srihongann, bound from Singapore for Malacca with 100 passengers, was wrecked in a squall off Malacca on June 19. One hundred and twenty persons, including the captain of the steamer, were drowned. The remainder of the ship's company were rescued by a passing steamer.

Drowned In Lake Ontario.

Oswego, N. Y., July 24.—James, the 13-year-old son of Dr. William Cox, United States pension agent, was drowned while bathing in Lake Ontario. When told of the fatality, the father sustained a severe paralytic stroke, and his recovery is considered doubtful. The body of the boy was not recovered.

Powder Mill Struck by Lightning.

Hazleton, Pa., July 24.—Leisenring's powder magazine, located half a mile from Milnesville, has been struck by lightning. A ton of powder stored in the rear exploded with terrific force, shaking the very mountain and breaking the windows in Milnesville houses. No one was injured.

ANENT DOGS.

The New York Herald is devoting a column or two of space every day to the subject of how dogs are treated during dog-days—whether humanely or cruelly. Judging from the graphic reports received from some sections of the country the canines that are found without muzzles or masters on the public thoroughfares are faring in a pretty tough manner, frequently forfeiting their life as a penalty for being astray. In this respect, the Plainfield dogs are a privileged lot. They are free to roam without fear of the dog-catcher or his auxiliary, the pound-keeper and canine executioner. They can chase bicyclists, horsemen, hoboes, bankers, brokers, mechanics, and last, but not least, the gentlemen friends of their master's daughter, to their heart's content. The only fear they live in is a passing kick or cuss word. Truly, the Plainfield dog has a nice time of it. But we warn him to not cross the brook, else Oscar Vaughn, who is an adept and experienced captor of unmuzzled canines meandering about to the peril of the peace and welfare of the borough, is liable to pounce upon Mr. Dog and make him a prisoner until his master forks forth a dollar for his release.

ADMITTED AT LAST.

The following editorial taken from the New Brunswick Home News, admits the superiority of Plainfield as compared with New Brunswick in attracting trade from the surrounding country:

Many people believe that a trolley line from this city to Perth Amboy would be more profitable than the route to Bound Brook. Plainfield being nearer, is likely to be more benefitted by the trolley trade from Bound Brook and Somerville than are the merchants of this city, while a line to Perth Amboy would bring the people of that place to the county seat, where they have business almost daily. The Brunswick Traction Company have, however, not overlooked the Perth Amboy line, and ere another twelvemonth it may be possible to jump on a car in this city and be in Amboy in less than one hour, at an expense of fifteen or twenty cents. Within five years there will be a regular network of trolley in the county, all owned and controlled by the Brunswick Traction Company.

SCHOOL QUARRELS.

Rahway people are up in arms over the intention of their Common Council to locate a new school building, to cost $20,000, upon a site that is not considered desirable by the majority of citizens. It is a matter for regret that in such important matters as school management, when a community should be a unanimity in determining the details, that there should be so much disputing. There are no public affairs in New Jersey that are more prolific of quarrels than those of the school, and, though it shows a lively and healthy interest on the part of the people, it deteriorates the good work of the institutions so afflicted.

MERELY SPORADIC.

There is a man in New Brunswick with an idea. How he got there has nothing to do with the case, as he merely seems to be sporadic, not epidemic. His latest alleged idea is to send United States prisoners to Alaska to mine gold for this government. Has the gentleman from Jersey ever heard of Siberia? And to the reverse—does the gentleman from Jersey wish to people the jails with Government prisoners?—New York Press.

Activity in Real Estate.

Among recent real estate transactions in this city, is the purchase of the premises at 327 Carlton avenue, by William W. Whelan, of Weehawken, who will take possession next next week. C. Powell Carr, of Roseville, has rented the house at 1,108 Putnam avenue, and will occupy it the early part of August. Henry Manger, of New York city, has leased Dr. Jenkins' house at 1,103 Watchung avenue, and will take possession the latter part of August; and the house of E. B. Clark, corner of West Front street and Waynewood place will be occupied September first by Edgar B. Smith. E. C. Mulford was the agent in each of the transactions.

Miss Evelyn M. Lewis has returned to her father's summer camp near Washington Rock, after a visit with her sister, Mrs. James E. Kimball, of Park avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo F. Brokaw, of Grove street, who have been spending their vacation at Mrs. Brokaw's parents, at Bound Brook, have returned home.

Mrs. Northup, of West Front street, who was injured not long ago in New York by falling from a street car, is slightly improved, although she is unable to walk very much.

Mr. and Mrs. George Firstbrook, formerly of the West End, have taken up their residence with Mrs. Firstbrook's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Page, of Elmwood place.

James A. Stafford, of Grandview avenue, and J. Vincent Rittenhouse, of East Sixth street, have gone on a trip to Quebec and back by the way of Lake Champlain, after the Epworth League convention at Toronto. They will return next week.

There Will Be American Day.

The report that there would be no American Day at Asbury Park this year is erroneous. The third Thursday in August will see a big parade and turnout of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics from all parts of the State at the shore. Officials of Franklin Council, this city, state they have received advices from Elizabeth and Newark that gurrantee large delegations from those towns, and Plainfield can be depended upon to contribute her quota to the crowd.

—Now arrange the lunch baskets for a good enjoyable day next Tues-

—Councilman Westphal, chairman of the Alms Committee of the City Council, has been devoting a great deal of his time lately to the Industrial Home. It is his intention to have the grounds about the place put in fine order.

—The case of the Plainfield Cycle and Sporting Goods Company against Pickard was tried in Justice Newcorn's court yesterday and judgment rendered for the plaintiff and execution issued. The case of Powers against Tobin, on contract, was adjourned for a week.

—The regular weekly meeting at Reform Hall Thursday was one of especial interest to the large number of people present. There was good music, instrumental and vocal, excellent speaking by officers and members of the club and altogether a most profitable evening was passed.

WANT A SEPARATE DISTRICT.

Mountainside People Dissatisfied With Present School Facilities.

The people of the Borough of Mountainside have long been dissatisfied with the management of the school affairs by the trustees of the Westfield school district, of which Mountainside is a part. The school building was said to be too small to accommodate the pupils, and efforts were made to secure the erection of a new building. The Westfield trustees were unable to grant this request and the dissatisfaction at Mountainside increased.

Now, however, it has been discovered that a law passed by the last Legislature makes it passible for the borough to separate its school district from Westfield and to manage its own school affairs without interference.

The news of the existence of this law is hailed with delight by the leading citizens of the borough, and it is understood that immediate steps will Piano Prices.

Other things being equal, the price is the clinching argument in buying a Piano. When you are satisfied as to the equal quality of any two pianos, the question of cost becomes paramount.
Our prices are lower than anybody's else in the State; we sell Pianos at Twenty-five to One Hundred Dollars cheaper than our competitors. We are able to do this because we sell five times as many as any one of them. It's easy to satisfy yourself; make comparisons. Don't come to buy until you're quite sure that what we say is true.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST ISCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Rev. A. I. Martine will return this evening from his trip to California.

Miss Titsworth, of the borough, has been the guest of friends in Plainfield.

J. W. Griggs, of Newark, will spend tomorrow with relatives in the borough.

Frank Gaskill, of the borough, who has been seriously ill, is reported as being much improved.

The condition of Charles Beekman seems to be worse and his folks feel anxious concerning his recovery.

If the weather permits there will be some good playing this afternoon on the courts of the Dunellen Law Tennis Club.

Maxson Dunham and wife, of the borough, who have been visiting Plainfield relatives have returned home.

Another dance will be held this evening at the end of the trolley line. If the weather is stormy the dance will be held next week.

An important meeting of Wm. G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will be held next Monday evening and a full attendance is desired.

Fred Nelson, of the borough, who now conducts a livery business, will dispose of it soon, and engage in the hotel business at New Market.

The opposition to the sewer beds seems to increase and many residents living in the vicinity are joining in the movement inaugurated by Mrs. Milliken.

Next Monday evening the borough council will meet for the purpose of approving the recently adopted ordinances. There is likely to be some other business transacted at the meeting.

As soon as cooler weather appears the members of the Middlesex Bowling Green Club will arrange another day for the women. The last ladies' day was such a success that the members are anxious to have another.

Since the recent progress of the trolley in Piscataway Township the people of Dunellen are beginning to wonder just where they will come in on the line. They are now feeling as though the trolley companies are going to slight them entirely. When the Plainfield Company wanted to run their line through the borough there was considerable opposition, but now that their neighbors are sure of getting the trolley they are in a state of excitement and wonderment. The chances are that the people of the borough will have to make some extra concession to the trolley company to have the road run through the borough, and no doubt this will be done at some future time when a few more boroughites, who are in power, are convinced that the trolley is a good thing.

SCOTCH PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Jr. O. U. A. M. held a meeting last night.

Rev. J. S. Braker will preach in the Baptist church tomorrow.

Miss Emma Clark will spend Sunday with friends in Lincoln.

Mrs. Will Buckley and daughter will spend a few days with friends in New York city.

The Scotch Plains Township Committee held a meeting and transacted considerable business last night.

A successful subscription dance was held at the Fanwood club-house last evening by a number of the young people of Fanwood.

Rev. Dr. True will preach in All Saints church tomorrow. The Sunday-school will meet tomorrow for the last time until September.

It was hoped that the recent heavy rains would improve the condition of wells in Scotch Plains and vicinity, but so far no rise in the level of the water has been noted, and in many instances the wells are getting lower every day.

WESTFIELD

TOWNSHIP'S BUSINESS.

WESTFIELD COMMITTEE TO OFFER A REWARD FOR BURGLARS.

John Hickory Released From Jail—Dr. Carlos Martyn in Westfield Tomorrow—Other Items of Local Interest.

The Westfield Township Committee held a meeting last evening and considered the question of police protection for the town. If the committee is advised by counsel that it has power to do so, it will offer a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of the burglars. The financial report of former Tax Collector A. K. Gale, up to June 1st, was received and placed on file. A communication was received from J. H. Brown stating that claims were held against Sewer Contractors Stratford & Hawkes by fourteen different persons and that the amount of these claims exceeded the amount of the contractors' claims against the township. A communication was received from J. S. A. Wittke thanking the Committee for their action in placing electric lights on Highland avenue. A communication was received from Herbert VanDyke, of Philadelphia, stating that the payment of back taxes of the VanDyke estate, with interest, would be made as soon as a settlement of the estate could be effected. Tax Collector A. H. Clark sent the Committee a list of delinquent taxpayers and asked for power to sell their property for taxes. This request was granted. The agreement of Broad street property owners to make their curb lines conform with the lines established by Engineer H. C. Van Emburg, was taken up by the committee. It has been signed by every property holder involved except Thomas Love. It was thought necessary to secure all the signatures before the work is begun, so the matter was laid upon the table for future action. A resolution was passed instructing the clerk to request Charles F. Oxluy to repair the sidewalk in front of his property on Park street between Westfield and Newark avenues. A communication was received from Frank Bergen stating that water mains will be laid at once on South Broad street in compliance with the committee's request. Property owners on the Boulevard, Park street, and Summit and Westfield avenues sent a communication asking that Nicholas Schoonmaker be appointed a special policeman, to be paid by private subscriptions of said property owners. The petitioners were informed that the committee had no power to appoint special policemen and Schoonmaker was instructed to apply to Sheriff Kirk for a deputy Sheriff's commission. A number of bills were ordered paid.

There will be a Union service in the Methodist church tomorrow evening, under the auspices of the Christian Citizens' League. Rev. Charles Martyn, D.D., will speak on "Christian Citizenship", and an effort will be made after the meeting to effect a permanent organization of the Christian Citizens League in Westfield. The present organization under which the meetings are being held, is a temporary one.

John Hickory was released from the county jail in Elizabeth yesterday, and returned at once to Westfield. He was sentenced to a year's imprisonment last September for cruelly beating his wife. Two months was deducted from his sentence for good behavior.

Central Council No. 131, Jr. O. U. A. M., held a meeting last night and transacted regular business. The members will accompany Union Council No. 31, of Rahway, upon the excursion to Ocean Grove, on August 19th.

The ladies of St. Paul's Episcopal church hold a lawn festival and cake sale at the residence of Mrs. L. Bastable, on North Broad street, this afternoon and evening, from 4 until 10 o'clock.

Hiram L. Fink has gone in partnership with S. W. Clark and opened a new carriage establishment at 38 Sherman avenue, Newark, under the firm name of Fink & Clark.

The Westfield Junior baseball team play the New Jersey Athletic Club Juniors on the North Broad street grounds this afternoon.

An Unexpected Prey.

Fred G. Smith, the grocer, who resides at No. 4 Mercer avenue, in the borough, was seen scampering around the cellar of his house a few nights ago brandishing a broom. He tells his friends he thought he saw a big rat and made for it with the broom. He succeeded in killing it, but it proved to be a half grown opposum.

—Crane & Clark, hatters, 120 West Front street, have commenced a great clearing sale at cut prizes.

PASSING COMMENT.

Nothing more has ever been heard of that famous letter that was found on the mountain by O. O. F., although that individual was requested to mail it to H. W. B., care of The Press. There have been several stories circulated regarding its writer, but the matter still remains a mystery.

As this is the Jubilee year in Great Britain and all her possessions, the government of Canada has issued a Jubilee postage stamp that is somewhat similar to the Columbia stamp of this country. The principal parts of the Jubilee stamp are two pictures, one of Queen Victoria, in 1837, when she ascended the throne, and the other of her at the present day. The design is a pretty one.

Councilman E. T. Barrows was was speaking about the many complaints that are made to the newspapers that crosswalks are needed in different sections of the city. The people forget, he said, that the crosswalks cannot be laid until the sidewalks have been put down and it will be found that these complaints come from districts where the sidewalks have not been laid. Let the sidewalks be laid, he continued, and the Council will be willing to grant any reasonable request in that direction.

At the last national convention of the Epworth Leagues of the United States and Canada, held in Toronto, Canada, a week ago, one of the more noticeable features of the decorations that were te be seen on everyhand, was the combination of the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack of England. The colors of this country were displayed with equal prominence and there seemed an unusually brotherly feeling between the Canadians and their friends from this side of the border.

* * * * *

The borrowing habit is prevalent in this city, and is making the lives of many people miserable every day. A few days since one Plainfielder walked into the business place of an acquaintance and borrowed his bicycle to ride a few miles out of town. After the borrower had departed with it, the owner of the wheel remarked: "I hated to say yes, and I couldn't say no." It is a fact that the man who borrows a bicycle does so at the risk of losing a friend. Wheels are like umbrellas and horses, which an old proverb says one should never lend.

Every pleasant day there is a small army of boys that marches through the Gap near Scotch Plains to the millpond commonly know as the Feltville pond. Here the youthful Plainfielders enjoy a swim in the fresh water far from the gaze of the passing travelers. The pond is separated from the road by a thick growth of trees and underbrush. It is not only the small boys that go there, but the older brothers often find their way to the pond and enjoy a cooling plunge. There is a spring-board there and a sort of dock from which the swimmers dive. Just now, the water is quite high and cold enough to suit anybody.

ADVICE TO THE WIFE WHICH IS APPLICABLE TO THE HUSBAND.

Good Digestion Waits on Appetite and Appetite on Cheerfulness—Bounding Good Nature Leads to Health and Friends, and the Enjoyment of Life.

"Every other country," says Miss Parloa, "speaks of that one thing about Americans. They are always in a hurry. We ought to take time to cultivate ease, cheerfulness and pleasant conversation at the table, at least, for they add more to digestion than anything else. Nothing brings on indigestion so quickly as being irritated, annoyed and disgusted at table, and the housewife should be responsible for many things cheerful. Make the table as bright and dainty as possible. There is no excuse now for ugly, plain china when you can get dainty things for the same price. Pick up cups and saucers here and there, and pretty individual plates. A pretty cup and saucer, a delicate plate, a dainty centrepiece, a bunch of flowers, or even just a bit of grass, will brighten the table and afford a pleasant subject of conversation. Food is necessary for the body, but we don't want to be animals only.

"The food question is a complicated one, many things entering into its proper solution. First, there is the cost depending upon income and what you can afford to buy. Then the nutritive value must be considered, the season, the climate and the age and occupation of the persons for whom you are providing. There are always eccentricities of taste and digestion, and the oft-repeated 'it is good for you and you must eat it,' when there is a strong feeling of repugnance for some special dish, should not be continued. Do not compel a child to eat things absolutely distasteful.

"In buying, the market value of foods does not indicate nutritive value. A pound of tenderloin is not as nutritious as a pound of flank, on which account tenderloin should not be given to an invalid. Knowledge and judgment in buying will supplement a slender purse."

In selecting meats Miss Parloa advises the housekeeper to go to market herself. The larger the family the more economically they can be fed; but there is no economy in buying what is not needed. The longer beef and mutton can hang after killing and be kept perfectly sweet, the more tender they will be. Lamb and veal, on the other hand, being immature, spoil quickly.

Queen Olga of Greece.

side him, and she came. They were married in St. Petersburg on October 27, 1867. He was 22 years old, and she seven years younger. Even now the Athenians talk of the home coming of the girl queen. She at once won a warm place in the hearts of her adopted people, and she boasts that she speaks the Greek better than her native tongue.

Guarding Sleeping Royalty.

The most extraordinary precautions are taken in Spain to provide for the safety of the sovereign at night.

His slumbers are watched throughout the night by the Monteros de Espinosa, a body of men who for 400 years have enjoyed the exclusive privilege of guarding of their royal master or mistress from sunset to sunrise.

They are bound by tradition to be natives of the town of Espinosa, and to have served with honor in the army.

They lock the palace gates with much ceremony and solemnity at midnight, and open them again at seven o'clock in the morning.

Their fidelity to the person of the sovereign is well tried, and does not admit of any question.—Harper's Round Table.

A Dummy Editor.

"Japanese journalism," says a missionary's wife, "is a singular profession in many of its features. There is practically no such thing as freedom of the press in Japan. Whenever a newspaper publishes something unfriendly to the Government, it is suppressed, and the editor is sent to prison. The real editor is never imprisoned, though. Every newspaper has what the Japanese call a 'dummy editor,' and it is his sole duty to go to jail every time the paper is suppressed for offending the Mikado. Then the real editor changes the name of the paper, and keeps on publishing it. Dummy editors spend most of their time in prison.—New York Tribune.

THE DE HIRSCH PHILANTHROPY.

A Million Dollars Recently Given to the Fund in New York.

With the marriage of the late Baron de Hirsch were united two remarkable figures in the world's history of philanthropists. The wife, no less than the husband, was a master of the art of money making, and under the skilled guidance of this unique couple, their individual fortunes grew to colossal proportions. A love of their fellowmen was the predominating characteristic of both the Baron and the Baroness. With similar tastes, vast wealth, and the ability to use it wisely and well, they acted as a mighty compound engine in the field of education and charity.

The Baron Maurice de Hirsch de Gereuth was born to be a money king. He made millions while still a youth by rebuilding the ruins of the greatest bank in Belgium. The Baron gave away millions, but wasted not a cent. It is said of him that he would save a franc by condensing a telegram announcing the gift of a fortune to some hospital or school.

Money making was merely an incident with him. His chief energies were devoted to spending his fortune properly. His social aspirations were gratified throughout Europe, in nearly every capital of which he was a chosen friend of sovereigns and princes. Among his most intimate friends was the Prince of Wales. The baron was born near Munich in 1833, and died in Vienna, April 21, 1896.

It was through long association with her father, who was a Brussels banker, that Baroness de Hirsch learned the business principles which enable her to use her vast wealth toward the improvement of mankind. She never fritters away money. Some of her friends regard her as the equal if not the superior of her husband in the skillful handling of enormous sums of money. When she was a girl she acted as secretary to her father, the late Senator Bischofheim, who was himself a philanthropist. She was only two-and-twenty when she married Baron de Hirsch, and for nearly two-score years she assisted him in his business and charitable work. Small wonder is it, then, that at the age of sixty, after a lifetime of experience, she is able to direct her affairs unaided, except by clerks. She herself is a hard worker, and frequently spends part of the evening after dinner at her desk. An ordinary woman, carrying on the vast operations which her wealth entails upon her, would have no time left for social diversions, but the Baroness knows so well how to economize time that she is able to enjoy the company of her friends freely.

Of late her eyes have turned toward America as a field for philanthropic endeavor. The crowded condition of the east side of New York has been the subject of special study, and she has decided to place at the disposal of the Baron de Hirsch Fund $1,000,000 to be devoted to the work of improving these conditions. A home for the benefit of Hebrew working girls and immigrant girls is now being organized here.

Another American donation was $100,000, which was used to pay off a mortgage upon the building of the Educational Alliance in Jefferson street. It is supposed also that the Baroness was the anonymous donor of nearly $200,000 to the Paris Charity Bazaar, whose success was marred by the dreadful fire.

A distinguished trait of the world's greatest woman philanthropist is her aversion to anything approaching show or ostentation. Her large benefactions it is impossible to conceal from the public, but no one knows the extent of her personal work among the poor on a smaller scale.—New York Times.

The Rabbit Problem Solved.

The vexed question of the extermination of the Australian rabbit, which has hitherto constituted the chief problem that has confronted every antipodean administration, has at length received a satisfactory solution. There is no longer any necessity for invoking the services of great scientists, such as the late Dr. Pasteur and Professor Koch, to devise means for their extermination, for the invention of the cold-storage rooms has led to the bunnies being exported in a refrigerated condition to the omnivorous market of the mother country. Rabbit pie is a favorite dish in the United Kingdom, and the rabbit which could not be successfully canned for transport and preservation is now leaving Australia for England at such a rate that soon there will not be a single one of them left in the antipodes.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

DEPEW ON WEALTH.

DISTINGUISHED OPTIMIST DOES NOT REGARD TIMES OUT OF JOINT.

The Good Old Days Afforded More Opportunity for Getting Rich, Perhaps, but There are Chances Left to Those Who are Smart Enough to Take Advantage.

He was asked if it were not true that opportunities for acquiring wealth had decreased.

"Well, that is true," said Mr. Depew. "The opportunities to make wealth in a new country are always greater than in an old one. For the last fifty years America has been especially favored as a field for men of enterprise, far-sightedness and courage to accumulate large fortunes. One was the development aided by an immense immigration, and the other the inventions by which steam and electricity had their productive power so enormously increased and the cost so largely reduced.

"Commodore Vanderbilt, for instance, made a fortune in steamboats which was quite large for that period. He saw the opportunities in steamships, and largely increased his wealth. Then he saw, before any one else did, that the railroad was to supplant transportation upon water, and, selling his steamboats and his steamships, he put his fortune into railways, selecting the trunk lines of commerce. The railroads were at that time in bad financial condition. The original constructors had lost a large portion of money which had been put in them by the depreciation of stock and bad business. The Commodore, by letting the roads have the money to put them in good, efficient working order, and then by consolidations which reduced the expenses of operating, again took the cream, as farsighted men always do, of the transportation business of the country."

"All those were natural evolutions?"

"Yes, they were natural evolutions. Elis Howe and Singer solved the problem which inventors had been working over for a century, of the sewing machine.

CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW.

"Before the expiration of the patent they had divided $50,000,000 between themselves, and the needle had been brought into universal use, where thousands more were employed and the cost of all articles enormously reduced. That is a natural evolution by which the inventor got a very large reward for his invention, and the public got a tremendous benefit from it also.

"The same is true of the telephone and of the associates of Morse with his invention of the telegraph. The same is true in the development of electricity as applied to the electric light, and it will be still further extended whoever is the successful inventor of the electric motor."

"Now, that is all natural. The next point is, is it true now that rich men endeavor to buy opportunities to make wealth from legislators, and so on, as compared with the past?" I asked.

"Legislators," Mr. Depew replied, "grow all the while. When bank charters were first granted in our State, seventy years ago, a portion of the stock was always distributed among the members of the Legislature for their votes. No company could now distribute stock among members of the Legislature without the members going into State Prison, and the promoters also. That shows the distinct advance in seventy years. But seventy years ago that sort of thing was regarded as perfectly proper and was thoroughly well known and understood."

"Most men who make money, when they have a million, risk a million to make five, they risk the five on small margins to make ten; if they make ten, they risk the ten on equally small margins to make fifty, and, like the gambler at Monte Carlo, they ultimately reach the point where the card turns and it is all gone."

"I knew Daniel Drew when he had $19,000,000, and he died in debt. I know a gentleman who at one time had $3,000,000 in the bank, who is now earning about $1,200 a year. The $3,000,000 was cash, in addition to his investments of various kinds. There are a dozen men in this town who ask me for occasional loans from fifty cents to $5 who, when I first came to New York, were among the rich men of the town. What I mean by this is that they were worth over $1,000,000 each, and thirty years ago a man worth over $1,000,000 was of more account in New York than a man worth over $5,000,000 now."

"The man who will make money is the one who perfects an electric motor which will enable the railway companies to move passenger and freight trains at less cost than now by the steam locomotive; which will solve the problem of street transportation, so as to supersede the overhead trolley, at less cost."

AN ENOCH ARDEN'S DIVORCE SUIT.

Clark, After Fourteen Years' Absence, Found His Wife Married to His Chum.

In the case of Alpheus E. Clark for an absolute divorce from his wife, Mary A., whom he found on his return to Fort Hamilton on Long Island, after an absence of fourteen years, married to Sylvester Folsom, the evidence produces some peculiar situations.

The Clarks were married in 1873, while he was a lieutenant stationed at Fort Hamilton. In the same company of the United States Army was Folsom. Clark disappeared in 1876, and his wife, believing that he was dead, married Folsom in 1882. She was living at Fort Hamilton with Folsom when Clark reappeared in 1890. Unlike Enoch Arden, Clark made his presence known, and the defendant and Folsom separated, Clark taking the defendant to live with him. Clark disappeared again, but came back in 1896 and brought the action for divorce.

Mrs. Clark relied for defence on the fact that Clark by living with her in 1890 had condoned her fault.

Thomas Keegan, who had a hotel at Fort Hamilton in 1890, when Clark returned, testified that he did not recognize Clark until the latter asked him how his wife Mary was getting along. By chance she passed the hotel while Clark was there, and Clark went out and spoke to her. The marriage to Folsom and her living with Folsom until 1890 having been shown, the defence called witnesses to show that Clark and the defendant had lived together at the Coleman House in this city in 1890. The case was then closed.

Later Folsom told what he knew about the case. "Clark and I were soldiers together," said he. "After he got in some trouble and left her in 1876, I continued my acquaintance with her. She did not hear from him as years went by, and I wrote to Washington, but could get no positive information about Clark. I believed he was dead when I married. Why, he ought to be made to give Mrs. Clark $100 a day for coming back at all. A man has no right to hunt a woman up after so many years. My wife, or ex-wife, is a corker. She had me arrested for non-support, and with her husband living, beat me at that. She's been in court nearly twenty-five times to my knowledge, and won about every time."—New York Sun.

WASHINGTON ON PEACE AND WAR.

His Words were Prophetic and To-Day Inspire Patriotism.

In his speech to both houses of Congress on January 8, 1790, George Washington gave advice which seems peculiarly timely now: "To be prepared for war," said Washington, "is one of the most effectual means of preserving peace."

In his immortal Farewell Address, of September, 1796, he gave other counsel on international relations and on peace and war:

"The great rule of conduct for us, in regard to foreign nations, is, in extending our commercial relations, to have with them as little political connection as possible. So far as we have already formed engagements, let them be fulfilled with perfect good faith. Here let us stop. Europe has a set of primary interests, which to us have none, or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the cause of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves, by artificial ties, in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities.

"Our detached and distant situation invites and enables us to pursue a different course. If we remain one people, under an efficient Government, the period is not far off when we may defy material injury from external annoyance; when we may take such an attitude as will cause the neutrality we may at any time resolve upon to be scrupulously respected; when belligerent nations under the impossibility of making acquisitions upon us, will not lightly hazard the giving us provocation; when we may choose peace or war, as our interest, guided by justice, shall counsel."

These wise words of George Washington are always in season, and are especially worthy to be pondered now.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings make them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the materia, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Living on Iron.

Disease Cured by Restoring the Vital Element of Life. Capsuloids, the Latest Discovery of Science Represent the Beginning of a New Epoch in the Practice of Medicine.

The most eminent physicians concede the absolute need of iron in the blood, not only to ward off anæmia, chlorosis and other diseases, but actually to maintain life which becomes extinct the instant the natural iron or Hæmoglobin is insufficient to attract the requisite amount of oxygen from the air cells of the lungs to the blood.

If you would be robust, healthy, strong, clear-brained and impervious to disease, see that your blood is rich with Hæmoglobin. A year ago this advice would have been ridiculous because no form of iron had then been discovered that could be taken up by the blood.

To-day, nineteenth century science makes it possible to infuse the blood with natural iron.

Dr. Campbell, an English physician, widely known for his scientific pursuits, has succeeded in extracting from the blood of healthy bullocks, iron or Hæmoglobin in natural form. This he has re-dissolved and enclosed in a soft, pointed gelatine covering with the name Capsuloids has been given.

These little globes taken at mealtime, two or three times a day, are all that you require to cure you of any disease having its origin in the blood. They give health to the sickly child, strength to the exhausted woman, vigor to the over-worked man. In chronic ailments and diseases long supposed to be incurable the results accruing from the use of Capsuloids are almost miraculous.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from the office of The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York City.

CURED

For some time I have been a sufferer from rheumatism in one of my knees. I have tried many remedies and physicians' prescriptions, but with no relief, and had almost given up hope of being other than a pain-racked person. I saw your challenge advertisement to give away free sample packages of Dr. Hobbs Sparagus Kidney Pills and I took advantage of it, procuring a trial package from Dr. Willard Wright's drug store corner of Virgina and Atlantic Avenues. I took the pills according to directions. The result was marvelous, and I can now conscientiously recommend them to my suffering friends, for after using one box I am sure they are the best and only remedy for what they claim to cure. I am free from pain and have the use of my limb, to me a great blessing, and Dr. Hobbs has my heartfelt good wishes. MRS. H. B. GARRISON, Atlantic City, N. J.

TARIFF CONFERENCE REPORT.

Final Vote Ready to Be Taken In the Senate.

Washington, July 24.—The final vote on the tariff conference report will be taken in the senate this afternoon. A unanimous agreement to this effect was reached in the senate yesterday after an exciting and dramatic debate. The proposition for the final vote came most unexpectedly from Democratic sources, the senior senator from Alabama, Mr. Morgan, presenting it. It was greeted with shouts of "Good, good!" from senators on the Republican side, who for the first time saw the path clear for the final enactment of the tariff bill.

Mr. Morgan's proposition was coupled with one that the senate meet earlier in the day in order that speeches may be heard before the vote is taken. This was accepted as a whole, and the agreement was formally announced. Mr. Morgan expressed profound reluctance in submitting the proposition, but said he recognized the right of the majority to register their will.

The agreement was preceded by the most heated personal colloquy that has occurred during the consideration of the tariff bill, Senator Foraker of Ohio and Senator Allen of Nebraska joining issue over Mr. Allen's charges of fraud in the Ohio elections of last year. It led to such epithets as "balderdash" and a pointed reference to the methods of court "pettifoggers."

The early part of the day was given to speeches against the bill by Senators Teller, White and Pettus.

Some Nominations.

Washington, July 24.—The president has sent the following nominations to the senate: Henry A. Rucker to be collector of internal revenue for the district of Georgia, William S. Clanton to be assayer and melter of the United States assay office at Charlotte, N. C., M. A. Montgomery to be attorney of the United States for the northern district of Mississippi. Lieutenant Commander Walton Goodwin to be a commander, Lieutenant Wainwright Kellogg to be a lieutenant commander.

WHOLESALE POISONING.

Twelve Women and Two Men Were Tried and Six Found Guilty.

Budapest, July 24.—The trial of 12 women and two men, charged with wholesale poisoning, has been concluded here, and sentences were pronounced upon six of the prisoners. Four of them were condemned to death, one to penal servitude for life and one to a term of six years' imprisonment. Of those under sentence of death one was found guilty of having caused the death of four persons by administering poison, another was convicted of having poisoned two persons, the third of having poisoned one, and the charge of murder was proved against the fourth.

A sentence of penal servitude for life was imposed upon a man convicted of having killed his mother and one of six years' imprisonment upon a prisoner against whom a verdict of murder was returned.

The series of crimes, which occurred in the Hodmezoevasarhely district, extend over some years past. The victims were in most cases married men, who were killed by their wives, the motive for the crimes being generally a desire to obtain insurance money. In some cases, however, the murderers bore other relations to their victims, and other motives prompted the murders.

The insurance companies, the testimony at the trial showed, had called the attention of the authorities to the suspiciously high rate of mortality in the district a number of times before proceedings were taken to ascertain the cause.

An alleged midwife named Marie Jager supplied the other female prisoners with the poison used by them.

Two hundred witnesses were examined in the course of the trial.

THE COAL STRIKE.

More Mines Close Down In the Northern Cambria Region.

Altoona, Pa., July 24.—All the coal mines but one in the northern Cambria region, which includes the openings along the Susquehanna extension of the Cresson and Clearfield railroad, have closed down, the men, about 2,000 in number, going out on strike. The mines affected are operated by the Sterling Coal company, Duncan & Spangler, Barnes & Tucker and the Vintondale Coal company.

The Cambria mine, operated by David E. Williams & Co. of Philadelphia, is the only one working. It develops that the miners held a meeting a few days ago and made a demand for check weighmen.

They were given to understand that their demand would yesterday be complied with, and when no check weighmen were put on the threat to strike was put into effect. A meeting of miners in this district will be held at Hastings today, when the matter of check weighmen will be further considered.

The failure of the operators to comply with the law in this respect will furnish a reason for calling out all the men. The Altoona operators as well as those in the neighborhood of South Fork offer no objection to check weighmen and will put them on as soon as requested by the miners to do so. They were discontinued by the miners and not by the operators.

A Mysterious Case.

Middletown, N. Y., July 24.—Henry Vendewater, aged 30, a prosperous farmer, was engaged in chopping wood near Franklin square, Monday. Later he suddenly staggered into the house and holding his head ejaculated, "Yellow jackets!" Rapidly he sank into unconsciousness, in which condition he remains at the present time. No swellings are reported, and five doctors who have examined the case are mystified. His jaws are locked, and food and medicine are administered after prying the jaws open.

Triple Crime of a Peddler.

Chicago, July 24.—Dewitt Compton, a peddler, who has lived unhappily with his wife, attempted to shoot her. His revolver would not work, and he pounded her on the head with the butt of the weapon. He then put a handkerchief around his baby's neck and twisted it until life was extinct. Then he cut his own throat with a razor. He and his wife will recover.

COMPANY CENSURED.

Verdict In the Melzingah Reservoir Disaster.

THE JURY OUT ONLY A SHORT TIME.

Said That the Dam Was In a Dangerous and Unsafe Condition — Blamed Also For Not Providing Competent Watchmen.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 24.—The jury which has been investigating the flood caused by the bursting of the Melzingah dams and which caused the death of seven people has finished the inquest at Matteawan and returned to Coroner Bevier a verdict holding the Matteawan and Fishkill Water company responsible for the disaster. When the jury met, the stenographer's minutes of the testimony taken at the previous hearings was given to the foreman.

The jury deliberated for two hours behind closed doors, there being considerable difference of opinion among them. Some of the jurors wanted to hold the officers of the company for criminal negligence, but others would not agree to that proposition.

The jury finally compromised on the following verdict, which all of the jurors signed:

"We find that Mrs. John Conroy, Mrs. Mary Ferry, William Ferry, John Sruka, Pholomena Deluka and Julia Conroy came to their death in the flood in Melzingah brook, town of Fishkill, county of Dutchess, on the morning of July 14.

Cause of the Flood.

"The cause of the flood was the breaking of the dams of the Fishkill and Matteawan Water company, which were situated on said brook near the top of the mountain and used to supply the villages of Matteawan and Fishkill Landing in said town and county; that from the evidence produced to this said jury, we are of the opinion that said Fishkill and Matteawan Water company were in a large measure responsible insomuch as they maintained and used dams that were in a dangerous and unsafe condition at the time of the accident by reason of there not being sufficient overflow or spillway to carry off the surplus water at the time of freshets or heavy rainfalls such as prevailed on July 12, 13 and 14 last.

"We also censure the said water company for not providing a competent watchman for said dams, especially in the time of high water, to prevent, if possible, any accidents, or in case of any danger to notify the people living in the valley below of any impending danger."

As the jury did not hold the officers of the company for criminal negligence, it is thought that the grand jury will take no action against the officers of the company. The company has been sued, however, in civil proceedings by Frank Timoney, whose brickyard was ruined by the flood and by the heirs at law of some of the victims.

New Issue of Notes and Certificates.

Washington, July 24.—Assistant Secretary Vanderlip has authorized the director of the bureau of engraving and printing to print and deliver to the office of the secretary United States notes, silver notes and silver certificates to the amount of $104,000,000. A large proportion of these notes will be in small denominations—ones, twos, fives and tens—and the supply is expected to be sufficient for the needs of the treasury for a period of about three months, meeting the usual large demand for small bills required in the movement of crops. The department anticipates, in view of the abundant crops and the foreign demand, an unusually large and early call for small bills.

Germany and Hawaii.

London, July 24.—The Paris correspondent of The Daily Mail says that Germany protested to the United States against the annexation of Hawaii by the latter country. Germany, the correspondent says, desired a triple control of the islands by America, Great Britain and herself. Chagrined at the result of her protest, Germany sounded Japan, but the latter declined to be a party to any concerted action, believing that the United States would respect the rights of Japanese emigrants in Hawaii.

Tramps Seize a Train.

Omaha, July 24.—When the first north bound freight train on the Omaha road reached Tekamah, it was immediately taken possession of by the tramps congregated there. The crew undertook to eject the hoboes, but could not succeed. The train has been held there. Another freight train and a mail train are standing on the main line, waiting for the captured train to move. On the mail train is a force of United States deputies to prevent any interference with the mails.

The Schoolship St. Marys.

New York, July 24.—A cablegram has been received from Lieutenant Commander Reeder by Commissioner A. P. Montant, chairman of the executive committee of the Nautical school board of education, stating that the schoolship St. Marys has arrived at Horta, Azores, and that all on board were well. The St. Marys sailed from New London, Conn., June 30, and this is the first point touched.

The Panama Canal Scandal.

Paris, July 24.—Le Gaulois says that the forthcoming report of M. Poitevin, the examining magistrate in the Panama scandal, recommends the prosecution of former Deputies Hurard, Sarlat, Planteau, Saint Martin, Gaillard, Richard and Rigaud, with Deputies Antide, Boyer, Alfred Naquet and Henri Maret and Senator Levret.

Cut In Wages.

Salem, Mass., July 24.—A cut of 10 per cent has been made in the wages of the operatives at the shoe manufactory of Hefferman & Co. The condition of business and the shoe market is assigned as the cause of the reduction, and the employees are disposed to accept the rates offered for the present.

Want Damages For Canal Leak.

Albany, July 24.—The Trio company of Waterford has filed a claim against the state for $751.70 for damage to property caused since Sept. 1, 1894, by wa-

GOSSIP OF THE CYCLERS.

The Popular Exercise Provides Incidents and Expressions That are of Especial Moment When Wheeling is the Rage.

Peter Seader, of the borough, has purchased a wheel and has learned to ride.

S. S. Swackhamer, of Mountain avenue, has just purchased a new wheel.

Those who have enjoyed little experiences with road hogs can more fully appreciate one of the advantages of being a member of the L. A. W. That organization will prosecute any of those characters, without expense to the member, who find it convenient to run down a member of the league or deprive him of his rights on the road.

While the last race meet of the Crescent Wheelmen furnished good sport, it was a decided failure financially. The people of Plainfield, on whom the wheelmen depended for their support, were not there and the meet suffered in consequence. While there has been some talk of holding a circuit race meet in this city in the fall, it is not likely that the people of Plainfield will have another chance to see fast riding on the oval for the wheelmen are very charry about going to any more expense unless they see a clear road to victory financially.

This is just the season when many of the wheelmen of the country start forth on a bicycle tour over the roads of New York, New Jersey, and the neighboring States. The roads are in as good condition as they will be and prolonged rain storms are not of frequent occurence during July and August, although there has been several days of continued bad weather, which is out of the ordinary, however. While a wheeling trip offers pleasures that no other kind of trip can give, it is by no means an expensive way of spending a vacation, and the young man with a small income will find that he can have more real enjoyment for the amount of money he invests than in any other way.

The following circular letter has been issued to wheelmen and others, urging active effort to save Westfield avenue:

To the wheelmen of Elizabeth and other citizens interested in the preservation of Westfield avenue as a county road as originally intended when made:

You are no doubt aware of the fact that the Westfield and Elizabeth Electric Street Railway Company has applied to the Council of Elizabeth for a franchise to build and operate a trolley line in the city of Elizabeth, a part of the route specified including Westfield avenue, from a point between Chilton and Orchard streets, to the city line, North avenue, a distance of about one half a mile.

At a public hearing before the city council on July 7 I entered a protest, as representing the League of American Wheelmen, against them granting a franchise for that portion of the route that takes in Westfield avenue. The portion of Westfield avenue asked for seems but a small part to protest against, but if this franchise is granted it will be the entering wedge to secure the control of the entire county road from Plainfield to Elizabeth, as it would have the tendency to remove that part of the strong opposition to the trolley system on this avenue which now exists among the Union county freeholders, as a public meeting held May 26 in Union township demonstrated. At this hearing the counsel for the company said they had petitions from 50 or more people in each councilman's district, showing the people wanted it. I am confident that there are hundreds in these various districts who want Westfield avenue to remain as it now is, and not be destroyed by a trolley system.

At an adjourned meeting this application of the trolley company was referred to the committee on streets and parks, composed of Councilmen Samuel J. Berry, James Brady and George L. Ford. I would most respectfully ask that you write or call upon these gentlemen, and also to get your friends to do the same with the councilmen of their respective districts, bringing all the influence you can to bear, urging these gentlemen not to grant a franchise to any trolley company that will destroy this county road, which has the reputation of being the finest in the State, and is known of far and near, being visited by tourists from all parts of the United States, and traveled over by thousands of people daily.

Yours fraternally,
Robert Gentle.

AROUND THE BASES.

There promises to be the old rivalry between the nine from Plainfield and Somerville as in the days of old. Those that saw the game Saturday feel that if the Crescent's are given another chance they will do even better. Manager Mumford is therefore anxious to arrange another series of games with the Somerset's, for he feels that there will be nothing that would please the local cranks better. The Somerset's are not anxious to play, the last game perhaps being too near to defeat to suit their nerves, but it is to be hoped that they will show the right spirit and arrange the series of games—Plainfield Press.

The truth of the matter is that the Somerset's wanted to arrange a series of games with the Crescent's, but the Crescent's manager said he had his dates all filled. Since the last game, however, the latter has written that he thinks he can squeeze in a game or so before the season closes.—Somerset Democrat.

A TERRIFIC RAIN STORM.

just been erected on the site of St. Monica's church, destroyed by fire last winter, narrowly escaped the fate of its predecessor during the storm. An electric light switchboard was burned out by lightning and the current set fire to the sacristy. Father Allen happened to be in the room and extinguished the blaze with a bucket of water.

The county road between Westfield and Fanwood was submerged by water for nearly a quarter of a mile, and bicyclists found it impossible to cross the flooded place upon their wheels.

In Westfield a number of streets were submerged by water. The tunnel at the Central Railroad station was flooded to the depth of about six inches, making it wellnigh impossible for passengers to get from one station to the other. On Broad street near the railroad crossing the macadam pavement was undermined by the water, and early this morning a portion of the street caved in under a heavy four-horse truck. The vehicle sank deeply and remained in the cave-in for nearly three hours before it was found possible to remove it.

The lightning burned out a number of the electric lights on South Second street and that part of the West End was left in darkness during the early part of the evening until the damage could be repaired.

A large tree on Rockview avenue, near the residence of T. B. Penton, was struck by lightning and torn and twisted.

A pole belonging to the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, near Lincoln, was splintered by lightning during the storm.

Lightning struck the roof of the Potter Press Works yesterday afternoon. The lightning ran along half the length of the roof, loosening many of the joints, but doing comparatively little damage. Several of the men working in the shop felt the shock slightly. The fire was thrown out of one the forges in the machine shop.

The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company suffered but little from the storm, thanks to the adoption of an improved kind of fuse in the switchboard. The Hayes Head fuses were put in only a short time ago and proved very successful, not over six lines being burned out, instead of 150 as formerly. A number of the wires became crossed as a result of the high wind, but the trouble was soon remedied.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Alfred Thorn and family, of Craig place, left this morning for Asbury Park, where they will remain for awhile.

Theodore Leurssen, of Washingtonville, has made up his mind to go to Alaska and search for gold. He will probably not leave before next March.

Miss Florence Abbott, of Central avenue, left the city this morning for Bridgeport, Conn., and from there she will go to the mountains to spend her summer outing.

She was reading in a low, thrilling voice: "When the packing begins in earnest, it seems as though there could be no spot on the earth's surface unshaken." He roused himself from a somnolent attitude in an easy chair. "Who wrote that, Maria? He's been through it, whoever he is. I wonder who he married." "Why, you great stupid," said she, "it's Nansen writing about the ice."—Household words.

RAISING SILK WORMS.

And How the Industry is Carried on by Among the Mountains of Lebanon.

Harry Fenn, the artist, has written a paper entitled "Silk and Cedars" for the St. Nicholas, describing his visit to the famous mountains of Lebanon. Concerning the silk industry, which plays such an important part in the lives of the natives, Mr. Fenn says "As the time approaches for the silk worm to hatch out of the egg, the family move out of the house and camp under the trees, giving up the entire establishment to the worms, after having placed the eggs on shelves made of a reed-like bamboo. At first the young worms are fed on finely chopped leaves, but as they grow larger the leaves need only be broken in two. The people have to feed and watch the worms night and day, or they wander in search of food and be lost; and in the silence of the night the sound of the worms feeding is like a gently falling rain.

The worms fast three or four times during this period, and about twenty four hours is the length of each fast. A curious feature about their fast is their posture; they assume the attitude of a cobra snake about to strike, and remain rigidly fixed in that position for the entire period. When they are ready to spin small branches are placed on the shelves, and as the cocoons are formed upon them the dead twigs seem to bear golden fruit. When the worms get through that part of the business the neighbors are called in—something as to an old-fashioned New England apple-paring bee. They call it "qtaf" in Arabic—that is "picking" and soon you see piles of pale-green, pure-white and golden-yellow cocoons heaped upon the floor. Later they may be spun into hanks, but usually the cocoons are sent down the mountains to Tripoli or Damascus, and after their thirty or forty days of toil they too often have to sell the produce for next to nothing, as the Chinese are always ready to undersell them.

Another curious use Mr. Silkworm is put to is to soak him in vinegar for some hours, after which he is drawn out into so-called "cat-gut" to make snell or leaders for fishhooks.

ENGLISH INFORMALITY.

The Lack of Ceremony Displayed With Guests in Country Houses.

I have known American guests arrive at an English house in the afternoon when host and hostess and all the guests were out shooting or driving. The arriving Americans thought they were being treated unceremoniously and were disposed to resent it. I asked them whether they really thought that the day's plans for a score of guests ought to have been upset in order that the host should meet them at his front door as they drove up. That was a new point of view to them. And I finally pacified them by relating what had befallen me early in my English experiences, which I will repeat here. An English friend, whom I met by chance in London on Friday, asked me to come to his house in the country from Saturday to Monday. I was engaged Saturday evening, and arranged to come Sunday morning instead. Arriving at 11 o'clock, I was shown into the drawing room, where sat a lady whom I had never seen, but whom I guessed to be my friend's wife. Of him there was no sign. We talked for a while, and then went out for a walk. My host came in just before luncheon, one or two other guests with him. The lady told me long afterward that she no more knew me than I her; that her husband had told her a man was coming down that morning, but did not say who, and she took for granted it was someone she knew; that when the servant announced me she did not hear the name, and thus it was that we spent the morning together, neither sure of the other's identity. It was the beginning of a long friendship. It is also a very good illustration of the easy way in which formalities are dispensed with in an English country home.—Harper's Monthly.

STILL IN THE LAW'S TOILS

SMEDBERG IS RELEASED ON ONE CHARGE, AND THEN RE-ARRESTED.

Burglary is Now the Accusation That is Made Against the Young Man—Recommitted to Jail to Await Hearing.

Joseph Duncan Smedberg, who was charged with stealing the Marshall diamonds, was discharged Saturday afternoon. But before Smedberg had a chance to leave the office of Justice Nash, State Detective John L. Blackford stepped forward with a warrant and arrested Smedberg on the charge of burglary. Now Smedberg has gone back to the county jail in Elizabeth to await his hearing which is to take place in this city next Monday afternoon.

The mystery connected with the robbery of the jewelry and diamonds belonging to Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Marshall, of East Fifth street, which took place on the evening of June 30th, as has already been told in The Daily Press, and the romance in which the alleged thief had played such a prominent part, combined to attract many to the hearing of Joseph Duncan Smedberg, which was to have been held before Justice Nash at his office on Park avenue, Saturday afternoon. While he has none in this city who might be called his friends, Smedberg was known to quite a number and it was curiousity that attracted many to see him. There seemed to be a general supposition that there was to be something sensational in the developments that would be made public at the hearing, but those who had any such idea were sadly disappointed.

Last Thursday morning, Smedberg was arrested by Detective Blackford while on his way to his work as draughtsman at the Scott Printing Press works. The warrant charged him with grand larceny. He was brought before Justice Nash, but refused to have anything to say until he had conferred with an attorney. He was committed to the county jail to appear last Saturday afternoon for a hearing.

The hearing was set down for 2:30 o'clock and the prisoner was to be brought to this city on the train arriving here at 2:32 o'clock. Long before that hour, a crowd began to gather at the Justice's office. There were a number of Mr. Marshall's friends who came to see the results of his attempt to bring the supposed thief to justice. The train was late and the crowd grew impatient. Then Smedberg appeared on the arm of the Detective.

Smedburg is a smooth-faced young man, apparently about twenty-five, rather good looking. He looked very pale and his eyes were sunken in his head. He looked rather nervous as he was led between the two lines of curious spectators but seemed cool enough when the hearing began. He looked around the crowd as if searching for a friendly face and his gaze frequently lingered on the pretty face of his young wife. Mrs. Smedberg arrived at the Judge's office, unescorted, before her husband did and waited his arrival in the private office of the Justice.

When the prisoner was brought, there was a lengthy conference between the young couple and their attorney, Marshall Van Winkle, of Jersey City. Then the Justice opened court in his private office while the spectators crowded around the doors and windows to watch the proceedings. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall were both present but had nothing to say to their former friends, the Smedbergs. Occasionally, Mrs. Smedberg glanced scornfully at them but that was all. She did not seem frightened by the occasion but sat beside her husband, very straight, and looked at the two lawyers most of the time.

At the start the prisoner's lawyer protested against the crowd, but the Judge refused to have the hearing a private one. Then City Judge DeMeza, who had been retained by Mr. Marshall, acted as attorney for the State and conducted the prosecution. He first moved to dismiss the charge of grand larceny. Lawyer Van Winkle wanted to know his reasons but the City Judge laughingly refused and the first of a long series of tiffs between the legal lights followed. Justice Nash dismissed the complaint, at last, and discharged the prisoner. Detective Blackford was ready with another warrant and arrested Smedberg at once on the charge of burglary. Van Winkle vigorously protested against the complaint, saying that it was not correct, but the Justice decided otherwise and held the prisoner on it. The lawyer for the defence was very careful that all his objections should be recorded in the court docket.

SLAUGHTER OF CANINES

A MAD DOG AT SPRINGFIELD CAUSES GREAT EXCITEMENT.

Chased Bicyclists and Bit Twenty-five Other Dogs That Were Killed—Furious Attack on Constabulary Executioner.

There was a wholesale slaughter of dogs at Springfield yesterday, and all on account of a visit of a mad dog the day before.

A canine belonging in that village, which is about ten miles from this city, began to act very queerly Saturday morning. The animal began to run about the streets, and before the people realized it the dog was stark mad, biting and snapping at everything in its path and groveling in the dirt, while the tell-tale froth issued from its mouth.

The cry of "mad dog" was taken up and soon the streets were cleared. Several cyclists were passing through the town at the time and the dog ran after them, but they escaped by a lively spurt. The dogs in the village did not escape so easily. Mongrel curs belonging to nobody in particular and pet dogs as well were all victims of the dreaded animal. He bit and snapped at the other dogs, injuring several.

Then the village constable started forth to put an end to the dangerous canine. The animal flew at him and before he had a chance to use his revolver the dog sprang at his shoulder and set its teeth in his coat. The shoulder and arm of the constable's coat was torn off, but luckily the teeth of the animal did not tear the flesh. Then the constable pointed his revolver at the maddened animal and fired before the brute had another chance to spring.

Yesterday, an investigation was made of all the dogs in the village to see which had been bitten on Saturday. Several valuable dogs had been acting queerly since the appearance of the animal suffering from the rabies and their owners had tied them up for safe-keeping. These and a number of others, twenty-six in all, were shot yesterday afternoon by the constable as a result of the visit of the mad one.

A LAWN FESTIVAL.

Pleasant and Successful Outdoor Event for a Good Cause.

The threatening weather last Saturday afternoon did not in the least put a damper on the lawn festival held at the home of Mrs. Ross, corner of Plainfield avenue and Eighth street, for the benefit of the Westfield Camp Fresh Air Fund. Through the kindness of Mrs. Ross and her daughters, they loaned their grounds and house for the worthy object which was in every particular a success. The affair was arranged by Jeanie Douglass, J. Florence Maclay and May Batchelor, while those assisting were Lillian Maclay, Helen Hall, Jack Pickering, Archie Douglass, Jack Douglass, Willie Douglas and Edwin Daniel.

The rooms in the house were attractively arranged with tables on which were kept fancy articles, candy, cake, etc., while ice cream was an important article for sale. The young folks carried on the affair in a most thorough business-like manner. Several older persons assisted. Those in charge desire to thank Mr. Klinsman, the baker, for his gift.

Throughout the afternoon the attendance was good and many sales were made. Considering the weather, it was decided to continue the sale this afternoon, after which it will be made known how much money was made for the fund. Those in charge are very well satisfied with the result of Saturday's efforts, but they hope that their friends will not forget the affair this afternoon.

WALKED TO HIS ARREST.

Contsable Mattox Played a Clever Trick on Winslow Carson.

Winslow Carson was arrested by Constable Mattox on the Sandford avenue bridge this morning. There has been a warrant out for Carson's arrest for some time on the complaint of F. L. C. Martin, who charged him with making way with a wheel which he had taken out on the installment plan. Mattox found the man he wanted in the borough, but suggested to him that they take a walk. When he got the man in Union county he promptly arrested him much to Carson's surprise.

He was brought before Justice Nash and committed to the county jail to await his hearing next Monday afternoon.

Vice President's Namesake Dead.

The death of Garrett A. Hobart Lowrie, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lowrie, of East Second street, occurred yesterday after a brief illnes. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock from the house. Interment will be in Evergreen cemetery.

Sylvester Beach, Bridgeton; Baptist; the Rev. Frank Smith, Somerville; Congregational, the Rev. Charles A. Savage, Orange; Reformed, the Rev. P. T. Pockman, New Brunswick; Methodist Protestant, the Rev. J. W. Trout, Elizabeth; Methodist Episcopal, the Rev. F. K. Bloom; Seventh Day Baptist, the Rev. A. E. Main, Plainfield; Church of Christ, the Rev. William Hainer, Irvington; Lutheran, the Rev. Carton Bannister, Ramseys; African Methodist, the Rev. J. W. Roundtree.

Committee conferences, a new feature, will be led by the following: Evangelistic, the Rev. F. B. Everitt, Trenton; junior, the Rev. A. W. Spooner, Camden; district secretaries, Miss Ina B. Stephens, Hackettstown; lookout, the Rev. D. W. Stultz, Bridgeton; prayer meeting, M. P. Stevens, East Orange; social, flower and calling, Miss Lottie Taylor, Newark; missionary, the Rev. Walter Brooks, Trenton; society presidents, Mrs. F. J. Collier, union officers, J. L. Connet; good literature, the Rev. F. J. Goodwin, Glen Ridge; Bible study, the Rev. Hugh B. MacCauley, Freehold.

There will be special music at each session, led by a chorus choir.

GAME LOST IN THE BOX

CRESCENTS DEFEATED BY THE DOMESTICS OF NEWARK.

Only an Exhibition Contest, However, and McLarty Was Not Allowed to Pitch for Fear of Injuring His Arm.

There came very near being no baseball game in Plainfield on Saturday afternoon, but the rain stopped and the sun came forth in time to allow the cranks to see a game after all. The diamond had been converted into a marsh by the rain and nobody could play particularly well. The Crescents were defeated by their opponents, the Domestics, of Newark, by a score of 10 to 8 after a five inning game.

The Crescents were defeated and fairly so by good batting. Rather than take the chances of injuring McLarty by having him pitch in a slippery box so that be could not play next Saturday against the strong Williamsburgh Field Club team, Manager Mumford put Hollister in the box and Mac at short in Hollister's place. Hollister does not pretend to be a pitcher any more, but after the first excitement wore off he settled down to business, and with the assistance of a good infield, held the visitors down. While waiting for Hollister to settle down, the visitors took the liberty to score ten runs in two innings, seven of which were earned. Then the Crescents fell in with the Domestics pitcher and proceeded to hammer him about while the visiting third baseman and shortstop very conveniently dropped grounders and allowed them to slide by. The Crescents made a hard struggle for it, but five innings was too short to overcome the big lead and the Domestics won by two runs.

Considering the muddy diamond, which even sawdust could but slightly improve, the Plainfield boys put up a good game. MacLarty made quite a hit at short and stopped some pretty hot liners, and altogether, played the position with great credit. A word should be said of the game that McBeth played at left field. The grass was wet and he found it hard to stand up, but scattered around after the balls in lively fashion. Twice he ran toward the diamond and just managed to get under the ball when he slipped and fell headlong. The attempts were good ones and deserve credit.

McLarty did the star batting for the home team, making a hit every time he went to the bat. Cooney continued his excellent base running and managed to steal third successfully, a difficult thing to do with Small behind the bat.

There was a total absence of kicking throughout the game that made it very enjoyable. The visitors were a very gentlemenly set and behaved themselves in a seemly manner. They coached well while the Crescents made a big improvement in that direction. MacLarty woke up at third and did some wonderful talking which livened up the audience as well as the players.

The detailed score was as follows:

The game that was played Saturday was merely an exhibition game. The game, so far as the Crescents were concerned, was postponed until September, when the Domestics will come to the city again. After the game was postponed the players agreed to play the game among themselves for their own benefit rather than go home.

West End Social Club's Outing.

The West End Social Club will take a trip by stage to Florida Grove next Sunday, and a feature of the day's amusement will be a baseball game between the Social Club's team and a nine from Prideville. The game will be called at 10 a. m.

Will Not go in the Combine.

TenEyck & Harris, the South Plainfield coal dealers, say that they are not only not members of the Coal Dealers Exchange, but that they have no intention of becoming such.

IN A CHAMBER OF FIRE.

LAMP EXPLODED WITH DANGEROUS RESULTS IN WESTFIELD.

William J. Bogert's Family Aroused by the Servant Girl's Screams, in Whose Presence the Fire Fiend Was.

A fire which endangered the life of a woman and threatened serious damage to property, occurred at the home of William J. Bogert, on Central avenue, Westfield, last night.

About 11 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Bogert were awakened by screams from the floor above. Mr. Bogert and E. H. Faulkner, a guest of the family, rushed upstairs to the cook's room from whence the screams came.

Upon opening the door they were confronted with a blinding cloud of smoke and flame. The bed and carpet were burning fiercely, and scattered about were the fragments of a glass lamp. The two men seized rugs and blankets and bravely fought the flames.

Their hands and faces were burned badly, and Mr. Bogert was cut by pieces of the broken lamp.

The bed clothing and carpet were entirely burned up and everything in the room was blackened by fire and smoke. It is probable that the lamp either exploded or was knocked from the table and broken in the girl's sleep. She was awakened by the flames about her bed, and escaped as by a miracle from being burned to death. The damage will be adjusted by the insurance companies.

NOAH RABY SEES AGAIN.

Piscataway's 125-Year-Old Poorhouse Inmate Suddenly Recovers His Sight.

There is much excitement at the Piscataway Township Poorhouse. Old Noah Raby, who celebrated the 125th anniversary of his birth on April 1st, has had his sight partially restored. About ten years ago a cataract formed in his eye, and he has been sightless ever since. Last spring an operation was performed on the eye, and now the pupil has cleared sufficiently to permit the old man to see once more.

The delight of the old man is so great that he feels sure that he will live to be 150 at least. The physicians do not think Noah's sight will last very long, but they have not told him so, and he is profuse in his expressions of graditute to them.

Noah continues to have so many visitors that Overseer Hummer has decided to limit visiting days to Saturday afternoons. Raby still tells the story of his long life, and is very positive about his being born in Gates county, N. C., on April 1st, 1772. Those who have known him all their lives are sure he is considerably over 100 years of age.

Serious Fire Averted.

An alarm of fire was sent in yesterday afternoon at 12:30 from Box 46, corner of Liberty and West Second streets, by William Classen, of Liberty street. An oil stove in the house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. George Firstbrook became unmanageable and threatened to set fire to the furniture. By the time the department arrived the fire was out and the damage was slight. The oil stove was wrecked in the attempt to extinguish the flames. The fire frightened Mrs. Firstbrook to such an exent that she fainted. It was not long, however, before she recovered.

Rev. Mr. Schenck's Vacation.

Rev. Corneilus Schenck. Ph.D., pastor of the Trinity Reformed church, of this city, and Mrs. Schenck, are at Red Bank today, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Smock. They will return tomorrow. On Thursday, they go to Mrs. Schenck's father's home near Philadelphia to spend a week or two. From there they go to Cape May and thence to the Adirondack Mountians for the balance of Mr. Schenck's six weeks' vacation, which commences today.

Keep Your Thoughts to Yourself.

The next man that wants to throw the Health Inspector into the sewer will do well to keep his thoughts to himself hereafter, unless he wants to visit the county jail. James Lane, who was charged with doing so, came before the City Judge this morning for sentence. Judge DeMeza decided that he was guilty but, after a long lecture, suspended sentence with a warning.

Built at Private Expense.

For the information and peace of mind of 'An Old Resident," former Councilman Ginna says that the two four foot crosswalks that were laid near his residence on Watchung avenue were put there at his own expense and not at the cost of the city.

Queen City Lodge to Install Officers.

W. M. Stamets, D. D., G. M. and staff of Westfield, will be present at the meeting of Queen City Lodge No. 226, I. O. O. F., tonight and the newly elected officers will be installed.

USED HOE HANDLE ON COP

DISASTRIOUS EFFECT OF JERSEY LIGHTNING ON JAMES CLEARAY.

Attempting to Clean Out the West End When Patrolman Mattox Arrested Him After a Tussel—Got Sixty Days in Jail.

James Clearay is a hod-carrier by profession and lives on South Second street, near Clinton avenue. Martin Gegan, an old and faithful citizen, lives near by. All went well until yesterday when Clearay sampled some "Jersey lightning." The fumes floated to his brain and he was not exactly accountable for what hapdened afterwards.

Clearay went over and told Gegan that he had a nuisance in his back yard, and that he, Clearay, was going to complain to the Board of Health. Clearay grew worse as the afternoon went by and his language kept pace with his temper. He at last decided that it was time to kill Gegan, so the latter relates, and picked up a hoe handle with that intent. They dashed about the yard and Gegan fled for his life while his neighbor flourished his hoe in the rear.

Unlike real life, Patrolman Mattox put in an appearance at an opportune moment.

"What do you want?" demanded the intoxicated man of the officer. "You want this," and he began to use his hoe handle on the top of the officer's cranium. He knocked Mattox down and the officer jumped up again and returned the compliment. At last Mattox put up the handcuffs on his prisoner and started on a march to the jail.

Clearay swore at everybody and everything with great ease and wriggled somewhat in the grasp of the officer.

This morning Cleary came up for trial. Besides his victim and the officer, the witnesses against him were Patrick Ward and Prof. Jones. Ward told what he had seen and then explained that he was going to leave for the "ould countree" on Saturday and assured the Judge he would have a good time if he would only come along. As the Judge couldn't do that he promised him a blackthorn.

Prof. Walter Jones, colored, is a professor of wood carving. "Can't be beat in this city, sah," he explained. He had seen the "conjunction," he said, while sitting on the piazza with his girl.

Cleary declared everybody was lying, the Judge included, and claimed to be the victim of a put-up job. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and go to jail for 60 days.

EMPLOYERS CAME TO TERMS.

Strike at the Berkley Heights Brickyard is Not Over, However.

There promises to be an amicable settlement of the differences between the strikers at the Berkley Heights brick yard and their former employers. Saturday, Judge Newcorn, who was retained by a number of the strikers as their legal representative, made a visit to the brickyard and called on the proprietors. They agreed to give security for the payment of the wages due their employes and also agreed to take back all the men except two of the ringleaders in the strike. Whether those terms will suit the men remains to be seen. They have not returned to work as yet.

Cause of Fire Unknown.

Spontaneous combustion or a combination of rats and matches caused a small fire at the residence of Fred C. Adams, of 604 Washington street, this morning. The fire originated in a closet on the third floor and set fire to the bedding in a bed room on that floor. Russell Adams sent in an alarm from box 25, at 11:37 o'clock. The family tried to extinguish the flames with pails of water from the tank but Driver Feiring, of the chemical engine, arrived before the blaze was out and soon extinguished it with a hand extinguisher. The contents of the room was ruined. The loss was $75, which was covered by insurance.

Birthday Party.

Harry Rottberg celebrated his birthday last evening by entertaining a number of his young friends at his home at 505 West Third street. The evening was spent in playing games. Refreshments were served. Those present were: Rose, Lillie, Samuel and Isaac Rottberg, Max, Samuel and Gustav Hecht, Meyer, Jacob and Fannie Moledezky, Issie Kinsman, Philip Litchentritt.

No Eight Hour Day.

A member of one of the firms employing machinists in this city stated to a Press reporter that they had no intention of conceding eight hours a day to their men, the statements of a labor leader to the contrary.

Running Full Time.

The Scott Printing Press works are now running full time and are giving full pay to all the force of men.

NEW YORK MARKETS

Efforts of Other Cities to Keep Buyers Away Frustrated.

SPECIAL TICKETS WILL BE SOLD.

Any Merchant In Good Standing May Join the Merchants' Association, Whose Members Only Can Obtain Reduced Rates.

New York, July 26.—The efforts of the merchants of St. Louis, Chicago and other cities to prevent the buyers in their respective neighborhoods from visiting New York have not met with the success those unwilling to compete with this city on equal terms hoped for. Dates have been fixed for the sale of special tickets throughout the most important commercial regions of the United States to members of the Merchants' association who desire to take advantage of the reduced rate.

The Joint Traffic association, from all points within its territory, will sell these tickets from Aug. 7 to Aug. 10, inclusive, and from Aug. 27 to Aug. 30, inclusive, good for 30 days.

The railroads in the Trunk Line association will sell the merchants' tickets from Sept. 1 to 4, inclusive, and from Sept. 10 to 14, inclusive, also good for 30 days.

Only members of the Merchants' association are entitled to these tickets. Any merchant in good standing who lives outside the limits of New York and Brooklyn may join without cost by sending his name for membership to the association headquarters.

Members will pay the full rate of fare for coming to New York. Upon reaching the city they will go to the New York Life building and obtain a certificate countersigned by the association. This certificate, presented at the office of the railroad upon which the merchant came to New York, will entitle him to a reduction, which will make the cost of the journey one and one-third fare for the round trip. The tickets may be used by the immediate families and buyers of members.

Territory of the Association.

The territory of the Joint Traffic association extends from St. Louis and Chicago on the west south to the Ohio river and eastward to the points of connection with the lines in the Trunk line territory, which are at Buffalo and Pittsburg, with the line running through the intermediate terminal points of Salamanca, Wheeling and Parkersburg.

Persons living in the territory of the Western Traffic and Southwestern Traffic associations, which are the points west of Chicago and St. Louis, and generally west of the Mississippi to the southward to the gulf, who are members of the association and who desire to come to New York for the purpose of making their purchases, will find tickets on sale at Chicago and St. Louis between the dates named for Joint Traffic territory.

The territory under the jurisdiction of the Trunk Line association extends eastward to the New England states, north of the line of the Ohio. Tickets sold in its territory will give the holder the privilege of stopping over in Philadelphia and Baltimore.

The Merchants' association has refected the proposition of the Southeastern Traffic association to run open excursions to New York, because it has guaranteed that no tickets issued to its members shall be used unlawfully or placed in the hands of scalpers. It could not be responsible for tickets sold to persons not members.

Killed by a Peculiar Accident.

Chester, Pa., July 26.—J. B. Campbell, ex-city clerk of Chester, was killed by a most peculiar accident. He was one of a party standing on the government pier awaiting the Wilmington (Del.) passenger steamboat. A steam tug which was lying at the pier with a hawser attached to a post began to move, and the hawser, becoming taut, slipped over the top of the post and whirling through the air caught Campbell under the chin. The rope encircled itself tightly about his neck, lifted the unfortunate man ten feet in the air and then dropped him to the pier. His neck was broken, and he was found to be dead when the horror stricken spectators ran to assist him.

Kansas' Prohibitory Law.

Topeka, July 26.—Renewed activity in the effort to enforce the prohibitory law is being manifested throughout the state. Temperance people have become alarmed over the boldness of the jointists and are stirring up the officials to suppress the violators. Judge Guthrie, who has been keeping close watch on the temperance situation in the state, says that the wave of prohibitory law enforcement is very likely to increase until the running of saloons, except possibly in the large cities, will become a hazardous undertaking.

Suicide In Brooklyn.

New York, July 26.—Patrolman Conlin found a man about 25 years of age dead on Eastern parkway, near Brooklyn avenue, Brooklyn. A bottle which contained carbolic acid found near by told a story of self destruction, while in one of the pockets was discovered a letter addressed to Frederick G. Davidson of Brooklyn, in which he stated that he had been turned out of his house and had no money or place to go and that he was writing in the dark, where he hoped soon to go.

Defaulting County Clerk Arrested.

Knoxville, July 26.—W. H. Stine, the defaulting county clerk of Murray county, Minn., was arrested here. Stine acknowledges his guilt, but says his bondsmen have about paid up his shortage. Stine was prominent in politics and was assistant clerk in the recent Minnesota legislature.

Car Inspector Run Over.

Norwich, N. Y., July 26.—A milk train on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad ran over and killed Car Inspector Michael Pendergast in this village. Pendergast was going south on his handcar, having been ordered to Brisbin to repair an engine.

Suicide of a Broker.

Boston, July 26.—Yesterday afternoon George Troffitor, a thread commission broker, 27 years old, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head in his

STRIKE CONFERENCE.

Eugene V. Debs the First Leader to Arrive at Wheeling.

WILL CONSIDER HOW TO PROCEED.

May Call Upon Firemen, Brakemen and Conductors to Refuse to Haul West Virginia Coal—Engineers Will Not Join the Movement.

Wheeling, July 26.—Eugene V. Debs will be the first of the labor leaders to arrive in Wheeling to attend the conference of executive officers of the various labor organizations of the country called by President Ratchford of the Miners' union to consider ways and means to bring success to the coal strike.

He comes from Fairmont this afternoon and will be met by a committee on reception appointed by the Ohio Valley Trades and Labor assembly. Advices received by local labor leaders are that nearly all of the executive officials of the national labor organizations will come to Wheeling for tomorrow's conference.

As to the outcome of the conference, there is much uncertainty, though it is claimed that the result will be the calling upon the firemen, brakemen and conductors to refuse to haul trains carrying West Virginia coal. There is no hope of ability to have the railroad engineers join in this movement. In fact, the Brotherhood of Engineers will not be represented in the conference.

Three Meetings at Fairmont.

Fairmont, W. Va., July 26.—Debs held three good meetings at the various mines yesterday and is confident that the men will be gotten out, although he will not say he expects the move immediately. The general impression is that if the break is not made today it will not be made at all. It is hard to tell what the men will do when the time comes. The operators have succeeded in keeping many of them from the meetings, and it looks as easy to keep them in the mines. Mahon has left for Clarksburg, where he and Rea addressed a good meeting.

All the mines are guarded by deputies, and no men are allowed on the company's grounds, and rumors of all kinds are afloat, but no trouble is expected. Today will certainly settle the strike one way or the other, so far as this region is concerned.

Views of a Leading Labor Man.

Pittsburg, Kan., July 26.—A leading labor man who has been national president of one of the greatest labor organizations in the United States said:

"The operators must not think they can smuggle coal out of Kansas to go into strike territory. It is one of the doctrines of organized labor that whenever one set of men commence to do work that is to the injury of organized labor the work becomes scab work. The miners of southern Kansas are union men. As long as they mine coal for Kansas and territory which they have been accustomed to supply they are occupying neutral ground and are not interfering. When they mine coal to be used in territory usually supplied by miners who are striking, they become in the eyes of organized labor what we call scabs.

"It makes no difference if the Burlington coal which was transferred in Kansas City a few days ago was for the use of the Burlington or to be furnished to other railroads. If it is used by the Burlington in territory that has been supplied from points in Illinois where there is a strike, the coal is nonunion coal as soon as it gets into strike territory."

Delegates Sent to Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Kan., July 26.—The mine operators at yesterday's conference claimed they had unmistakable evidence that the Illinois strikers had sent about 14 delegates here to agitate a strike in all the important mines. The delegates came quietly and dealt with the delegates selected by the several mines to the convention only.

The strong argument used with the Kansas miners was that Kansas holds the key to the situation westward; that if Kansas went out the railroads would bring the operators to time.

Operators say that it will make no difference whether Kansas, with only 10,000 miners, goes out or stays in, but the miners see in the extra work and storing of coal that goes on a desire on the part of operators to fortify themselves against a strike. They are also suspicious that coal from Kansas mines is to be smuggled into strike territory.

Purchase of a Smelting Company's Plant.

Omaha, July 26.—The Omaha Grant Smelting company has announced that it has completed the purchase of the Pilot Boy Smelting company's plant at Kootenay Bay, British Columbia. President Nash says this move is necessitated by the high rate imposed on lead ore in the new tariff bill. In a year the Omaha Grant company has paid $60,000 in import duties on ore from Kootenay mines, but cannot afford to import ore at the new tariff rate.

Rev. Dr. Dana Dead.

Brooklyn, July 26.—Rev. Dr. Malcom McGregor Dana died at his home yesterday. He had been ill for a long time of a complication of ailments, and his death had been hourly expected for several weeks past. Malcom McGregor Dana was born in Brooklyn about 60 years ago. He was graduated from Amherst college in 1859 and from Union Theological seminary in 1863, beginning his ministerial career in Winston, Conn.

—On Friday evening of this week a preparatory service will be held at the First Baptist church.

Something to Know.
It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

—The work of repainting the ambulance has been finished and it has been returned to Robert's livery stable.

The Grandest Remedy.
Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Morrison, of this city, is registered at the West End Hotel, Asbury Park.

Counselor Wm. K. McClure has returned from his trip through the south.

Mrs. Latourett and daughter, of the borough, are visiting relatives at White House.

Mrs. Volkman, of Richmond street, is very much improved from the recent injury to her foot, and hopes to be out soon.

Reasons Why Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is the Best.

1. Because it affords almost instant relief in case of pain in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus.
2. Because it is the only remedy that never fails in the most severe cases of dysentery and diarrhoea.
3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhoea.
4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent bilious colic.
5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemical dysentery.
6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
8. Because it produces no bad results.
9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.
10. Because it has saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world.

The 25 and 50c sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park & North Aves.

"Last summer one of our grandchildren was sick with a severe bowel trouble," says Mrs. E. G. Gregory, of Frederickstown, Mo. "Our doctor's remedy had failed, then we tried Chamberlains Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which gave very speedy relief." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park & North Aves.

Mrs. Peck, of West Front street, is enjoying a visit with friends in Connecticut.

You may hunt the world over and you will not find another medicine equal to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. It is pleasant, safe and reliable. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park & North Aves.

Cyrus Moore, of New street, who has been stopping at Chester for his health, has returned much improved.

Mr. C. L. Hasbrouck, a druggist at Mendon, Mich., says all of the good testimonials that have been published by the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy could be duplicated in that town. For sale By T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park and North Aves.

SUMMER RESORT FIRE

The Springs House at Richfield Springs Destroyed.

ALL THE GUESTS MADE THEIR ESCAPE

Mayor Strong of New York Was Among the Boarders, and He Got Out "Without Losing a Toothpick"—Some Escapes of the People.

Utica, N. Y., July 26.—The Springs House at Richfield Springs has been almost completely destroyed by fire, which caught in the laundry. There were 160 guests in the house, 70 of them from New York and Philadelphia and 100 employees of the hotel. Every person in the building, so far as known, escaped. The night before the hotel was the scene of one of the season's most brilliant hops, which broke up at midnight. An hour later the cry of fire was heard. The flames progressed slowly through the various parts of the hotel, and everybody had ample time to get out, except the employees, who occupied quarters in the vicinity of the laundry.

Among the guests were Dr. Joseph L. Anderson, Washington; Mrs. Richard Arnold, W. K. Baxter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Bosworth, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Bryant, Miss Florence Bryant, George W. Blake, New York; Mrs. E. L. Beale and family, Philadelphia; Mrs. H. M. Brown and daughter, Providence; ex-Consul General P. A. Collins, Boston; Judge and Mrs. Henry M. Clinton, William Russell Case, Dr and Mrs. W. H. Crawford, New York; Mrs. A. Coates, Miss Coates, Philadelphia; Mrs. Bambridge S. Clark, Tarrytown; Mrs. J. M. Durand, Mr. and Mrs L. Duham, Henry Wildred, Mr. and Mrs. E. Holmes, Thomas Hiller, Colonel and Mrs. Lawrence Kip, Mrs. John Kelly, Mayor and Mrs. William L. Strong, New York.

The Mayor Takes His Time.

Mayor Strong was in the part of the hotel that was last burned. The fire reached his quarters three hours after it started. He took his time in dressing and got out, as he afterward said "without losing a toothpick."

As usual in such cases many of the guests saved their less valuable possessions, carrying out hand boxes and leaving their money and jewelry behind. Rev. George Reynolds went through the hastily vacated rooms and literally filled his pockets with money, watches, diamonds and jewelry of all kinds. Frank Vanderveer found 11 pocketbooks that had been left behind by their owners. They found claimants for most of the property.

Colonels Magruder and Kip were early alarmed and were among the first to go down, leaving property that was afterward restored to them from the immense piles of articles thrown together in the street.

Judge Clinton felt at no time the need of haste. Mrs. Clinton gathered her diamonds and went out coolly. John D. McCord of Philadelphia, an aged man, was awakened by pounding on his door and cries of fire in the corridor. He put on his wooden leg and clothing and went down the elevator. Ex-Consul General Collins saved nearly all his effects. Dr. Bryant disclaims anything like a thrilling experience. He dressed and gained the outside without incident.

But few will leave Richfield on account of the fire. It is probable that T. R. Proctor, the proprietor of the hotel, will replace the burned structure with brick buildings. The loss is estimated at $200,000; insurance $73,000.

After a Murder Suspect.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 26.—The police who are working on the Nichols murder case at Bridgeport attach great importance to the belief of the Dutchess county authorities that one of the murderers was Leonard Mason, the erstwhile leader of a gang in this county. Detective Meehan of the Pinkerton agency has been here looking up Mason's record. He procured a photograph of the desperado and went from here to Sing Sing prison to interview Mason's former pal, Andy McCabe, who is serving 10 years there. The police here have been asked by New York headquarters, Bridgeport and other places for full descriptions of Mason.

Fired Into a Crowd of Boys.

Chicago, July 26.—James O'Donnell, who lives the life of a recluse, shot into a crowd of small boys who were playing ball near his home. Thomas Good, aged 12, and Frank Spears, aged 8, colored, were badly wounded. Spears will probably die. As soon as the shooting became known an angry mob of neighbors surrounded O'Donnell's home, where he had hidden. The timely arrival of a patrol wagon saved his life, but by a narrow margin, as the mob surrounded the wagon, and the officers were forced to fight to protect their prisoner. O'Donnell said the boys annoyed him with their noise.

The Consular Fee System.

Washington, July 24.—It is said at the state department that considerable misapprehension exists as to the effect of the changes made in the consular regulations, so far as they affect the fees collected by these officers. The revision will touch both the official and the unofficial fees, but it is said that in no case will the fees on invoices in Great Britain be reimposed, as has been alleged.

Buffalonians Tired of Living.

Buffalo, July 26.—Mary Bartholomew, poor, paralyzed and in constant ill health, committed suicide with poison. James Anderson, a Swede, from brooding over the loss of a sum of money, became temporarily insane and tried to cut his throat with a butcher knife. He is yet alive, but not likely to recover.

Taken With Cramps and Drowned.

Sharon, Mass., July 26.—While bathing in Wollofolpoag pond Owen Finnegan, a farm laborer, was drowned within 50 feet of the shore. He was an expert swimmer, but was taken with cramps.

Arrival of a Consul.

New York, July 26.—Among the passengers who have arrived per steamer Orinoco from Bermuda, was Marshall Hanger, United States consul at Bermuda.

Weather Predictions.

Partly cloudy weather, with variable winds.

regulations to prevent collisions upon certain harbors, rivers and inland waters of the United States and the bill authorizing the president to suspend discriminating duties on foreign vessels and commerce.

Senate's Miscellaneous Business.

The senate not being confined as to the scope of its legislation dealt with a number of important subjects both in and out of executive session. One of these, which attracted worldwide attention, was the general arbitration treaty with Great Britain. After exhaustive consideration, despite the great pressure brought to bear upon the senate by religious and commercial bodies throughout the country, the senate rejected the treaty. The Hawaiian treaty of annexation, negotiated by President McKinley, was still unacted upon when congress adjourned. In open session, after much debate, the Senate passed the Cuban belligerency resolution, a bankruptcy bill, including both voluntary and involuntary features, and the "free homes bill." But none of those important questions received consideration in the house.

The following minor bills and joint resolutions became laws, managing to escape objection from any member: Authorizing the secretary of war to receive for instruction at the Military academy at West Point Carlos Gutierrez of Salvador; to amend an act entitled "An act to provide for the entry of lands in Greer county, O. T., to give preference rights to settlers and other purposes," approved Jan. 18; reappropriating $10,000 not expended for the relief of the Mississippi river flood sufferers for the flood sufferers at El Paso, Tex.; authorizing foreign exhibitors at the Transmississippi and International exposition, to be held in the city of Omaha during the year 1898, to bring to the United States foreign laborers from their countries for the purpose of preparing for and making exhibits; to provide for the immediate repair of drydock No. 3 at the New York navy yard; making appropriation for the improvement of the Mississippi river from the head of the passes to the mouth of the Ohio river and to supply deficiencies in appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 3, and three bills authorizing the construction of bridges across Pearl river, Miss., the St. Louis river between Minnesota and Wisconsin and across Clinch river, Tenn.

RIVERA CONVALESCENT.

Havana, July 26.—General Ruis Rivera, the insurgent leader who succeeded Antonio Maceo in Pinar del Rio and who, with his chief of staff, Colonel Bacallao, was captured in March last after having been sediously wounded has recovered from the effects of his wounds and the illness from which he suffered.

He has been removed from the hospital to the Cabanas fortress. General Rivera, according to the officials, expresses himself as well satisfied with the treatment he received while in the hospital. It was found not to be necessary to perform an operation for the removal of the tumor from which General Rivera suffered.

AGED WOMAN TORTURED.

Masked Robbers Compel Her to Give Them $1,500.

Wheeling, July 24.—News has just reached here of the torture and robbery by six masked men on Tuesday night of Mrs. Shreve, 60 years old, who lived alone near Smithfield, in the Sistersville oil region. The men tied the old lady up by the thumbs, beat her cruelly with switches and burned her feet with candles. She then told them where $1,500 was secreted. The robbers secured the money and went.

Mrs. Shreve had $5,000 in gold hidden in another part of the house which the men failed to get. The woman may not recover from the effects of her injuries.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Clarence A. Seward, president of the Union club of New York, died at Geneva, N. Y.

Jim Sellers, a negro murderer, was taken from the county jail at Pittsboro, Calhoun county, Miss., and shot to death by a mob.

Elizabeth Sphilter died in the poorhouse at Crown Point, Ind., aged 99 years. She was undoubtedly the oldest woman in northern Indiana.

Work has completely suspended at Barcelona, Spain, owing to strikes and disturbances arising from political disputes between masters and men.

The Grade sugar plant at Peoria, Ills., has been destroyed by fire. The total loss is estimated at $500,000. The total insurance carried was $460,000.

Among the nominations which failed of confirmation by the senate was that of Terence V. Powderly of Pennsylvania to be commissioner of immigration.

FARING PRETTY WELL.

The Press has been importuned to agitate the matter of increased pay for the members of the city police force, but we cannot see but what the policemen are faring pretty well under the present pay roll, and we know that the finances of the city do not warrant an increase in that direction. Assuredly, the police force is a most creditable one in appearance, and equally as efficient in service as they are in looks. As a matter of fact, we don't think that there is another town in New Jersey that can lay claim to as handsome a lot of men or a braver phalanx of blue coats than it is the honor of Plainfield to maintain. Whether at the head of a brilliant pageant as an escort or pursuing a fugitive from justice, the Plainfield copper is equal to his duty in all respects. But taking all things in consideration we think that he should be satisfied with this rate of compensation for the present, at least.

YANKEE PERSEVERANCE.

The indomitable will of Messrs French and Vail, and those associated with them, in the efforts to secure the right of way for an electric railway up the side of the mountain to Mountain Park Inn, is but another evidence of the perseverance that marks the life of the Yankee and has made this country what it is today. The building of the trolley line through this rugged and wooded territory to the point where one can gaze into beautiful and prosperous valleys on either side, the consummation of which will open up and develop more rapidly the land that some day will be a mecca to which the people of the metropolitan district will journey for a breath of fresh and invigorating air, is an enterprise and improvement of sufficient public moment for every Plainfielder to lend a word of commendation.

HUSBAND NOW IN COURT.

Michael Watson Has the Tables Turned By His Wife.

Chapter two in the matrimonial troubles in the Watson family was enacted yesterday. Michael Watson and Lawrence Watson, the husband and brother-in-law of Mrs. Annie Watson, who figured in the city court, Saturday morning, were arrested yesterday on her complaint, charged with beating her and being generally disorderly. They appeared before the City Judge and their trial, for both pleaded not guilty, was set down for Friday morning at 10 o'clock. This morning, they both appeared in city court and gave bonds for their appearance at that time.

THEATRICAL.

Jno. J. Kennedy, who heads the list of the "Kennedy Players," is certainly a very funny comedian. In fact his speeches in front of the curtain each evening are so entertaining and original that he has become in each town and city a household name. It is perfectly easy to engage great artists to support such a star, for Mr. Kennedy never refuses to permit an actor in his company to introduce anything that is legitimate, to make his part stronger. In fact, why should he, for wherever, or whenever, he appears before an audience he makes his presence felt. It actually seems as though they had been hypnotized by his funny sayings. He is certainly one of the youngest and brightest comedians on the stage of today and fears no rival. He will be seen at the Stillman Music Hall all next week with the Kennedy Players.

MISS MILES MAY CONSENT.

If She Does the Trolley Will Go Up the Mountain.

The promoters back of the project for a trolley road up the side of the mountain to Mountain Park Inn, though temporarily euchered in their efforts to push the line to reality, have not given up hope. They are now earnestly and actively at work to gain the consent of Miss Annie R. Miles to have the road built along Jenning's lane next to her property. Miss Miles has been the only objector to the use of that route, which would be even shorter and more desireable than the line over Hudson's lane. It is understoad that the promoters of the line are now in a fair way to secure the consent of Miss Miles, and if they are successful the road will be built so as to be in operation before the end of summer.

NOT THE BARD BURNS.

A Man With a Scottish Name Drove in a Reckless Manner.

Robert Burns, not the Scottish Bard, however, was brought before the City Judge, this morning, on the charge of being drunk and disorderly and abusing a horse. Burns is in the employ of Charles H. Lyman, of the borough, and while that gentleman and his family are at the sea shore, Burns has been looking after his horse. Yesterday, he drove the horse to a clam bake back of Scotch Plains and ran him most of the way. The horse had lost three shoes but the driver had been drinking and forgot. The horse was nearly exhausted when he returned to Plainfield. Burns pleaded guilty and admitted that he had done some things that he should have left undone. He was fined $10.

Stop drugging yourself with quack nostrums or "cures." Get a well known pharmaceutical remedy that will do the work. Catarrh and cold in the head will not cause suffering if Ely's Cream Balm is used. STILL IN THE LAW'S TOILS

Justice said, was impossible. Then VanWinkle requested that the State disclose the names and addresses of its witnesses, which DeMeza refused to do. The lawyer for the defence wanted all these requests recorded.

Judge DeMeza then moved that the examination be set down for the afternoon of Monday, August 2d, and the motion was granted. That ended the court and the prisoner remained in the office until the time for the next train for Elizabeth when he was taken to the station by Detective Blackford.

Neither the prisoner nor his wife had anything to say in court although there were numerous whispered conferences between them and their lawyer. The prisoner lounged back on his chair but showed that he was still somewhat nervous by his frequent change of position. Mr. and Mrs. Marshal sat directly opposite the prisoner and his wife and both looked worried. Mr. Marshal does not like to press the charge and only does so to recover his property. He is said to have offered Smedberg the $200 reward if he would return the stolen property but Smedberg denied ever having stolen it. Smedberg was suspected sometime before his arrest and was accused of the burglary to his face but denied it up and down.

Furniture Gone Astray.

J. L. Wiseman, formerly manager of the Jersey Cycle Academy on Watchung avenue, is making efforts to discover the whereabouts of a carload of furniture which he shipped to the sea shore about one month ago. The furniture has not yet reached its destination. Mr. Wiseman is the manager of the Seaside House, at Asbury Park, and sent his furniture from this city about a month ago. The railroad officials have been making efforts to trace the goods, but have not yet succeeded in locating them.

—Rev. M. E. Dwight preached in the Congregational church, yesterday morning, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. C. L. Goodrich.

Security

of the buyer lies in the integrity of the seller. When you set out to buy a Piano, unless you are an expert, you have to depend almost entirely upon the statements of the house from whom you purchase.
Our integrity and straight dealing have won for us the splendid position we hold in the estimation of the public. We sell five times as many Pianos as anybody else in the State, because it has become a truism that we never allow an instrument to leave our warerooms unless we know it is perfect in every detail.

Plainfield's Busiest Store.

We sell goods cheaper than any other stores.

SALE NO. 2.

Tuesday we commence the greatest sale of table linen, towels, napkins, handkerchiefs and wash goods that this town of yours and ours ever saw. Great because your dollar will do the work of two; great because the goods advertised were bought at half their value; some wet, but all as good as the day they were made.

The following lots are all from the steamer "City of Rome" and were slightly damaged by water during a fire on board and were sold by order of the fire underwriters—

On with the Story.

Strong Linen Logic.

You know what the new tariff will do with linens, advance them from 25 to 40 per cent; these lots fresh from the great Scotch and Irish makers, cold as a stone. Flax! yes, every thread of them, not a half-cotton substitute; good time to buy; good place to buy them here.

AMERICAN CAMELS.

THE "SHIP OF THE DESERT" IMPORTED FROM ARABIA AND EGYPT.

An Experiment Which Proved of No Value to the Government. The Animals at Last Allowed to Wander Over the Prairies at Their Own Sweet Will.

In 1852, when millions of gold were being mined in California, while thousands of people were crossing the plains to the new Dorado, and when a transcontinental railroad was only a vague dream of a few enthusiasts, Lieutenant Edward B. Beale (afterward General Beale) was stationed at Fort Yuma, between California and Arizona on the Colorado Desert. A stream of immigration and freight passed that way every week. The disease, suffering and frequent death among the horses and mules in that dry, solar heat, convinced Lieutenant Beale that here, of all places, was where the camels of Sahara and Arabia could be used to advantage. In connection with Captain Adams, of the garrison, he wrote at length upon the subject to Jefferson Davis, Secretary of War.

The ideas of the young military men in the West had immediate and enthusiastic reception by the Secretary. A Commission was soon sent out from San Antonio, Tex., to Arizona, to ascertain the uses that camels could be put to in military transportation. The Commission made a favorable report, and, with Secretary Davis's annual report to Congress in 1852 there was a request for an appropriation for the purchase of camels for the War Department.

On March 3, 1853, a bill appropriating $30,000 for the purpose became a law by the President's signature, and Secretary Davis appointed Major C. Wayne in December, 1854, to go to Egypt and Arabia to buy seventy-five camels.

Lieutenant Porter and Major Wayne bought their first camels in Tunis. From Egypt Major Wayne and Lieutenant Porter went lieusurely over to Arabia. There they bought more camels of another breed. The expedition received at Smyrna thirty-three camels from the interior.

In the Government book Secretary Davis tells in detail how he instructed Major Wayne to proceed from Paris to Cairo, and when he had bought his camels to bring them to New York on the Naval Storeship Supply, then under command of Lieutenant D. D. Porter.

Lieutenant Porter's instructions were to await Major Wayne at some convenient point in the Mediterranean, to disembark a land force at Beirout, and to see that the expedition was amply protected against attacks from the warlike tribes of the interior. On returning, the lieutenant was to land his cargo at some point on the coast of Texas.

The storeship Supply reached Indianola, Tex., on February 10, having lost three camels on the voyage. Those that survived were well, and the whole drove was taken under the care of Captain J. N. Palmer, U. S. A., to Camp Verde, Texas, there to be kept several years. The Suwanee brought in a load of forty-one camels on February 10, 1857, and these, too, were sent to the interior.

Almost from the first there was difficulty in grooming and feeding the animals. In a few weeks several died of unknown diseases, and others languished and became unfit for work. The military officers found it hard to get any hostler to attend to the camels, towards which all the cavalrymen and troopers took a violent dislike. The horses became restive and ugly when stabled or corralled with the strange beasts. There were frequent reports that a camel or two had broken away during the night and wandered away; and it has been suspected that extraordinary zeal was not always put forth to find the animals and bring them back.

From May 5, 1861, some thirty of the camels that had become partly domesticated to American ways and adapted to the climate of the Southwest, were kept at the United States forts at El Paso and Bowie, Ariz. They were fed and cared for at the expense of the War Department, but because the troopers and teamsters could not be got use them in place of horses or mules, and especially because of the clumsiness of the harness and the unusual labor in packing, the animals were seldom used. In the last year or two of their stay at the garrison they were merely pensioners upon Uncle Sam's bounty, and were never brought into service. In 1861 the herd had increased to forty-four head. Then the Cival War came on, and in the stir of those days in every fort in the South all attention was turned to the great crisis. The forts fell into disuse, and the beasts were allowed to wander away at will. They travelled in pairs, and sometimes in bunches of four and six, across the deserts and into the mountains. Some lived for years in the Panhandle of Texas, and in the Colorado River. In some instances the camels multiplied, but in twenty years most of them died among the mountains or were killed by the Indians.

At intervals in the last decade soldiers and cow-boys in New-Mexico and Arizona have seen the strays. Reports are that the animals have grown white with age, are as wild as any mustang, and have hard, bony hoofs, unlike the pedal cushions of the well-kept camel, and that their hide has assumed a hard, leathery appearance. It is likely there are few left in America. They have not been seen in the central part of either New-Mexico or Arizona in several years.—From the Land of Sunshine.

LARGE FEES OF A FEW LAWYERS.

Henry W. Oliver Said to Have Obtained $2,000,000 from One Organization.

It is said in Pittsburg that Henry W. Oliver was paid a "fee" of $2,000,000 for arranging a combination which gives the control of the Mesaba iron range and the practical control of the ore market to an organization of manufacturers with the Carnegie Iron Company at its head.

If this is to be considered as a fee, it is undoubtedly the largest ever paid. All the fees ever paid to Patrick Henry, Henry Clay, Daniel Webster, Abraham Lincoln and any dozen of the greatest orators in the best ten years of their lives never amounted to half so much.

It is reported that Lawyer Hart, of San Francisco, who bore the brunt of the legal fight for the recovery to Florence Blythe of the Blythe millions, will receive a fee of $2,750,000. The estate in litigation aggregated $4,000,000. Hart carried on the fight for years, paying the expenses out of his own pocket, so that his great fee is not all profit.

It is said that the largest fee ever before paid was $260,000 to William Nelson Cromwell for acting as assignee in the case of Lecker, Howell & Co., New York, bankers and brokers. In the protests which such payments naturally call out it was asserted that this was at the rate of over $43,000 a week for the time he was employed. The fee paid by the Sugar Trust to John E. Parsons is stated at $250,000, and that paid to Henry L. Clinton in the Vanderbilt will case at from $100,000 to $150,000. Joseph Choate's fee from the elevated roads was given at $75,000, and that of Robert Sewell from the elevated roads at $125,000.—New York World.

BICYCLE GIRL'S PERILOUS RIDE.

Rode the Tireless Wheel Over a High Bridge on the Outside of the Rail.

Ever since Joe Henley made his perilous sprint across the ties of the Milwaukee bridge on the bare rims of his bicycle a number of ambitious cyclists have professed a willingness to equal the performance.

The other day a woman, Dora Dewitt, of Kansas City, equalled Henley's feat and went him one better, for she rode along on the outside of the rail in a space only eighteen inches wide. It was a hair-raising performance, and one that is not likely to be equalled soon. Miss Dewitt rode a light racer. The tires had been removed, leaving only the bare rims to ride on. She started at a fast clip, knowing that in no other way could she get across. A single mishap would have hurled her into the Missouri river, ninety feet below. Once, near the center of the bridge, she swerved slightly, and for a few feet the wheel rushed along within an inch of the edge of the ties, but the girl was cool, and in a moment she was in control of her wheel, and finished the trip without further danger. The greatest peril was in the depressions two feet wide which exist at regular intervals from one end of the bridge to the other. But she crossed all of these firmly, though the shock each time seemed as if it would throw her from the wheel.

At the close Miss Dewitt's arms were so numb that she could not lift them. Several well-known wheelmen witnessed the feat.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

SERVANTS IN JAPAN.

No Care for the Mistress of a Houes in That Country.

Servants are very cheap and very good in Japan. The foreign housewife has nothing to do, and she lives like a queen. The Japanese cooks are far better than most American cooks, and $20 a month will pay the board and salaries of the help of an eight-room house. A certain foreign resident in Tokio, who lives as well as a millionaire would in the United States pays his cook $5 a month; his butler gets $2.50, and his gardener and second girl get about the same. These servants all board themselves, and the cook does the marketing. The house rent costs less than $20 a month, and a coachman could be had at $5 a month more. There is no trouble in getting good servants, and they watch after their employer's interests, and see that he is cheated by none other than themselves.

Jap families pay still less for their servants. Only a few of the middle class have more than one servant, and among the poor the wife does the cooking and entire work of the household. Some families, however, have a woman to cook and do general housework, and such women are paid from $1 to $2 a month, and are lodged and fed. They generally receive a present of a dress from the mistress at New Year's and in midsummer, each costing from $1.50 to $2, and they expect to get a cent or two three times a week for bath money.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

TRUST IN THEIR CHILDREN.

An Unusal Financial Arrangement Made for Two Young Persons.

There is a very charming family in New York where the subject of an income for the son and daughter is arranged most satisfactorily for all concerned.

The two are now abroad together completing their education and cultivating their respective talents. As far as finances are concerned, they are absolutely independent, and this is how it is managed. At the beginning of their financial year the father in New York goes to his banker and deposits to the credit of his son and daughter each a certain amount of money, which is to last them the entire year. It is a comfortable sum, but not extravagant, when it is considered that they must pay their tuition, board, and for their clothes from it during that time. It is possible that they might be called upon to economize with it. At all events, whichever way it may be, it is all the money they will have for the entire twelve months.

"Do you mean to say that this money is to be subject to the order of your son and daughter?" asked the astonished cashier at the bank when the first deposit was made. "Why, I know young people who would have a grand time and spend all that money in three days."

"Well," returned pater familias complacently, "if my children do that, they know what they will have to expect; they will support themselves the remainder of the year."

But notwithstanding his apparent complaisance, if the money should be used unwisely, the hearts of these exceptionable parents would be sadly wrung. An incident emphasizing this fact occurred during the college days of the young people, when a similar arrangement was made. The money for the son was placed in a bank, in a town to which the college was adjacent, subject to his order. In the bank was a relative of the family, who for some reason, perhaps from suggestions of the green-eyed monster, was not amicably inclined to the young man.

At any rate, the mother at home was filled with horror and dismay one day at receiving a note from the relative which read curtly: "Blank has overdrawn his account. I have made it good this time, but do not let it occur again."

In great haste she telegraphed money on to the bank, and then waited in agony to hear from her son. What had he done? What was the cause of it? He was only human, like other boys, and there were so many temptations that might beset him; but her boy! It seemed ages before a letter came. Then there was an explanation.

It was not a temptation which had led him astray; it was bad arithmetic. He had miscalculated. He had overdrawn his account to the amount of—four cents.

CLOCK MADE OF BICYCLES.

A Curious Mechanism that will Adorn a Public Building in Paris.

What is probably the oddest clock ever manufactured has been made by a Frenchman. It should appeal to every wheelman, for it is constructed solely of bicycles and parts thereof. It stands eleven and a half feet high, and is the queerest combination in appearance at which any cyclist ever gazed. Withal, it keeps correct time, and the man whose duty it is to keep it in order has a very easy time of it, for so delicately is it constructed that the gain or loss is almost infinitesimal. It bears the appearance at first glance of a circlet of bicycle wheels intertwined, in the center being an immense rim, while within this rim are the figures that denote time and the hands that point the hour and the minute.

The name of the inventor and the maker is Alphonse Duhamel. He is a Parisian clockmaker. The clock will be placed in one of the public buildings of Paris.

His Hammock Under Cars.

A queer character, "Jack, the hammock rider, who lives by his wits," is attracting the attention of the people throughout the State of Michigan.

"Jack's" hammock is of his own construction and bears the mark of considerable ingenuity. It is designed to fasten under a sleeping car to aid "Jack" in "beating" the railroad. The hammock is made of heavy canvass, quilted on the inside and fastened to a stout stick at each end. Two large iron hooks project from the wooden rods and by these he attaches his novel resting place to the two iron bars which run the length of each side of the car. A cover is sewed to one side and almost covers the ends, the sewed edge being placed toward the engine, so that the wind pressure will keep out the dust as the car speeds along.—Chicago Tribune.

Floating Houses.

Bangkok, the principal city of Siam, out-Venices Venice. Not only are its thoroughfares canals, but many of its houses are floating, being, built of bamboo upon bamboo rafts. When the dwellers in one of these floating houses wish to move, they simply cast off the moorings, and float with the tide, up or down the river, as the case may be. When the capital was moved to Bangkok from Ayuthia, some hundred years ago, the cholera attacked the inhabitants with such fatality that the king ordered the dwellers on the shore to build upon the river itself, and, probably owing to greater cleanliness and better ventilation, the place was thereafter much more healthful.—Golden Days.

HE HAILED PRINCE GEORGE.

An American in a Predicament in Greek Waters Got Royal Help.

When Prince George of Greece was in the United States to attend the World's Fair his presence was hardly noticed, and he was not compelled to run the gauntlet of Chicago interviewers. So it came that perhaps the Prince's first experience with the American method of acquiring knowledge for dissemination was afforded by an American artist who attended the Olympic games to illustrate an article for a New York magazine.

On the day of the swimming contests the artist was unable to find the boat which he, together with a party of friends, had chartered for the occasion. The races took place on the harbor, about three miles from the city, and the artist, armed with camera and sketching tools, wandered about on the crowded shores until he bargained successfully with two men for a boat. After paddling about for a time without seeing much chance of viewing the races, he made up his mind to board one of the larger vessels with which the water was crowded. He chose for his piratical designs one of the largest and best appearing of all the gayly decked craft and made his wishes known to the boatmen. Although he did not understand one word of Greek, there was no misunderstanding the fact that they forcibly remonstrated, and the more he commanded the more emphatic became their expostulations. He finally overruled their objections and induced them to row within calling distance of the big vessel. The artist hailed a man on deck in French, telling him who he was and what he wanted. The stranger answered in very good English, and after inviting the artist aboard, he brought a chair and arranged a place from which a good view of the start and finish could be had. Then he excused himself.

The American was very busy for a while, but it gradually occurred to him that the boat he was on was receiving a great deal of attention. After it began to move every other vessel saluted. When the races were finished and his host returned to the deck the artist learned that he had been received by Prince George of Greece. He suffered a little consternation at the beginning, but the Prince did not appear to notice it and chatted cordially, while he showed his guest about the vessel, finally posing before the camera. The artist was set ashore at his own request after a little trip about the bay, in the course of which the missing boat was encountered, and he had the pleasure of nodding to his friends from the deck of the royal yacht.

At one of the fetes following the games, at which there were many Americans—and, one of the young Americans regarded the Prince with boyish awe, and gravely saluted as he saw the Greeks salute. The Prince told him, tactfully, that he need not salute thus, "because you are an American."New York Sun.

THE FLOOR OF A CHURCH.

The Source from Which the Design of the Stars and Stripes Came.

The origin of national flags would be a deep, unfathomably deep subject in most cases, but our flag, the stars and stripes, is so young in this old world that it is possible to find out a good deal about its origin; still, even as to ours, we can only guess how in its first form it came to be just as it was, but the guess is so well founded that it ought to satisfy Yankees seeking the source of the Yankee flag. The first flag of the United States of America was raised by Washington at Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 2, 1776. It consisted of thirteen stripes, alternate red and white, with a blue field emblazoned with the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew. The next year Congress substituted thirteen white stars for the crosses. Now in Northamptonshire, in England, in a village called Great Brington, is an old church containing the tomb of one of George Washington's ancestors. It is inscribed to the memory of Lawrence Washington, who died in 1616, leaving behind him (this is on the tomb, mind you) eight sons and nine daughters. Two of these sons emigrated to America, and from one of them descended our great man. Several of the Washington family of the same generation are buried here, and the Washington coat of arms is engraved on one, bearing an inscription to "Eliz. Washington," who died in 1622. Now, on this coat of arms appear three stars, with the stripes or bars beneath them. No one could see it without being reminded of the "star spangled banner." Undoubtedly when Washington was arranging to raise that flag at Cambridge, and arranging the flag, too, he took the idea of the stripes from his own old coat of arms. Not wanting to make the new banner too personal, so to speak, he kept in the blue field and the crosses, used in the British flag, but Congress, when it took up the subject, was pleased to follow the old coat of arms that belonged to the great general, who was fighting for them, and substituted the beautiful stars for the crosses that the redcoats carried. Charles Sumner took a deep interet in all these traces of the Washington family in England, and he once said, "The source of the design of the American flag lies on the old floor of Brington Church." He had a copy of the coat of arms, made by a local mason, in native stone.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings make them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the materia, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN.

New York's Big Amusement Company to Be Reorganized.

New York, July 26.—J. P. Morgan & Co. are soon to undertake the reorganization of the Madison Square Garden Company. The garden will probably be sold on the foreclosure of the second mortgage, subject to the first mortgage of $1,250,000 and unpaid taxes of about $160,000. A new company will then be organized with a capital stock of $1,250,000. The following notice has been sent to the holders of second mortgage bonds:

"This company has never earned a net profit, except in 1892-3 and 1895-6. During the last fiscal year it has not earned fixed charges and defaulted in payment of interest due on first and second mortgage bonds May 1 last. It will also be obliged to default interest due on Nov. 1. On that date it will owe $270,500 additional interest and taxes and $45,000 of borrowed money.

"It therefore seems desirable that a reorganization should take place immediately. To this end a committee was appointed to carry out such reorganization. The plan includes the issue of $300,000 of second mortgage 6 per cent income bonds, $750,000 of 7 per cent noncumulative preferred stock and $500,000 of common stock."

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

An Alleged Cousin of Robert G. Ingersoll Takes a Dose of Laudanum.

New York, July 26.—Enoch Ingersoll, who is said to be a second cousin of Robert G. Ingersoll, has attempted to commit suicide in Bodskey's drugstore in Bath Beach, Brooklyn, by taking an ounce of laudanum. Mr. Ingersoll was in a despondent mood on account of some troubles, the nature of which he would not disclose. He entered the drug store and asked for one ounce of laudanum.

He was waited on by Dr. Bodskey. After getting the poison Mr. Ingersoll turned as if to leave the store, and on reaching the door he called out "Good-by," and, putting the bottle to his lips, swallowed the contents. Before the druggist could reach the man he was unconscious.

Antidotes were administered and the ambulance summoned from Coney Island. After three hours' hard work by several physicians who were summoned Mr. Ingersoll was restored to consciousness.

When it was found that the attempt at suicide would not prove successful, Mr. Ingersoll was locked up, charged with attempting suicide.

A MARINE CURIOSITY.

An Immense Brain Stone Brought Here From Bermuda.

New York, July 26.—There were on board the steamer Orinoco, which has just arrived from Bermuda, C. E. Brush, F. W. Carpenter and W. H. Everett of New York university, belonging to Professor Bean's party, who have been in Bermuda for the past two months collecting specimens of fish and other marine life of the island of Bermuda.

Among the interesting specimens collected by these professors and students is an immense brain stone, of coral formation, measuring 9 feet 8 inches in circumference and weighing from 800 to 1,000 pounds. This stone was taken from the waters of Castle harbor, the most interesting and prolific portion of the island for scientists and specialists.

This brain stone is said to be the largest and best specimen ever brought from Bermuda. It will probably be placed on exhibition at the Museum of Natural History in this city.

Danger of Indian War In Alaska.

Port Townsend, Wash., July 26.—From a miner who came down from Alaska on the Portland it is learned that 200 Indians of the Stick tribe were contemplating coming to the coast at the head of Dyea inlet for the purpose of packing freight across the divide and rafting it across the lakes and down the Yukon river to the mining fields. If the intention is carried out, Alaska will have a full fledged Indian war, as the Chilkat tribe has always warned the Sticks and other interior tribes not to come to the coast to engage in any industries. The work of packing freight over the divide has long been monopolized by the Chilkats.

The White Whale Dead.

New York, July 26.—"Seltzer," the white whale brought from the St. Lawrence river, died on Saturday in the tank at the Aquarium. On the previous day the whale ate several eels, and Dr. Bean, when the opened the former, found a portion of a partly digested eel clogged in the blowhole. The whale, he said, had overloaded its stomach, and in the effort to vomit the fish had choked the blowhole, and death followed the mishap.

Man and Wife Killed by a Train.

Utica, July 26.—John Phelps, aged 28 years, a clerk, and his wife, aged 17, were instantly killed by a train on the West Shore railroad. They were seen struggling before the train struck them, and it is thought the man intended to cause the death of his wife and himself. He had been heard to threaten her.

Poughkeepsie Incendiaries at Work.

Poughkeepsie, July 26.—A firebug has caused alarm among the residents of Wappingers Falls. On Friday night two barns, worth $6,000, on the Colgate estate were burned, and Saturday night two other barns in the suburbs of the village were destroyed by the incendiary.

Fatal Boiler Explosion.

Punxsutawney, Pa., July 26.—A boiler explosion in the lumber mill of Kipp & Kiser at Cortez killed Pete Duff and seriously injured ten others. The mill is badly wrecked. A 14 foot piece of the boiler was blown 400 feet. Two hundred men will be thrown out of work.

Beat the Record.

St. Cloud, Minn., July 26.—James H. Maybury, a local sprinter, ran 150 yards in 14 2-5 seconds, reducing the world's record one-fifth of a second. The track was in bad condition, but he accomplished the work with seemingly slight exertion.

REVIEW OF CONGRESS

Doings of the Extraordinary Session Just Closed.

TARIFF THE ABSORBING FEATURE.

Its Consideration Lasted Exactly Two Months In the Senate, Other Bills Being Taken Up Between Times. Others Considered.

Washington, July 26.—The extraordinary session of congress which has just closed was called by President McKinley two days after he took the oath of office on the steps of the capitol. It met in pursuance to his proclamation at noon March 15. The special message transmitted by him to both houses on the opening day was brief. It explained the deficiencies in the revenues, reviewed the bond issues of the last administration and urged congress to promptly correct the then existing condition by passing a tariff bill that would supply ample revenues for the support of the government and the liquidation of the public debt. No other subject of legislation was mentioned in the message, and the tariff bill has been the all absorbing feature of the session. The Republican members of the ways and means committee of the preceding house had been at work throughout the short session which ended March 4, giving hearings and preparing the bill which was to be submitted at the extra session. Three days after the session opened the tariff bill was reported to the house by the ways and means committee, and 13 days later, March 31, it passed the house. It went to the senate, was referred to the committee on finance, and the Republican members of that committee spent a month and three days in its consideration and in preparing the amendments, which were submitted to the senate May 4. Its consideration was begun in the senate May 7, and exactly two months later, July 7, it passed the senate, with 872 amendments. The bill then went to conference, where, after a 10 days' struggle, on July 17 a complete agreement was reached, by which the senate receded from 118 amendments and the house from 511. The others, 243 in number, were compromised. The conference report was adopted by the house July 19 at the conclusion of 12 hours of continuous debate. The report was taken up in the senate July 20 and adopted Saturday, July 24. The tariff bill was signed by the president the same day.

Other Work Besides the Tariff.

Congress did not devote its attention entirely to the tariff, though it did subordinate everything else to this one measure. The four appropriation bills which failed on March 4 last in themselves would have compelled President McKinley to call congress in extra session even if the necessity for a revision of the tariff had not existed. Those appropriation bills were the sundry civil, the agricultural, the Indian and the general deficiency. These bills were introduced and passed by the house in the identical form in which they existed at the time of their failure of enactment into law at the preceding congress, but they were amended in some important particulars by the senate, and when they finaly became laws contained more or less new legislation of interest and importance. The general deficiency carried a provision accepting the invitation to take part in the Paris exposition in 1900 and appropriated $25,000 to defray preliminary expenses and appropriated $150,000 for a new immigrant station at New York to replace the one destroyed by fire. By far the most important piece of new legislation in the bill, however, was that limiting the cost of armor plate for the new battleships to $300 per ton. In case the secretary of the navy should find it impossible to make contracts for armor within the price fixed he was authorized by this provision to take steps to establish a government armor factory of sufficient capacity to make the armor. In executing this authority he must prepare a description and plans and specifications of the land, buildings and machinery suitable for the factory, advertise for proposals and report to congress at its next session.

The Indian Bill.

In the Indian bill, after a severe struggle in both houses, the question of sectarian schools was settled by the following declaration of the policy of the government:

"That the secretary of the interior may make contracts with contract schools, apportioning as near as may be the amount so contracted for among schools of various denominations for the education of Indian pupils during the fiscal year 1898, but shall only make such contracts at places where nonsectarian schools cannot be provided for such Indian children and to an amount not exceeding 40 per centum of the amount so used for the fiscal year 1895."

The question of opening to entry the rich gilsonite deposits in the Uncompahgre reservation in Utah was also compromised by opening such agricultural lands as have not been allotted to the Uncompahgre Indians on April 1, 1898, to entry, but reserving to the United States title in all lands containing gilsonite asphalt or other like substances.

In the sundry civil bill the most important new provision was that suspending the order of President Cleveland setting aside about 21,000,000 acres as forest reservations. The law also includes a general scheme of legislation for the government and protection of the forest reservations of the country.

The Republican leaders of the house decided at the opening of the session to pursue a policy of inaction in order to throw the responsibility for delaying the tariff bill upon the senate, and therefore the committees were not announced until the close of the session, and only urgent matters were considered. Fifty thousand dollars were appropriated for the relief of American citizens in Cuba at the solicitation of the president, $200,000 was appropriated for the relief of the Mississippi flood sufferers, a resolution was passed authorizing the secretary of the navy to transport supplies contributed for the relief of the poor and famishing in India, and $50,000 were appropriated for the entertainment and expenses of the delegates to the universal postal convention, who met in this city. The only extensive pieces of general legislation enacted by this congress, except the

GOSSIP OF THE CYCLERS.

TEMS INTERESTING TO DEVOTEES OF THE STEEL STEEDS.

The Popular Exercise Provides Incidents and Expressions That are of Especial Moment When Wheeling is the Rage.

Mr. Piker, of West Front street, has purchased a new wheel and has learned to ride.

Miss Sadie Randolph, of West Eighth street, is one of the latest to purchase a wheel.

Mr. and Mrs, Oliver Voorhees, of East Front street, rode their wheels to Somerville yesterday.

WITH ROD AND GUN.

Joseph Zeglio, of Mt. Bethel, a brother of Dr. Zeglio, of the borough, caught a bass weighing 4 1-2 pounds in the Passaic river last Friday. At the same time Edward Lockwood, of Mt. Bethel, caught a mess of catfish and eels, one weighing 4 3-4 pounds.

AROUND THE BASES.

A baseball game was played between two picked nines from the West End, at Dog Corners Sunday afternoon, and the team captained by Patrick Keefe won.

RUNAWAY ON THE MOUNTAIN.

The Exhausted Horse Was Finally Stopped at the Mountain Park Inn.

Plagued beyond endurance by the large horse-flies, a horse ran away near Scotch Plains, yesterday afternoon, ran up the hill to Johnston drive and followed that road all along the summit of the mountain. Almost exhausted, the animal was finally turned into the driveway at Mountain Park Inn and a half a dozen young men from that hotel reached the animal's head and brought his flight to an end.

The Misses Esterbrook, of East Front street, near Netherwood, started out for a drive yesterday afternoon in a buggy. They intended to drive over the mountain. They had just left Scotch Plains behind when the horse became unmanageable and ran away. Hoping to stop the animal, the young woman driving drove up the steep hill. The animal kept up, however, and finally reached the Inn almost exhausted.

Both of the occupants were badly frightened and one of them fainted after the horse was stopped. They remained at the Inn until they recovered from their fright and were then driven home.

A SCALP WOUND.

Bateman Thatcher Struck by a Falling Piece of Timber.

Bateman Thatcher, a builder, living at 136 East Fourth street, was struck on the head by a piece of falling timber in the lumber yard of Boice, Runyon & Co's, at 10 o'clock this morning. Mr. Thatcher was standing on his wagon beside a large pile of timber, and some men were handing the pieces down, when one of the beams slipped and fell in spite of the efforts of those above to hold it. The timber struck Mr. Thatcher on the head, inflicting an ugly scalp wound about four inches in length.

The men near by conveyed the injured man to a wagon and he was driven to his home and Dr. Long was summoned. An examination showed that no fracture of the skull had been sustained. The wound was stitched up and the patient made as free as possible from pain. The injury is not considered a dangerous one.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Fred Hand's Clambake.

Fred W. Hand gave an enjoyable clambake to his many friends at his place on Somerset street yesterday afternoon. There were many out-of-town guests present, and everyone voted the affair a genuine success.

A HAPPY ARRANGEMENT.

A Divorced Couple Again Live Together as Employer and Employe.

After a San Diego man got a divorce from his wife the other day, he went home and found her there. She asked him to sit down to dinner, after which she asked him how he liked the new arrangement. "Firstrate," he replied, "but I can't understand it." "Oh, that's all right," said she; "we can live this way in contentment. The other way we quarrel. Now, then, suppose you retain me as housekeeper. Twenty dollars per month and board is all I ask." This struck the ex-husband favorably, and the bargain was closed on the spot. The couple have not had a sign of trouble since, although they were in hot water for thirty-two years, fretting under the marital yoke. They dare not quarrel much now, for fear one will leave the other in the lurch. He must have his meals cooked, and she must have a place to stay. Together they are happy now, and the bargain promises to last to the end.—New York Tribune.

THE WATER BEAR.

A Little Animal that Microscopic Inspection Discovers in Water.

One of the common curiosities revealed by the microscope in water is a little animal that looks like a bear.

An extraordinary thing about this tiny creature is that he is found in the gutters of houses, where he is at one time dry as dust and scorched by the blazing sun, at another active and full of life under a refreshing shower of rain.

The water bear has the scientific name of tardigrada, because he takes life so easily. He is always fat and plump, and spends his waking periods in constantly grubbing with his four pairs of legs among whatever rubbish comes in his way. Having eyes, brain and a nervous system, he is much ahead of most of his tribe, and he is altogether one of the most interesting and amusing little animals known to science.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD HERO.

He Felt Sure His Papa Would Help Him When He Called.

Charles Kornfeld, the five-year-old son of Henry Kornfeld, living at No. 6316 South Broadway, St. Louis, owes his rescue from drowning in a well into which he fell to his own presence of mind and bravery in the face of great danger. He and his older brother, Henry, were tossing a bean bag in the back yard at their home, when the bag rolled under the porch and dropped down into a sort of cellar. Little Charley crawled under the steps and clambered down into the cellar after the plaything. There was an old well there of the existence of which none of the family knew. It was covered with sheet iron, which was rusted badly. When the little boy stepped on it it gave way, and he fell almost thirty feet, striking the water, which was about ten feet deep. He sank, but coming to the surface again he clutched a rock which protruded from the wall, and as soon as he could get the water out of his mouth began to call "Papa, papa!"

His older brother had heard him fall and ran into the house, crying, Mamma, Charley fell in the cellar!"

Mrs. Kornfeld sent a messenger for her husband, who was in a store near by, and then ran to the yard. She tore away the steps, and saw what had happened. She ran for a rope, and just as she got back her husband came. He climbed down to the well and peered in. He could distinguish the upturned face of his child and see his little hands clinging to the rock.

"Papa, I want out; I falled down here!" came from the darkness of the well.

Mr. Kornfeld saw at once that if he attempted to climb down after the child he would be likely to knock loose stones down on him and kill him. A realization of the child's awful position made him sick at heart. The rope was the only hope. With awful misgivings he threw it down into the well and called in the most composed tone he could command: "Now, Charley, wrap this around your wrist, and hold on to it."

The little left hand reached out and took the rope, and while Charley kept himself above the water with his right on the rock he wrapped the rope around his arm, just as a man would.

"I've got it, papa," he called, peering up at his father.

Mr. Kornfeld began pulling the rope up. Charley waited until it was taut, and then took his right hand from the rock to which he had been clinging and caught the rope with it. Slowly and carefully Mr. Kornfeld drew the precious weight to the top, and at last clasped the brave boy in his arms—saved. The boy was badly frightened and was almost strangled by water, but was otherwise not hurt.—Globe-Democrat.

CHASED BY A MAD BULL

EXCITING EXPERIENCE OF THREE PLAINFIELD YOUNG MEN.

Crossing a Pasture Field When the Bull Started for Them—Escaped by Swimming Across Lambert's Big Pasture Pond.

Three young men of Plainfield went forth to hunt last Friday afternoon. Instead of hunting, they were hunted. That they escaped was due to the fact that they were all good swimmers.

Last Friday, Roy T. Phillips, of Madison avenue, Albert Finch, of Belvidere avenue, and Walter Long, of Park avenue, gathered together their outfits and prepared to go forth on a hunting expedition. They all carried shot guns and an able supply of cartridges in the belts around their waists. They wandered over in the Short Hills, but their quest seemed in vain and they found no game worth shooting at. At last, they happened on a little pond in which the bullfrogs croaked most vigorously. After a little investigation they shot a dozen of the largest and started home.

In their travels, they had passed close to the "Jersey Lightning" distillery of old John Lambert but, let it be said, that they did not stop. Now back of the distillery some distance is a large pond, commonly known as Lambert's pond, which occupies one side of a field. The recent rains had filled the pond far above its usual height and in some places the water was quite deep.

The boys started to return homeward cross-lots and entered the field on which the pond borders. They noticed that there was a herd of cattle in the field, but paid little attention to them.

The young men were talking and laughing when suddenly Phillips, without warning, started off on a run in the direction of the pond. Thinking that he had seen something to shoot at, his comrade stopped and looked in that direction. Then Finch cast a look behind him, and slinging his gun over his shoulder started after Phillips. A muffled roar from the rear attracted Long's attention, and he beheld a great black bull coming toward them, snorting and bellowing. Now Long is something of an athlete and he ran faster than he ever ran before, reaching the side of the pond just behind the others.

Phillips stopped at the edge of the water and looked behind. The bull was coming full tilt. Then he unslung his gun, dropped it on the bank, and like the mighty Horatius, with his harness on his back, plunged headlong in the tide.

"Come on," he shouted to his friends.

"Stop!" yelled Finch at the bull as he shook his fist in that direction. The animal was not many yards away and he only shook his head and bellowed.

Into the water went Finch and Long, forgetting in the excitement to drop their guns. The bull reached the water, tossed the sod and then plunged in.

"Swim for it!" yelled Phillips, who was up to his chin in water, and he started forth with vigorous strokes, his load of cartridges weighing him down. The other boys swam as best they could with their guns, and all three finally reached the other bank in safety. The bull had returned to dry land after wading out for some distance and remained there bellowing and tossing the sod.

One of the boys had a water-tight matchbox. A fire was started and they proceed to dry themselves. After waiting two hours, the bull retired to a far corner of the field The boys undressed and swam across again with their clothes on a plank which they pushed along. Phillips' gun was secured and then the trio trudged homeward, wet and weary.

MORE HOSPITAL ROOM.

THE NEED CONSIDERED BY THE BOARD OF GOVERNORS.

Seems to be the Opinion that a New and Modern Structure Should be Built—Monthly Report of Cases Treated.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital was held last evening at the Public Library. For some reason there was not a full attendance and there was just a quorum present to transact the business for the month. The report concerning the number of patients treated during the past month showed that there were 17 patients admitted and 13 discharged cured; 3 were discharged improved, and 1 not improved. Four patients died, and in each case the patient was almost beyond cure when received. The total number treated was 30. In the dispensary there were 29 cases and 84 visits.

The subject of the coming Spielkartenfest to be held in the cycle academy for the benefit of the hospital, was introduced and the president of the board appointed Messrs. Cock, Reynolds and Saunders as a committee to confer with the committee from the Woman's Auxiliary. The former committee will get to work at once and confer with the latter committee in the arrangement for the affair which will be held November 15th to 20th, under the direction of Miss Stewart who so ably conducted the Kirmess.

Another subject introduced was that of building additions to the hospital. It was stated that more room is needed and will have to be secured at an early date. The idea of one member of the board is to have the complete plans of a suitable building to be used as a hospital and from time to time to build additions as they are needed. It seems to be the opinion that the present structure has outlived its usefulness and it has now reached that point where it is impossible to carry on the actual necessities of such an institution, and it is not unlikely that before a great while Plainfield will have a more commodious building as a hospital. The question will be agitated from now on with the idea of securing such a building at the earliest possible convenience.

SAD VACATION PERIOD.

HAROLD NOMER SUSTAINED A SERIOUS DISLOCATION OF THE ELBOW.

Jumping in a Basket When He Lost His Balance and Fell With Painful Results—He Fainted Just After the Accident.

The day before his summer vacation was to begin, Harold Nomer, of LaGrande avenue, met with an accident that will put an end to all thoughts of a summer outing for some time. He is now confined to his home suffering from a dislocation of the elbow, which is even more serious than a fracture.

Yesterday morning, Harold, who is the fourteen years-old son of Henry C. Nomer, of 433 LaGrande avenue, was working about the yard. The grapevines had just been trimmed and he was collecting the sprouts and leaves in an old peach basket. Not caring to make a great many trips with the basket, the lad packed the contents of the basket down by jumping on top of it. His mother warned him to be careful.

He was jumping up and down in the basket to pack down the contents, when he lost his balance and fell. His feet were caught in the basket and he put out one arm to stop his fall. His entire weight fell on his right arm, which twisted and the bone of the arm was dislocated at the elbow.

Young Nomer thought he had broken his arm and told his mother so. The pain was so great he fainted after reaching the house. Dr. B. Van-D. Hedges and Dr. Probasco were summoned. They found the dislocation a remarkable one and several photographs were taken of the arm to show the positions of the bones. It was necessary to give the lad chloroform before the bone could be forced back.

The Nomers had intended to leave today for Connecticut to spend their summer outing, but it was necessary to postpone the trip indefinitely.

Sanitary Machinery Here.

The machinery for the plant to be operated by the Plainfield Sanitary Company arrived yesterday, and William Hand & Son's truck was used to transfer it from the freighthouse to the plant on DeKalb avenue. Everything went well until DeKalb avenue was reached and there the truck became fastened in the deep sand. The two horses were unable to pull the heavy load out and additional horses were secured for the purpose.

D. T. Kenney and daughter, of Grove street, are stopping at Asbury Park.

DEATH OF S. A. SMITH.

ONCE A VERY PROMINENT AND INFLUENTIAL PLAINFIELD CITIZEN.

Was a Republican Leader in This Section and President of the Common Council at the Time of Agitation of Track Elevation.

S. Alpheus Smith, once a prominent and influential resident of this city, and remembered by all the older citizens, died at his home, 327 Clinton street, Brooklyn, Sunday, at the age of 82 yers.

Mr. Smith removed from Plainfield about twenty years ago, but during his residence here he was one of the most active men in public life. He was the Republican leader for a number of years and was the principal mentor in all party conferences and convention. He was president of the Common Council in 1870 and 1871 when the town was stirred to its depths by the agitation of track elevation, and which at the time met with strong opposition on the part of many influential citizens. Mr. Smith was steadfast in his support of the improvement and the soundness of his position was long ago demonstrated and recognized by even the opponents of the project. Among the members of the Common Council at the time of his service were James E. Martine and Nathan Harper. Nelson Runyon was city clerk at the time. Mr. Martine and Mr. Runyon speak highly of the great executive ability evidenced by Mr. Smith at that time.

Mr. Smith was not only prominent locally, but he was also a power in the State organization of the Republican party and for a number of years was secretary of the State Committee. He was often prominently spoken of for nomination to important offices, but he never accepted the honors.

He was a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and for one term was honored by election to the Grand Master's chair, the highest office in New Jersey.

Before he left Plainfield he was employed in the Custom House in New York and up to the time of his death he still occupied an important position there.

His latter years were in strange contrast, however, to those active ones spent in Plainfield, because since he has lived in Brooklyn he has rather shunned participation in public affairs and sought the quietude and pleasures to be found in a happy home.

Mr. Smith leaves five children, as follows: S. Alpheus Smith, Jr., of Brooklyn, Frank V., and Charles J., of Rhode Island, Mrs. Emma Rogers and Mrs. Philip Comstock, of Brooklyn.

The funeral will be held from his late residence in Brooklyn this evening at 8 o'clock. Interment will be made in this city tomorrow.

SERIOUS FIRE AVERTED.

Prompt Action of a Policeman and Druggist Saved a House.

Through the good work and promptness of Patrolman Vanderweg and Druggist L. W. Randolph, a serious fire was averted yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock. The fire broke out in the wood sheds in the rear of the house occupied by George Macintyre, on West Second street, and is supposed to have been caused by sparks from a passing locomotive. It was discovered by some boys who notified the patrolman as he was coming to town. The latter run home for his fire key thinking it would be necessary to send in an alarm. When he returned to the scene of the fire he found L. W. Randolph working to extinguish the flames which were by that time well under way. The officer gave assistance in putting out the fire. The women living in the neighborhood were attracted to the spot and they carried pails of water while the men confined the fire to a small place. The sheds contained a number of valuable things, and if the fire had not been discovered just as it was the total loss would have been a serious one.

BITTEN BY A SPIDER.

Westfield Boy's Nose Swollen to Twice its Natural Size.

Charles Hart, a fifteen-year-old boy, of Westfield, was bitten by a spider while in bathing at Echo Lake on Sunday afternoon. The insect, which was of the large black species, inflicted its sting upon young Hart's nose, which has since swollen to twice its natural size. Considerable pain accompanies the swelling, and some anxiety is felt as to the final result of the injury.

Postal Appointment.

The many friends of Ernest Mallard, of North avenue, will be pleased to learn of his success in passing the examination for the position of clerk at the local post office. Mr. Mallard will assume his duties next Monday.

DAMAGE TO CITY STREETS

ESTIMATED THAT IT WILL TAKE $500 TO MAKE REPAIRS.

Principal Havoc was With the Culverts, Drains and Gutters—Top Dressing Also Washed Off the Macadamized Roads.

Not only have private citizens suffered considerable damage from the heavy rains of late, but the city of Plainfield has felt the effects also. The streets, particularly in the West End, have suffered greatly from the torrents of water that have poured down on them and the damage to the city has amounted to several hundred dollars.

A meeting of the street committee of the Common Council was held last evening when the members conferred with the street commissioner to ascertain the amount of damage that has been done to the streets by the heavy rains of the last week. There is a certain amount of wear and tear that eventually wears off the top dressing on the macadamized streets and finally necessitates repairs. The torrents of rain have assisted in carrying away the fine dust and crushed stone from the centre of the roadway. The amount of this damage cannot be estimated. It merely shortens the life of the road.

The other damage was to culverts, gutters, and street cess pools, which has been washed out by the flood. The storm sewer that drains the hollow under the Clinton avenue railroad bridge was blocked up and the water flooded the road under the bridge for the depth of several feet. Most of the damage was on Clinton avenue, Albert and West Front streets. The committee estimated that it will cost $500 to repair the damage. The money thus expended will make but little showing, but all the repairs are necessary.

An inestimable amount of damage has been done by the heavy rain that has fallen at intervals every day for the past eight days in Union, Somerset and Middlesex counties. The rain has laid fields of corn flat to the ground, totally ruining the crops that two weeks ago gove promise of an exceedingly large yield.

Farmers with grain stacked in the fields will lose it all. Wheat and rye have been destroyed and potatoes are rottening in the ground. A conservative estimate of the damage is $150,000.

ODD FELLOWS INSTALL.

Queen City Lodge Had a Big Time Last Evening.

There was big time at the meeting of Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O O. F., in their rooms on West Second street, last evening. At which time District Deputy Grand Master W. M. Stamets and staff from Westfield Lodge, No. 169, of Westfield, were present and installed the following recently elected officers:

N. G., G. Thorn; V. G., C. I. Young; R. S., L. J. Neal; W., C. H. Randolph; C, T. C. Smith; R. S. N. G., C. W. DeGraw; L. S. N. G., F. G. Walsh; R. S. V. G., J. D. Brown; L. S. V. G., L. Radford; I. G., G. A. Morehouse; O. G., Isaac Lance; R. S. S., H. DeMott; L. S. S., C. Myers; chaplain, W. J. Conroy.

There was a large number of visitors present to witness the ceremony which was well executed and very impressive. At the close a splendid collation was served.

CLUBHOUSE OPENING.

Catholic Club Members to Enjoy Privileges After Next Monday.

The Board of Directors of the Catholic Club held a meeting in the club house, corner of Liberty and West Sixth streets, last night. The repairs on the building were inspected and it was decided to open the place for the use of members on next Monday. Designs for a gold club badge were inspected, but no selection was made, as it was thought best to submit the designs to the members for them to make a selection at the next meeting of the club.

The regular monthly meeting will be held in the club house on next Monday evening.

Primary Teachers' Union.

The devotional exercises at the meeting of the Primary Teachers' Union held yesterday afternoon were conducted by Mrs. Jones, while the lesson, "Paul's Ministry at Corinth," was taught by Mrs. G. H. Batchelor. She gave a very interesting review of Paul's second journey, and the organization of many churches along the route where he stopped. In closing Mrs. Batchelor illustrated her remarks with the use of blocks showing that a church built on the foundation of Jesus Christ was sure and that those built on goodness was sure to topple over.

Silas Yerkes, of East Sixth street, is in Philadelphia today on business.

NOTED THIEF ARRESTED

"JERRY JIMMY" MAY HAVE BEEN THE WESTFIELD BURGLAR.

Taken Into Custody at Philadelphia Last Friday—Had Railroad Tickets and Admitted Being in Towns in This Section.

If James Johnston, Alias "Jersey Jimmy," were to give a truthful account of his doings during the past month or two, it is possible that he might a tale unfold which would prove most exciting reading for people in this section. If he choose to do so this man could probably tell a great deal about recent burglaries in Westfield and this city.

If the reader had been on Twelfth street, Philadelphia, at 2 o'clock last Friday afternoon, he might have noticed two Quaker City detectives shadowing a tall man about sixty years of age, with sunken cheeks and gray hair. Not for a moment did the two sleuths lose sight of the game they were pursuing. When the shadowed man walked into a store or stopped to look into a window they lingered close by to watch him, and when he plunged into a crowd or around a corner, the detectives were close at his heels. At Twelfth and Arch streets one of the sleuths walked up and placed his hand upon the man's shoulder.

"Jimmy," he said, "We want you to come with us."

The man started, then regaining his composure asked unconcernedly, "Well, what's the matter now?" "Oh nothing," answered the detective, "All we want is that you accompany us to Police Headquarters."

At headquarters the man was recognized as James Johnston, alias "Jersey Jimmy," one of the cleverest thieves in the country. His picture in the Rogues' Gallery is No. 1713.

Johnson has a number of aliases. He is well known to the police of Trenton and other cities in this state as one of the cleverest of criminals. When arrested he had a ticket from New Brunswick and several to way stations along the Central Railroad. When questioned he admitted having been in Middlesex and Union counties before going to Philadelphia.

The story of what he did while in this section would probably make interesting reading, but there seems little hope of securing any evidence upon which Jersey Jimmy can be held.

COLD AND DAMP DRIZZLE.

HEAVY CLOTHING AND GRATE FIRES ARE NOW IN ORDER.

It Looks as Though We Are in the Midst of a Forty Days Rain That Commenced With St. Swithin's Day, on July 15th.

Its lucky that old St. Swithin does not happen to dwell in this neighborhood, else the people would be so up in arms against him that he might find it necessary to decamp in the night hidden by the favoring darkness. It is an old saying that if it rains on St. Swithin's Day, which is the 15th of July, that it would rain for the next forty days. St. Swithin was a good old man who lived in "Merrie England," many years ago. On his death, he was canonized and it was the intention of the good people to remove his remains from the cemetery to the cathedral. The day set for the removal was July 15th, but it rained on that day and for the next forty days thereafter so that the bones of the Saint had to wait for forty days before the ceremony attending their removal could take place. Hence arose the legend.

On St. Swithin's day there were a few sprinkles of rain, but no one thought of it. The next day it rained a little, and the next and the next, and so it has kept on until today, when the rain is falling steadily as if it never intended to stop. For the last thirteen days it has rained; sometimes it was merely a sprinkle, again a heavy shower, and other times it rained or rather poured all day.

Yesterday clouds overhung the city nearly all day, although but little rain fell. It was damp and chilly and everybody was glad to don warmer clothing. In some cases an open fire was very comfortable. It sprinkled during the evening and the clouds looked threatening. During the night it rained a little and the morning dawned dark, damp and threatening, with the chill east wind still blowing. Then during the morning a little rain began to fall, until at 11 o'clock a hard rain set in and is still at it.

Decided in Supreme Court.

The case of Hand and MacIntyre against John G. Bicknell, on contract, in the New Jersey Supreme Court has been decided in favor of the plaintiff who are awarded judgment and costs amounting to $439.88. The attorneys for the plaintiff are Pope & Runyon, of this city.

ALL FOR FOUR SCREENS

NEW MARKET BARBER ARRESTED CHARGED WITH LARCENY.

Both the Barber and His Second-Floor Neighbor Claimed the Screens, so the Latter Appealed to the Law for Help.

Four screens, valued at twenty-five cents each, were the innocent cause of all sorts of trouble between two neighbors up in New Market and the subsequent arrest of one of the two.

Al Mobus keeps the barber shop on Main street in New Market and there daily works over the faces of the residents of that village. The building in which his shop is located is a two story frame building, the second floor of which is occupied by Charles Meeker and wife.

Now the mosquitoes haunt New Market as well as the other towns of Jersey, and to keep them out, Mr. and Mrs. Meeker bought four screens. Time had its effect on the screens and they were finally consigned to a shed in the rear of the house. Al Mobus says that he asked Mrs. Meeker if they were any good, and that she said no and that he might have them if he wanted to. So it was that Al Mobus, the barber, took possession of the screens and they were used to keep the mosquitoes out of the shop.

One night Meeker noticed the screens and his wrath rose at what he termed the "nerve" of his first floor neighbor. He demanded the screens and trouble ensued. Mobus said that they had been given to him and he intended to keep them for the principle of the thing if for nothing else. Then Meeker said that he would get those screens back for the principle if for nothing else, and that he would go to law about it.

Mobus would not give up the screens, so Meeker appeared before Justice Storms, whose office is in the village, and charged the barber with larceny. The warrant was issued and Mobus was arrested and brought before the Judge last evening. The Judge released him without bail to appear next week for an examination. Meanwhile the people of New Market are waiting for new developments in the case.

NEW MARKET GOLD PROSPECTORS.

The Interest is Equal to That of a Klondike Region.

A valuable gold watch was lost in New Market pond, Sunday afternoon, under rather peculiar circumstances. Two cyclists from New York, who refused to give their names, stopped on the bridge over the upper end of the pond and watched a number of small boys who were in swimming. One of the swimmers finally asked the wheelmen what time it was and one of the wheelmen drew forth a handsome gold watch from his pocket and looked at it. There was no chain attached.

Suddenly, without warning, the watch slipped from the young man's hand and disappeared in the water with a splash. The man shouted as it fell, but none of the swimmers were near enough to catch it.

The young man explained that the watch was a valuable one and had been presented to him by his father. He offered a reward of $5 to anyone that would dive down and find the watch. There were quite a number of boys in the water then and they all began diving, trying to fish up the missing timepiece, but without success. Other boys saw that there was some excitement and hurried to the bridge until nearly all the juvenile population of New Market, and many of the older ones besides, were in the water diving for the watch or watching the divers from the bridge.

After two hours of fruitless endeavors, the cyclists departed and the searchers gave up the hunt for the watch. Since then, however, many of the small boys spend their spare time in diving for the valuable article that was lost there.

LOST CONSIDERABLE BLOOD.

James Egan Sustained a Serious Gash in His Thigh.

James Egan, an employe at Blatz & Mundy's meat market on Front street, was boning hams at about 10 o'clock this morning, when the keen-edged knife made a slip and cut a deep gash in his right thigh. Notwithstanding all efforts to check it, the flow of blood was very free and soon Egan became weak in consequence.

After a time a physician was sent for and the wound was stitched up. Egan was then placed in a carriage and carefully removed to his home on Mountain avenue.

A party of young men of Evona took a bicycle ride to Dover Sunday.

George and Philip Macintyre took a successful fishing trip to Perth Amboy last Saturday.

Harry Gorrill, night operator at the Western Union office, rode his wheel to Springfield last Sunday and called on friends.

NEWS FROM STRIKE.

Debs Addresses a Meeting at Wheeling.

SAYS THAT HE FEELS ENCOURAGED.

From Other Sections Comes News of an Uneasy Condition Among the Men. New Men Have Arrived at Scottdale, Pa.

Wheeling, July 27.—Eugene V. Debs made his appearance in Wheeling and was met by a large crowd at the railroad station. Last night he addressed a mass meeting in the central part of the city. The efforts to secure the public building square for the meeting failed, and the meeting took place a square away.

In speaking of the situation in the Fairmont coalfields Debs said he felt encouraged. A number of men joined the strikers there on Sunday, and others are expected to follow. He said the efforts of the organizers would have been more successful but for the fact that the operators, as he claims, prevented their men from attending the meetings. Practical slavery, he said, exists in the Fairmont mining region.

"Although the press may report the miners as living under favorable conditions in the Fairmont region," said Debs, "I have collected data from farmers, miners and storekeepers which show that the mining companies cheat their employees in the mines, at the scales and in the company stores.

"The intimidation practiced by the operators has prevented many from joining the strike, but we are hopeful of ultimate success in West Virginia."

The Situation In Indiana.

Indianapolis, July 27.—Commissioners Conner and Terhune, appointed by Governor Mount to visit the Indiana coalfields and report on the condition of the miners, have submitted their conclusions. They find that about 8,000 miners and families will need assistance if the present conditions continue.

They suggest that the prosperous people of Indiana should give the subject their thought. Operators are quoted to the effect that they are responsible for the low wages and the condition of miners, for they have forced down prices under the stress of competition, which in turn has driven them to it. The report calls attention to the fact that no lawlessness exists and that there are no signs of an unruly spirit.

The govenor has decided to issue an appeal suggesting some kind of a reasonable relief for the striking miners and their families.

A Crisis at Scottdale.

Scottdale, Pa., July 27.—A batch of new men has arrived here, and they express a determination to go to work. The strikers' committee labored with them unsuccessfully, and when they reported the result of their interviews to the idle mill men the excitement became intense. Armed deputies are on guard about the mill property, and orders have been issued to arrest any person who trespasses. Both sides seem to be preparing for a conflict, which nearly everybody expects and fears. Connections have been made so that the boilers and furnaces can be fired with natural gas, but the officials of the company refuse to give any information as to the time they expect to start. The old men say their lines are solid and that they will remain so.

Strike Seems to Have Ended at Fairmont.

Fairmont, W. Va., July 27.—A mass meeting was announced to be held at New England, but none was held, because only 23 miners had gathered. An injunction issued by Special Judge Mason seems to have put an end to the strike here. With all the leaders at Wheeling, the men say there is nothing left for them to do but to go to work. Fully 100 men took this step at Monongah, which, with 80 men imported from the Connellsville region, makes 180 men at work there. The injunction just issued has not as yet been served, and the operators think this step will be unnecessary. It is said many miners want to go back to work and that this step will be taken very soon.

Embezzler Sentenced.

Topeka, July 27.—A. D. Hubbard, who was convicted of embezzling $8,000 as receiver of the Hamilton Printing company, has been sentenced to three years in the penitentiary by Judge Hazen. Hubbard was a prominent lawyer here at the time of his arrest, was law partner to Lieutenant Governor Harvey and was state president of the A. P. A. of Kansas. When sentence was pronounced, Hubbard made a sensational speech. He said that he was convinced that he was convicted because of his connection with the A. P. A., and if so he was proud of it.

Illicit Still Captured.

New York, July 27.—Back of a poorly stocked tinware shop in the basement of 17 Eldridge street internal revenue agents have found an illicit still in operation. The place was rented a fortnight ago by a man who gave his name as Henry Weinstein. The seized still had a capacity of 50 gallons. Ten barrels of sugar mash and some raw whisky were found in the place. Arrests in connection with the seizure are to be made.

A Report Denied.

Newark, N. J., July 27.—United States Senator James Smith, Bernard M. Shanley and other wealthy men, who, it was reported, were about to form a syndicate to take up all the unissued stock of the Newark Telephone company and push the completion of its lines and make a big concern of it, denied that there was any truth in the report.

For the Republican Meeting.

Lincoln, Neb., July 27.—Thursday, Aug. 26, and Lincoln have been selected by the Republican state central committee for the state convention. The sentiment of the party leaders seemed favorable to the renomination of Chief Justice Post of the supreme court.

A Woman Sentenced to the Rock Pile.

Danville, Ills., July 27.—Sex distinction has been wiped out in the court of police by Magistrate Timmons of this city. The justice sentenced Maggie Sellers, a disorderly woman, to the rock pile for 30 days. The woman took the sentence nonchalantly.

THE KLONDIKE FEVER

It Is Still on the Increase, and Everybody Is Going.

NEW ROUTE HAS BEEN SUGGESTED

Immense Amount of Freight Has Been Shipped to Alaska, Which It Will Take a Long Time to Transport to the Fields.

Port Townsend, Wash., July 27.—The steamer City of Topeka has arrived from Alaska. She brings news that the Klondike fever is on the increase at Juneau, nearly every ablebodied man there either having gone or prepared to go to the rich fields. Authentic reports direct from Dyea are that there is now as much freight piled up at the head of the inlet as the Indians can pack over the divide in the next eighteen months.

This amount of freight will be more than doubled when the steamers Queen and Mexico, now en route, arrive. This condition of affairs practically precludes the possibility of hundreds of the gold seekers reaching the mining region this year.

Frank F. Myers, a Juneau newspaper man, will leave here in two weeks for Dawson City. He will go by the route followed by Lieutenant Schwatke, who conducted an exploring party into the Yukon valley in 1889.

This route starts from Takou inlet, 30 miles south of Juneau, from Takou to Lake Testin, a distance of 130 miles over level prairies, and the country from Lake Testin is an open valley through to Yukon river by way of the Hooting Hua river.

With the aid of pack horses the Takou route is by far the more preferable. It is possible that a stage line will be operated over this route.

Parties who have been over both routes say that the walk of 130 miles over the level country is more easily accomplished than that of the 15 miles over the Chilkat summit.

John G. Brady has taken his oath of office and is now Alaska's governor.

Military Post In Alaska.

Washington, July 27.—The president and Secretary Alger have decided to detail an army officer and a company of soldiers from the regular army for service in Alaska. The matter is yet in very indefinite shape, but details will be arranged as soon as possible in order that the soldiers may get into the vicinity of the gold country before navigation closes on the Yukon river.

They will be sent to their destination via the Yukon river route, and the offer of one of the shipping companies on the Pacific coast to transport the men and their baggage and stores will probably be accepted.

The exact location of the camp or post has not yet been determined on, but it is expected to be at Circle City. An army officer now in the field and who has had experience in such matters has been invited to take charge of the company, and an answer is expected from him very soon.

The detail of men who will go will be made from one of the posts in the west, but just which one is not finally settled on. The officials are anxious to locate the soldiers in the gold country as soon as possible, and if it can be arranged they will be sent on the steamer sailing early in August.

Canadians Starting.

Montreal, July 27.—A. T. Genest, a well known local engineer, will leave on the 8th of August for the Klondike with eight or ten assistants in behalf of a Canadian syndicate. Mersier, the well known French-Canadian scout and explorer, who became well known in connection with other explorations in Alaska, is also going.

New Comptroller of the Treasury.

Washington, July 27.—The president has decided to appoint Robert J. Tracewell of Indiana for the position of comptroller of the treasury. The appointment, it is said at the White House, is entirely one of merit, Mr. Tracewell being selected because of his fine legal attainments. The position is worth $6,000 per year and has been vacant since the retirement of Comptroller Bowler on the 1st inst. Mr. Tracewell is a native of Virginia. He was a representative in the Fifty-fourth congress from the Third district of his state and is 45 years of age.

Chinese Attempt to Smuggle Opium.

Buffalo, July 27.—A number of small tin cans containing about 40 pounds of opium have been discovered on Squaw island, in the Niagara river, and turned over to the customs officials. The sequel to the discovery is an attempt made by a party of Chinamen to land on the island about midnight Saturday. A detail of police from the Black Rock precinct were on the watch for smugglers and rushed for the boat as it touched shore. The Celestials pushed off into the swift current and escaped, the officers firing at them, with no apparent effect.

Nervous

People often wonder why their nerves are so weak; why they get tired so easily; why they start at every slight but sudden sound; why they do not sleep naturally; why they have frequent headaches, indigestion and nervous

Dyspepsia

The explanation is simple. It is found in that impure blood which is continually feeding the nerves upon refuse instead of the elements of strength and vigor. In such condition opiate and nerve compounds simply deaden and do not cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla feeds the nerves pure, rich, red blood; gives natural sleep, perfect digestion, is the true remedy for all nervous troubles.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. $1 per bottle. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

PERHAPS THIS MAY HELP YOU.

"My food does me no good," you say. Then it does you harm. There is no halting place between these extremes. Digested food alone gives health and strength. Undigested food sours, or ferments, in the stomach and becomes a poison to the whole body. It causes headache, heart palpitation, liver and kidney trouble, distress after eating, pains in the chest and sides, and the tired, languid, heavy feeling we hear so much about. When the digestion goes wrong every function of the body goes wrong. Yes, and the mind, too. Men fail in business and die poor for no other reason than this—they are weakened, dulled and stupefied by dyspepsia. The lives of a host of women are blighted in the same way. You may be one of this miserable multitude. The writer of these lines was one of your number a short time ago. I tried dozens of things to get cured; just as you have done, no doubt. The thing which at last succeeded with me may succeed with you. It is a discovery of those wise and good people—the Shakers, of Mt. Lebbanon, N. Y.—called the Shaker Digestive Cordial. It is not a purgative, which at best gives only transient relief. It is in itself a digested food and also a corrector of the digestive function. You can eat and digest your food while taking this cordial. It helps you at once and soon makes the stomach vigorous and healthy. It is not like any other so-called dyspepsia cures. It is prepared by the Shakers principally from herbs cultivated by them. They do not ask us to spend a dollar for a bottle while we are in the dark as to its virtues. They take the risk themselves. Almost any druggist will sell you a trial bottle for ten cents, so that you can see whether it is what they say—and adapted to your case. And isn't the mere chance of a cure worth that much?

WAR THE PANACEA.

But Perhaps Major Wagner Is Moved by Professional Prejudice.

Major Arthur L. Wagner, U. S. A. one of the most distinguished military students in America, in answer to a question, said:

"The Cretan embroglio seems full of war. It is high time that Europe had a blood-letting. War will clear up conditions like a thunderstorm clears the atmosphere."

"What do you think of war for America?"

"America has needed a war for some time," replied Major Wagner. "A foreign war a few years ago would have prevented the so-called hard times and the discontent of this recent period."

"And a war now?"

"An act of war by Spain would be a godsend."

"War," added the soldier, "not only clears up the political and national atmosphere, but it purges the moral atmosphere.

"The loss of life and horrors of fire and blood seem beyond being condoned; nevertheless, as the greatest good for the greatest number, war is the heroic but the only remedy for evils of long peace.

"The American people are for war right now. These peculiar outbreaks are the symptoms of a demand for war.

"The inevitable result of unbroken peace is what we see in China to-day."

Major Wagner's mission in Kansas City was not to consult about war with Colonel Hariman, the Cuban fire eater, but to take dinner.

They Didn't Play.

Frank Daniels and Burt Havenly are successful actors, but their theatrical paths have not always been rose strewn.

Several years ago they were traveling together with a company in North Carolina, and hard luck had followed them everywhere they went. Paying engagements were scarce, and finally the members of the company began to clamor for their pay, already long past due.

"Let's disband," they suggested.

"Wait until we get to Raleigh," pleaded Haverly. "We always play to a big business there."

And he exhibited a telegram which informed them that every seat in the house had been sold.

This cheered the disheartened actors, and they went to Raleigh with light hearts. When they arrived they scrambled into an omnibus and started for a hotel. Daniels and Haverly mounted the seat with the driver and gazed on the landscape that was presented as the old vehicle rattled up the street.

"Beautiful, isn't it?" Daniels exclaimed, and his companion smiled as he nodded his head.

The two men gazed entranced at a red glare in the horizon. They called to those in the 'bus, and all climbed out to witness the rare sight.

"Sunset!" exclaimed the man who drove the 'bus. "Where's any sunset?"

"Why, over there," and Haverly pointed to the glare.

"That's no sunset," said the man, with a look of disgust on his face. "That's the opry house burnin' down."

The company walked home.—Chicago Journal.

A Remarkable Power of Touch.

Sir William Hamilton mentions a tailor, whose name he does not give, who was blind from birth, and yet, by the sense of touch alone, could distinguish the patterns of Scotch plaids used in the kilts of the Highland costumes, matching the cloth with all the exactness that might be expected of one having perfect vision.

Inquirer—My man, do you consider your way of life a healthy one?

Tramp—Don't know about that; but I know a chap has to be healthy to be in it. Just think of the many different styles of cooking we have to put up with.—Boston Transcript.

Something to Know.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Reasons Why Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is the Best.

1. Because it affords almost instant relief in case of pain in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus.
2. Because it is the only remedy that never fails in the most severe cases of dysentery and diarrhoea.
3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhoea.
4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent bilious colic.
5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemical dysentery.
6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
8. Because it produces no bad results.
9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.
10. Because it has saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world.

A STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE.

A Kingston Man Who Expected a Legacy Missing In London.

Kingston, N. Y., July 27.—Thomas Telford, a well known veterinarian of this city, who sailed for Europe on June 30, accompanied by his brother-in-law, Michael J. Kelly of New York, mysteriously disappeared from the Fuston station, London, from which place the two men had secured tickets to Carlisle, their destination. All efforts of the London police to find Telford have failed. Kelly has returned here with the sad news, and Telford's wife is distracted.

For over a year past Telford claimed he had fallen heir to many thousand pounds cash and much valuable lands and extensive woolen mills through the death of an aged aunt in Scotland, and it was on this account that he went abroad.

It is now claimed that this story of the inheritance was a myth and that letters purporting to come from alleged foreign solicitors which Telford exhibited among his friends here were all written by a young man in this city. Mrs. Telford refused to be interviewed regarding the matter.

A GLUCOSE TRUST.

Formed In Chicago With a Big Capitalization and a New Jersey Charter.

New York, July 27.—Little surprise was manifested in Wall street when word came from Chicago that a combination of half a dozen big glucose companies had been formed with a capitalization of $40,000,000 and a New Jersey charter.

The persons prominent in the alleged combination include J. P. Morgan, ex-Governor Flower, H. O. Havemeyer, A. N. Brady, F. O. Mathessen, Blair & Co. and Moore & Schley of this city and Marshall Field, L. Z. Leiter, Robert T. Lincoln and other wealthy Chicagoans.

Three of the largest glucose manufacturing firms in the combination are the National Starch Manufacturing company, the Charles Pope Glucose company and the Waukegan (Ills.) company. It is said that these companies will be in sympathy with the combination and that a uniform price will be made.

Mutual Benefit Insurance Policy Holders Protest.

WANT TO TRANSFER THE POLICIES.

Charges of Bad Management Freely Made by Those Present, but the President of the Company Is Not Held Responsible For Its Condition.

New York, July 27.—Over 300 policy holders in the Massachusetts Benefit Life Assurance association held an exciting meeting yesterday afternoon in the main hall of the Equitable building, on lower Broadway. President John Henry Rolker, who was in attendance, preserved a calm demeanor, notwithstanding the fact that fraud and swindle were pretty freely used by the policy holders. These severe terms were applied more to the company itself than to any one connected with it. The policy holders finally decided to refuse to pay any more assessments into the company and empowered the committee chosen at last week's meeting to make arrangements to transfer as many of the 10,000 policy holders as are willing into some old established New York company. Further, it was agreed to assess each policy holder one-tenth of 1 per cent of the face value of each policy for the expense of enrollment and transfer.

Only policy holders were admitted to the hall, and, although hard words were used during the session, it was conceded that President Rolker is not to blame for the financial condition of the company, because he has only been in office a few months, since the ejectment of George A. Litchfield of Boston, whom he succeeded.

The Rev. Thomas Heywood, chairman of the policy holders' committee, called the meeting to order. Some of those present had paid $4,000 on a $10,000 policy in 10 years; others whose assessments had been increased from $19.90 to $39 and still others whose regular and special calls had been tripled and even quadrupled. When called upon now to pay greater regular assessments and extra assessments in view of the uncertain condition of the company's finances, there was no wonder that the veteran policy holders were emphatic and hard to keep in order.

Books In Chaotic State.

President Rolker stated that the directors and the officers of the company who were recently appointed found the books in a chaotic state.

He did not exactly know what the liabilities of the company were, because many of the proofs of death and death claims had not been regularly filed.

Proofs of death in numerous cases were not forthcoming, and he could only roughly estimate the liabilities. In round numbers, President Rolker said, the liabilities of the company were about $980,000. Of this he thought that $120,000 was illegal and noncollectable, leaving the actual liabilities at about $800,000. He would place the assets of the company at $702,000. Of this sum $192,000 was borrowed from the emergency fund.

The company had an equity in the Massachusetts building, a large office building in Boston, of $205,000, Canadian bonds to the amount of $102,000, investments in South American countries to the amount of $25,000, about $110,000 in mortgages and about $100,000 in real estate in and about Boston.

If the policy holders, or a major part of them, would pay the regular and extra assessments levied, the income would be therefrom, President Rolker said, about $575,000.

As most of the liabilities were in the form of death claims and as he had stated many had not complied with the rules and requisitions of the company, these claims would have to be deferred.

President Rolker next described the "lien plan," by which a policy holder, say with a $5,000 policy, would agree that if he died within the time that the men of his age, according as the mortuary tables prescribe, then he would forfeit a certain proportion of the face of the policy.

For example, if a man with a $5,000 policy died within the five more years accorded to him by the tables he would lose $2,000 or $3,000, as may be agreed on. If he lived longer than the time alloted by the tables, then he would get the full face value of the policy.

He further explained that many of the men whom the life insurance companies had rejected lived longer than the men whom they had accepted.

Rolker Creates a Surprise.

President Rolker surprised the meeting by stating that he would hold all checks and moneys sent to him in trust, and if it was decided to close up the affairs of the company on Aug. 5 he would return the money paid in to the policy holders who sent them. He also said that it was not the fault of the present officers of the company that the finances were so bad and declared that the district attorney of Boston had assured him that he would soon look into the affairs of the past management of the association.

Unless 50 per cent of the policy holders had been heard from by check or otherwise by Aug. 5, President Rolker added, the board of directors would probably vote to close up business. He also said that he had consulted his attorneys and actuaries, and what he had told his hearers was on good authority.

Some discussion followed among the policy holders, and all agreed with Chairman Heywood that President Rolker was entitled to the thanks of the meeting.

Chairman Heywood stated the committee had been at work since the last meeting, and he was of the opinion that the Massachusetts Benefit Life Assurance company was "a goner" and that something should be done to protect the policy holders.

The committee, he said, had had a conference with one of the three leading life insurance companies (old line) and had received an offer from a high official of the company that was very flattering. He stated that this company was one that any policy holder of the Massachusetts would be glad to get into and that it would receive the policy holders without medical examination. An examination of the assured would be made by the agents of the company, and that was all.

A motion to empower the committee to carry out its recommendations and approving of its report was made. This was seconded and carried with a rush.

JERSEY SENATORS DISCUSS BOOMS.

The "Senatorial Picnic" tendered his colleagues by State Senator Engle at Beach Haven was prolific of much political gossip. The United States Senatorial boom and the Gubernatorial boom were given fresh impetus. Whenever Comptroller Hancock's back was turned his boom for Governor was given a perceptible boost. Congressman Gardner, of the Second District, was also favorably talked of in the event of the Senatorship going to North Jersey. The general opinion seemed to be that the Senatorship was likely to go to John Kean, the almost utter impossibility of a Governor reaching that position being pointed out by reference to New Jersey history. Moreover, in every county where an election for State Senator is to be held this fall, the Kean forces are active, while there as yet seems to be no outside pressure exerted by Gov. Griggs' followers.

WHY THE "BIRD" IS HERE.

There is no subject more timely at the present than the cause of the presence of hordes of New Jersey "birds." State Entomologist Smith gives this explanation:

The causes of the mosquito pest are the plentiful rains, forming lasting puddles, and the great heat causing the rapid development of microscopic plants and animals in them and supplying abundance of food for the mosquito larvæ.

Upon the puddles that form in low places the mosquito always deposits her eggs. Each mosquito shells out about one hundred eggs at a time, and from these the larvæ develop and feed on the microscopic plants that grow rapidly in still water under the influence of the heat.

The conditions this year have been especially favorable to the propagation of the mosquito. Much rain has fallen and the marshes and meadows are full of water. There has been a good deal of sultry weather, with but little wind, and all these conditions are very favorable to the hatching out and development of the long-billed pest.

A LAW NOT ENFORCED.

It has just come to light that the fifty-five hour law is not enforced, and that the factory inspector has paid no attention to it. When the law was passed five years ago a case was taken into the Supreme Court to contest its constitutionality; the court, however, threw it out on a technicality, and did not touch the main issue. Pending the court's decision, Lawrence T. Fell, the chief factory inspector, instructed the deputy inspectors not to do anything, and that order has never been revoked. It is a pity that the court did not pass upon the constitutionality of the act because the question is bound to come up again sooner or later.—Tribune.

MISS LUND - NATURALIZED.

Going to China and Thinks Americans Are Safe There.

Miss Hannah Lund, of Plainfield, was yesterday naturalized by Judge Kirkpatrick, of the United States District Court, Miss Lund is twenty-two and has been in this country seven years. She came from Sweden. Since her arrival she has educated herself with funds saved from her own hard work. In a few weeks she will go to Mongolia, China, as a Christian missionary.

Judge Kirkpatrick asked Miss Lund why she wished to become naturalized. She said she considered the Americans as most certain of protection in such countries. He asked what was the matter with King Oscar. She replied that he was all right, but Uncle Sam was much better.

—The great event of the season at Asbury Park is the baby parade. Those who go on the Hope chapel excursion on Saturday, August 21st, will be able to see it all, as it is to be held on that date. Several new and novel features are to be added this years, which no doubt will make the parade a greater success than ever.

THEATRICAL.

One of the strongest associations on the road this season is the celebrated Kennedy Players. They have secured "Miss Flora" direct from the "Crystal Palace," London, to present her wonderful electrical dances assisted by that celebrated electrician, C. E. Mackezie. The company is headed by that gifted fun-maker Jno. J. Kennedy, assisted by the following well known artists:

Gertrude Dion Magill, E. P. Sullivan, Carrie Louis, Leanore Hassen, E. M. Crane, Wm. H. Danvers, Eunice Fitch, the Elmore Sisters—Jennie and Mamie — James A. Brady, Walter Wood, Nellie Kennedy, C. E. Mackenzie, Mme. Flora, Frank W. Vail, Edgar W. Murray, Adleine Britton, James M. Conneely, Marrian Brokaw, Master Edmund Keene, A. E. Hamilton, and Master Edgar Murray.

This organization also carries their own special scenery, stereopticon, calcium lights and elegant costumes, thus enabling them to present each play and comedy on a scale of magnificence that has seldom been seen in Plainfield.

Resolutions of Condolence.

At a meeting of the County Board of Assessors held July 19th, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, Learning of the death of the wife of our fellow-member, J. F. Hubbard, of Plainfield, be it

Resolved, That our heartfelt sympathy be extended to him in this, his sad affliction; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes and a copy of the same be sent to the family and printed in the Press and Courier-News of Plainfield.

William Robinson has accepted a position with the Bard Bicycle Company.

Fred P. Condit will spend a few weeks with friends at Sound Beach, Conn.

Miss Marie Sage, of Philadelphia, is visiting the Misses Bogert, of Central avenue.

Mrs. Sarah Reed, of Pittsburg, Pa., is the guest of her niece, Mrs. R. R. Sinclair.

Arthur Spooner, of Brewsters, N.Y., is visiting Mr. and Mrs F. A. Ernst of Mountain avenue.

Miss Marguerite Loughlin spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. George Voehl, in Plainfield.

The Junior Epworth League of the M. E. church enjoyed a picnic at Embree Crescent today.

A. H. Barnett, manager of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company, has recovered from an attack of measles.

Frank Deming, of Central avenue, has returned from his stay at Vanderbilt Hospital, in New York city.

Lawrence Embree, of Buena Vista, Va., has returned home after a visit of two weeks with relatives in this place.

Miss Lucy Johnston and Miss M. F. Johnston will leave shortly for Peekskill, N. Y., where they will spend their vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Place and daughter, Edna, of New York city, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. George T. Cruttenden.

No games were played in the I. O. S. tennis tournament on last Saturday, as the courts were in bad condition from the rain.

L. A. Lightfoot, C. B. Peddie and O. W. Lewis have been proposed for membership in the Westfield Exempt Firemen's Association.

The case of Schwinefurth against Blake, which was to have been tried in Justice Collins' court on Saturday, was postponed one week.

The sale of the goods of W. W. Gilby's grocery under a chattel mortgage foreclosure, which was to have taken place yesterday, was postponed for ten days on account of Mrs. Gilby's claim to the ownership.

The Westfield Club baseball team will play the Cranford team on the North Broad street grounds next Saturday afternoon. The rivalry which has always existed in baseball between the two towns will make the contest a most exciting one. The game will be called at 4 o'clock sharp.

A horse attached to a junk dealer's wagon became frightened and ran away on Westfield avenue yesterday morning. Under the railroad bridge the wagon caught between an electric light pole and the stone abutment of the bridge. The harness gave way and the animal ran to Broad street where it was captured. No other damage was done.

A number of tramps were encamped in the the woods next to the residence of John D. Gluck, on South Broad street, yesterday. They attempted to enter the Gluck house, terrifying the women who were inside, and acted in a generally lawless manner about the neighborhood. Last night a number of citizens, accompanied by justices of the peace, went to the woods to arrest the vagrants. A thorough search of the place was made, but the tramps had evidently fled at the approach of the party.

The funeral of Miss Sarah Ann Scudder, who died on Saturday aged ninety-four years and six months, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the residence of her niece, Mrs. Smith Scudder, on South Broad street. Rev. N. W. Cadwell, of the Presbyterian church, officiated. Interment was made in the old Presbyterian cemetery beside the brother of the deceased, whose moss-covered tombstone, still standing, relates that he died in 1797, just one hundred years ago.

PASSING COMMENT.

There is a little black and tan dog in Dunellen that has a habit that is likely to bring the canine's life to an untimely end some day. The dog will run directly at a freight train when it is passing at full speed and spring over the rail in the intervals between the wheels. After safely reaching the other side of the train the animal will return in the same way and keep it up until the train has passed. The dog is very quick in its movements and has so far escaped accident.

There is one young man employed as a driver in a local grocery who is either very absent-minded or else in love. The other day he hurried out of a house after delivering some groceries and sprang into the wagon, telling the horse to go on. The equine never moved. He spoke again but with no effect. Then he brought the whip down on the animal's back. The horse backed and reared but did not go. Then the young man remembered that he had tied the horse to a hitching post.

A ride through the residential part of Elizabeth reveals a state of affairs which Plainfielders can be very thankful does not exist in this city. Around all of the piazzas where the family residing in the house cares to sit, it is necessary to have a wire cage. The cage is not to keep anybody in but to keep the Jersey mosquito out. It is made of mosquito netting and is a common thing in the county seat of Union county. It is simply impossible to sit on the piazza without such an arrangement, for the well-known little insects are so ferocious that they attack every unprotected individual, whether native or foreigner.

It is not surprising that attendance at all meetings of a public character is so small in summer, since most audience rooms where people gather in large numbers become unbearably hot and close at this season of the year. A notable exception to this is the Y. M. C. A. Hall, in which the men's meetings are held Sunday afternoons. Those who have attended these meetings are often heard to comment upon the coolnes of the room and the comfortable seats. The advantages are augmented by fans and lemonade which are dispensed free at each meetmeeting. These comforts probably have much to do with the large attendance, and it would not come amiss for other organizations wishing to attract large audiences to try the same thing.

Next to bravery, physical strength is one of the essential characteristics of a good police officer. That Sergeant Kiely possesses the latter as well as the former qualification was shown by a little incident which occurred in this city on Saturday evening, in which the officer proved himself a second Sandow. On the evening in question the Sergeant started out to pay a visit to his barber. When near the shop he saw a friend coming from the opposite direction, and evidently headed for the same shop. In his desire to be "next," each one quickened his pace and then broke into a run. At the door of the shop they came together and the policeman putting out his arm gave his friend a playful shove which lifted him from his feet and tossed him through the shop window, shattering an immense pane of glass. Fortunately the Sergeant's friend was not cut by the falling glass, and a general laugh and a settling of accounts followed.

Strong Linen Logic.

You know what the new tariff will do with linens, advance them from 25 to 40 per cent; these lots fresh from the great Scotch and Irish makers, cold as a stone. Flax! yes, every thread of them, not a half-cotton substitute; good time to buy; good place to buy them here.

PUTNAM & DEGRAW.

LIKE SPARROWS AND RAVENS.

A Kansas City Sect That Gets All It Wants from God.

The Kansas City Times tells of a colony of fifty people out on Eleventh street and Troost avenue of that city, known as the Gospel Union. The head of the colony is a Mr. Perry, formerly cashier of a bank in Abilene, Kan. The colony lives on faith. That is, they pray for what they want, and it always comes. Mr. Perry said to the reporter:

"We really depend on the Lord for all that we eat, drink and wear. We never know on one day just what we are going to have on the next, for we are certain that He will provide."

"You have plenty to eat, then?"

"We not only have all that we need to sustain life, but we have a great many little extras that make it pleasant. Of course we live plainly. We should do that even if we had plenty of money at our command. Some time ago a report got about that seemed to convey the impression that about all we have on our table is bread and apples. This is not true by any means. Understand me, we should not complain at all if we were compelled to subsist on bread and apples, nor, indeed, if we were left without food. The only reason, therefore, that we have for objecting to such statements is that the Lord has provided for us, and we wish to acknowledge it and give Him credit for it."

"All your contributions are voluntary?"

"Entirely so. They all come from people who believe we are doing the Lord's work, and who are prompted by Him to help us. We never take up any collections, nor ask for any donations."

"Does the money always come when you need it?"

"Yes, and what may seem strange to you, it always comes in the amounts we need. I remember one day, some time ago, I received $12. Our gas bill was due. That was $8.85. I paid it and had $3.15 left. Our water bill was due on the same day, but I did not know the amount of it. I put the $3.15 in an envelope for the purpose of paying at least a part of the water bill. When I went down to pay the water bill, what do you suppose the amount of it was? Exactly $3.15. You see, we had received exactly the money we needed for that day and no more."

"That was certainly an odd coincidence."

"There was no coincidence about it," said Mr. Perry; "the Lord knew how much we needed, even though I did not, and He sent it to us."

"At another time one of our missionaries in a foreign country had spent everything he had with the exception of 5 cents. Dinner time came, and he had nothing with which to buy food. His faith remained, however. Presently the letter carrier came to his house with a letter which he had neglected to deliver when he had been to the house earlier in the day. That letter contained the remittance which the minister so sadly needed."

CHURCH TRUST IN NEW ORLEANS.

Ten Negro Organizations Give Up Their Affairs to a Church Debt Co.

New Orleans has developed a church trust. Ten colored churches of different denominations have organized so as to reduce their indebtedness, and have placed themselves in the hands of a company styling itself "The Church Debt Liquidating Company," which promises to relieve them in whole or in part from the debt with which they as well as the white churches are weighted down. The Church Debt Liquidating Company is regularly organized, the business cards of the concern announcing that H. C. Higey is President, William C. Preston, Secretary, and Frank W. Smith, Treasurer. The company will take hold of any church debt and undertake to reduce it or wipe it out.

It began work at Spanish fort with a festival and congress of nations given under the auspices of the Free American Church and Charities of New Orleans, and managed by the Church Debt Liquidating Company. The entertainment continued five nights, and the financial results indicate that the company will be able to materially reduce the indebtedness of churches interested. When it is through with this work, it will take hold of another batch of churches and undertake to free them also from debt.

ASKED TO BE BURIED ALIVE.

A Russian Sect that Believe in Salvation by Martyrdom.

Details have been received in London and cabled to this country from Odessa of the self-immolation of a number of the fanatical followers of Raskolniki, a report of which was first received weeks ago. More than twenty-four bodies of persons who were buried alive have been recovered from a series of pits near Tirespol. The sect is a survival of the old dissenters, who were persecuted in Russia for two centuries. Their treatment was worst under Empress Sophia, when thousands of them were knouted by the State. The result was that they became fiercely fanatical, and invented a doctrine of salvation by martyrdom. They are now practising self-immolation.

Six bodies were accidentally discovered on the premises of Feodore Kovaleff, who confessed that he had walled up in his cellar nine living persons, including his wife and two young children. He further admitted that he had buried the other six, while they were still alive, in a specially excavated pit eight feet deep.

In an adjoining garden, belonging to Mutvei Sukula, four bodies were discovered in a pit. Sukula says that these were buried alive at their own request.

Lowest Selling On Record

in furniture and carpet lines—we're responsible for it—and New Jersey's people know it! Started this "July Sale" with everything honestly, unreservedly cut in price—while losses result, stock's getting reduced and room's being made for new Fall lines soon to come! NOW, as Sale's winding up, even lower prices are on goods. Buy—pay cash or on credit.

Bedroom Suits

Out of this large stock we'll list a handful: A solid quartered oak highly polished bedroom suit, liberal dresser, with heavy plate mirror, large washstand—from $75. down to $50. A solid oak finely finished suit, extra large dresser and washstand—from $65. now down to $40. Several oak suits, quartered wood, heavy French plate mirrors, generous dresser and washstand—put down from $50 to $35. Two birch suits, very elegant French plate mirrors and large dressers—were $65. now $50—exceptional worth here. Another lot of birch suits—were $45. now $27. All our popular priced suits from $5. to $10. less than before—to make things jump. $11.50 the start.

Parlor Suits

Several floors crowded with them.
$30. Parlor Suit, silk brocatelle, $20.
$35. Parlor Suit, plush, $25.
$45. Parlor Suit, silk brocatelle, $35.
And up to a $140. Silk Damask Suit at $100.

Carpets Are 'Way Down

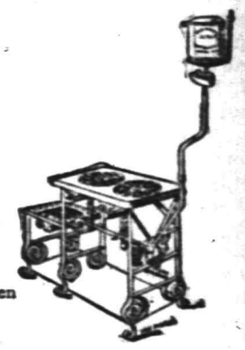
Mattings $3.50, $4.50, $6.50, $8.50 and so on—really a third less than OLD prices.

Refrigerators

—all we've on hand to close out quick—$2.85, $4.15, $5.20, $6.60—hardwood kinds. Never carry any into a "next season."

Here' the "Insurance" Gasoline Stove—absolutely free from danger—no better make on the market—but be sure it's "1897" make—sold by us exclusively. Special: A Gasoline Stove $3.49; or with oven $5.49



BABY CARRIAGES—from $3.50 up.—all new kinds.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings make them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the materia, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? A Stray Item of News

Culled from Exchanges in Jersey City.

He is an up-to-date mechanic at his work. Whether finishing a four-button Prince Albert for one of Jersey City's four hundred or an ordinary suit for a business man, Mr. A. J. Sanden, of 57 Gregory street, tailor of Jersey City, finishes his work in a skillful and masterly manner. Our representative found him in his workshop deftly cutting a bicycle suit for the secretary of a prominent bicycle club. Often as he dropped his shears and hung his tape line around his neck he straightened himself up and pressed his hands upon his loins and ominously shook his head, for his back ached and he suffered like the majority of tailors in our republic. Our representative quietly remarked "Why don't you use Doan's Kidney Pills?" "Well," replied Mr. Sanden, "I have noticed a score of advertisements about this remedy in our local papers, but I thought they were like every other specific which I had tried." "Try them and see," our representative suggested. "If they do not do you any good they wont do you any harm." Since, three weeks afterward, a second visit was made by Mr. Sanden, when the following particulars were given by him for publication: 'I was not cured from a lame and aching back by one dose of Doan's Kidney Pills, but every dose I took counted in that direction. This was my experience, and it required only half a box to convince me that I had struck the right remedy. I had dull, dragging aching across my loins which became more painful if I sat or stood in one position for any length of time. Stooping over or any sudden strain on the back resulted in sharp twinges through the kidneys. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills, and the fact that they were so highly recommended induced me to get them at a drug store. They fully came up to my expectations and I can recommend them as a splendid remedy for backache."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

The Home of Dyspepsia.

San Francisco seems to be the natural home of dyspepsia. Physicians there say that ten out of twelve of the inhabitants suffer from indigestion The only explanation suggested is the fact that the climate allows fruit and vegetables to be had almost the year around, so that there is not the enforced change of diet that residents of other regions have.—New York Journal.

His Point of View.

Penelope—Because, Jack dear, I know your failing, and I fear you will never be able to get the best of whiskey.

Jack Dashing—I ought to, anyhow; I've enough for it.

A Curious Post-Office.

The smallest, simplest ,and best-protected post-office in the world is in the Straits of Magellan, and has been there for many years. It consists of a small painted keg or cask, and is chained to the rocks of the extreme cape, in a manner so that it floats free, opposite Terra del Fuego. Each passing ship sends a boat to take letters out and put others in. This curious post-office is unprovided with a postmaster, and is, therefore, under the protection of all the navies of the world. Never in the history of this unique office has its privilege been abused.

A—Well, and how did you sleep last night? Did you follow my advice and begin counting?

B—Yes. I counted up to 18,000.

A—And then you fell asleep?

B—No, then it was time to get up.—Tid-Bits.

She—It was just three years ago tonight that you proposed.

He—Now, what did you want to bring that up for, on the only night of the week that I have away from business?—Indianapolis Journal.

Stone—That so? I'm thinking of buying a suburban place myself.

Cobble—Buy mine.—Brooklyn Life.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE.

Preliminaries Presented by the Powers Provide For Arbitration.

Constantinople, July 27.—At the sitting of the peace conference the embassadors presented the peace preliminaries drafted by the powers, which provide for European arbitration of any differences that may arise between the Greek and Turkish plenipotentiaries in arranging a definite treaty.

It is stated that the powers will insist upon the acceptance by the porte of this provision, and its reception therefore by the sultan will be highly significant.

The desire of Germany to institute a European control of Greek finances still hampers the settlement of the indemnity question.

It is understood that the Volo-Larissa railway will be transferred to the Greek administration, with the stipulation that the same facilities shall be granted to Turkey for the transportation of troops as are granted to the Greek government.

This, therefore, does not indicate an intention on the part of Turkey to evacuate Thessaly, but is merely a measure of economy.

WANTS TO BE RELEASED.

Howell C. Rees Wishes His Father to Consent to His Discharge.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 27.—Howell C. Rees has instructed his lawyers to hold all legal proceedings to effect his release from the Hudson River State hospital in abeyance and to appeal to his father to consent to his discharge from the asylum on his agreement to sail for Europe on Saturday for a period of rest. He is confident that his father will consent and that he will soon be discharged.

Dr. Langdon, who has charge of Rees, states that he shows no indication whatever of paresis, and Dr. Dobson, an eye specialist, who has examined him, says there is no trace of the disease in his eyes, which are perfectly normal.

Capsized and Drowned.

Middleburg, N. Y., July 27.—Ralph Hyde, aged 70 years, and Miss Libbie Young, aged 25 years, were capsized in the Schoharie creek while crossing to the dairy of Mr. Hyde to obtain the morning milk. Fred Hyde, a grandson of Mr. Hyde, heard the cries for help and succeeded in rescuing his grandfather, but Miss Young was drowned. The water is so high and the current so strong that the body has not been recovered. Miss Young was an employee of the Hyde family.

Alleged Attempt to Pass a Forged Check.

Westfield, Mass., July 27.—Edward J. Lynch, who gives his residence as Meriden, Conn., and claims to be president of the International Metal Polishers' union, has been arrested here charged with attempting to pass a forged check for $10 at the Park Square hotel. The check was indorsed with the name of J. L. Thompson and was tendered in payment for a meal. The accused denies having taken dinner at the hotel and claims to be a victim of a mistaken identity.

Heavy Selling of American Stocks.

London, July 27.—The Times in its financial article says: "There has been heavy selling in the American market on account of the failure of the United States senate to act upon President McKinley's request to appoint a currency commission, but in best informed quarters the failure of the senate is interpreted favorably, because it is believed that Mr. McKinley might have been induced to appoint a commission disposed to make a compromise with the silver interest."

Cuban Insurgent Chief Surrenders.

Havana, July 27.—According to an official statement, Major Juan Calangas, an important insurgent chief, with 19 cavalrymen, well armed and supplied with munitions of war, surrendered to the authorities at Los Palos, in the Havana province. Official reports from several provinces state that 41 insurgents were killed in engagements with the Spanish troops and that 93 insurgents, 43 of whom were armed, have given themselves up.

School Directors Apply For a Dissolution.

New York, July 27.—Application has been made to the supreme court for the voluntary dissolution of the Acton Civil Polytechnic institute of Coeymans, N. Y., by Jacob W. Felters and the directors. The company was incorporated in 1879, with a capital stock of $120,000. There are no creditors, and the assets consist of lands and buildings at an assessed valuation of $14,000.

An Insurance Investigation.

Topeka, July 27.—A movement is taking form among the insurance superintendents of the western states to join hands in an investigation of the financial condition of the various eastern fire and life insurance companies. The object is the protection of western policy holders and to find irregularities in the management of the big eastern concerns.

Fell Dead at a Sun Dance.

Guthrie, O. T., July 27.—During a sun dance of the Ponca Indians Saturday night, White Feather, a noted Iowa Indian from Nebraska, fell dead in a fit. He was on a visit with 50 of his people. There were fully 1,500 Indians in the dance, the Kaws, Osages, Otoes and Ponkas being present at the annual religious rite.

Found Skull and Bones.

New York, July 27.—The skull and bones of a man were found at Tarrytown, N. Y., by workmen making an excavation on the Washington Irving place. It is supposed to be the remains of a Revolutionary soldier, who was buried where he fell.

Dinner to Secretary Gage.

Boston, July 27.—Hon. Lyman F. Gage, secretary of the treasury, is the special guest at a dinner given by Boston business men this afternoon. Secretary and Mrs. Gage are guests at the summer home of Hon. Charles S. Hamlin at Marion.

The Button Man at Albany.

Albany, July 27.—G. W. Wilson of Chicago, commonly known as the button man, who is walking under a wager from Chicago to Augusta, Me., and return within six months, passed through this city yesterday on his return trip.

SOME TARIFF ERRORS

Inaccuracies Are Pointed Out In the New Bill.

MAY BE UNABLE TO RECONCILE THEM

Washington, July 27.—The treasury officials already have discovered a number of inconsistencies in the new tariff act, some of them, it is feared, being incapable of reconciliation. It is pointed out that section 262 places the duty on plums at 25 cents per bushel, and section 264 fixes the rate at 2 cents per pound. An error in the paragraphs as to currants was corrected in conference. Another section fixes the rate of duty on hides of cattle at 15 per cent ad valorem and admits raw skins free.

The question involved is the classification of calfskins, it being contended that commercially calfskins are not classed as hides of cattle, and hence are entitled to free entry, which is believed to be contrary to the purpose of congress. Attention is also called to the fact that the provision as to licenses for customs brokers was by inadvertence, it is believed, left out of the act.

Circulars are in preparation construing a number of the sections of the act. Persons entering this country are permitted under certain restrictions to bring with them, duty free, "usual and reasonable furniture." This is interpreted to mean such furniture as would be reasonable and useful for the personal use of persons in their condition in life.

Secretary Bliss Desires Co-operation.

Washington, July 27.—Secretary Bliss has issued the following:

"Chiefs of Bureaus and Institutions Under the Department of the Interior:

"Desirous of the fullest co-operation with the chiefs of the several bureaus and the heads of the public institutions under the department of the interior in the promotion of efficiency in the service, it is believed that results to that end can be best attained by full, free and timely conferences between the secretary and those officers in respect to proposed changes in the classified service in their charge.

"Therefore the secretary requests such officials, respectively, to confer with him upon the subject of any contemplated dismissals, reductions or promotions in their classified clerical force before any formal official recommendation be made relative thereto, to the end that such action as may follow will be based upon the fullest information and most intelligent consideration practical."

Consuls Confirmed.

Washington, July 27.—During the session of congress Church Howe of Nebraska was appointed and confirmed as consul general at Apia, Samoa. He does not care to take the place and has now been selected for consul at Palermo, Italy, and Luther W. Osborn, a lawyer of Blair, Neb., will be named for consul general at Apia.

Missing Girl's Body Found.

Utica, N. Y., July 27.—Lulu Leary, 17 years of age, had been missing since Saturday from her home in this city. Yesterday her body was taken from the canal. The girl probably committed suicide. She had lately been working out, going home every night. She rode a bicycle home, which she told her people belonged to the lady for whom she worked. They learned that it was rented by the girl from a bicycle livery. She was probably severely punished for the deception. At any rate she left home and for a week had been stopping with two aunts.

Attempted Suicide at West Point.

West Point, July 27.—Bernard Mahan, who had charge of the central office of the long distance telephone at the Military academy, attempted to commit suicide. When the door to his office was forced open, Mahan was lying upon the floor on his back. He was unconscious. One end of a rubber tube, connected with an open gas jet, had evidently been in the man's mouth, but had become displaced. Another gas jet had also been turned open, and the keyhole in the door was stuffed with paper. No motive is assigned.

Bursting of a Pulley.

Woonsocket, R. I., July 27.—A 6 foot pulley in the spinning room of the Social Manufacturing company's cotton mill burst, injuring two of the help and causing $7,000 damage to machinery. Miss Mary Courneyer was hit on the head and her skull probably fractured. She was taken to the hospital. Miss Mary Drainville was less seriously injured. The bursting of the pulley tore down 250 feet of shafting and damaged the machinery to the extent named.

Held For Alleged Defrauding.

New Haven, July 27.—Charles G. Truesdell of 238 Clifton avenue, Newark, N. J., was brought up in the city court here on the charge of defrauding Frank Hennig, proprietor of the Westville House, at Westville. Truesdell was committed to jail to await advice from Newark. He claims to be a son of State Senator Truesdell of New Jersey.

Struck by the Express.

Middletown, N. Y., July 27.—George Hudson, a prominent resident of Monroe, was struck by the Erie express train at that place. He attempted to make a crossing behind the caboose of a passing freight train and stepped directly in front of the express. One of his legs and one of his arms were cut off. He cannot survive.

Acres of Rye Spoiled.

Middletown, N. Y., July 27.—Hundreds of acres of rye in the sheaf are going to waste in the fields in this county. For two weeks or more the grain has been subject to a succession of soaking rains. Much of it is sprouted, and even the straw is rotting. The crop, which was a splendid one, bids fair to be an almost total loss.

Father Havermans' Funeral.

Troy, N. Y., July 27.—The funeral of Rev. Peter Havermans, which took place from St. Mary's church, was attended by about 100 clergymen from all portions of the country. The body was viewed by about 20,000 people.

OPEN TO MANY COMPETITORS.

mateur Photographers to Be Given a Chance to Show Their Work.

All the amateur photographers in this section of the country are to be invited to send the product of their labors to this city during next November and compete in the annual photographic print exhibit of the Plainfield Camera Club. The print exhibit has been for many years since the club first started, an annual feature of the club life. The exhibit was for members only, however.

Since the removal of the Camera Club to their better and more commodious quarters in the Babcock building, the annual exhibit has not been held. This winter, an exhibit is to be held that will be opened to amateur photographers of this section. It has already been announced that such an exhibit was planned, but another meeting of the committee was held last evening, at which new details were arranged.

The committee decided that invitations should be issued and sent to all the camera and photographic clubs in New Jersey, New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia and Boston. It was also decided that the exhibit should be open to all unattached photographers within those limits. The invitations will be sent out in a short time.

Awards of merit will be given in different classes which will be decided upon at a later meeting of the committee. The question of prizes wtll also be discussed.

BAPTIST EXCURSION OFF.

Inclement Weather Causes a Postponement to August 17th.

Asbury Park was to have been invaded by a crowd of excursionists from Plainfield today, but instead of the excursionists came the rain. This morning was the time set for the big excursion of the First Baptist church and its missions and two sections of thirteen cars each were ready to take the throng of young and old to the sea shore. Whether it was the unlucky number of cars or the fact that there were so many Baptists around, it is hard to say, but at any rate the sky was overcast with dull leaden clouds that promised rain before many hours, and kept their promise, too, while at intervals a mist began to fall.

The enthusiastic excursionists came forth, however, ready to do battle with the rain or anything else that was provided. They were disappointed, however, for the committee decided that the weather was too unfavorable for even twenty-six cars of Brptists to face and the excursion was postponed and the cars sent back. The excursion will take place Tuesday, August 17th.

NEW POSTMASTERS.

Plums That Fell at Washington for Jersey Republicans.

New Jersey postmasters were appointed yesterday as follows:—Dunellen, Middlesex County, C. A. Coriell, vice P. C. Staats, removed; Frankfort, Somerset County, V. B. Martin, vice V. P. Schony, resigned; Peapack, Somerset County, G. S. Vanarsdale, vice Theodore Allen, removed; Stillman, Somarset County, W. M. Stillman, vice Edward Brophy, removed; Stelton, Middlesex County, James Burk, vice Augustus Steele, removed.

All Smoke, No Fire.

About 9:30 this morning word was sent to Chief Doane at fire headquarters that the house on East Fourth street owned by James McGinley was on fire. The Chief went to the house at once and discovered that the chimney was stopped up and would not allow the smoke to go out at the proper place. As soon as the chimney was cleared everything was found to be all right.

Miss Lizzie Hart, of Jersey City Heights, who has been visiting Mrs. Mow, of West Fifth street, has gone to Hopewell to spend the rest of her vacation.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

John Thickstun, of 66 Duer street, is dangerously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Horrce Huff, of Coddington avenue, have returned from a ten days' outing on Long Island.

John Shepard, of the borough, left the city this morning for Chicago, where he will probably remain indefinitely.

Elmer Hoffman, of West Front street, has secured a position at Campbell's candy store on West street.

J. H. Primrose, special organizer of the Improved Order of Heptasophs, has returned from a business trip to Delaware.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Blatz and daughter, E ta, of 221 Somersot street, left on Monday for a two weeks' stay at Atlantic City.

Mrs. Charles Conover, of Elmwood place, who has been quite ill, is improving very much under the charge of a New York specialist.

EARLY INTELLIGENCF.

—A meeting of the Board of Health of Plainfield will be held this evening.

—The name of Stillman Music Hall has been changed to Stillman's Theatre.

—The profits of the children's fair, held at the home of Mrs. Ross, yesterday and Saturday, were $40.

—The Plainfield branch of the Improved Order of Heptasophs will hold an important meeting one week from tomorrow night.

—Patrick Marron, of West Second street, went fishing at New Market pond last evening and claims to have captured a snapping turtle weighing twenty-two pounds.

—A party consisting of Horsley Barker, Dr. C. R. Theirs, Dr. Carman, Berry Western and Charles Smith took a fishing trip upon Newark bay in a sailing yacht yesterday. A good catch was made.

—The new wheel recently placed on Zephyr Hook and Ladder Truck is a roller bearing wheel and not a ball bearing one as was first reported. To those who are acquainted with these wheels there is quite a difference.

—Charles Malcomb Terry, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield S. Terry, of Fanwood township, died last Sunday after a brief illness. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon from the parents residence at 2 o'clock.

—The Grand Union Tea Company, 138 West Front street, owing to the great demand for their genuine nickel coffee pot, three-quart size, will continue on Saturday next, July 31st, to give free to each purchaser of one pound of baking powder one of these coffee pots. Call early and get one.

INVENTIONS OF THE ANCIENTS.

Water Supply of Pompeii Distributed by Lead Pipes Under the Streets.

It is a singular feature of many inventions that they are subsequently found to be repetitions of old ideas. The inventors are honest enough, but the ancients anticipated them by hundreds of years.

Professor Goodman says the thing that most impressed him, when visiting Pompeii, was the resemblance between many of the implements of eighteen hundred years ago and those of to-day. On looking at the iron tools grouped together in an old factory there, he could almost imagine he was gazing into a modern tool shop, except for the fact that there was a heavy coating of rust on the iron.

Sickles, bill-hooks, rakes, forks, axes, spades, blacksmiths' tongs, hammers, soldering irons, planes and shovels are much like those used today; but the most marvelous instruments found are those for surgery, beautifully executed, and of design exactly similar to some recently patented and re-invented.

Unlikely as it may appear, Pompeiians had wire ropes of perfect construction. Their bronzes reveal great skill and artistic talent. The bronze brazier and kitchener had boilers at the side, and taps for running off the hot water.

Ewers and urns have been discovered with interior tubes, and furnaces precisely like the arrangements now in vogue in steam boilers. Metal safes had substantial locks. Many of the locks and keys are most ingenious, and some very complex. The water supply of Pompeii was distributed by means of lead pipes under the streets. There were many public drinking fountains, and most of the large houses were provided with fountains, many of them being of very beautiful design.

THE DANCING PILGRIMS.

A Strange Ceremony Which Seems to Bring Happiness to the Performers

On they go through the streets, over the rough cobbled roads, for nearly two miles, till they come to the flight of steps leading to the church. Up these steps, sixty-four in number, they dance forward and back, ever with the same motion. Right up to the church door do they dance. Into the church, up the gospel aisle, through the sanctuary they go. Round the high altar, down the choir, down the epistle aisle, out through a door into a church-yard, still dancing as they go, and three times round the churchyard cross finishes their share of the pilgrimage.

The scene in the church when the pilgrimage is at its height, about noon, is something indescribable. The nave is packed with people kneeling and praying aloud. The bands are playing their loudest, perhaps two or three regardless of each other. The north aisle is one thick mass of bobbing humanity getting nearer and nearer to the high altar. In the sanctuary they go in single file, still dancing, of course, and as they get nearer the altar they give their rosaries and other pious objects to some priests who are busily employed in laying them on the sacred relics. As they dance round at the back of the altar they can see the tomb of the saint they venerate. I was standing for some time in the sanctuary watching the curious sight, and was much struck with the pale, exhausted faces, which, though worn and streaming with perspiration, were lit up with a most peaceful, happy light. There is one stream of dancers passing through the church till after 1 o'clock, when the clergy return to sing the Te Deum and close the pilgrimage with benediction. Fancy, for over five hours this dancing goes on! About midday I asked the official counter how many had passed; he said already some 22,000 dancers and 240 musicians. This was more than an hour before the pilgrimage closed.—From the Catholic World.

HOTELS IN CHINA.

Not the Most Comfortable Places in which to Sleep.

The hotels are usually grouped within a square or two of one another. Each one seeks to attract guests by high-sounding titles. For instance, in Canton are hotels which flaunt the signs of "The Fortunate Star," "The Golden Profits," (an unusually frank confession for a landlord to make,) "The Rank-Conferring," and "The Happiness." The food is not so bad, but the traveler who goes to one of these houses to sleep will wish that he had gone to another. The bedrooms are small, thin-walled boxes in which you may hear the breathing of your next neighbor or be kept awake half the night by the conversation of people at the other end of the hall, or worse still, be almost stifled by the smoke from an opium pipe which is being indulged in by the man across the passageway.

One house of entertainment peculiar to China is the dog-and-cat-meat restaurant. This does not mean that household pets are brought there to be fed, but that Tabby and Fido are served up in stews. According to prices charged for other food, these stews are rather expensive—especally if the cat or dog chanced to be black, and therefore more nutritious, according to popular notion.—Lippincott's Magazine.

His Idea of American Women.

According to the Rev. Dr. F. E. Clark, American women are thus referred to by the Swami Vivekanenda, the Hindoo who was so popular with women while he was in this country: "When a woman goes to find a husband she goes to all the bathing places imaginable, and tries all sorts of tricks to catch a man. When she fails in her attempts she becomes what they call in America an 'old maid,' and joins the church. Some of them become very 'churchy.' These church women are awful fanatics. They are under the thumb of the priest there. Between them and the priest they make a hell on earth. They make a mess of religion. With the exception of these the Americans are a very good people. They loved me very much. I loved them. I felt as though I was one of them."—New York Tribune.

HOPEFUL "STAFF" LITTLE

THE OLD-TIME JERSEY LEADER SAYS DEMOCRATS HAVE A CHANCE.

Harmony Is Very Essential—All the Elements of the Party Must Get Together, Forget Old Sores and Stick for Battles.

Henry Stafford Little, an old-time Democrat and some years ago a prominent leader, still likes to talk politics, although it has been a long time since he was actively engaged in the political field. "Staff" was one of the members of the old State House combination about a score of years ago when it held full sway over the affairs of the State. He and his associates used to nominate Governors and United States Senators, elect Legislatures, dictate legislation, fix salaries and fees and do lots of other things which made them a power to be feared as well as respected. This reign continued until Leon Abbett stepped to the front and rallied around him a force which soon undermined that great political structure and opened the way for the induction into office of new leaders.

The first break with his party which Mr. Little made was after Governor Ludlow had refused to reappoint him as Clerk in Chancery. He refused to support the nomination of George W. Patterson for State Senator in Monmouth county on two occasions, and his opposition led to the election of the Republican candidate each time. Mr. Little began a warfare against Leon Abbett at that period and kept it up until the death of the latter. He wielded a free lance for a number of years, and, as he says himself, he got lots of fun out of politics.

Mr. Little claims to be an old time Jeffersonian Democrat, a tariff reformer and a sound money man to the core. In an interview a few days ago he said that he did not care how many times he was read out of his party by the silver element, because it had no effect on him—he was still a Democrat and would die one. When asked what the prospects of his party were and whether there was any chance to elect a Democratic Governor, he replied that with a proper organization he saw no reason why the Democrats should not march on to victory. He said he was willing to lend his party all the aid in his power in its efforts to have lost prestige restored. Mr. Little entertains a poor opinion of the administration of Governor Griggs and says it has been a disappointment all the way through.

"Anyhow," said Mr. Little, "Griggs would never have been elected Governor only that the people had made up their minds to turn out the Democratic officeholders, many of whom had disgraced their party. Any Republican would have been elected Governor at the time, and the Republican majority would have been 100,000 had not Chancellor McGill been the Democratic candidate. The time will soon be ripe for an old-fashioned Democratic victory," added Mr. Little, "and all the party has to do is to get together, make a declaration of true Democratic principles and nominate honest men for office."

There has never been any more astute politician in New Jersey than Mr. Little, and he is not yet too old in years to make another display of his fighting qualities. Should he and the other leaders of his party get together and agree upon a plan to harmonize the conflicting elements they could present a solid front which would give the Republicans much cause for worriment.

THE NORTHFIELD CONFERENCE.

A Great Array of Talented Men to Make Addresses.

The last of the summer conferences at Northfield, the general conference of Christian workers, will open on next Thursday, to continue until September 16. D. L. Moody, the evangelist, will have charge of the meetings. While it is impossible to give in advance the arrangements for the daily proceedings, it is learned that the Rev. George H. C. MacGregor, of London, will be one of the leaders during the conference, and that V. D. David, the Tamil evangelist of India; the Rev. R. A. Torrey, President of the Bible Institute of Chicago; Bishop J. P. Newman, and the Rev. Dr. A. C. Dixon of Brooklyn, will have prominent parts. Among other speakers expected are the Rev. Dr. H. C Mabie, Secretary of the Baptist Missionary Union; the Rev. W. J. Erdman of Philadelphia, Secretary of the Niagara Conference, and Major D. W. Whittle of Chicago. Mr. Moody will speak from time to time. The singing will be in charge of Ira D. Sankey and George C. Stebbins.

A number of Plainfielders will attend the conference.

—A regular meeting of the West End Hose Company will be held next Monday evening.

IN TERROR OF A SNAKE.

MAMMOTH REPTILE THAT HAS FRIGHTENED WEST ENDERS.

Described as Being Eight Feet Long and Has Killed Over a Hundred Chickens—Doomed to Death With Shot Guns.

People in the neighborhood of West Sixth street and Plainfield avenue are being terrorized by a black snake, big, bad and bold, which climbs over fences, carries off cats and chickens, suns itself in back yards on pleasant afternoons, and at night keeps people lying awake for fear that it will invade their houses.

For several weeks Mrs. Mary Burke, who lives at 547 West Fourth street, has been losing chickens at the rate of from one to three or four a day. At first it was thought that thieves were taking them, but this theory was abandoned when the carcasses of several fowls were found one day behind a wood pile with only the heads gone. Nearly a hundred chickens wore destroyed in this way. Cats in the neighborhood also disappeared, and no clue to the cause of their taking off was discovered until one Saturday afternoon two weeks ago.

At that time Sherman Jenkins, a colored man who boards next door to Mrs. Burke, was coming through the back yard on his way home when his eyes rested upon an object that caused them to bulge from their sockets.

From under the woodshed protruded the head and part of the body of a mammoth snake, which Jenkins says could not have been less than eight feet in length and a foot in circumference. When he recovered from his astonishment sufficiently to command his legs, Jenkins ran to the house and called Wm. Laden, with whom he boards, to come and take a look at the snake. When the two men returned the reptile had not moved.

'Quite a boy, ain't he?" remarked Laden.

"Yes, siree," replied Jenkins, "but between you and me, Bill, I'm as near to that feller now as I care to get."

They threw a brick at the snake and when the huge body commenced to emerge from under the shed they ran into the house.

On last Saturday about sundown Mrs. Burke heard cries from one of her chickens and going into the yard she saw the fowl close to a hole in the fence. She attempted to pull it away but found something was pulling in an opposite direction. In a moment she discovered it was held by the snake, and letting go she ran away in terror. The fowl was carried away. On the following night Wm. Laden went into the wood house and saw the snake there. He fired three shots at it from a revolver.

Charles Scudder, of West Fourth street, and Thomas Harland, of 313 Plainfield avenue, also saw it the following day. They all state that it is the largest snake they ever saw, and that it is about eight feet in length. On Monday night it was shot at again, but made its escape under Mrs. Burke's woodhouse.

The sight of the snake and the knowledge of the harm it may do, especially to children, has caused the men in the neighborhood to formulate a systematic plan for its destruction. It has been seen to crawl under the woodshed whenever fired at, and this building is now being torn down by Jenkins and Laden. The men are armed with shot guns, and it is their plan to unearth the serpent and fill its head and body with buckshot.

From the description which the men give it is probably a black snake. The body is bluish-black in color, with a whitish tint underneath, and the eyes are a dull red.

FIVE WOULD BE JUDGE.

No Lack of Aspirants for Elizabeth's Judicial Plum.

There are no less than five aspirants for the Judgeship of the Elizabeth Police Court, made vacant by the death last week of Justice Neill. The candidates are Justices Morris Helfield, Max Rapps, John Collins, Charles Jacobs, and Ira J. Hall.

The latter officiated in the Police Court during Judge Neill's last illness.

Settled the Case.

Winslow Carson, who was arrested several days ago on complaint of F. L. C. Martin, charged with selling a wheel he bought on the installment plan and had not paid for, was released from the Union county jail yesterday. He came to a satisfactory settlement of his trouble and the complaint was withdrawn before the matter came to trial.

Harvesting Retarded.

The following is John Neagle's crop report this week:

Continued showers have greatly retarded the harvesting of oats; some grain is shock sprouting; considerable damage done by the storm on the 23d, corn down and some broken; rainfall, 2.94 inches; highest temperature, 87 degrees; lowest, 63 degrees.

THE SUN TO BE ECLIPSED.

AN INTERESTING EVENT TO BE WATCHED TOMORROW.

Known as the Annular Eclipse in Which the Moon's Shadow is Not Large Enough to Entirely Cover the Face of the Sun.

For the first time since October 20th, 1892, the people will, tomorrow, clouds permitting, have an opportunity to view an eclipse of the sun. It is what is known as an annular eclipse, one in which the moon's shadow, at the middle of the eclipse, is not large enough to completely cover the face of the sun, but leaves a ring of light encircling the eclipsed portion. This phenomenon, however, can only be seen in a certain limited belt in New York and throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico and the northern part of South America generally, the eclipse is only visible as a partial eclipse. The path of the annulus, as the region in which the eclipse is annular is called, passes from a point in the Pacific Ocean, across Mexico, Cuba, and a few of the Winward Islands, touching Cape St. Roque, ending in the South Atlantic Ocean.

The eclipse should commence at about 8h. 50m. in New York time. The ending of the eclipse is at 4h. 20m. Greenwich time, or 11h. 20m. Eastern standard time. This is sufficiently accurate for popular purposes. A more careful computation gives these times for New York city: Begins 8.46 a. m.; ends 11:11 a. m.

The eclipse may be watched with a smoked glass, if nothing better is at hand. At the time of greatest obscurity there will be a sensible diminution in the sun's light. If an opera or field glass is protected by smoked or colored glasses, very good views may be obtained. While very interesting from a popular standpoint, the scientific facts to be learned from an annular eclipse are not regarded as very important.

This is the second and last eclipse of the year, the other having been a partial eclipse of the sun on February 1st. Two is the lowest number of eclipses which can possibly occur in one year, and when there are only two both are of the sun.

ROAD HOUSE IN FLAMES.

LOCATED ON COUNTY ROAD BETWEEN WESTFIELD AND CRANFORD.

Origin of the Fire is Unknown—Westfield and Fanwood Firemen Responded—A Young Man's Hands Were Badly Burned.

The road house and beer-bottling establishment of Matthew Schwinefurth, on the county road, half-way between Westfield and Cranford, was totally destroyed by fire last evening.

The origin of the fire is unknown. The family were at supper when the smell of smoke was detected and the upper part of the building was found to be in flames.

Alarms were sent to Westfield and Fanwood as soon as possible, and the firemen of both places responded promptly. When they reached the place, however, the flames were beyond control, and all that could be done was to save the large barns on the property.

The fire spread so rapidly that the family lost most of their personal effects. Frank Schwinefurth, a nephew of the proprietor, was badly burned about the hands and face in his attempts to save his watch and chain and money which were up stairs.

It was reported some time ago that Schwinefurth had sold the place to some Newark parties, but they had not taken possession. The loss is estimated at $2,500, which is covered by insurance.

SUIT TO COMPEL A SALE.

Mrs. Rosa Frucht Alleges That Wm. Kelly Will Not Do as He Agreed.

There has been some misunderstanding in the big real estate transaction which was told of in The Press some time ago. The property in question is that on Park avenue, including the stores occupied by Miss A. E. Lincoln, James Dunn and L. A. Hummer. The price was $20,000, of which $10,000 was to be taken in a mortgage, a piece of property on Liberty street was to be given in exchange and the remainder of the debt was to be paid in cash.

Mrs. Rosa Frucht, wife of Siegmund Frucht, was the purchaser from Wm. Kelly. Mrs. Frucht now claims, through her attorneys, Swackhamer & Williams, that Mr. Kelly is trying to back out of the agreement. Papers have been filed in the Court of Chancery for the purpose of compelling Kelly to carry out the contract and convey the property according to the terms of the agreement. Swackhamer & Williams are associated in the case with Assemblyman W. R. Codington.

ANOTHER DISMAL DAY.

THERE IS NO LET UP IN THE DOWNPOUR OF EXCESSIVE RAIN.

This is the Fourteenth Day of Storm, But the Weather Observers Predict That Fair Conditions Will Prevail Tomorrow.

Another long dreary and dismal day is in progress. The cold east wind still blows and the rain falls with a steadiness that is disheartening indeed to those who are hoping for clear weather. The farmers ring their hands in dispair for they see ruin staring them in the face. Their crops lie decaying in the field, water-soaked, and the rain prevents them from saving what remains. Thousands of dollars worth of damage is being done to the New Jersey farmer by this rain.

Poor St. Swithin! If his ghost does not walk tonight, it will not be the fault of the many Jerseyites who have taken his name in vain during the last twenty-four hours. The fourteenth day of the rain is half gone and it falls as easily and forcibly as at the very beginning. In fact, it seems to have forgotten how to stop.

Yesterday was a most unpleasant day and today promises to be as bad. The rain began to fall yesterday morning and has kept it up with slight intermissions ever since. Several times the dull leaden sky seemed to break and the clouds looked lighter and there were signs of a break in the storm. It was a false alarm, though.

The streets have been partially flooded for the last twenty-four hours. In the West End, particularly, has the water been in mastery. Many of the streets are not macadamized there and they have become veritable seas of sticky Jersey mud, which makes progression for vehicle or pedestrian a difficult feat. As told in yesterday's Press, there has been much damage in that end of the city by washouts of culverts, drains, sewers and the like. This continued rain has added to the damage and the city will find that water has wrought considerable damage there.

In the farming districts the outlook is the same. The farmers have been driven indoors by the torrents from above and there remain, imprisoned by the rain, while their crops lie in the field rotting. The grain that is out is water-soaked and cannot be brought in until dry, and the over-ripe oats cannot be cut on account of the rain. Altogether the farmer is in hard luck at present.

Farmer Dunn, Weather Observer Neagle and the other authorities have some comfort for the afflicted. It's going to clear off some day, they say, and they think that that some day will arrive tonight or tomorrow morning. Then it's going to get warm again, not only warm but hot, and everybody is going to swelter in the heat and long for the cool weather that they are now enjoying. Whether the fabled forty days rain is to be a reality or will exist only in the imagination of some water soaked brain, they cannot or will not say.

The water in the New Market pond is so high after this local rain that the low land behind the mill has been flooded.

UMBRELLA AND BICYCLE THIEF

Man With a Nerve Took the Articles From a Front Porch.

A man with an abundant supply of nerve walked up on the piazza of A. M. Wilcox, of 122 West Fifth street, last evening and departed with a bicycle and two umbrellas. It is supposed that the umbrellas were taken to keep the rain off the wheel.

Mr. Wilcox and his family were sitting in the parlor, last evening, while Miss Wilcox's Crescent wheel, '95 model, number 137,509, remained out on the piazza. Two umbrellas had been left on the piazza to dry. The people in the house heard no one but when they went to lock up the house and bring the wheel in, the wheel was gone and so were the umbrellas. There was no clue to the thief.

The matter was reported to the police and to the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company, of whom the wheel was purchased. Mr. Wilcox has offered a reward of $5 for the return of the wheel, no questions asked.

S. B. Joseph, Physical Instructor.

Manager Heywood, of the Y. M. C. A. physical department, left yesterday for a two weeks' vacation. During his absence the physical department, which has been overhauled and is in thorough condition, will be in charge of General Secretary Manning and Mr. Bristol. The work in the gymnasium will be under the supervision of S. B. Joseph, of the physical department committee. The hours for Juniors will be from 4 to 5 o'clock on Tuesdays, and from 10 to 11 o'clock on Saturdays, until the fall work commences about October 1st.

NEW DEPOT TO BE BUILT.

CENTRAL RAILROAD HAVE PLANS UNDERWAY FOR IMPROVEMENTS.

The Company Has Also Made an Offer For The Rheaume Property, But There is Considerable Difference as to the Price.

After a long silence concerning the new depot to be built opposite the North Avenue station, the people of Plainfield are now given assurance that that the work will be started this summer, and early in the fall it will probably be completed. For some time past there has been a quiet deal in course of progress whereby the railroad company has been trying to purchase the lumber yard held by Rheaume, but for some reason the company has failed to effect a consummation. Mr. Rheaume says that he will sell his property for $37,000, and the company has offered him $25,000. At the proper time when the company get ready to make the intended improvements, it is said that the company will offer Mr. Rheaume the sum of $25,000, and if he still refuses to sell at that figure, another move will be made.

The company thinks that $25,000 is a good figure for the property, but it is said that Mr. Rheaume is determined that it shall not go for that sum.

The stone to be used in constructing the tunnels under the railroads tracks are now on their way to Plainfield, as soon as they arrive the work of construction will be started.

For some time freight cars have been allowed to stand on the tracks opposite the North Avenue station, and almost every day commuters are heard complaining about it. The latter often approach the station from the other side of the city and it makes it exceedingly dangerous for them to take the trains from that side. However, it is authoratively stated that this inconvenience will not last much longer and in its place will be a handsome and commodious new station.

HAVE THE YUKON FEVER.

An Elizabeth Concern Preparing to Send Out a Supply Boat.

The Elizabeth Mining and Supply Company will be incorporated today at the County Clerk's office with a capital of $100,000. There was a meeting of the projectors last night at the Clark Hotel, Elizabeth. They propose to have a steamer built at Lewis Nixon's shipyard that can be taken apart, boxed up and shipped to St. Michael's, Alaska, which will be put together ready for a sail up the Yukon to the Klondike gold fields.

John A. Staats, proprietor of the Clark Hotel, may head the undertaking. The company does not intend to do gold digging, but will carry up provisions.

Mr. Staats says he has received more than one hundred letters from those who wish to join the expedition. A woman said she would contribute $500 but could not go to the Klondike.

A Bonbon Party.

In spite of the severe rain-storm yesterday a large number of young people gathered at the home of the Misses Nellie and Stella Vermeule, of 28 Jackson avenue, to enjoy a bonbon party from 3 until 8 o'clock. The party was held in honor of their cousin, Miss Nellie Ransom, of Bronxville, N. Y. An exceedingly pleasant time was enjoyed by all, the only fault being that the time passed too quickly. Games, music, instrumental and vocal, and the serving of refreshments furnished the amusements.

Found Dead Near the Tracks.

The body of an unknown man was found lying near the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad near Monmouth Junction, yesterday afternoon. The body was taken to the railroad morgue and word sent to County Physician Long in New Brunswick. The clothing of the dead man was searched, but nothing was found except a pack of cards.

Death of an Aged Woman.

The death of Mrs. Mary L Johnson, aged 82 years, occurred yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jas. C. Peck, 34 Myrtle avenue, where she had been living for some time past. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock from the above residence. Interment will be at Warren, R. I.

Bicycle Run Postponed.

The Y. M. C. A. league bicycle run to Morristown which was to take place tomorrow evening has been postponed on account of the sudden death of the acting secretary of the Morristown Y. M. C. A. F. A. Cumming will answer all inquiries concerning the future arrangements for the run.

A Prosperous Institution

The stability and prosperity of the City National Bank is evidenced in the semi-annual dividend of four per cent. on the capital stock that has been declared.

HEALTH OF THE CITY.

MONTHLY REPORT MADE BY INSPECTOR ADDIS.

Forty-seven Houses With Fifty-nine Occupants Were Under Quarantine in the Last Few Weeks—Several Other Details.

It has been many years since the Plainfield Board of Health attained such prominence as it has during the last two months. Fortunately, the Board was in such an efficient condition and was doing such excellent work that the public attention it received impressed all favorably. The scarlet sever scare was handled carefully and successfully, and the trouble with one of the local milkmen ended satisfactorily.

The last month has not been a very active one for the Board compared with that of June, for while many of the cases were still quarantined there have been very few new ones, as the report of the sanitary inspector will show.

The monthly meeting of the Plainfield Board of Health was held last evening. There was little of importance to come before the Board beside the routine business and the paying of bills. The members discussed several subjects informally but took no action on any of them. The question of licensing the milk dealers received some attention as did the recent condition of the local millraces.

The report of Sanitary Inspector William Addis was received and the interesting facts disclosed were discussed. The report was as follows:

To the Honorable, Board of Health, City of Plainfield:

I herewith submit my report for month ending July 27th, 1897:

Number of houses under quarantine under last report	47
Number of persons in above houses with contagious disease	59
Number of houses quarantined during the month	7
Number of houses fumigated and relieved of quarantine during the month	43
Number of houses now under quarantine.	12
Number of persons with contagious disease in above houses	18
Number of visits to houses with contagious disease	379
Number of visits to sewer farm	3
Number of inspections on complaint	7
Number of inspections of water tests of soil pipe	19
Number of inspections of peppermint tests of soil pipe	3
Number of inspections of sewer connections	33
Number of inspections of plumbing systems	10
Number of inspections of cellar waterclosets	5
Number of house inspections	53

Total number of visits to houses with contagious disease, 562, as per daily memorandum.

Respectfully,
William Addis,
Sanitary Inspector.

JERSEY'S SPECIAL ELECTION.

A Mistake in Appointing the Date, and Complications Feared.

Another complication has been discovered in the law passed by the State Legislature at the recent special session providing for the submission to popular vote of the three amendments to the Constitution, prohibiting the legalizing of race-track gambling, forbidding the Governor to appoint to office persons whose nominations have been rejected by the Senate, and giving to women the right to vote at school elections outside of cities having appointive Boards of Education. The law fixes Sept. 28 as the date for the election. This is one of the dates upon which the Board of Registry meets in every city having a population of over 40,000. The election laws require personal registration every fall. The cities affected are Jersey City, Newark, Paterson, Trenton, Camden and Hoboken.

For voting on the amendments the polls are open from 6 in the morning till 7 o'clock in the evening, and for registration purposes the boards sit from 1 till 9 o'clock. The Election Boards will be obliged to do double work and for one day's pay. In some of the cities the vote will be large, and while there are two other days for registration, some of the leaders fear there will be a serious conflict and that the boards will not be able to do the work. There is some talk of having another extra session of the Legislature called to cure the defect in the law, but it is not believed Gov. Griggs will consent, as he was loath to call the extra session to rectify the mistake made by the typewriter in the original law providing for the special election.

A Busy Man.

Mayor George Clinton Miller, of Fanwood, and family are summering at Hathaway Inn, Deal Beach. The extensive business interests of the Mayor in New York and Bridgeport, Conn., owing to the absence of a partner in Europe, require his daily attendance in the city, returning to the Beach every evening. A European trip in the fall is in contemplation. The service of the Mayor in the Seventy first Regiment and official service in the Twenty-second Regiment of New York and the Twenty-third Regiment of Brooklyn have gained for him a legion of friends in the military walks of life.

BIG LABOR MEETING.

Conference of the Leaders of America at Wheeling.

ENDEAVORING TO END THE STRIKE.

Speeches Made by Miners' Representatives Detailing the Situation and Giving the Causes That Led to the Suspension of Work.

Wheeling, July 28.—What is declared to be the most important and largest gathering of the heads of labor organizations of America ever held is now in session in this city. It is the conference of labor leaders called last week by President M. D. Ratchford of the United Mine Workers and approved by President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, of which the miners' organization is a part. The purpose of the conference is to aid in a speedy and successful termination of the great coal strike. Sessions of the conference were held during the day and night, but until the night session was held little had been accomplished. The following labor leaders are present:

Samuel Gompers of New York, president of the American Federation of Labor; Frank Morrison of Chicago, secretray of the Federation; M. D. Ratchford of Columbus, O., president of the United Mine Workers of America; W. C. Pearse of Columbus, O., secretary of the miners' organization; P. H. Morrissey of Peoria, Ills., grand master of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen; W. D. Mahon of Detroit, president of the Street Railway union; J. R. Sovereign, president of the Knights of Labor; James H. Sullivan of Baltimore, president of the International Association of Decorators and Painters; J. B. Lennon of Bloomington, Ills., president of the Custom Tailors' union; J. F. Mulholland of Toledo, president of the International Union of Bicycle Workers; Jesse Johnson of Nashville, president of the International Printing Pressmen's union; Theodore Perry of Nashville, representing the International Typographical union; Robert Askew of Ishpeming, Mich., secretary of the Northern Mineral Mine Workers; William McKinney of Lafayette, Ind., president of the Printers' union; J. W. Rea of Chicago, president of the Painters and Decorators' union; G. W. Perkins of Chicago, president of the International Tobacco Workers' union; Patrick Dolan of Pittsburg, president of the Pittsburg district miners; M. M. Garland of Pittsburg, president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers; C. H. Wilkins of Chicago, assistant grand chief of the Order of Railway Conductors; F. P. Sargent of Peoria, Ills., grand master of the Brotherhood of Railway Firemen; Val Fitzpatrick of Columbus, O., third vice president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen; T. L. Lewis of Bridgeport, O., secretary of the Ohio miners' organization; E. V. Debs of Chicago, former head of the American Railway union; J. Kunzeler of Pittsburg, secretary of the American Flint Glass Workers' union; W. H. Riley of Wheeling, president of the National Stogie Workers' league; M. P. Carrick of Pittsburg, secretary of the painters' organization; P. J. Counaghan of Pittsburg, secretary and treasurer of the National Plumbers and Gas Fitters' union.

Gompers Chosen Presiding Officer.

The first session of the conference was held on the arrival of Messrs. Ratchford and Pearse from Columbus. On motion of Mr. Sovereign Samuel Gompers was chosen to preside, and Secretary Morrison, also of the Federation, was made secretary.

Chairman Gompers then called upon the miners' representatives to detail the situation. They were also asked to suggest in what manner the other laboring organizations could give their aid. President Ratchford of the miners addressed the conference at some length, stating fully the causes that had led to the suspension of work in the bituminous regions and presented the conditions of the miners who are taking part in the strike. He did not propose anything in the way of recommendations as to what the organized labor of the country should do in aid of the strike, preferring that important subject to be left to the consideration of the conference.

An appeal for aid was made in a general way. W. C. Pearse, Patrick Dolan and T. L. Lewis also addressed the conference, speaking in the same strain. In the course of their remarks it was brought out that the miners believe that the hardest fight should be made at the works of the Cleveland and Pittsburg Coal company (De Armitt's mines) in the Pittsburg district. This was considered fully as important a point as the West Virginia district. At this point a recess was taken.

Upon reassembling, the conference again took up the strike question. Messrs. Mahon, Rea and Debs, who have been at work in the Fairmont district; Mr. Askew, who is fresh from the Norfolk and Western territory, and Mr. Sovereign addressed the meeting, the latter speaking at some length. The conference was held behind closed doors. At its close it was given out that a committee of five had been appointed to devise a plan for aiding the miners, which would be reported at the night session.

Telegrams pledging financial aid for the miners were received from nearly all the heads of organizations that had been unable to attend on account of the short notice. Mr. Morrison said that the chief aim of the conference was to effect a suspension of work in West Virginia and at the De Armitt mines. The conference has not yet come to the point of believing it necessary to ask the firemen, conductors and brakemen to refuse to haul West Virginia coal.

Injunction Refused.

Louisville, July 28.—Judge John W. Barr has refused the injunction petitioned for by Deputy United States Marshal Lee Dudley to prevent Dr. A. D. James, the new United States marshal, from discharging him. Dudley claimed he was protected by civil service.

Sale of a Coal and Iron Company.

Seattle, Wash., July 28.—Receiver John H. Bryant has sold the Seattle Coal and Iron company to Murphy, Grant & Co. of New York and four others for $130,000. The purchasers are the five creditors whose claims thereupon the court decided were prior.

THE NEW TARIFF.

Dispute as to When It Should Have Become a Law.

New York, July 28.—Importers and customs brokers continue to make life miserable for the officials at the custom house, although the rush of imports is at an end. The trouble is over the new tariff law, which, in the opinion of the importers and others affected by its provisions, should not have been declared a law until last Monday.

Scores of protests have been filed with the board of general appraisers, and it is estimated that the new tariff makes a difference of over $300,000 in the goods that arrived by last Saturday's steamships.

Several importers are thinking seriously of testing the constitutionality of the law as interpreted at the treasury department, and a good bit of indignation may be looked for.

A BIG STRIKE PROBABLE.

New York Cloakmakers Completing Arrangements For a Demonstration.

New York, July 28.—Local union No. 1 of the United Brotherhood of Cloakmakers has held a meeting to complete arrangements for the big strike of the organization scheduled for Aug. 15 next. All present were in favor of the ordering out of the 12,000 cloakmakers in this city.

As an instance of the starvation wages now being paid by the manufacturers, Jacob Silverman stated that for 63 hours, in the employ of Meyer Jonasson, he was remunerated with $1.35, a week's wages. It is claimed that operators who were formerly paid 65 cents for jackets now get 18 cents and operators on capes are paid 7 cents for which they formerly got 35 cents.

TO REDUCE INSURANCE RATES.

Endeavors Being Made to Convene the Board of Underwriters.

New York, July 28.—President Sheffield of the fire department is endeavoring to convince the board of fire underwriters that the present fire insurance rates as applied to this city are extremely high.

He says that while the number of fires here have increased owing to the increase in buildings and population, or account of the efficiency of the department the average loss per fire has been greatly decreased.

The fire loss, he adds, has been reduced nearly one-half in the first six months of the last three years and that there should be some reduction in the rates.

Hearings on Change of Motive Power.

Albany, July 28.—The applications of the Second Avenue Railroad company and the Forty-second Street, Manhattanville and St. Nicholas Avenue Railroad company of New York city for permission to change their motive power will be given hearings by the state railroad commission in the New York city council chamber on Aug. 11. On the same day at the same place hearing will also be given by the commission on the applications of the Liberty and Jeffersonville Electric Railroad company, the Greene County Traction company of Coxsackie and the Milford, Matamoras and New York Railroad company for permission to construct electric roads.

The Stranded Steamship.

St. Johns, N. F., July 28.—The latest news from the stranded steamer Baltimore City, which went ashore at Flat islands, in the straits of Belle Isle, is that she is throwing overboard the remainder of her cargo in order to lighten ship. Two English warships, the Buzzard and the Cordelia, and the French ships Fulton and La Clocheterie, are rendering all the assistance possible. The cattle, which formed a part of the Baltimore City's cargo, have been taken to Sydney by the steamer Harlaw.

The New Tariff Bill.

Washington, July 28.—Assistant Secretary Howell of the treasury department, who is in charge of customs matters, said: "The new tariff bill is particularly free from ambiguities which, despite the most careful efforts, are liable to creep into such measures. It is a revenue producer, and in my opinion will produce at least $185,000,000 during the present fiscal year, and I look for at least $220,000,000 during the fiscal year 1899."

Cotton Mills Shut Down.

Fall River, Mass., July 28.—At a meeting of the directors of the Wampanoag Cotton mills it was voted to close the mills for two weeks during August. The Stevens mill shut down Saturday night for a month, and the Richard Borden mills will begin a curtailment next week. These factories employ about 1,800 hands, and it is understood that they are short of a supply of cotton.

Rubber Companies Consolidate.

New York, July 28.—Stockholders of the North American and Liberty Rubber companies of Setauket, N. Y., have consolidated the two companies. The new company will be incorporated under the laws of New Jersey in the name of the Empire State Rubber company. It will be operated by the Rubber trust.

Horse Thief Lynched.

Little Rock, July 28.—News of the lynching of one horse thief and the probable fatal shooting of another by a mob near the dividing line of Scott and Yell counties, 60 miles from a telegraph office, has reached here. Both the victims were white men. Their names were Crownover and Beach.

Arrested on a Charge of Fraud.

Chicago, July 28.—Theodore H Schintz, lawyer and real estate dealer who recently failed to the extent, it is said, of nearly $1,000,000, has been arrested on a charge of alleged fraud in selling a trust deed for $5,000. Schintz was released on bail.

A Railroad Ordered Sold.

Cincinnati, July 28.—Judge Taft has ordered sold the Lancaster and Hamden Railroad company property in its entirety. He directs Receiver W. F Black to dispose of it for not less than $150,000 to satisfy a judgment in favor of James H. Kyner.

Failure of an Electric Company.

Chicago, July 28.—The Metropolitan Electric company has failed. The liabilities amount to about $35,000; assets $100,000. The concern is capitalized at $500,000. Poor collections are said to have caused the asignment.

A CHURCH BUILT IN A DAY.

The quick Erection of the Building Due to a Series of Revival Meetings.

A church with a seating capacity of 3,000 persons, heated by three furnaces and lighted with electric lamps, was built between daylight and midnight Saturday, at Ravenswood, and was dedicated at 10:45 o'clock Sunday morning.

The contract for the church was closed at midnight Friday. The first lumber was hauled to the site at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, and men began stringing electric light wires from a plant two miles away. At 5 o'clock Saturday morning ten men were put to work, and as fast as material enough arrived the number of workmen was increased till there were nearly 200 men engaged on the structure. At 5 o'clock Saturday night the walls of the building had been covered over for the church women of Ravenswood to begin decorating with flags and bunting.

The nearest electric lighting plant is two miles away from Ravenswood. It was necessary to string electric wires all the distance to keep the contract. The linemen started to string wires at the same time that the first load of lumber was dumped on the ground.

A few workmen were busy for an hour and a half on Friday afternoon, preparing the ground for the building, and, with that exception, the work was all done Saturday. Over 50,000 feet of lumber was hauled to the site, and was used almost as fast as it was unloaded.

The cause of this rapid work was owing to a series of revival meetings held in Ravenswood and no church large enough to hold the crowd.—Chicago Tribune.

Barnstorming.

"The finest piece of histrionic work I ever did," remarked a well known actor, who stipulated that his name was not to be published, at the Union Square Theatre, "was in San Francisco several years ago. I went through a siege of barnstorming experiences before I got where I could rest assured of good engagements. One of the companies on whose pay roll I appeared as drawing $25 a week, nearly all of which is still owing to me, went to pieces in San Francisco. The angel of the company succeeded in getting us $10 apiece, with which to reach New York, and I laid awake planning how to get as far as Chicago with that amount of cash. I bought a cheap sample case, marked the name 'John Duncan, No. 113 Warren avenue, Chicago,' on it, had a few cards with the name and address on printed, wired a friend to telegraph to have me shipped home, if he received any telegram, bought a ticket to Sacramento, went into the sleeper, got acquainted with the porter, told him if I got very sick before reaching Sacramento to have the conductor wire this friend, and then proceeded to get sick. By the time the conductor came through I was dying.

"I heard the porter tell the conductor about the telegram, then two doctors in the train came and began to work with me. They said I could live but a few hours at most, and that it would require constant applications of whiskey to keep me alive until we reached Sacramento. There must have been enough whiskey on that train to stock a saloon. At Sacramento the telegram of my friend was received, and I heard the conductor ask the doctor if I could last until we reached Chicago. He said I could not, but he was going through and would take care of me until I died, and of my body until we reached Chicago. I took a dying spell at Ogden and another at Omaha, where we changed conductors, revived considerably about Ottawa, sixty miles out of Chicago, enough to be carried out and put in a hack and directed to the street and number on my cards and sample case. When I reached my destination I found that the place was a Chinese laundry, and the cabman looked puzzled as he carried me in, but he drove away without saying anything, and I hurried down-town, where I figured up and found that I had gone from San Francisco to Chicago, consumed about $10 worth of good liquor, and had $2 left out of a $10 bill."—New York World.

Something to Know.
It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

Mrs. Laura Talmage and Mrs. Emma F. Ege, of Central avenue, have gone away on their summer vacation.

The Grandest Remedy.
Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Michael Walsh, of Lee place, has returned from a visit with friends at Saratoga.

Councilman G. H. Frost, of Watchung avenue, is much improved from a slight illness.

Reasons Why Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is the Best.
1. Because it affords almost instant relief in case of pain in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus.
2. Because it is the only remedy that never fails in the most severe cases of dysentery and diarrhoea.
3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhoea.
4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent bilious colic.
5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemical dysentery.
6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
8. Because it produces no bad results.
9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.
10. Because it has saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world.
The 25 and 50c sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park & North Aves.

H. E. Bowen, of Watchung avenue, who has been spending his vacation at Woodstock, Conn., has returned home.

"Last summer one of our grandchildren was sick with a severe bowel trouble," says Mrs. E. G. Gregory, of Frederickstown, Mo. "Our doctor's remedy had failed, then we tried Chamberlains Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which gave very speedy relief." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park & North Aves.

Dr. Hunt, owner of the Hunterston Hotel, has returned from a fishing trip through Canada, and will remain at Netherwood for awhile.

You may hunt the world over and you will not find another medicine equal to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. It is pleasant, safe and reliable. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park & North Aves.

Thomas DeMeza, of West Second street, went to Paterson today to spend a few weeks with relatives.

Mr. C. L. Hasbrouck, a druggist at Mendon, Mich., says all of the good testimonials that have been published by the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy could be duplicated in that town. For sale By T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park and North Aves.

BIG FIRE IN YONKERS

Great Excitement at the Burning of a Factory.

NARROW ESCAPE OF OPERATIVES.

Imperfect Fire Escapes Nearly Cause a Great Loss of Life—The Whole Business Portion of the City at One Time Threatened.

Yonkers, N. Y., July 28.—A big fire which for a time it was feared might be accompanied by a considerable loss of life, broke out last evening in the blowing room of the hat factory of William Reed & Co. on the lower floor of the Shethar building on Elm street. The large gas meters exploded immediately after the flames first burst forth, and the escaping gas from the meters helped to feed the flames. Within a few minutes the fire was breaking through the windows of the first and second stories. The gas carried the fire rapidly through the section of the building nearest to the spot where it started.

The alarm was given by the engineer of the factory almost as soon as the fire broke out. There were about 600 men and girls in the building at the time. The second story of the building was occupied by the finishing room of the factory. On the third floor was the Yonkers Silk company, of which George B. Skinner is the agent. The fourth floor was used for storage, and on the fifth floor was the silk factory of Pass Bros. The building extended along Elm street about 300 feet. It was built of brick. On the side of the building farthest from the street the fire escapes were located.

The stairways and elevator shaft acted as suction ways for the flames, and through these the fire quickly communicated to the upper floors. As soon as the alarm was sounded on the whistle the operatives on every floor made a rush for the stairway, but the smoke which rushed up these caused them to turn back and make for the fire escapes.

In a minute these were overcrowded. No one had time to save anything, and the working clothing of the men and girls was all they could save. Owing to the nature of their work in the hat factory and in the silk works the operatives almost entirely change their clothing before beginning work. As a result all the street clothing worn to work was lost.

Faulty Fire Escapes Retard Escape.

The escape of the employees was retarded by the fact that the fire escapes were unprovided with ladders reaching from the second floor to the ground. The ladder used for this purpose had been fastened alongside the escape so that it could not be lifted to its place. When the alarm was given and it was found necessary to take to the fire escapes, the word was passed to let the girls go first. The result was that the ladders and landing were crowded with girls from the fifth to the second floors before a man attempted to leave the building.

When the girls reached the landing at the second floor and found that there were no means of going farther except by jumping, for they could not manage the ladder, they stopped. This caused great excitement, and some of the girls become hysterical.

At this juncture a man employed by Pass Bros. went out upon the escape. He swung himself around to the outer side of the ladder and went down the three stories hand under hand. He reached the last landing and there unfastened the ladder, which reached the ground, and by a superb exhibition of strength placed it in position with one hand while he hung suspended by the other.

By this time the fire had begun to attack the windows in the rear, and the fire was breaking from the windows about the escape. The girls descended amid smoke and sparks. One girl who worked in Pass Bros'. was a cripple and could not make her way down the escape. She was taken by two men and carried down in safety. Then the male operatives escaped down the iron ladders, which were now beginning to heat from the fire inside the building.

The operatives in the lower floor escaped somewhat more easily than those who were at work above; but, as it was, the big building was vacated not a moment too soon. Ten minutes after the first sign of fire the entire interior was a mass of flames, which were bursting from every window and beginning to show through the roof.

Entire Fire Force Called Out.

The fire alarm sounded on the whistle of the factory set every one of the 25 companies of the city in motion, and within a short time the men were at work on the flames. Streams of water were poured into the building from three sides, but seemed to have little or no effect. The fire soon ate through the floors, which, weighted down by heavy machinery and stock, collapsed. This left nothing but the shell of the building, as the roof followed the floors in the flight into the basement.

The west wall of the building was the first to collapse and fell into the Nepperban river, which skirts the building on that side. The collapse of this wall came near being a fatal one. Two fire companies were working on the far side of the river and had their stream directed into the building from that side. The wall fell with but little warning and the firemen had to abandon their hose and run for their lives. The bricks scattered all around the last men to get away, but no one was injured.

There was a high east wind blowing and this carried the flames from the building in which they started to the one occupied by Rowland Bros. as a hat factory. Despite hard resistance made by the firemen, the flames obtained a foothold in this building, and it was gutted.

During the fire the battery of four boilers in the big hat factory exploded and hurled burning embers and bricks in all directions, endangering the lives of the firemen. It took over three hours of hard work to bring the fire under control. The losses are very heavy. The lowest estimate is $400,000, and others run up as high as $550,000. Reed & Co. place their loss roughly at $60,000. The losses of Rowland Bros., Pass Bros. and the Yonkers Silk company are set down at $50,000 each. The loss on the two buildings totally destroyed is estimated at $240,000.

The insurance cannot be given, but will probably cover the loss. About 800 people are thrown out of employment.

THE NICHOLS MURDER

Arrest of a Man on Suspicion of Knowledge of the Crime.

MAY HELP CAPTURE THE MURDERER.

Suspicious Actions of the Arrested Man Lead the Detectives to Believe He Is In Communication With the Guilty Person.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 28.—The Bridgeport detectives who are at work upon the case involving the murder at Daniels Farms last week of Marcus G. Nichols, have made an arrest in the town of Huntington, a small place about five miles to the northeast of Trumbull. They took into custody John Wickes, not as a principal in the crime, but as one possibly possessing valuable information.

This arrest was made last evening at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Bassett in Huntington, the mother of Wickes, during an investigation set on foot to locate one Charles Bonai, against whom some tinge of suspicion has arisen. The officers, having learned something of the doings of Bonai, decided to arrest him if possible. The police refuse to divulge the most important part of their evidence, but admit that they have reason to want Bonai, who, they say, has traveled under several aliases, among which are the names Mason and Burney.

Bonai is about 25 years of age and makes his headquarters at times in Huntington. Six weeks ago he married Miss Maggie Wickes, the daughter of Mrs. Bassett by her first husband. He lived with his young wife at the home of his mother-in-law. An investigation by the police into the character of Bonai showed that he had apparently no steady occupation. He would leave Huntington at intervals, and upon his return would be "flush" with money.

Suspected Man's Movements.

After tracing his goings and comings recently as far as possible the detectives learned that on Sunday last he visited the distillery and cider mill of John Beardsley, near the Trumbull town line. He made some purchases, and in offering payment he displayed quite a sum of money. It is further added that he made the payment in gold. He then left and has not been in his usual haunts since. Yesterday Detective Arnold went with others to the Bassett house and tried to find Bonai. They were informed that he was in New York. The detective questioned Wickes, a brother-in-law of Bonai, rather sharply, and his answers caused the officer to feel warranted in placing the man under arrest. Late yesterday afternoon Wickes was brought to Bridgeport and locked up.

The police state that it must not be understood that they accuse Bonai of the murder and robbery, but information in their possession leads them to desire his arrest.

Professor Charles H. Marcy Dead.

New York, July 28.—Professor Charles Henry Marcy, well known in both Brooklyn and New York as a musician and composer, died suddenly from either apoplexy or heart failure in his flat at 1231 Bedford avenue, Brooklyn. He was alone at the time, and there is evidence that he was very ill before he fell upon his bed and died. He was a member of several well known musical societies of the two cities, and his music has been sung and played by many of the famous musicians and singers of the day. The attack of sickness came upon him suddenly, as his posture indicated that he had fallen upon the bed.

Greece Must Pay Indemnity.

Berlin, July 28.—The Cologne Gazette says that several of the powers, including Germany, have adopted the standpoint that the evacuation of Thessaly by Turkey cannot be demanded unless indemnity by Greece is paid or guaranteed. As payment of indemnity by a loan is out of the question, the only alternative, The Gazette says, seems the international control of Greek finances, and unless some such guarantee is included in the treaty of peace between Greece and Turkey it is questionable whether Germany will recommend the sultan to accept the treaty.

Sad Drowning Accident.

York Harbor, Me., July 28.—Miss Genevieve M. Daly of New York city was carried out by the undertow and drowned while bathing at York Beach. Her sister, Miss Emilia Daly and Miss Ella Ranny were rescued with difficulty by J. A. Peterson of Cambridgeport. The body of Miss Daly was quickly recovered, but restoratives were applied in vain. Cecil Daly, a brother of the unfortunate girl, tried to save his sister, but he himself was pulled into the boat exhausted.

Died From a Broken Neck.

Baltimore, July 28.—Mrs. J. D. Mallory, whose neck was broken by being thrown from a buggy on Sunday last, is dead. An operation was performed, and it was found that the spinal cord was completely severed. In spite of this, the woman was conscious up to the time of the operation, recognizing those about her and calmly awaiting the end.

Elevator Men Strike.

Buffalo, July 28.—About 40 men employed on the Northern elevator have struck. They explained to the superintendent that the money they received did not repay them for the chances of injury they were taking and wanted an increase of 7½ cents an hour. They are receiving 17½ now. Their demands were refused, and they quit work.

Metal Polishers Strike.

New York, July 28.—Fourteen metal polishers employed by Julius Mergott & Co. of Newark, N. J., metal novelty makers, whose factory is on Enterprise hill, Irvington, have gone out on strike because a cut had been made in their wages from 15 to 9 cents gross for polishing the frames of pocketbooks. Over 100 hands are affected.

Fight at a Meeting House.

Louisville, July 28.—A special from Morgantown, Ky., says: At Kaneridge meeting house Sunday 30 shots were exchanged between Estill Casey and John Casey and three Bailey brothers. Estill Casey is dying, and John Casey and two of the Baileys were painfully wounded. No arrests. All claim self defense.

LEGEND OF ST. SWITHIN.

St. Swithin, bishop of Winchester, England, in the ninth century, died and was buried in the church yard of the old cathedral. It was his desire to be laid where men could walk over him and rain fall on his grave. A century afterwards it was determined to remove his dust to a shrine in the sacred edifice. On the day the ceremony was to take place it rained, and for forty days thereafter Jupiter Pluvius exercised his office to prevent the wish of the deceased bishop from being violated. The remains were, however, enshrined on July 15th, and ever since, so the old saying goes, if it rains on St. Swithin's Day it will rain every day thereafter until there has been forty days rain. The present year bids fair to verify the old tradition.—Trenton Times.

RACE DISCRIMINATION.

There are said to be four thousand colored persons in Plainfield, and, according to reports, they are more or less aggrieved because a local confectioner refused to serve ice-cream to several members of their race. As the store is not a licensed place of public entertainment, it is doubtful if they can do anything with the proposed prosecution. The most sensible course is to take their trade where it is desired.—Tribune.

BEAR IN LINDEN WOOD.

Escaped From His Italian Owners and is Eating the Farmers' Chickens.

Somewhere in the woods near Linden, a cinnamon bear is roaming contentedly, enjoying a respite from a long term of enforced exhibition at the end of a chain, and living on luscious blackberries. He escaped Thursday from two swarthy sons of Italy, who had trained him to do several tricks, in return for which they took up the usual collection.

Wednesday evening the Italians camped at a grove near Linden. Bruin was chained to a tree while his masters slept. During the night he slipped his muzzle and wandered off. The Italians discovered their loss at daylight and started in pursuit. Bruin's trail was easily found. The bones and feathers of a chicken showed where he had breakfasted.

Inquiry at the farmhouses availed them nothing until they reached Linden, where a woman said some preserves she had left on the stoop to cool the previous night had been scattered over the porch. The Italians detected the bear's footprints in the mud on the street close by. The trail then led direct into Linden woods where it was lost. The Italians are heartbroken over their loss, and the country people are afraid to go into the woods to pick berries.

"Chawed Beefed" Their Clothes.

A party of boys from the West End went swimming at New Market pond, Sunday afternoon. While they were in swimming some other boys, who delight in practical jokes, came along and played a little joke on the West End youths. Their clothing was all tied up in numerous knots, "chawed beef" the boys call that method of treating someboby else's clothes. When the victims discovered the joke, the air was blue for a short space of time and then they hunted for the boys that perpetrated the joke. They were not caught, however.

MINING BOOM IN HUNTERDON.

Iron Mines to be Opened at West Portal at Once.

West Portal, Hunterdon county, has a big mining boom. New York capitalists have obtained large tracts of land and will begin mining iron at once. Yesterday 200 Italians were landed. Two car loads of tools have also arrived. About 400 more workmen will arrive in a day or two. The iron, which is said to be in large quantities, and of excellent quality, was discovered on Swayze's mountain, near West Portal. The gang of workmen, who are under the supervision of D. W. Losse, will commence at once to clear away the underbrush and trees on the mountain, and then the work of mining the ore will commence in earnest. It is reported the mines will be run similar to those of Wizard Edison's up in Morris county. An oven with a baking capacity of 100 loaves of bread daily has been constructed. It is expected the company will erect extensive buildings for the the manufacture of various articles.

THEATRICAL.

The following list of productions are presented by the "Kennedy Players": "The Midnight Express," Colonel James Snelweisner's great London comedy, "The Two Thieves," "The Octoroon," "The Two Orphans," "A Brother's Crime," "Ingomar," "The Dark Side of London," "A Celebrated Case," "Daly's Daughters," "Legally Dead," "Two Kids," and "Boy from Boston." This is a great list of plays and should pack any place of amusement to the doors. This company carries every particle of scenery used in its productions, as will be seen as each play is presented next week.

Historical House.

The old Berrien House, near Rocky Hill, which was occupied by Gen. Washington during the campaign of New Jersey, has been bought by an association.

The house has been removed nearly a quarter of a mile from its original position, because it was in danger from the blasting of rocks. An addition has been made to the eastern end, and on the south the balcony and piazza have been restored. An old mantel, taken away many years ago, has been restored. The formal opening of this house has been deferred until September 19th.

Armed Sentinel on Guard to Turn Away Strangers.

In Middlesex county about ten miles from New Brunswick a sentinel stands on a bridge which spans a mill stream, armed with a rifle, and halts every one who passes that way. The sentinel is guarding the entrance to the track of land purchased by the Rhenish Westphalian Explosive Company for the purpose of transferring its immense plant from Cologne, Germany, to this country to escape the duty which it has to pay on the goods it manufactures.

That all of the idle men in that vicinity might have employment Mr. Pownall issued orders that every idle man who lived in that neighborhood should have a chance to go to work before any strangers were taken on. This is the explanation of the sentinel on the bridge.

Adamsville to Have a Postoffice.

Wednesday's newspapers announced the appointment of William Doyle as postmaster of Grandview, to succeed J. J. Maier. Mr. Doyle lives near the Adamsville schoolhouse and while it will doubtless be a convenience to the people of that neighborhood to have postal facilities, the Grandview citizens claim that it is an outrage to take their office two miles from its present location and continue to call it Grandview.—Bound Brook Chronicle.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

A meeting of the Foresters will be held next Thursday evening.

J. Q. Miles, of Plainfield, was in the borough yesterday on business.

Miss Nellie Huff, of the borough, is visiting friends at Oyster Bay, L. I.

D. M. Titsworth, of Plainfield, called on borough relatives yesterday.

Miss Mabel Ising, of the borough, is visiting Miss Nancy Thomas, of Ocean Grove.

J. B. Conover, of the borough, went after blackberries yesterday and he had good success.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Bodine, of the borough, are stopping at the Howland House, Ocean Grove.

Mrs. William Campbell, of North Plainfield, spent yesterday with friends in the borough.

Mrs. J. T. Armstrong and son, Howard, are visiting Mrs. S. P. Brown, of the borough.

E. J. McLoughlin and family, of the borough, have returned from their visit with friends at Craigsville, N. Y.

It is quite likely that the postoffice will continue to remain in its present location, as there is no desire to have it changed.

Jacob Mitze, of New Market, is seriously ill at his home and his friends are much concerned as regards his recovery.

A regular meeting of Wm. G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., was held last evening. Nothing but routine business was transacted.

A pipe has been laid under ground from the round house to the Dunellen railroad station so that the station can be supplied with the necessary water.

Phillip Mitze, of New Market, who is employed by I. H. Boehm, the Plainfield dry goods merchant, is detained at home owing to the serious illness of his father.

The appointment of Charles S. Coriell as postmaster has met with public approval and there is no doubt but what the office will be maintained at its present high standard. Mr. Coriell will probably receive his commission this week and as soon as he gets it he will take possession of the office. The present postmaster will quite likely engage in some local business at an early date.

SCOTCH PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Rev. J. S. Braker is visiting in Montandon, Pa.

Wm. Cory, of Cortlandt, N. Y., is visiting old friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Richardson, of New York city, are spending the summer with Mrs. Richardson's parents on Summit avenue.

The attending physician has decided that an operation will be necessary to remove the depression in the skull of Roger Sherman King, the six year old boy who was injured by a fall two weeks ago.

William C. Reed, of Park street, was tendered a surprise party on Monday evening in honor of his birthday. Vocal and instrumental music was a pleasant part of the evening's programme, and refreshments were served.

A southern barbecue and lawn festival will be held at the New York Avenue Baptist church tomorrow night, rain or shine. The proceeds will go into the church treasury. A number of visitors from the Plainfield churches will be present.

The two 12-pound Howitzers which were presented to Winfield Scott Post No. 73, G. A. R., by the United States Bureau of Ordnance, for the soldiers' plot in Fairview Cemetery arrived in Westfield today. The guns were cast in 1870. They are of bronze and are mounted upon field carriages.

Robert Crickenberger, of this place, was bitten on the leg by a large blacksnake while walking on Rahway avenue, Elizabeth, Sunday evening. Dr. Keenan, of that city, dressed the wound, which was pronounced a harmless one. It has since healed nicely and no bad effects are feared.

The informal reception given last evening by Rev. and Mrs. N. W. Cadwell in honor of the fifteenth anniversary of Mr. Cadwell's pastorate in the Westfield Presbyterian church, was largely attended in spite of the inclement weather. H. W. Frillman, a member of the famous Old Homestead quartette was present and sang several selections. Light refreshments were served the guests.

On August 3d, the day of the big Sunday-school excursion, the following Westfield young men will ride to Ocean Grove upon their bicycles: Louis Davenport, Albert Lightbourne, Charles Kaylor, William Kaylor, Robert Crickenberger, Charles Van Buskirk, William Van Buskirk, Leroy Schoonover, Howard Manning, Edgar Foster, Charles Kimball, H. C. West and W. J. Goltra. The party will start early and endeavor to reach the seashore ahead of the excursion train.

PASSING COMMENT.

Charles Lewis, of the Crescent Avenue church choir, who will leave the city this week to enjoy his annual vacation, has been telling his friends a good story which is reported to be true. It seems that a good deacon met a little boy one Sunday recently and said, "I did not see your father at church this morning?" "O, no," the boy said, "he went into the woods." Whereupon the deacon replied "O, that is bad, my son, I do not think that he fears God?" "O, yes he does," replied the boy, "for he took his gun with him."

The sight that is such a frequent one to passengers at the North avenue station of the "coal commuters" who sail by on the passing coal and freight trains, is one that can be seen on the American side alone. In Europe, governments make special regulation for the control of the big tramping contingent. The "kights of the road" are not allowed to wander about European countries as in America. There may be a time when the Congress will take action in the matter but until then the tramps will wander about the country.

One of the redeeming features of the new revenue law is that provision relating to cigarettes, chewing and smoking tobacco. It provides that nothing shall be given away with packages, no more picture cards, buttons, vouchers for pipes or presents or anything else in the way of bait. Tobacco must sell upon its merits now. The new law says that there shall be nothing attached to packages other than the manufacturer's labels and the internal revenue stamp, and further that there shall not be affixed to, or branded, stamped, marked, written or printed upon said packages any promise or offer of, or any order or any certificate for any gift, prize premium, payment or reward.

There is no doubt but that the great use of bicycles has injured the business of many dealers and business men of the country. The liverymen have met with a great loss, so, too, have the tailors and the jewelers, the money which formerly went to them now going toward bicycles and cycling outfit. Other dealers have suffered but the one business that the use of the bicycle has built up is that of the sale of cameras, particularly the small pocket affairs. Now that the cyclist has gotten into the habit of riding about the country, he wishes to have something to recall the many pretty and strange sights he has seen on his travels and so he carries a camera with him. All dealers in photographic materials report that there has been a steady growth in the amount of their sales since the bicycle came so generally into use and especially during the season when wheeling is in order.

Queer Jersey Animals.

Plainfield's Busiest Store.

We sell goods cheaper than any other stores.

SALE NO. 2.

Tuesday we commence the greatest sale of table linen, towels, napkins, handkerchiefs and wash goods that this town of yours and ours ever saw. Great because your dollar will do the work of two; great because the goods advertised were bought at half their value; some wet, but all as good as the day they were made.

The following lots are all from the steamer "City of Rome" and were slightly damaged by water during a fire on board and were sold by order of the fire underwriters—

On with the Story.

Strong Linen Logic.

You know what the new tariff will do with linens, advance them from 25 to 40 per cent; these lots fresh from the great Scotch and Irish makers, cold as a stone. Flax! yes, every thread of them, not a half-cotton substitute; good time to buy; good place to buy them here.

MR. BELLAMY'S BOOK.

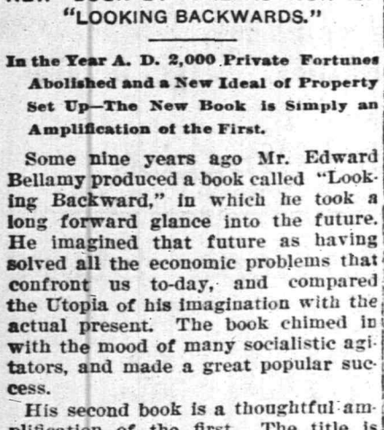
NEW BOOK BY THE AUTHOR OF "LOOKING BACKWARDS."

In the Year A. D. 2,000 Private Fortunes Abolished and a New Ideal of Property Set Up—The New Book is Simply an Amplification of the First.

Some nine years ago Mr. Edward Bellamy produced a book called "Looking Backward," in which he took a long forward glance into the future. He imagined that future as having solved all the economic problems that confront us to-day, and compared the Utopia of his imagination with the actual present. The book chimed in with the mood of many socialistic agitators, and made a great popular success.

His second book is a thoughtful amplification of the first. The title is "Equality." In the preface he tells us that when he wrote "Looking Backward" he was not able to get into it all he wished to say. "Since it was published what was left out of it has loomed up as so much more important than what it contained that I have been constrained to write another book."

He has taken the date of "Looking Backward," the year 2000, as that of "Equality," and has utilized the framework of the former story as a starting point for this. In short, "Equality" is a sequel or continuation of "Looking Backward."



EDWARD BELLAMY.

It is therefore necessary to recount the essential features of the first book. Julian West, the hero, a Boston millionaire, was supposed to have been put into a hypnotic trance on May 30, 1887. He woke up one hundred and thirteen years later, in September, A. D. 2000. It took him some time to master the new conditions that presented themselves to his astonished view.

Step by step, almost as to a child, his new hosts explained to him, who had known no other way of living except the struggle for existence, what were the simple principles of national co-operation for the promotion of the general welfare on which the new civilization rested. He learned that there were no longer any who were or could be richer or poorer than others, but that all were economic equals. He learned that no one any longer worked for another, either by compulsion or for hire, but that all alike were in the service of the nation working for the common fund, which all equally shared, and that even necessary personal attendance, as of the physician, was rendered as to the State like that of the military surgeon.

All these wonders, it was explained, had very simply come about as the results of replacing private capitalism by public capitalism, and organizing the machinery of production and distribution, like the political government, as business of general concern to be carried on for the public benefit instead of private gain.

The new book is simply an amplification of the old. It explains more fully and emphasizes more acutely the means by which this great revolution had been accomplished. Of course, there is much that appeals to the fancy rather than the intelligence. The ordinary reader finds more enjoyment in allowing his imagination to batten upon the domestic and everyday possibilities of twentieth century advancement than in dry economical details. Mr. Bellamy has therefore provided all sorts of pretty millinery to dress out his skeleton of socialistic communism. He gives us a race of people who are beautifully and comfortably attired in paper clothes.

A gala costume costs from ten to twenty cents. Consequently it is worn but for a day or two and then goes back to the mill to be reproduced in other forms. The laundry and the tailor shop are practically unknown in the Boston of A. D. 2000. He also gives us graphophones instead of books and newspapers, and theatrical performances which are turned on in private homes as gas or water is turned on in 1897. These are the things that would be obvious to a lesser intelligence than Mr. Bellamy's. They count for nothing save to beguile the reader into swallowing his intended pill of instruction.

Socially and economically Mr. Bellamy believes that the present world is out of joint. He holds before us a picture of the world set right. He imagines private fortunes abolished, whether achieved by inheritance or by individual effort. Individuals work co-operatively for the general good, wherein the good to themselves is a necessary but incidental feature.

Dr. Leete is the spokesman of the book. He is made to point out the wrong and injustice of the system now prevailing. Here is how he attacks the possession of wealth by inheritance: Julian West is supposed to bring out before the astonished eyes of twentieth century people a strong box containing his title deeds, mortgages and other evidences of former wealth. The Doctor explains their real purport as follows:—

"I think," said the Doctor, "that we shall all understand the nature and value of these documents much better if, instead of speaking of them as titles of ownership in farms, factories, mines, railroads, &c., we state plainly that they were evidences that their possessors were the masters of various groups of men, women and children in different parts of the country. Of course, as Julian says, the documents nominally state his title to things only, and say nothing about men and women. But it is the men and women who went with the lands, the machines and various other things, and were bound to them by their bodily necessities which gave all the value to the possession of the things.

"But for the implication that there were men who, because they must have the use of the land, would submit to labor for the owner of it in return for permission to occupy it, these deeds and mortgages would have been of no value. So of these factory shares. They speak only of water power and looms, but they would be valueless but for the thousands of human workers bound to the machines by bodily necessities as fixedly as if they were chained there. So of these coal mine shares. But for the multitude of wretched beings condemned by want to labor in living graves, of what value would have been these shares, which yet make no mention of them? And see, again, how significant is the fact that it was deemed needless to make mention of and to enumerate by name these serfs of the field, of the loom, of the mine!

"Under systems of chattel slavery, such as had formerly prevailed, it was necessary to name and identify each chattel, that he might be recovered in case of escape, and an account made of the loss in case of death. But there was no danger of loss by the escape or the death of the serfs transferred by these documents. They would not run away, for there was nothing better to run to or any escape from the world-wide economic system which enthralled them; and if they died, that involved no loss to their owners, for there were always plenty more to take their places. Decidedly, it would have been a waste of paper to enumerate them."

So much for inherited wealth. But wealth accumulated by individual effort is surely lawful? Dr. Leete thinks not. This is how he explains the twentieth century view of the case:—

"We have seen how far the inheriting class were justified in their holdings by the principle which the nineteenth century asserted to be the excuse for wealth—namely, that individuals were entitled to the fruit of their labors. Let us next inquire how far the same principle justified the possessions of these others whom Julian refers to, who claimed that they had made their money themselves, and showed in proof lives absolutely devoted from childhood to age without rest or respite to the piling up of gains.

"Now, of course, labor in itself, however arduous, does not imply moral desert. It may be a criminal activity. Let us see if these men who claimed that they made their money had any better title to it than Julian's class by the rule put forward as the excuse for unequal wealth, that every one has a right to the product of his labor. The most complete statement of the principle of the right of property, as based on economic effort, which has come down to us is this maxim: Every man is entitled to his own product, his whole product and nothing but his product.' Now this maxim has a double edge—a negative as well as a positive, and the negative edge is very sharp. If everybody was entitled to his own product nobody else was entitled to any part of it, and if any one's accumulation was found to contain any product not strictly his own, he stood condemned as a thief by the law he had invoked.

"If in the great fortunes of the stock-jobbers, the railroad kings, the bankers, the great landlords and the other moneyed lords who boasted that they had begun life with a shilling—if in these great fortunes of mushroom rapidity of growth there was anything that was properly the product of the efforts of any one but the owner, it was not his, and his possession of it condemned him as a thief. If he would be justified he must not be more careful to obtain all that was his own product than to avoid taking anything that was not his product."

These two quotations sum up Mr. Bellamy's philosophy.

The rest of the book is simply an expansion of the thoughts here contained. That Mr. Bellamy is earnest and honest in his convictions is evident. That hundreds of earnest and honest men hold the same convictions is also evident. Will the future increase or decrease the number of these men? That an increase threatens the overturning of our entire social fabric and its rebuilding on a new basis goes without saying.

Quick Work, This.

The late Sir John Throckmorton once sat down to dinner dressed in a coat which had been wool on the back of a sheep the same morning, says the Golden Penny. The whole process of manufacture had taken place during the hours from sunrise to 7 P. M.—the sheep sheared, the wool washed, carded, spun and woven; the cloth scoured, fulled, sheared, dyed, and dressed, and finally made into a coat, which Sir John wore when he presided at a dinner party.

SILK FROM THE SPURCE TREE.

Great Care Used in the Process of Making the Silk-Like Fibres.

Silk of excellent quality is being made from the spruce tree in Europe, and a movement is on foot to establish the industry in this country. It is said that the cost of making silk by this process is one-fifth that of the spinning from the silk worm cocoon. The fibre takes dye as readily as the animal product, and can be woven as securely and as rapidly. It is also claimed that the tensile strength of the fabric is as silk. In trying to hit upon the partic great as, if not greater than, the rea ular chemical process that the origi nal fibre went through before it was spun as silk by the loom, he found that after the fibre had been separated it needed the chemical action of a certain form of glucose. In the new treatment the tree is crushed, and the resulting fibre is mixed with glucose and then placed in deep metal tubs. A disk, somewhat like a steam piston, is then forced down on the mass by hydraulic pressure until it is compressed into a very heavy gum. At the bottom of the tubs are tubes terminating in tiny glass nipples, with exceedingly small apertures. Under the hydraulic pressure the mixture is forced out of these glass nipples in silk-like fibres, which are so fine that the girls who are employed in this portion of the process are obliged to wear highly magnifying glasses in order to distinguish when any of the fibres break. The material is then carried over electrically-heated drums, which dry the ether and the alcohol out of it. It is then plunged into iced water, dried, and spooled for the looms.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Auctions in Japan.

There is little chance for fraud or complaint in the matter of conducting auction sales in Japan. Although there are not nearly so many sales held there as in this country, officials of the cities have a way of conducting them much similar to our method of voting.

When an auction is to take place, the goods or property is advertised for two weeks ahead. On the day of the sale each bidder writes his name and address and the amount of his bid for each lot on a slip of paper, which he carefully places in a box. When all the bids are in the auctioneer opens the box in the presence of the spectators, and, after examining, all the goods are declared the property of the highest bidder. By this system the American custom of owners bidding in property on goods would almost entirely disappear.

Fox Terrier a Transparency.

The fox terrier is now officially registered as a transparency, the X ray shining through him like a candle through a Chinese lantern. The experiment has been tried on an animal of this species which had swallowed a diamond ring, the trinket appearing in its midst, visible as a goldfish in a glass vase or a fly in amber. The utilities of this penetrating beam may expand till it will show up other than the paltry pilferings of a terrier, perhaps even the sway of the political boss, notwithstanding the opacity of its bulk and origin.—New York Tribune.

First Meeting With Mosquitoes.

Two Irishmen just landed in America, were encamped on the open plain. In the evening they retired to rest, and were soon attacked by swarms of mosquitoes. They took refuge under the bed clothes. At last one of them ventured to peep out, and, seeing a firefly, exclaimed in tones of terror:

"Mickey, it's no use; there's one of the craythers searching for us wid a lantern."—Pearson's Weekly.

In times of famine bread has been baked from "wood-bran," or sawdust. This wood bread is made by selecting the sawdust of the least resinous wood—the beech, for example—and adding a little flour, some yeast and some water. When baked it resembles in ordinary appearance and taste the common brown bread of the bakers.

The First Secretary of the American Embassy in London gets $2625 a year, the Second Secretary $2000, and the Naval Attaché only his navy pay. These salaries do not suffice to pay the house rent, and therefore our representatives are usually, of necessity, men of private means.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings make them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the materia, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

A Dying Man.

SAVED BY THE BLOOD OF A CALF.

Mr. John Shields, of Teddington, London whose foot was crushed under a heavy wagon while driving through a lonely lane became unconscious and continued to lose blood and grow weaker for nearly thirty minutes before he was discovered. Blood was drawn from a calf, and injected into Mr. Shields' arm with instantaneous results. He is today a healthy man. It was this case that prompted Dr. Campbell to extract the iron or Hæmoglobin from bullocks blood and put it up in the form of Capsuloids, for pale or weak people. One Capsuloid represents two-thirds of an ounce of pure blood.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price by The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York.

THE PRESIDENT'S VACATION.

He Intends to Take a Complete Rest From Official Business.

Washington, July 28.—The president and party will go on their vacation to the shores of Lake Champlain. The chief executive desires to obtain as far as possible a complete rest from official duties during his absence, and for this reason it is probable that but few appointments will be made during that time.

It is stated at the White House that all papers sent to the president at his summer home will be mailed to Washington without being opened. It is the intention that all papers intended for him shall go through the channel they have heretofore followed.

The president, it is said, will look over no papers while he is away, and whatever appointments are made will be announced here. Benjamin F. Montgomery, one of the executive clerks, will have charge of affairs at the White House during Mr. McKinley's absence.

VENEZUELAN PRESIDENCY.

The Election of General Andrade For the Position Almost Certain.

Caracas, Venezuela, July 28.—Francisco Castillo having declined to be a candidate for the presidency the success of General Andrade is considered almost certain.

Dr. Juan Pietri, the envoy extraordinary of Venezuela to Germany, who has been in Paris for some time, with the object of accomplishing the renewal of diplomatic relations between France and Venezuela, arrived here on the 14th inst. with the protocol and referendum. The press as usual made a vigorous attack upon the protocol without knowing what it contained. A cabinet council will be held on July 30 to consider the document.

It is announced upon official authority that the protocol is looked upon with favor by the Venezuelan government.

THE RUSH CONTINUES

The Exodus of Gold Seekers on the Increase.

NEW SCHEMES TRIED TO GET THERE.

The Latest Idea Is to Charter a Sailing Vessel and Take Sixty Men, Each Taking a Ton of Provisions.

San Francisco, July 28.—The throngs about every shipping office that has even the remotest Alaskan relations have by no means diminished. It would seem that the only circumstance which prevents the wholesale depopulation of San Francisco is the limit to the transportation facilities. Not only strong men, whose broad backs, bronzed faces and work worn hands tell of previous experience with the labor that literally sweats the brow, but clerks and professional men and women in hundreds are seeking for information or transportation to the land where nuggets are to be had, they think, for the picking up.

Every day sees some new scheme for overcoming the difficulties in the way of reaching the Klondike, and the fleet of steamers and schooners pressed into service is growing steadily. The latest of the Klondike transportation company schemes is being engineered by Captain Herriman of the firm of Herriman & Mills, who has mapped out a plan for reaching the diggings by the middle of September. He will charter a large sailing vessel, and the party will consist of 60 men, each of whom will take one ton of provisions. No one will be permitted to go unless he takes this quantity.

Each one will be charged $225 for the trip, and Captain Herriman thinks that for this sum he can land them in Dawson City before Sept. 20. The ship will carry a large lighter, and a steam launch will be used to tow the lighter from St. Michael to the Klondike. After reaching St. Michael the cargo and passengers will be transferred to the lighter. Captain Herriman will return to San Francisco in the vessel, and the party will be conducted to their journey's end by an agent of the firm who is thoroughly acquainted with the river.

The Alaska Commercial company's steamer Excelsior, which has just left, will not make another trip to Alaska before June of next year. All the accommodations to be disposed of for this trip have been sold and the fact well advertised, but would be passengers continue to throng the company's office.

The Commercial company not only declines to sell any more tickets, but its representatives do all in their power to dissuade applicants from making the trip until next year. Some 20 or 30 have endeavored to secure accommodations for the first trip next June. The company declines to bind itself so far ahead, although a number of the applicants were willing to put up a forfeit and agree to abide by any terms the company might make for the next year's trip.

To Establish an Alaskan Post.

San Francisco, July 28.—In response to a telegraphic inquiry as to whether he could spare a full company of infantry for the establishment of a post at Circle City, Alaska, for the protection of American interests General Shafter, commanding the department of California, has notified Secretary Alger that a company could easily be organized at 12 hours' notice for service in Alaska and asked for full instructions.

General Shafter is prepared for an order to dispatch his company north immediately in order that it may reach the Yukon before navigation closes. He expressed the opinion that the company would leave here in a special train for Portland, Or., and that it will probably be joined there by a company from the department of the Columbia. The officers to accompany the company will be a major, surgeon, captain and two lieutenants, all of whom have been selected from the volunteers.

Until final instructions arrive and the matter has been finally settled officially General Shafter declines to state what company of his regiment has been chosen or by whom it will be commanded.

A Pack Trail Opened.

Seattle, Wash., July 28.—The Alaska Searchlight publishes a letter from William Moore, at Fourteen Mile Camp, Skagwa, Alaska, stating that the White pass pack trail to the summit of the pass was opened for travel on July 16. On reaching the summit the traveler steps upon an almost level country, the grade to the lakes being 20 feet to the mile. The distance from Salt Water to the Too Chi lake is 30 miles, and from Salt Water to the head of Lake Bennett the distance is 45 miles. Both routes from the summit are through rolling country, for the most part open, with plenty of grass for feeding stock, water and sufficient timber for all purposes. From Salt Water to the summit stock and pack horses can be driven through easily.

Denial of Large Death Rate.

San Francisco, July 28.—Returned Yukonites deny the story by Frank Moss of Great Falls, Mon., to the effect that 2,000 graves at Forty Mile post tell of the terrible sufferings of the gold seekers. F. G. Bowker says that so far from being over 2,000 deaths on the Klondike during the past three years there was nobody there to die until something less than a year ago, and since then there have been three deaths in that whole district so far as known. In the graveyard at Forty Mile post, which has served for all that section for some years past, there are only between 30 and 40 graves.

Klondike Company Incorporated.

Newark, N. J., July 28.—Articles of incorporation of the Yukon Klondike Gold Mining and Trading company have been recorded in the county clerk's office. The capital stock is placed at $125,000, and business will be commenced with $1,000. The incorporators are Alfred Luttman of this city and John F. Walker and Charles Dutton of East Orange.

Cuban Insurgent Captured.

Havana, July 28.—The police of this city have captured the insurgent Major Mariano Aymerich at a private hospital in Cerro, where he was undergoing treatment for wounds received in an engagement some time ago.

AROUND THE BASES.

John Harkins, the once famous pitcher for the West Ends, of Somerville, is now doing very well as a keeper of a road house between Elizabeth and Rahway.

The Crescents are great base runners. They have not played a game in which several of them have not stolen at least one base safely. Last Saturday they had great fun on the bases, Cooney even stealing his third, which is a difficult thing for any runner to do.

The newspapers in Somerville are up in arms in defence of their base ball team, the Somersets. They claim that it is the Crescents who are to blame for the failure up to the present day to arrange a series of games between the Plainfield and Somerville teams. If they had glanced at the proposition made by Manager Mumford, of the Crescents, to which he has received no answer, they might think differently. It is probable, however, that the series of games will finally be decided upon, for it will be a drawing card that neither team can afford to lose.

McLarty made a little play all by himself Saturday afternoon that resulted in one run coming in. He made a base hit and advanced a man to third. He tried to squeeze a two base hit out of it, but the ball reached second considerably before him. He noticed the man on third and went at the second bag with a mighty slide. The second baseman had no trouble in touching him out, but Mac was going so fast that the two rolled over the bag and the man on third scored before the second baseman could recover himself and throw the ball to the home plate.

The Crescents will find their hands full on Saturday afternoon when the Williamsburg Field Club will send its crack team to this city for a game. The team is not simply a crowd of amateurs, it is a regular semi professional team, supported by that club. A rattling good battery they have, with an extra pitcher, should the Crescents find their regular pitcher an easy thing. The Crescents will be composed of their regular men. Symonds will be back in his old position in the field and his batting abilities will be needed. Symonds is the best batter en the team, although McLarty and Vroom are both hard hitters.

TEASES A "NEW" LAWYER.

Miss Philbrook Met a Veteran and the Judge Seemed to Agree With Her.

There was a tilt yesterday in the Court of Common Pleas at New Brunswick, between John W. Beekman of Perth Amboy, and Miss Mary Philbrook, of Jersey City, the New Jersey Portia. Miss Philbrook won.

It was in the case of J. Edward Addicks and Edward Bacot, receivers for the Staten Island Brick and Terra Cotta Company, against Dayton & Williams. Mr. Beekman appeared for the defense and Miss Philbrook for the plaintiffs.

Beekman wanted set aside an order made June 29th allowing an amendmedt to the proceedings, because the summons, as prepared by Miss Philbrook, did not specify the defendants with sufficient clearness, referring to them by their last names and the initials of the first name instead of the first name in full.

Miss Philbrook quoted law and cited precedent to show that her summons was all right, and Judge Strong thought so too.

Another defect claimed by Beekman was that no notice to amend had been given. Miss Philbrook admitted this, but said it had not been necessary.

Judge Strong remarked that Mr. Beekman was ungallantly persistent in objecting on technicalities.

"That may be, Your Honor," he replied, "but the rules governing the practice of law should be adhered to."

"Well, I will look into the case," replied the Judge. "We old lawyers might have laid too much stress upon technicalities, but the new lawyers may be right in proceeding differently." He laid an emphasis upon "new" that made every one, including Miss Philbrook, smile.

Judge Strong reserved decision.

LOCKJAW FROM A COW'S KICK.

Apparently Insignificant Wound Resulted in the Death of Jeremiah Hurley.

Jeremiah Hurley, of Millburn, on July 13th was milking his cow, when it kicked him on the hand, breaking the skin. He continued to work, and the wound appeared to be healing until July 20th, when Mr. Hurley felt a stiffness of the throat and jaws, and it was difficult for him to swallow solid food.

His jaws were set still firmer the next day, and thereafter he partook of no food. He called on Dr. D. E. English on that day, and the physician told him to go home and go to bed. Mr. Hurley did not go to bed that day, but remained in bed on Thursday until evening, when he went down stairs.

He was unable to arise on Friday and sank gradually until he died, on Monday night.

Mrs. Hurley is loath to believe that lockjaw caused the death of her husband. She says that when he was ill on former occasions his jaws stiffened. Dr. English gives the cause of death as lockjaw and exhaustion.

The Storm's Effect.

The heavy seas which began pounding the Asbury Park boardwalk Monday night increased in violence last evening. The most serious damage is between Third and Fifth avenues. Many of the bath-houses at the Third avenue grounds are wrecked. Several times the surf was so strong that dashing against the bulwarks beneath the group of bath-houses, it knocked up their floors and then lifted off the roofs. The grass-plot between the board walk and the bicycle path has been washed away for fifty feet, and the plank promenade is exposed to the full force of the breakers. Workmen from all parts of the city were engaged during last night in bracing up the walk at its weak spots. The bulwarks at Second avenue, where great damage was done two weeks ago, have thus far stood the strain. The board walk has been torn up between Fourth and Fifth avenues. The surf last night was so high that it washed over the end of the fishing pier and floor of the Asbury pavilion.

An Immense Sale.

The largest and best sale of linen that has ever been held in Plainfield, is now on at White's. Yesterday was the first day, and although it stormed hard, the store was crowded with buyers. It was a fortunate purchase, as all the goods are in a good condition and will sell quickly.

—Don't forget the Jr. O. U. A. M. excursion to Asbury Park on August 19th.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—No macamizing has been done on East Front street this week. The present condition of the weather is the cause.

—You need a pair of shoes? Want to get them as cheap as possible, save 50 cents to $1.00 a pair. See Willetts sale of tan shoes.

—The tenth anniversary exercises of the Exempt Firemen's Association will be held tomorrow evening in their rooms on Park avenue.

—The present bad weather has for a time deferred the work of erecting the proposed arc light at the corner of Park avenue and Front street.

—Owing to the fact that the most of the members of the North Plainfield Board of Health are away no meetings will be held for the present.

—A meeting of Warren Engine Company will be held next Tuesday evening when the regular businees for the month will be transacted.

—John W. Whelen, former City Treasurer of Elizabeth, was yesterday appointed receiver of the Victor Radiator Company, of Elizabeth, by Vice-Chancellor Emery.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Charles Lister and family have returned from a visit with relatives in Philadelphia.

J. D Runyon left for New Foundland, N. J., this afternoon, where his wife is staying for her health.

H. W. Beebe, of Madison avenue, has returned from Seabright, where he has been stopping for a few days.

Mrs. T. S. Davis, son and daughter, of Park avenue, are summering at Long Lake, Adirondack Mountains, until September 1st.

Mrs. E. W. Mills and her daughter, of East Fifth street, who are enjoying an outing in the mountains will spend the month of August on Long Island with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. William MacClymont left today for Germantown, Pa. Mr. MacClymont will leave Saturday with the Midmer Glee Club, who are to give concerts at Asbury Park, Long Branch, etc.

Work on the State Reformatory.

The Kingsbridge Iron Company, which has the contract for putting the roof on the State Reformatory at Rahway, has just begun the work of roofing in the northwest wing, which is the only part of the reformatory that is to be entirely enclosed. The firm has about thirty men at work, and the job will be finished before October 1 or later. This is the only work being done at the reformatory, as the state appropriation has been nearly all used up, and nothing more can be done this year or until the Legislature for 1898 meets and appropriates more money. General Contractor Hooper has only about a dozen men at work cleaning up things around the place, and their labor will soon be ended.

RAVAGES OF THE RAIN.

Fourteen Days' Storm Ended in a Spiteful Manner.

Great Damage Wrought Throughout This Section of the Country—Small Streams Became Raging Torrents That Swept All Frail Things Along With the Current—Washingtonville Dam Unable to Stand the Strain and a Portion of the Structure Collapsed—No Loss of Life, But Several Narrow Escapes—Loss Will Amount to Thousands of Dollars.

The fourteen days' rain ended last night in a spiteful manner, bringing devastating results to this particular section in a manner that for the time being was threatening to both life and property. Fortunately, no loss of life is reported, though there were narrow escapes, but the financial loss that is realized directly, and will be felt as seriously in the aftermath, will run up into the thousands of dollars. The ravages of the rain, as visited upon the community in ordinarily harmless rivulets, with scarcely enough water to cover their stony beds, becoming raging torrents, augmented every moment by streams that tore their way down mountains and through valleys in the endeavor to find a level, were widespread. It was not any particular section that suffered from the overflow, but the whole surrounding country felt the effects in a manner seldom, if ever, experienced before. While the people of Washingtonville and the upper end of North Plainfield were, perhaps, the heaviest sufferers, the residents of the very center of the city, usually believed to be secure from great inconvenience or loss by freshet floods, were also proportionate losers.

However, the sun shines with its old-time brightness and warmth today, in verification of the words hopefully advanced by the weather prognosticators yesterday. Weather Observer Neagle stated this morning that from 8 p. m. on Tuesday to 8 p.m. last night 4.52 inches of water fell in this section. The details of the damage wrought are given below:

The steady rains of the afternoon swelled the streams in the Washington valley far above their usual size even before night came on. The residents of Washingtonville realized that a flood was threatened and preparations began to be made for a hasty departure to the hills.

The new pond and dam of the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company, in the valley just west of Washingtonville, was the centre of all the excitement. Andrew Wilson, with a gang of ten men and a team of horses and wagon, were working there early in afternoon to prevent a break in the dam. The water poured over the stone outlet while the outlet pipe was filled with a torrent of rushing water. Late in the afternoon the earth embankment, just to the right of the stone portion of the dam, began to give way. A little stream of water poured over, but Mr. Wilson and his assistants worked rapidly and stopped the break with logs, stone and earth.

The pond covers an area of fifteen acres and is usually about twenty feet deep in the middle. The dam is twenty-six feet high and a little over 200 feet long. At 10 o'clock, there was four feet of water pouring over the stone outlet, which is 100 feet wide, with a great roar, washing great holes in the earth below. The water seemed steadily to rise.

J. H. Koch lives on the edge of the pond, next to the Warrenville road. The water poured in torrents down the road and his house looked like an island in the flood. His outhouses were flooded, but the house escaped. The occupants were greatly excited.

Jerard Underhill lives above the on the Smalleytown road. He keeps ducks, many of which were swept away by the current in the afternoon. His house was on the high ground.

When it was seen that the big dam was in danger, the residents of Washingtonville prepared to move. Charles Bloom lives just below the dam on the valley road. The flood threatened his house. Neighbors from the high ground came in and assisted. The carpets were taken up and placed on the second floor. Furniture was also carried to a place of safety. The piano was also moved to the second floor.

In assisting to carry the piano upstairs Robert M. Clark had his hand smashed between the piano and the wall.

The horses, cattle and wagons were were put in the barns of Robert Clark, Jr., on the high grounds. The water flooded the barn and came up to the first story of the house, filling the cellar.

There was great excitement at the store and house of William Demler, at the cross roads. His horses and cattle were driven through the water to a place of safety at the barns of Robert Clark, Jr. Edward O. Clark was nearly washed away while trying to lead a blind horse to the high ground. The horse became frightened at the thunder and nearly dragged Clark into the roaring torrent.

The water came up to the doorsill of Demler's place and flooded his cellar. The stream left its banks and invaded his garden, washing away fences and ruining the garden.

James Totten, who lives on the mountain, had a narrow escape from drowning. He indulged in liquor rather freely during the afternoon and lay down on the Spencer bridge for a nap. The water came over the bridge and he was finally rescued in the nick of time, before he was washed off by the powerful current.

The road up the mountain to Union Village was washed out by the water that came down there until it was impassable. Great gullies were cut in the roadway.

It was a lively time at Washingtonville. The rain fell in torrents. Lanterns twinkled here and there where the excited villagers were conveying their movable property to the high ground. The dam was still watched with great anxiety. At 11 o'clock the great stones used as capping gave way and were carried away by the water. Then the great boulders that were used in building the dam began to give way slowly and the water poured over the new break in an ever-increasing volume; the gap was carrying off much of the water and the water in the pond was lowered several feet.

At 11:40 o'clock, the bottom of the stone part of the dam gave way and the water rushed out with a mighty roar that sounded to the villagers below like thunder. The great boulders, some of them weighing 1,000 pounds, was carried down stream. Some are to be found a hundred yards from the dam. It is supposed that the great volume of water that went down over the dam undermined the stone work and caused the bottom to give way. A third of the volume of water in the pond escaped through the break before the final collapse of the dam. The part that was washed out was about fifty feet long.

The water was a foot over the two bridges near Washingtonville and covered the road to the depth of three feet, converting it into a dashing torrent.

Stony brook is the name given to the stream that flows westward down the valley into the big pond and then around through the Notch At Washingtonville another stream joins Stony brook, coming from the west part of the valley, filling the big Wilson pond. The dam to that pond withstood the torrent that came in that direction and the water united with that of Stony brook.

The road in the Notch was flooded almost its entire length, in some places to the depth of four and five feet. No preparations were made to move at Finger's hotel, this side of Washingtonville on the Notch road, but a sharp watch was kept of the water. When the dam broke, the water rose four feet in less than five minutes and reached the stables. The water went up to the hotel piazza. Many small articles were washed away.

The dam, commonly known as Wetumpka Falls, stood the strain. The water went over the dam to the depth of five feet and poured along the road, waistdeep, digging up the road and flooding the quarries. The stone abutments, supporting part of the stone crusher nearby, were washed away. This morning, there was a foot of water going over the dam.

The water poured down the sides of the mountain into the road, washing away parts of the roadway and washing great stones down the slope of the mountain. The banks of the stream were cut and torn by the water and were covered with debris, this morning, that had been brought down by the flood.

At the site of the old Coddington dam and ice pond at the beginning of the Notch, the torrent rushed with great violence. The bridge at the point was washed away during the evening and it was rumored that a man had been carried away on it, but it proved false. The wreckage of the bridge could not be found in the neighborhood. The old ice house at that point was threatened and the abutments to it washed away. A portion of the side caved in.

The cellar to the blacksmith shop of Winan & Kleiner was filled up with water and the building threatened with destruction.

The bridge leading to the Brookside Sanitarium was washed away during the afternoon and the debris was thrown on the bank at the turn. Cooley's dam at the same place was partly washed away. The house of John Coley, coachman for Dr. Cooley, stands at the bend in the brook. Part of the wreckage of the bridge was piled against the house. The piazza was wrecked and the water entered the first story. Mr. Coley had to carry his family out in his arms, the water in the road at that place being four feet deep, and rushing along with great vigor.

The Johnston drive bridge escaped the water just reaching the floor of the bridge. The road at that point was gullied by the water. The road to the Mountain Park Inn was badly cut up by the torrents that flowed down the side of the mountain.

Winan's blacksmith shop was flooded. A large log was driven against the side of the building by the current. The grounds surrounding the residence of W. H. Miles were flooded and all the cellars in the neighborhood were filled with water.

Up Somerset street as far as Greenbrook road, the upper dressing of fine stone on the street was all washed away leaving the large stones exposed. Sidewalks were washed away and deep ditches made in the walk that proved very dangerous to pedestrians. The fence in front of Israel Lewis's residence was washed away.

The water was eighteen inches deep on top of the bridge on Somerset street, near Coddington avenue. The wooden sidewalks on that thoroughfare were washed into the gutter.

The water invaded the chickencoops of B. R. Waldron, of Coddington avenue, and fifteen spring chickens were drowned. The water was also a foot deep in his barn. He removed his chickens to the coal bins in his house. A foot of water was reported to be in all the cellars on Coddington avenue. Fences, boxes, barrels and the like

RUFUS IS MUCH ALIVE.

AN IMPORTANT FACTOR IN DEMOCRATIC STATE AFFAIRS.

He Has Proven His Power Before and is Said to Have No Inclination to Remain a Nonentity in the Future Contests.

A Trenton correspondent says that former United States Senator Rufus Blodgett is a factor in politics which demands serious attention. When he was a resident of Ocean county, several years ago, the Democrats were always on top in that section of the State. As soon as he moved away the county became Republican, and now the Democrats are almost an unknown quantity there. Mr. Blodgett came near being nominated for Governor at the time Robert S. Green carried the Democratic convention. Allan L. McDermott was chairman of the convention and Mr. Blodgett charged him with his defeat, owing to his alleged unfair ruling and partial conduct while in the chair. Since that time Mr. Blodgett and Mr. McDermott have been at daggers' points. Mr. Blodgett gave notice, when he was defeated for the nomination of Governor, that he would get even with those who brought about his discomfixture. And he did. He captured the United States Senatorship from Leon Abbett, much to the chagrin of McDermott and all others who had blasted his ambition for the Governor's chair.

During his career in the United States Senate Mr. Blodgett proved himself a loyal Democrat, although he never remained in touch with the home leaders. He has lived at Long Branch for a number of years, and is a railroad superintendent. More than once, it has been charged, he has brought about the defeat of local Democratic candidates for office. Those he does not like he silently and effectively opposes. He is possessed of a negative power, which generally works destruction to Democratic prospects in Monmouth whenever he takes a notion to use it. He has not sufficient strength, however, to elect an out and out Blodgett man to office. He is, therefore, a factor in politics which must be harmonized before Democratic success can be assured. It is said that Mr. Blodgett controls thousands of votes in Monmouth County, owing to his railroad connection. Mr. Blodgett is keeping very quiet just now. He intended to take an active part in last year's campaign, but all at once concluded that his party should get along as best it could without him. He tendered his resignation as a member of the Democratic State Committee, but it was not accepted. His name is still on the list. When in Congress he showed silver proclivities, and consequently the Bryanites looked toward him for leadership in the late campaign. But he disappointed them.

Without the help of Mr. Blodgett, the Democrats cannot carry Monmouth county. That seems a fact during recent years, at any rate. If there is to be a reunited party Mr. Blodgett and Mr. Little must not be counted out. Whenever a conference of leaders is called prominent seats must be assigned to those veteran politicians. And what a curious sight it will be when Allan McDermott is found comparing notes with Rufus Blodgett and "Staff" Little! And with them around the table should be Senator Smith, Edward F. C. Young, Senator Daly, Colonel Price, William B. Gourley, Frederick C. Marsh, G. D. W. Vroom, "Bob" Davis, Johnston Cornish, Miles Ross, Jonathan H. Blackwell, Henry C. Kelsey, Benjamin F. Lee, William J. Thompson and other leaders of the old Democracy who flourished under the banner of the late Leon Abbett. For these men to get together and forget the past would seem to be the only way to prepare for battle. They could then enter the campaign of next fall and win a victory here and there, so as to lend encouragement for participation in the great struggle of next year. Will the conference be held, and will the warriors agere to smoke the pipe of peace so that they may meet the Republican enemy and give him an old-time tussle?

JUST MISSED HIS JUGULAR.

Walter Purcell, Driving Off Hornets With a Scythe, Cut His Neck.

Walter Purcell, a farmer, living on the Franklin Park road, about four miles from Bound Brook, while cutting the high grass along his sidewalk yesterday afternoon, ran the point of his scythe into a hornets' nest. The hornets came out to fight the intruder.

Purcell tried to fan away the insects with his scyth. His right hand lost its grip, and the scythe swung over his left shoulder, making a gash about two inches deep in his neck and escaping his jugular vein by an eighth of an inch. Doctors think Purcell will live.

INTEREST IN SMEDBERG.

INTERESTING DEVELOPMENTS EXPECTED AT THE EXAMINATION.

Another Serious Charge is Now Made Against the Hero of the Romantic Wedding—His Wife Still Stays in City.

As the time for the examination of Joseph Duncan Smedberg, who is charged with the theft of the Marshall diamonds, draws near, the interest in the case increases. The romance that surrounds the young couple, their circumstances, and the clever way in which the burglary was committed, all combine to draw public attention to the case.

Since the arrest of the young man, when the story of the crime which he is alleged to have committed, was made public in most of its details, those who were instrumental in the arrest of Smedberg have had little to say. H. W. Marshall, to whom the valuables belonged, will say nothing except that he is convinced that Smedberg is the thief and that he is assured that they have sufficient evidence to convict him of the crime.

Detective Blackford will say nothing as yet but his remarks give the inference that he has concealed the most valuable of his evidence and will not reveal it until the time of the trial comes. He claims to have traced the movements of Smedberg since the time of the robbery and can tell exactly what he has been doing.

To those who know only the facts that have been exposed, Brookheimer, the pawn broker in New York, seems to be a very important witness in the case. There is a rumor, the authority of which cannot be traced, to the effect that Brookheimer refuses to come to Plainfield and will not identify the prisoner as the man that pawned the ring and the watch. It is said, however, by those interested in the prosecution, that Smedberg has admitted having pawned the goods there but declares that he did not steal them. How he says he did come into possession of them, it is impossible to learn at present.

Smedberg is represented in the case by Marshall VanWinkle, one of the brightest young lawyers in Jersey City. VanWinkle seems confident of his ability to clear his client, while Smedberg, when he was in court, at least, did not seem greatly worried as to the result. He is still in jail awaiting the examination, which is to take place before Justice Nash on Monday afternoon. In the meantime, Mrs. Smedberg remains in Plainfield at her boarding place. She has little to say, however, about the case at present.

Smedberg is now accused of another theft. A surveyor's level, it is claimed, was found at his boarding place after his arrest. He is charged with stealing the level from his former employer in the office of the Standard Gas Light Company on 115th street, New York. Smedberg declares the level is his own property.

Of course, now that Smedberg is accused of stealing the diamonds, all the other mysterious disappearances of money and valuables, which occurred at the house at which he boarded, are laid at his door. This is no direct evidence in any of these cases, however, to prove he was the thief.

TRIP OF THE VETERANS.

G. A. R. Men to Attend the National Encampment at Buffalo.

The G. A. R. and Woman's Relief Corps, of Plainfield, will go to Buffalo August 23d, by the Lehigh Valley Railroad from Bound Brook. The tickets will be $8 from the latter place to Niagara Falls and return, and the ticket will be good to go to the Falls any time during the fifteen days it is good for. The start will be made from Plainfield by the train leaving here at 8:16 a. m. and the train will leave Bound Brook at 9:10 a. m., arriving at Buffalo at 9:35 p. m. The best of accommodations will be provided by the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company who have been untiring in their efforts to make the arrangements for those who are going as easy as possible. Easy and comfortable cars will be provided so that the ride will be a pleasant one. Almost all of the trip will be made in the day time thus giving all an opportunity to see a beautiful and rich country at one of the best seasons of the year. The committee in charge consists of W. W. Coriell, E. C. Morse and M. C. Dobbins.

OVER THE SEA OF DEATH

CAPTAIN OSTROM DIED SUDDENLY AT SNUG HARBOR, YESTERDAY.

Had Been Away for a Week and was in Good Health When He Left—Known as a Thorough Christian in All Respects.

The death of Captain William B. Ostrom, of East Ninth street, which occurred at Sailors' Snug Harbor, S. I., yesterday, will greatly shock the very large circle of friends and acquaintance living in this city. Mr. Ostrom went there about a week ago as well as usual. It was his custom to spend considerable time during the year at the Harbor, where he was entitled to a home by reason of his service on sailing vessels.

For a long time past he had been trouble with kidney complaint and during the past four years he suffered intensely at times. However, he was seldom detained at home or confined to his bed He was a man of sterling worth and intimately known by the largest part of Plainfield's population. He was greatly admired and loved by those who knew him for his many excellent qualities. He always had a kind word for everyone with whom he came in contact and was always doing for others who needed assistance. In the home, the church and business circles he will be greatly missed, for he has an important factar in each.

Mr. Ostrom was born on East Broadway, New York, in 1819, and was the second youngest child of Dr. and Mrs. Jacob Ostrom. His father was a well known and celebrated physician and died at the age of 35 years, when his son was seven years old. After his father died Mr. Ostrom followed out a strong developed plan of going to sea. He started in as a helper on a sailing vessel and followed the business for fourteen years. During the latter part of his sea life he filled the position of captain. In the year 1851 he made his last trip across the Atlantic to Liverpool. He was sought after by the owners of the vessels as they had a special trip to make and desired him to command the ship. He did so and made the trip in very quick time After he left the sea he engaged in the shipping business in New York where he remained for nearly thirty years.

From there he went to Philadelphia and continued the same business. About four years ago he gave up that business and associated himself with D. C. Ivins, of this city, in the coal and lumber business. It was in 1874 that he came to Plainfield to live, but still he continued the shipping business until four years ago.

As an active Christian he was well known. His first church connection was with Dr. Cuyler's church in New York, where he was one of the deacons. Later he joined the Lee Avenue Congregational church in Brooklyn where he served as an elder for seventeen years,

When he came to Plainfield he associated himself with the Crescent Avenue church and there he held the position of elder for about sixteen years. In the Bethel Mission he was an active worker and was one of the most prominent leaders. For a long time he taught a Sunday-school class and gave it up when his health compelled him to do so. His valued assistance in church work made him a strong supporter of the church, and his generosity was felt in every department of work.

Personally speaking he had an exceedingly strong voice, and it is said that when he followed the life of a sailor he never used a trumphet, but relied entirely on his voice.

His first wife and nine children passed away sometime ago, and he married again later in life and now leaves a widow and six grandchildren.

The remains will be brought to this city and the funeral will be held tomorrow morning from his late home at 11:30 o'clock. The interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Funeral of Mrs. Johnson

The funeral of the late Mrs. Rudolphus B. Johnson was held from the home of her son-in-law, Former Councilman J. C. Peck, of Myrtle avenue, this morning. Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass officiated. The floral decorations were very beautiful. The remains were taken to Warren, R. I., this afternoon, for interment in the family plot in the cemetery there.

Will Lose a Leg

John Rossbach, aged 17 years, living in Newark, was stealing a ride on a freight train on the Port Reading Railroad, near Bound Brook, this morning, when his foot slipped between the bumpers and was crushed. He was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital and was obliged to have his foot amputated at the ankle.

Next Saturday the Clinton Avenue baseball team will play a team from Adamsville on the grounds of the former. An exciting contest is expected.

THE MINE OPERATORS

Their Meeting Has Nothing to Do With the Strike.

STRIKERS' LEADERS NOT ADMITTED.

Decision Rendered on Outstanding Contracts Says That They Shall Be Carried Out on the Original Basis.

Pittsburg, July 29.—The operators, with a few exceptions, want it distinctly understood that the passage of an agreement whereby all operators are to adopt a similar system and are to pay the same relative price for mining has nothing to do with the great strike. They wish the miners to disabuse their minds of any such theories.

The operators have also shut out the miners' leaders from taking any part in the conferences that may take place through questions arising between the operators and miners by inserting a clause in the agreement stating the commission shall be composed of workmen employed by the subscribers. Heretofore the miners' officials have represented the miners, but now the miners are to grapple with the questions in dispute alone.

It was decided that present contracts could not be made the basis for arbitration.

Many firms have taken contracts for a stipulated period at a fixed price. It is understood that these shall have the right to supply the product to fill these contracts at the rate of mining on which the contracts are based. Here is where the miners and operators will separate. The attendance at the session was not as large as the day previous. Operators from 85 rail mines and 5 river mines agreed to take part in the convention, which is a larger percentage than it was hoped to get together.

Proceedings Go on Smoothly.

The operators worked smoothly, and few objections were raised to the agreement as written. There was a close vote on the question where the commission to be appointed should be privileged to tamper with the differential in the thick and thin vein regions. Frank Osborne made a motion to let it stand as usage and custom had made it, but W. P. De Armitt argued that if the differential was fair and just none should fear to have the subject arbitrated.

The vote on the question resulted in 13 to have it settled by a commission and 11 to have it stand as at present. All the voting was light. Mr. Hoosac almost broke up the assemblage when he moved to make the agreement become operative when 75 operators sign it.

Objections were raised to this motion, and J. B. Zerb, who acted as chairman, hesitated to put the motion. He said the whole agreement would soon be void, and the motion was an obstruction. The vote was then taken and resulted in 6 to make it 75 per cent and 14 to make it 95 per cent.

Nightly Meetings Held at Clarksburg.

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 29.—The local branch of the United Mine Workers of America, which was inaugurated here Monday, has hired the G. A. R. hall and is now holding nightly meetings. The leader of the union says that about half of the miners have taken the obligation, and before the last of the week four-fifths will have joined and that immediate action will be taken. A committee representing the miners from Fairmont have arrived here and employed Hon. John J. Davis, ex-congressman, to defend them in the injunction granted at the request of the operators at Fairmont, restraining agitators from holding meetings.

Plenty of Coal In Sight.

Kansas City, July 29.—A local paper says: If the shipment of coal from the mines of Missouri and Kansas to eastern points continue to increase as rapidly as they have in the past few days, there will be no immediate danger of any factories having to close for want of fuel. It is claimed that hundreds of carloads of coal are being transferred here and sent to fill orders of the eastern operators. Much of the coal was billed to Chicago, care of the Panhandle road, for shipment, it is alleged, to the strike district. Several trains of coal were sent east Tuesday night, and laborers are busy transferring and reloading cars.

Out Under Protest In Illinois.

Marissa, Ills., July 29.—Strikers have arrived here and got the men of the four mines here to come out under protest. Three years ago Marissa miners went out and were left to "hold the bag." They are doing well again and protest against striking. Merchants and business men threaten to close up business if the miners strike.

Stephen Girard's Heirs.

London, July 29.—The correspondent of The Daily Mail in Paris says that all the surviving heirs of Stephen Girard, a naturalized American citizen, who died in 1831, leaving large fortunes to Philadelphia, New Orleans and other American cities, have now been discovered, and the rightful heirs will soon be in a position to take steps to secure the restitution of the property.

Fell or Jumped From a Window.

Middletown, N. Y., July 29.—G. W. Hendrickson, a coffee and spice salesman of Newburg, who went to a room at the Mitchell House at Ellenville to retire, was soon after found unconscious on the sidewalk in front of the hotel. He had fallen or jumped from the second story window. He has not yet recovered consciousness. He will probably die.

French Mail Steamer Overdue.

Washington, July 29.—A dispatch to the state department from the United States consul at Mozambique says that the French mail steamer Alphee, which cleared from Beira on May 21 for Mozambique, has not been heard from and that it is feared she has foundered at sea. It is probable she had mails from the United States on board.

Chinese Statesman Dead.

London, July 29.—The Times' Peking correspondent says that Li Hung Tsao, grand councilor and member of the tsungli yamen, is dead. He was a believer in a strong antiforeign policy and was the chief opponent of Li Hung Chang, who will probably be promoted.

A COLLISION AT SEA.

Steamer Scandinavian Sinks the Barkentine Florence.

FIVE LIVES LOST BY THE ACCIDENT.

Boston, July 29.—The Allan line steamer Scandinavian has arrived from Glasgow and brought with her the four survivors of the crew of the British barkentine Florence, Captain Olsen, which was sunk in a collision with the Scandinavian last Saturday while in a dense fog 20 miles south of Cape Race. Four members of the crew were drowned, together with the wife of Captain Olsen. The Florence was bound from Sydney, C. B., to St. Johns, N. F., with a cargo of coal.

The names of the men who lost their lives were Noah Norris, cook, aged 51 years, of St. Johns, N. F., who leaves an invalid wife and two children: William Yabsley, aged 25 years, a nephew of the captain's wife, single; James Norman, seaman, aged 32 years, single, both of St. Johns, N. F., and William Fry, 33 years of age, seaman, belonging in Poole, England.

The story of the sad disaster is best told in the words of Captain Henry Olsen. He said: "We left port on Tuesday, the 20th inst., for St. Johns, N. F. Saturday, after being nearly three days in the fog and standing all that time in the direction of Cape Race, thinking that we were approaching land, I ordered the vessel put about on the starboard tack. At 1:20 p. m. the shrill blast of a steamer's whistle was heard right abeam, and before the sound died away there loomed up, making directly for us, the huge hull of an ocean steamer.

"I was below when the first intimation came of the steamer's approach, but was hurriedly called on deck by the lookout. On the way out of the cabin I called to my wife, and she in turn aroused First Mate Edward Brodnick, who had come off watch at noon and was asleep in his bunk. Hardly had he reached the deck when the steamer, which proved to be the Scandinavian, was upon us.

Went Half Way Through the Barkentine.

"She struck us on the port side between the main and mizzen rigging, and before her headway was stopped she went half way through us.

"While the vessels were locked together we were in no immediate danger, except from falling spars, which were dropping all about us on the decks. The order to reverse the steamer's engines, which had been given when we were first sighted, soon had the effect of breaking her away from us, and in about three minutes after she pulled her sharp bow out of the gaping hole in the side of our vessel the Florence went down, stern first, in 90 fathoms of water.

"Of the vessel's crew Norris, the cook; Yabsley and Norman were never seen after the vessel struck us, and they were probably asleep in the forecastle.

"When the impact came, Ole Olsen, the boatswain, and Seaman Robert Essens jumped into the main rigging and were soon followed by Mate Brodnick, and all three swung themselves on to the steamer's deck by means of the lower guard, being assisted in doing so by the carpenter of the steamer. Poor Fry appeared at the side of the vessel just before she went down. A rope was thrown to him by his shipmates on board the steamer, and he was pulled half way up the steamer's side, when he relaxed his hold, fell back into the water and was never seen again."

The captain was too much overcome to tell of the drowning of his wife, and Mate Brodnick took up the thread of the captain's narrative. After telling of his being summoned from his bunk by the captain's wife and jumping on deck, clad only in his shirt and trousers, he said:

"Immediately after reaching the deck of the Scandinavian I got a coil of rope and threw it to Captain Olsen, who at this time was standing near the galley on the barkentine with his arms around his wife. Mrs. Olsen was crying, and I heard the captain say that if need be they would die together.

Tried to Save His Wife.

"The captain secured the end of the rope and attempted to make it fast about his wife, but the rope was not long enough, and the steamer, just then backing away from the wreck, pulled the line from his hands. I called to those on the steamer to lower the lifeboat, and Olsen, Essens and myself took hold and assisted the crew in getting the boat out of the chucks. In the excitement and confusion no one seemed to know just what to do. No knife could be found to cut the lashings of the lifeboat, and finally the carpenter was obliged to sever the grips with a hatchet. All this was valuable time lost, and before the lifeboat had got into the water the vessel had gone down.

"When the vessel took her last plunge, the captain became separated from his wife. They were both drawn into the vortex caused by the sinking craft, and Mrs. Olsen never reappeared above the water. The captain soon came to the surface and swam to a life buoy thrown from the steamer, and this, with a life belt which he afterward secured and adjusted, kept him afloat until the lifeboat, manned by the second officer of the steamer, three of her crew and myself, reached him.

"He was completely exhausted and inconsolable at the loss of his wife. When it was found that there was no hope for the remainder of the crew, the steamer's bow was headed west, and she continued on her way to Boston."

The Florence was rather small for a barkentine. She registered 199 tons net, and her dimensions were 114.8 feet, breadth 24.5 feet and depth of hold 13.1 feet. She was built at Brixham, England, in 1873 and at the time of her loss was valued at $4,500.

Sandy Hill Grocers Fail.

Sandy Hill, N. Y., July 29.—Vorce & Davis, grocers, have assigned. Liabilities, $5,000; assets, goods in store, $3,000; book accounts, $2,500. Darling & Co. and Wing & Hart, Albany, are among the creditors. Judgments against the firm were obtained by Louisa B. Burton of this city for $3,195 and Emma A. Vorce of this city for $556.04. The firm bought out Cotton & Congdon in 1895

A THOUGHT OF POSTERITY.

She Found Her Ready Made Obituary on File for Future Use.

A clever bit of forethought occurred to a popular young woman in New York not long ago, and perhaps her example might be copied to advantage by some of her fellow citizens. She suddenly realized that the purveyors of news were probably the only people who were quite prepared for her death. Every well ordered newspaper, she discovered, keeps a "biographical file," where is a ready-made obituary of each individual of public interest, waiting for publication whenever his or her demise may be reported.

With her, to think was to act. She at once betook herself to the main office of a prominent New York daily, and frankly asked her question. It was as frankly answered. In fact, from a pigeon hole there was drawn an envelope containing a fairly accurate account of her life up to date, and a blank wherein might be written the date of her death. Inclosed with this was—to use the young lady's own expression—"the most atrocious photograph imaginable." She read the notice with interest, correcting one or two minor errors, and then, turning to the editor, said:

"I'll send you a decent photograph tomorrow. I couldn't stand having that thing published after I was dead, when people might have forgotten how I really looked."—Puritan.

A Johnny Bull Bull.

John Bull occasionally perpetrates a bull that is quite as "bully" as an Irish bull. According to "Law Notes," of England, an English Judge, in sentencing a prisoner, recently said: "Are you aware that for these repeated breaches of the law it is in my power to sentence you to a term of penal servitude far exceeding your natural life? And, what is more, I feel very much inclined to do it."

WIT AND HUMOR.

Aunt Maria (at the theatre)—Why do all those men rush out in breathless haste the moment the curtain falls?

Uncle Henry—Just wait till they come in again, and you'll understand it.

When they returned there was not a breathless one among them.—Boston Transcript.

"I should like to see the excitement that would take my breath away," remarked the large, calm man.

"Yes," said his better half, "so should I. But unless you stop eating onions I don't think it could be done."

"I wish," said the bothered proofreader, as he adjusted his green shade at a different angle of crookedness, "that I knew whether this was a new Greek war name or a pied line."—New York Herald.

Miss Highup—It's perfectly scandalous! Did you hear about Miss De Pink?

Miss Tiptop—No. What has she done?

"Oh, the most immodest thing imaginable! She's let all the world know she is crazy to get married by going and joining the cooking school."—New York Weekly.

"In Boston the monkeys can ride the bicycle."

"That's nothing; Boston parrots have been quoting Emerson for years and years and years."—Detroit Free Press.

"But I am so unworthy, darling!" he murmered, as he held the dear girl's hand in his.

"Oh, George'" she sighed, "if you and papa agreed on every other point as you do on that, how happy we could be!"

Wickwire—Mudge has an India rubber imagination.

Yabsley—India rubber is hardly the term. There are bounds to India rubber.—Indianapolis Journal.

Not an Angel.

"You think your son would make us a satisfactory errand boy, do you?" inquired the merchant.

"Whatever he does, sor, he does very quick," replied Mrs. Moriarty.

"James," replied the merchant, turning to the boy, "take this note up to the centre at the football ground, and be back in twenty minutes."

"Niver moind, Jimmy! Come on home! It's not a bye they're wanting; it's an angel."—Pearson's Weekly.

Something to Know.
It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hodge and their son, Raymond, of Plainfield avenue, will start on their annual vacation next Monday. They will be absent about two weeks.

The Grandest Remedy.
Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Grace E. Overton, of Rockview avenue, left today for Belfast, Me., where she will be the guest of Miss Margaret L. Hazeltine for several weeks.

Reasons Why Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is the Best.
1. Because it affords almost instant relief in case of pain in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus.
2. Because it is the only remedy that never fails in the most severe cases of dysentery and diarrhoea.
3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhoea.
4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent bilious colic.
5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemical dysentery.
6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
8. Because it produces no bad results.
9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.
10. Because it has saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world.
The 25 and 50c sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park & North Aves.

Miss Madeline Day, of Mercer avenue, has returned after a visit with relatives in Orange.

"Last summer one of our grandchildren was sick with a severe bowel trouble," says Mrs. E. G. Gregory, of Frederickstown, Mo. "Our doctor's remedy had failed, then we tried Chamberlains Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which gave very speedy relief." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park & North Aves.

William C. Burt, of West Seventh street, is still very ill. His condition is about the same.

Mr. C. L. Hasbrouck, a druggist at Mendon, Mich., says all of the good testimonials that have been published by the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy could be duplicated in that town. For sale By T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park and North Aves.

Rev. A. A. Phelps, of Watchung avenue, has returned from a visit in New York State.

You may hunt the world over and you will not find another medicine equal to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. It is pleasant, safe and reliable. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park & North Aves.

SCHOONER ON FIRE.

The Vessel Sunk In Order to Extinguish the Flames.

New York, July 29.—The schooner Energy, owned by John Smith of St. John, N. B., with a cargo of lime consigned to J. W. Parker of Brooklyn, caught fire while in Long dock, opposite pier 2 in the Erie basin. To save the vessel it was found necessary to sink her, and at present she lies in about ten feet of water. The total damage is about $3,500.

The schooner, which is a two masted one, commanded by Captain Cook, left St. John on June 19 with a cargo consisting of 1,500 barrels of lime. When near Cape Cod, the lime began to spread. The cargo was watched carefully, and by good management the boat finally came into Erie basin, where part of her cargo was taken off.

Before the boat could be entirely cleared the flames broke out. The fire was discovered near the rear part of the cabin. Fifteen minutes later the fireboat Seth Low appeared, and after a consultation with the captain it was decided to flood the boat. This was done. Work will immediately be commenced to raise her.

CURRENCY REFORM.

Secretary Gage Formulates a Plan For That Purpose.

WILL SUBMIT IT TO NEXT CONGRESS.

His Scheme Covers the Question of Greenback Retirement and a Currency to Take Their Place and Also the Employment of Silver as a Medium.

New York, July 29.—The Commercial Advertiser says that Secretary of the Treasury Gage has been actively at work for some weeks upon a plan for the reform of the currency and that he will have a measure to be submitted at the opening of the next session of congress which already has received in its main points the approval of the representative banking and financial interests. In short, according to The Commercial Advertiser, Mr. Gage has forestalled the work which would have fallen to the currency commission had it been appointed.

"Leading bankers and financial experts," continues The Commercial Advertiser, "urged Mr. Gage himself to take the matter in hand and formulate a measure which the banking interests of the country and the administration could approve and which would accomplish for currency reform all that could have been achieved by a currency commission.

"Accordingly and in harmony with these ideas the secretary of the treasury some weeks ago addressed himself to the representative bankers and financial experts of the country in a document of some half dozen typewritten pages making inquiries and suggestions and inviting criticism and suggestions of and upon his own tentative ideas upon the several points involved in the general scheme of currency reform. This document was submitted to a number of senators and congressmen and to other members of the cabinet under the strictest injunctions of secrecy before it was put in the mails. In like manner it has been sent to the people whose ideas and suggestions the secretary has seen fit to invite, all under strictly confidential conditions. That is why the matter has not until now become matter of public information.

Covers the Entire Currency Question.

"Secretary Gage's scheme, as outlined in his circular to the bankers and financiers of the country, covers the question of the retirement of the greenbacks from circulation, the creation of a volume of currency to take their place, the question of the extent to which silver can be advantageously used in the currency and other points that have hitherto been generally considered; but, it is said, did not allude in any way to the plan of founding a national bank issue upon deposits of securities other than United States government bonds.

"The circular letters were addressed to just the class of people throughout the country who would have been appointed upon a currency commission had one been provided for by congress and who would have appeared before such a commission as experts on the subject involved. By this means it was hoped that the mass of information, criticism and suggestion that would be obtained would have been quite as complete and exhaustive as the testimony that could have been obtained, even at infinitely greater pains and cost by a currency commission.

"From inquiries that have been made among the bankers of this city there is every reason to believe that the secretary's plan has been completely successful. The extent of The Commercial Advertiser's information warrants the statement that the secretary's suggestions were most freely discussed, some with general approval, some otherwise. One providing for the retirement of notes and certificates of the lower denominations so as to force silver into circulation was very freely criticised, though on the other hand it received the approval of some of the foremost New York bankers.

"Upon the question of the retirement of the greenbacks opinion was very generally in favor of the proposition, though as to the time and the methods there was great diversity of opinion. Whether there was any other or better way of retiring the greenback circulation, amounting now to about $346,000,000, than by an issue of low rate bonds, which should form the basis of a national bank note circulation of relative volume, was also a question upon which the secretary of the treasury invited information in his circular.

"Everywhere the circular letter was discussed the plan of the secretary of the treasury met with hearty approval, and the general conviction was expressed that out of it would come a bill for the reform of the currency, which, while it would be impossible that it should please everybody, would express the best thought of the nation on the subject and would be practicable."

Killed In a Runaway.

Peoria, Ills., July 29.—In a runaway down Knoxville avenue hill Miss Grace White, living near Chicago, leaped out of the carriage and alighted head first on the brick pavement and was instantly killed. The carriage then collided with a wagon, and Mrs. Peter Spurcka, a wealthy Peoria lady, and Mrs. Kirschoff, her sister-in-law, were thrown out. Mrs. Spurcka's head struck the pavement, and she is not expected to live.

Admiral Miller to Go to San Francisco.

New York, July 29.—Rear Admiral J. N. Miller has hauled down his flag from the cruiser Brooklyn, lying at Tompkinsville, N. Y., and will leave at once for San Francisco to assume command of the Pacific station as soon as he can reach Hawaii. The Brooklyn will probably be attached to the North Atlantic squadron during the summer cruise and will sail for Newport, where the fleet will rendezvous early next week.

Hot Wave In Missouri.

St. Joseph, Mo., July 29.—Another hot wave has reached this section, and the mercury has almost touched the 100 mark again. Jefferson Thomas, a farming visiting in the city, has been crazed by the heat, and there have been a number of minor prostrations.

THE PRESENT SYSTEM IS BAD.

Under the present system of assessing property for taxes, tax rates don't indicate anything as to the relative amount of taxes levied in different cities, towns and counties. It often happens that where the tax rate appears to be very high the actual taxes paid are less burdensome than in places where the rate is nominally low. In some places where the rate is 2 per cent., the amounts of taxes are greater than in some other places where the rate is 3 per cent. or more. This is because in one place the assessed valuations are high, in the other low. Neither is assessed as it ought to be; both are assessed by arbitrary, incongruous and unconstitutional rules, at the option of the assessor. All this is wrong, and sooner or later it must be remedied. The best way to remedy it is to abolish the whole system under which these unconstitutional percentages of valuations have grown up.—Elizabeth Journal.

ARTISTIC AND UP-TO-DATE.

Standard Productions to be Skillfully Given by Kennedy Players.

H. Brooks Hooper, the well-known theatrical manager, made arrangements with H. P. Soulier, manager of the Lyric Theatre, Hoboken, for the use of his entire stage, and has had a large force of men at work building outfits of scenery for his grand productions by the Kennedy Players. The scenic studio is in charge of George Hineman, New York's great scenic artist, whose gorgeous paintings in Margaret Mather's production of "Cymbeline" will never be forgotten. Mr. Hineman, with his assistants, will design and execute every piece of scenery used in the Kennedy Players' productions. C. E. Mackenzie will have charge of the electrical effects and calcium lights; in short, the company will be complete in every possible attribute that can contribute to success, and will be in every way worthy of the Kennedy Players well known and established reputation. Mr. Hooper is convinced that the people want the best, and he is now preparing to furnish it. He has secured exclusive rights to all the plays used by this company and will present them with every scenic accessory, effects, properties, etc. They will be interpreted by competent people. The stage of the company will be under the personal direction of the well-known producer, E. M. Crane, lately of James R. Waite's eastern company, and previously with other high class stock companies. The productions will be as close representations of the originals as possible, the only difference being that they are given at popular prices. They have used the finest lumber, canvas, paints and other material, and the car which will roll into Plainfield, in a few days, will contain many surprises for the Kennedy Players' patrons.

ON THE MOUNTAIN TOP.

The Season at the Inn Has Been Successful Thus Far.

The season thus far at the Mountain Park Inn has been most successful. During the month of July the rooms were nearly all occupied, and from the first of August the house will be filled to its utmost capacity. A number of people of New York and Brooklyn have taken rooms for the summer, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson W. Smith and the Misses Smith, of Plainfield, have spent the month of July at the Inn and will remain through August. W. L. Saunders will also continue his visit at the Inn into August. Mr. Halloway and family, of LaGrande avenue, are summering in one of the cottages. Mr. Guillaudeu, the vice-president of the Old Dominion Steamship Line, who is spending the summer in one of the cottages, has arranged to take his family on a trip along the Virginia coast in the new steamship, Princess Ann. It will be the first trip of the new vessel, and she will stop at the historic points of Norfolk, Newport News and Old Point Comfort. During the voyage Mr. and Mrs. J. H. French will be guests of Mr. Guillaudeu and his family.

The unpleasant weather has tended to check the interest in out of door sports during the past week. The roads have not been in good condition for wheeling and driving, nor is it possible to play tennis and golf when the heavens are continually weeping. But the pleasure seekers find plenty of amusement inside in the poolroom, in parlor games and in dancing. There is first-class music in the large parlor every Saturday evening in which the fantastic toe finds full enjoyment.

PASSING COMMENT.

Nearly everybody was possessed with one idea yesterday, and that was to say something bright about the weather. The weather itself was not bright at all, and perhaps they wanted to shed a little light. The question as to what was new elicited the reply that it was raining, and the speaker smiled and laughed as if he had said something funny.

For some reason there seems to be a revival of interest in amateur photography this summar. A number of young women and men have purchased cameras and are very enthusiastic over the subject. Perhaps it can be accounted for by the fact that there are so many wheelmen here who like to keep remembrances of their little trips through the country.

A well-known business man of Bound Brook had an experience with a book agent several days ago. The Bound Brook man was very busy when the agent called and remarked that he wanted to sell a book. The Bound Brookite declared that he did not have time to look at it.

"I don't see,—" began the agent.

"I don't want your old book," exclaimed the business man, who was beginning to loose his temper at the slim young man with eye glasses.

"I don't see—" mildly continued the book agent.

"Don't see?" roared the Bound Brook man, thoroughly aroused. "Why don't you see? You've got four eyes and I've only got two but I can see." And then he assisted the young man out the door.

A well-known young woman living in the borough received a present of a wheel some time ago and finally went out to learn to ride it. She had heard of the remarkable experiences that some people have in learning and determined to write down her's day by day. The entries in her little diary for the first five nights were as follows:

First night—Find it very difficult to stay on. It will not steer straight. Ran into curb and had awful fall. Hurt my knee so I can hardly walk.

Second night—Out again. Riding is warm work. Forgot hat and caught cold. Could hardly speak in the morning.

Third night—Can manage wheel with more ease. Wheel started for large rock. Could not stop it or turn out. Had terrible fall. Hand full of splinters. Broke wheel and had to walk a mile.

Fourth night—Had an engagement to ride with friend. He was sick and could not go. Went alone. Tree got in the way. Skinned my face. Tree held up wheel.

Fifth night—Raining. Could not venture out. Afraid of wheel rustfug.

A city official who has a good stock of anecdotes on hand related one on Mayor Charles J. Fisk to the writer, a few days since. About two years ago when Mr. Fisk was a member of the Common Council's fire committee he went to the engine house one night and with the consent of Chief Doane rang up a still alarm to see how quickly the firemen would respond. In ringing the alarm Mr. Fisk stood against the pole down which the firemen slide from the upper story. The alarm was given, and about three seconds later a fireman came like a shot down the pole and collided with the astonished councilman, knocking him a distance of several feet. It was some time before Mr. Fisk recovered from his surprise, and the story has it that he never afterward expressed a desire to call out the department by ringing the "still alarm."

Fifty years have made a great difference in this country. Fifty-two years ago, the first telegraph line was built, passing through here and connecting New York and Washington. That was in 1845. The year before that, S. F. B. Morse succeeded in getting a $30,000 appropriation for the building of the first line, that was from Washington to Baltimore.

After the wires were laid as far as Philadelphia it became a question of putting them up on poles, as is now done, on to New York on the line of railway. Mr. O'Reilly, the contractor for the company, made application to the railway directors for permission to put up his poles. The directors looked into the matter carefully, and after thorough consideration and inquiry, decided not to grant the authorization, because if a man could send a message from New York to Philadelphia and vice versa, he would not be obliged to make the journey himself, and consequently the new invention would hurt their traffic.

It was finally decided, lacking the railway company's permit, to build the new telegraph line along the old swift and sure coach route, by way of New Hope, Flemington, Somerville, Plainfield, Elizabeth and Jersey City. When the line was complete only as far as Somerville, a message was sent from Philadelphia to New York.

Colonel Hope, now a resident of Roselle, who had established an express service from Somerville to New York, beginning with only a carpet bag, himself brought the first message sent to New York from Somerville in 1845.

DON'T SCRATCH MOSQUITO BITES.

One Man's Leg and Another's Hand and Arm Were Poisoned.

William Barnard, of Milburn scratched a mosquito bite on the ankle of his left leg several days ago and now the leg about the place he was bitten is so much swollen that he is unable to lace up his shoe. The leg is quite sore. Poison set in when the bite was scratched.

Charles Schied, steward of the Tuscan Club, Hilton, was bitten on the hand by a mosquito a few days ago and his arm and hand became so much swollen that he sought out a doctor, who found him to be suffering with blood poisoning. Had Schied waited another day before attending to the injury, the doctor said, he would have lost the arm.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press]Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

There will be a class meeting at the M. E. church tomorrow evening.

Lawyer Hayes has returned from a visit to New York where he was called on business.

Mr. Dickenson and family, of the borough, have been visiting out-of-town friends.

The members of the Dunellen Gun Club will probably hold a shoot next Saturday if the weather permits.

The work at the public schools is progressing satisfactorily, and it will not be long before it is completed.

Adam Dealaman is anticipating a pleasure trip at an early date, but he has not yet decided just where he will go.

Mrs. John Wherle and family, of Somerville, who have been the guests of borough friends, have returned home.

Rev. A. I. Martine is expected home today from his California trip. He will probably occupy his pulpit next Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Mann's young daughter has almost recovered from a serious illness under the treatment of Dr. Hedges, of Plainfield.

There will be a ball game in the borough next Saturday, and the team hope to recover the honors lost last week to the Clinton avenue team.

Elmer Henry, of Joliet, Ill., well-known to many residents in the borough, has disposed of his business in the west and intends coming east to live.

All persons who ride wheels through the borough are warned not to ride on the sidewalk or without a light in the evening as the new cycle ordinance has gone into effect.

The opposition to the sewer beds is still increasing and a number of borough residents have signified their intention of helping Mrs. Milliken in her action against Plainfield.

The recent severe rain has almost caused a deluge in this section. Nearly all of the lowlands were submerged yesterday between the borough and the Plainfield city line. At a point on the main road, not far from the Industrial Home, the street railway tracks on one side were covered.

SCOTCH PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Miss Kittie Buckley is out of town on a two weeks' vacation.

Miss Harriet Peters has returned from a visit in Bound Brook.

John Mooney is entertaining Henry Hand, a friend from Florida.

The Sunday school of All Saints' church will not hold a session next Sunday.

The heavy rains have had a most destructive effect on the crops in this vicinity.

The historical sketch of the Scotch Plains Baptist church will be ready for delivery to subscribers on Tuesday next.

The big Sunday school excursion of the Sunday schools of Scotch Plains, Fanwood and Wetefield will go to Ocean Grove on next Tuesday.

A large tent will be erected on the lawn at the side of the Baptist church, were dinner and supper will be served to the church's guests on August 5th.

Hudson River Day Boats

The Day Line company have issued a handsome book of 150 pages, with almost every other page a map or a picture of some famous resort on the line of the river, including a map of the river from New York to Albany, showing all the principal landings, also giving a variety of tours reached by their lines, with the prices of tickets; also giving the names and location and prices of board at different hotels and boarding houses. The book is a handy guide to anyone contemplating a trip anywhere along the Hudson, and will be sent to any address on receipt of 6 cents in stamps by F. B. Hibbard, general passenger agent, Desbrosses street pier, New York city.

—The City Council will meet in regular session next Monday evening when much important business will

WESTFIELD

VARIOUS BITS OF NEWS.

WESTFIELD HAPPENINGS SERVED UP TERSELY FOR THE PRESS.

Many People Go and Come in the Pretty Suburban Town—Items Interesting Because of Their Brevity

G. F. Taylor is at Old Point Comfort, Va.

Mrs. James I. Taylor has returned from Ocean Grove.

R. I. Townley has returned from his outing in Maine.

Edward N. Brown was in Plainfield on business yesterday.

Mrs. C. Brown is entertaining her father, J. H. King, of Dover.

Chester M. Smith and family are spending their vacation at Oneonta. N. Y.

Miss Susie Mason, of Somerville, is visiting Miss Emma Reed, of Park street.

Miss Ada Wooley, of Elizabeth, is visiting Mrs. Oscar Wooley, of North avenue.

Ferris Pearsall will shortly take a trip to Buena Vista, Va., for his health.

Samuel Johnston, of New York city, is the guest of Robert Fairbairn, of Elm street.

E. T. Winchester has taken possession of his new musical studio in the Schmitt building.

Mrs. N. W. Cadwell and son Paul will leave on Saturday for an outing in New York state.

J. R. Connoly, cashier of the First National Bank, has returned from his two weeks' vacation.

The general topic of the Epworth League for the month of August is "The Christian Life."

A praise service, with special music by the choir, will be held in the Presbyterian church Sunday evening.

Claude Hart, who was bitten on the nose by a spider while in swimming at Echo Lake, last Sunday, is much improved.

A preparatory lecture was given by Rev. N. W. Cadwell in the Presbyterian lecture room last evening. Cammunion service will be held in the church next Sunday morning.

It is reported that Rev. Wm. S. Barrows is about to resign the rectorship of St. Paul's Episcopal church, to accept the head mastership of a boys' boarding school at Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Addison S. Clark, who represents Westfield in the Board of Freeholders, announces that the county road committee will repair all the county roads in Westfield township early next month.

The southern barbecue will be held at the New York Avenue Baptist church this evening, rain or shine. Visitors from Plainfield churches will be present. The proceeds will go into the church treasury.

The owners of Echo Lake, near Westfield, are endeavoring to devise some means to kill off the snapping turtles which infest the waters of the lake in large numbers and exterminate the game fish. Five years ago the lake was stocked with 5,000 striped bass and 5,000 salmon. For a time the fish increased rapidly, but for the last year or two there has been a mysterious decrease in their number until they have almost totally disappeared. The destruction of the fish is attributed to the turtles, which are known to eat the young in immense quantities.

The effect of the many recent burglaries in Westfield has been to send several families out of the town. Mr. and Mrs. George T. Cruttenden, a young couple who were married only two months ago, and came here to live, gave up their house on Clark street yesterday and moved to Brooklyn, where Mrs. Cruttenden lived before her marriage. They had only been in their house a week when burglars attempted to enter one night through a parlor window. The shock to the young wife was so great that she could not be persuaded to remain in the town. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bassett, of Orchard street, who moved here from Brooklyn about a year ago, also vacated and returned to the city yesterday because of the burglar scare, and it is reported that other families are also preparing to leave as soon as they can arrange to do so.

Caught in the Judicial Chamber.

Frank Hedden's guinea fowl paid a visit to the candemned city jail Monday afternoon and Frank only rescued it after a long and hard fight. The fight was with the bird and not the guardians of the lockup, however. A week ago the bird wandered away. It was found in the yard to the city jail. The guinea hen ran into the jail, in one of the cells and then into the court-room with Frank in hot pursuit. Round and round the room they went, chairs were upset and ink-wells rolled around but still Frank followed. At last he cornered the bird behind the Judge's chair and finally captured it. Feathers flew on every side until the floor of the dingy old court room was covered.

Headache Facts

Eighty-six out of every hundred people have headaches. Over half of these have them at frequent intervals.

A harmless remedy that costs but little and actually cures is worth remembering.

Effervescent Hydrobromate of Caffeine is a purely scientific preparation that cures without the possibility of harm. Pleasant to take and prompt in results. Bottles holding a half more than other "Bromo" preparations.

SALE NO. 2.

Tuesday we commence the greatest sale of table linen, towels, napkins, handkerchiefs and wash goods that this town of yours and ours ever saw. Great because your dollar will do the work of two; great because the goods advertised were bought at half their value; some wet, but all as good as the day they were made.

The following lots are all from the steamer "City of Rome" and were slightly damaged by water during a fire on board and were sold by order of the fire underwriters—

On with the Story.

Strong Linen Logic.

You know what the new tariff will do with linens, advance them from 25 to 40 per cent; these lots fresh from the great Scotch and Irish makers, cold as a stone. Flax! yes, every thread of them, not a half-cotton substitute; good time to buy; good place to buy them here.

WOURALI.

"You fellows can believe it or not as you like," said Mackay, "but I tell you that for a day and a night I have known what it is to be dead."

"Oh, come, Mac, that's too much. The major has given us some pretty tall ones, but we can't quite swallow that."

"Perhaps," suggested the major "Mackay refers to a state of alcoholic saturation. I have heard—"

"Shut up, major!" interrupted Highfield. "Don't be feeble."

"Oh, all right!" said Mackay. Only you said it was my turn for a yarn but of course if—"

"Fire away, Mac; never mind the major; he's an unbelieving Jew, when his own tales are bested. We'll believe you. Observe the child-like innocence of our countenances."

"Very well, then, you shall have the yarn."

"It happened out in British Guinea. Phil Egerton and I had been knocking about that district in a yacht. Phil was a bit of a scientist—had dabbled in the ologies when he was at Oxford—and he found something to interest him in the shallow waters round the coast. The buckets of mud and slimy things he fished up weren't very exciting for me; so I put in a good deal of time hanging round the bars and billiard rooms of Georgetown. Poker is a good game in the other hemisphere. You fellows don't rise to the possibilities here."

"I don't think I could mention the place that I've spent more than a month in without contriving to make a fool of myself over some girl. She was a bar maid this time, and, by Jove! she was pretty. We called her 'the Queen,' and I never knew her by any other name. What nationality she belonged to I can't tell you. I think she had a dash of most of them in her, but English, Spanish and Indian were perhaps the most prominent English in business, Spanish in love, but pure, undiluted Indian in hate. It was a dangerous mixture, but you've no notion how fascinating. I wasn't by any means the only fellow who succumbed to her charms, but I believe I was the only one she cared a gin cocktail about. You'll admit that the position had its dangers. Of course I knew perfectly well that I was making an ass of myself, but I couldn't help it. The only thing for me to do was to bolt. If I stayed another week I should marry her, and then there would be the deuce to pay."

"'Look here, Egerton,' I said one night, 'you've got to take me away from here. Leave those confounded weeds of yours, and let's weigh anchor and be off.'

"'What's the matter, Mac?' said Egerton. 'Got the fidgets? I'm sorry, old man, but I've discovered a new species among these said weeds, and I want to work it up.'

"'Well, Phil, my boy, if you won't leave, you'll have to be my best man, that's all.'

"That frightened him a bit. I told him the whole story, and he saw there was no time to be lost, if I was to be saved. Phil Egerton knew me pretty well in those days.

"'I'll tell you what we'll do, Mac,' he said. 'You know Wilson, the sugar planter. He tells me there is some capital shooting to be had in the interior; any amount of birds, and a chance at a stray jaguar or two. He's going to have a month of it, and has asked me to join him. We can take the yacht's boat and go up the Demerera until we strike the woods. What do you say?'

"'Anything you like, so long as you get me out of this mess.'

"We went in the morning and saw Wilson about it. He was delighted, and said he would start as soon as we could get ready.

"Of course any sensible man in my position would have had the common prudence to employ the intervening time in cleaning his guns and looking out for various odds and ends for the expedition, but, as I tell you, where women are concerned I'm not to be counted in the class of sensible men. I went to see 'the Queen', and naturally she wormed the whole thing out of me.

"'Phil,' I said when I got back, 'if we can't start to-morrow, we needn't go at all. It would spoil the party if I took a wife with me.'

"'We'll start to-night if you like, Mac. I'm ready; and, if Wilson isn't, he can follow us. But what's the hurry? You haven't told her you're going, have you?'

"'Yes, I have, and that's why it don't do for me to stay here longer.'

"'Well, Mac, of all the thundering idiots it has been my privilege to know, I do think you're about the biggest. Why on earth couldn't you vanish quietly, and leave her to find out about it afterwards?'

"'I meant to, but when I started talking to her, out it all came.'

"'What possessed you to go there at all to-day?'

"'Oh, come, Phil, be reasonable. You couldn't have kept away yourself, if you'd been in my place.'

"'You had a scene, I suppose?'

"'Well, slightly. She accused me of wanting to get rid of her—trying to run away, in fact; and, as it was perfectly true, I fancy I didn't show up very well in the argument that followed.'

"'Oh, you great bearded infant; put your hat on and we'll go and see Wilson at once.'

"We started next morning. I was feeling a little bit hipped, of course, but the others were jolly enough. As I think I told you, Phil had a weakness for pottering around in scientific messes, and he found a kindred spirit in Wilson, whose hobby was birds. It was really to get some specimens that he had originally proposed this expedition.

"'By the way, Wilson,' said Phil 'have you ever managed to get hold of any curare?'

"'Curare?' said Wilson. 'I don't know it; what is it?'

"'Probably it has got some other name out here. We called it curare in Oxford—Indian arrow poison, you know.'

"'Oh! you mean "wourali." No, I can't say as I have, and I don't think I want to either. It isn't a very safe plaything.'

"'Safe enough,' said Phil, 'so long as you haven't any cuts or scratches on your hands.'

"'For heaven's sake, shut up that scientific shop!' I exclaimed. 'We've come out here to enjoy ourselves, not to talk like a confounded British association meeting.'

"'Poor old Mac!' said Phil, 'what shall we talk about? Will billiards do—or barmaids?'

"'Drop it, Phil,' I said; 'I don't want to be a bear, but your jargon isn't very interesting to a chap who hardly knows an ology from an ism. Let's have something to eat.'

"We found a shady spot under some bushes to have our meal in. We were just lighting up afterwards, and I was holding the match to my pipe when something flashed out of the bushes and knocked the pipe out of my mouth.

"'What's that?' said Phil, starting up.

"'It's a dagger,' I said. 'Just see what's behind those bushes, you chaps, while I tie my handkerchief round this hand. I've got a bit of a scratch. If it's "The Queen," let her go. Thank goodness she missed my face.'

"It was 'The Queen.' They caught sight of her among the bushes, but she got away all right. They didn't follow her far, but came back to see if I was much hurt.

"'It's nothing serious,' I said; only a scratch, but I think my nerves must be a bit upset. It has made me feel horribly tired. I'll go and lie down in the boat for a while, and let you fellows finish your smoke. I've got a bit of a head.'

"'Mackay, you're crying,' exclaimed Wilson, 'and the sweat is simply pouring down your face. You're pretty badly hurt.'

"'Crying" shouted Phil. 'Wilson, that dagger is poisoned!'

"'Poisoned? You don't mean—'

"'Yes, I do. It's "wourali;" copious secretion of sweat and tears, headache, feeling of extreme lassitude—those are the exact symptoms. Off with that bandage, Mac.'

"'Good heavens! he's done for,' said Wilson.

"'Done for! Not a bit of it. Off with that bandage; I'm going to suck the wound!'

"I had just got enough energy left to protest against his doing this, but he insisted, and I was too feeble to prevent him.

"'Nonsense, man,' he said; "I'm safe enough. The stuff isn't a poison taken internally, even if I do manage to swallow some.'

"He put his lips to the wound, and then I closed my eyes and everything became a blank.

"It must have been hours afterwards that I began slowly to regain, I can't say consciousness, but an indefinite sensation of existence, and horrible weariness. It seemed to me that I was swimming on and on somewhere in a vague, purposeless way, and I was very, very tired. I call it swimming, but that isn't an exact description. I could feel my arms moving back and forth with a steady rhythmical motion, but the rest of my body was absolutely still. I was almost suffocating for want of air, but I didn't seem to have strength to gasp. How long that sensation lasted I can't say, but it must have been a very long time. I wouldn't voluntarily go through another hour of such unutterable and helpless misery for anything you could offer me. I tell you it has given me my theory of what future punishment may be like.

"As consciousness gradually returned, the feeling of infinite weariness became more and more unbearable. My arms were still swinging backwards and forwards like a couple of animated pump handles, and I was quite unable either to stop them or to move any other part of my body. Try and imagine the sensation; it was simply awful.

"When I did finally come to myself so far as to know what was going on, I did it pretty thoroughly. You know the theory that, when a man loses the use of his eyes, his sense of touch and hearing become unusually acute? From my experience that day I can quite believe it. I had lost all power of motion, and my perceptive faculties became, to compensate, most uncomfortably keen. I felt as if I could almost see through my closed eyelids.

"Phil told me afterwards that the peculiarity of 'wourali' poisoning is that, if the dose is not very large, only the nerves of motion are paralyzed, while those of sensation become abnormally sensitive. I knew everything that was going on round me, and I could hear every word they said, but I couldn't wink to let them know I was alive.

"They had stuck a knife-handle between my teeth to keep my mouth open and the weariness in my arms was caused by the fact that for nearly a day and a night Phil and Wilson had been taking it in turns to practice artificial respiration on me

"'Egerton,' I heard Wilson say, 'do you think it's any good going on longer? He hasn't breathed now for nearly twenty hours. I believe he's dead.'

"'We'll go on as long as we can stand!" said Phil, and I blessed him for it. "If we can only keep the artificial respiration going till the poison is eliminated, he will recover. For God's sake, keep it up as long as you can, Wilson.'

"'If you think there is the slightest chance of saving him, I'll go on; but I don't think I can last out much longer.'

"It must have been about two hours after Wilson had declared that I was dead that Phil saw my eyelids begin to twitch.

"'At last, Wilson!' he cried. 'Go and get some water from the river.'

"They dashed the cold water over me, and it caused me to gasp slightly. It was enough; I had begun to breathe again. They carried me to the boat, and, as soon as they saw the danger was over, they, both of them, sat down on the bottom boards and fell fast asleep. In a very few minutes after them, I was asleep too.

"Nearly fifteen hours after that, I woke, feeling rather weak and faint, but otherwise as right as a rivet. The other two were still asleep, and I didn't wake them.

"That is the story, and I don't think I was guilty of an exaggeration when I told you that for a day and a night I had known what death was. A man who remains for twenty-four hours without once drawing a breath may fairly claim to be dead, I think."

COSTLIEST OF FISH HOOKS.

The Tarpon Hook and the Various Elaborate Attachments That Go With It.

The most costly of fish hooks are those for tarpon. They are sold at retail at various prices from $1 a dozen for bare hooks up to $7 a dozen for hooks fitted up. The standard tarpon hook is four inches in length. Some tarpon fishermen prefer to mount their own hooks. They have ideas of their own as to the best way and the best materials. A swivel is always used. Some of the hooks that are sold fitted up have snells of German silver chain. Sometimes laces of rawhide or porpoise skin are used for snells. Some hooks are fitted with snells of piano wire two feet long, made in three lengths of eight inches each, linked to prevent kinking. Fitted up tarpon hooks that are sold for $7 a dozen are provided with thirty-six inch braided or plaited linen snells, wound for two-thirds of their length, from the upper end downward, with copper wire. The tarpon swallows the hook, and its teeth are brought up on the snell where it is protected by the copper wire. Sometimes a shark takes the bait. It is desired to lose the shark without the trouble of hauling it in and casting it off, and the shark is likely to free itself by biting through the unprotected lower third of the snell.

While the tarpon hook is the costliest of hooks, there are flys that sell for more; there are some salmon flys that retail as high as $9 a dozen.—New York Sun.

ZACHARY TAYLOR'S FACE.

It Had the Same Appearance as When He Died Nearly Fifty Years Ago.

On the day that New Yorkers were doing honor to the memory of Gen. Grant, a small group of friends of another President went to his tomb to look at his sturdy face and recall the stories of his stirring life, which went out almost half a century ago. The few friends surrounded the modest tomb of old Rough and Ready Taylor in a graveyard scarcely a stone's throw beyond the limits of Louisville, Ky. Accompanied by an undertaker they were making their annual visit to the tomb to inspect the metallic case to see that every joint was sealed so as to prevent the air from entering.

The glass covering the face of the dead executive is always exposed at these times. The face was wonderfully preserved, and the features looked, but for a few wrinkles, just as they did forty-seven years ago. The face was as white as marble, and everything about the body seemed to be unchanged and perfectly preserved.

The Taylor family burial ground is two miles northeast of St. Matthew's, a suburb of Louisville, on the Short Line Railroad, and is one of the most beautiful in the State. Probably, with the one exception of the vault of the first President at Mount Vernon, none of the Executives of the United States lies in a more beautiful spot than does Gen. Zachary Taylor.—New York Sun.

PERSONS OF NOTE.

The father of Senator Foraker, of Ohio, was a farmer. He had eleven children, six being boys, and money was none too plenty. The boys all worked on the farm, and the future Governor and Senator was taught to wash and iron, to milk, cook and spin, and, in addition to this, to pick the geese at the proper time of the year.

The Rev. John McNeill, who arrived in this country recently, is an eloquent and magnetic preacher, and has proved himself to be more attractive than a circus. On one occasion he was advertised to begin a series of meetings in the capital of the Transvaal. On his arrival in the city he found a variety show under way in the theatre. On his first night large numbers preferred to hear him instead of seeing the show, and on the second night only one man presented himself at the box office, and he had his money returned. Mr. McNeill began his ministry in a small Presbyterian church in Edinburgh, having declined a call to a larger church in Glasgow. Achieving large success there, he was called, after three years, to Regent Square Presbyterian Church, London, a historic pulpit, where Edward Irving, James Hamilton and Oswald Dykes had been his famous predecessors in the pastorate. After remaining there a few years, Mr. Moody's attention was directed to him, and at his invitation Mr. McNeill gave himself to evangelistic work.

FIVE LIVED FOR A DIAMOND.

The Story of the One Adorning the Czar's Sceptre.

A tragic history attaches to more than one of the diamonds which blazed on the Czar's sceptre at the late coronation. The "Shah," which weighs ninety-three carats only, at one time adorned the throne of Nadir Shah. It was stolen by an Afgan soldier, who fell under the blows of three Armenian brothers at the very moment when he was trying to dispose of it to a jeweller. To make their prey further secure the jeweller was also assassinated.

The eldest of the three Armenians, wishing to become sole possessor of the diamond, poisoned his two brothers, and came to Europe to sell his treasure, disposing of it ultimately to Catharine II. of Russia for £100,000. Shajas, for that was the Armenian's name, did not live long to enjoy his ill-gotten gains, for a few years afterwards he himself was poisoned by his son-in-law. It is a significant fact that Nadir Shah, from whose throne this gem was taken, was himself a victim of poison.

The "Orloff" diamond, which also adorns the imperial sceptre, weighs 193 carats, and with another twin brilliant at one time formed the eyes of a Hindoo idol. It was stolen by a French soldier, who sold it for £1500 to an English captain. The latter, in turn, disposed of it to a diamond merchant for £4000; and finally an Armenian became possessor of it, and sold it to Prince Gregory Orloff, by whom it was presented to the Princess Catherine. The Armenian received in payment two and a quarter million francs, and an annuity of one hundred thousand francs.—Harper's Round Table.

A WOMAN'S-RIGHTS BIRD.

The Female Leaves the Male at Home to Take All the Care of the Family.

That graceful little bird, the red phalarope, has one very remarkable peculiarity. When in full breeding plumage it is the female and not the male that is the brighter and more conspicuous bird. The red of the breast and under parts is deeper, and the mottled markings of the back and head are brighter and more clearly defined. The first day they appeared in the spring of 1882 I shot several for the collection, and I never shall forget my surprise when dissection showed budding eggs in all of my supposed males, for this unusual sexual difference in the breeding plumage is not generally mentioned in the ordinary handbooks of ornithology.

Now this peculiar difference means something. The phalarope is a "woman's rights" bird, and doesn't trouble herself with the cares of a family. While it is quite common among the waders for the male to take his share of the work of incubation. Among the phalaropes it is the male alone that hatches the eggs and takes care of the young—in fact does everything except lay the eggs. When they have laid their eggs the females go off in flocks, playing and feeding by themselves, while the males must stay at home and take the whole care of the family. The eggs were always laid in low marshy ground, generally on a narrow isthmus between two little ponds.—John Murdock in Chautauquan.

Trusses! Rupture! Trusses!

Dr. Marcley has opened a branch office at No. 325 West Second street, corner Central avenue, Plainfield, for the treatment of rupture. 20 years experience and the most modern appliances warrants satisfactory results. No occasion to go to New York for what you can get better at home. Irreducible, difficult and complicated cases solicited. The treatment of rupture, whether mechanical or otherwise, most properly belongs to a surgeon of long experience in that particular line. No charge for examination or advice. Hours 9-12 a. m., 1-4 p. m. and evenings.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings make them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the materia, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? A Stray Item of News

Culled from Exchanges in Jersey City.

He is an up-to-date mechanic at his work. Whether finishing a four-button Prince Albert for one of Jersey City's four hundred or an ordinary suit for a business man, Mr. A. J. Sanden, of 57 Gregory street, tailor of Jersey City, finishes his work in a skillful and masterly manner. Our representative found him in his workshop deftly cutting a bicycle suit for the secretary of a prominent bicycle club. Often as he dropped his shears and hung his tape line around his neck he straightened himself up and pressed his hands upon his loins and ominously shook his head, for his back ached and he suffered like the majority of tailors in our republic. Our representative quietly remarked "Why don't you use Doan's Kidney Pills?" "Well," replied Mr. Sanden, "I have noticed a score of advertisements about this remedy in our local papers, but I thought they were like every other specific which I had tried." "Try them and see," our representative suggested. "If they do not do you any good they wont do you any harm." Since, three weeks afterward, a second visit was made by Mr. Sanden, when the following particulars were given by him for publication: "I was not cured from a lame and aching back by one dose of Doan's Kidney Pills, but every dose I took counted in that direction. This was my experience, and it required only half a box to convince me that I had struck the right remedy. I had dull, dragging aching across my loins which became more painful if I sat or stood in one position for any length of time. Stooping over or any sudden strain on the back resulted in sharp twinges through the kidneys. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills, and the fact that they were so highly recommended induced me to get them at a drug store. They fully came up to my expectations and I can recommend them as a splendid remedy for backache."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

A CHARGE OF CONSPIRACY.

A New Bedford Man on Trial For an Alleged Illegal Transaction.

New Bedford, Mass., July 29.—Henry [illegible] Holcomb, a director of the Bennett and Columbia mills, has been placed on [illegible] in the Third district court on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the corporations out of $100,000. Edward L. Parker, the expert accountant, who has been at work upon the accounts of the mills, was the principal witness. He presented figures showing payments to Henry A. Holcomb amounting to $266,797.60.

It developed that Mr. Holcomb had told Mr. Parker that he had burned his books, but that he had saved a few notes, which he permitted Mr. Parker to examine. Among them was one indorsed in red ink bearing the name of the late Treasurer Hadley of the corporation and that of Holcomb to the Shawmut National bank for $25,000, with 300 shares of Bennett mill stock as collateral.

This, it is claimed, was an illegal transaction, and others of similar nature, the prosecution claim, will be shown.

AFRICAN CHIEF KILLED.

Details of the Fight at Fort Martin, Near Hartley, South Africa.

London, July 29.—Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, has received a dispatch from her majesty's high commissioner at the Cape stating that in the fighting at Fort Martin, near Hartley, South Africa, on Saturday the noted chief Mashingombi was slain, and between 400 and 500 of his followers were taken prisoners. The government forces occupied all the positions at Marlie's kraal, where they captured more than 100 prisoners.

The British forces took the natives completely by surprise. When a charge was made upon the stockades, the natives fled to their caves, in which they were afterward captured. Mashingombi's main cave being destroyed with dynamite.

Mashingombi was wounded during the attack and died soon after being taken prisoner.

Two bullets made of solid gold were found after the fight.

Canal Employees as Life Savers.

Albany, July 29.—There have been so many drowning casualties about the state canals during the portion of the season passed that Superintendent of Public Works George W. Aldridge has decided to make the attempt to create a life saving force among the employees of the canal. A card containing instructions to employees along the banks to make especial effort to save lives and giving directions how to resuscitate a partially drowned person will be issued. The card will contain pictures of the positions to place the rescued person in and is intended to be nailed up at dangerous spots along the line of the canal.

Must Pay Back the Rebate.

Washington, July 29.—Commissioner Forman of the internal revenue bureau has in preparation a circular letter of instructions to collectors, in which he will state that inasmuch as it has been held that the new tariff act was in effect during the entire day of Saturday, July 24, brewers who purchased stamps on that day and received the benefit of the rebate of 7½ cents per barrel will be required to pay the rebate to the collectors. Stamps purchased prior to midnight of Friday, July 23, however, may be used without further payment. The circular will be issued immediately.

Wreck of an Express Train.

Sacramento, July 29.—The west bound Atlantic express, known in railroad circles as No. 2, has been wrecked one mile east of Verdi, Nev. It is presumed that the engine struck a broken rail, which caused it to topple over. In falling the locomotive dragged with it the baggage and mail cars. Three Indians, who were riding on the front platform of the baggage car, were crushed to death under the wreckage. Two mail clerks were slightly bruised, and a number of passengers suffered from contusions. Fireman Collins was painfully but not seriously injured.

Suicide of a Druggist.

New York, July 29.—Louis C. Wedel, 63 years old, a druggist of 1939 Fulton street, Brooklyn, where he occupied apartments over the store, has committed suicide by shooting himself in the right temple. The deceased was a widower with no children, his wife having died some time since, and for 10 years past he has been in failing health. His bereavement and the fact that he was an invalid with no hope of recovery had caused him to become very despondent of late.

New Electric Road to Cripple Creek, Colo.

Colorado Springs, July 29.—Colorado Springs will be connected with the Cripple Creek gold camp by a short line electric road. The city council has granted a franchise to Hon. Irving Howbert and associates and also the right to derive motive power from the city's water system. Work on the grades was begun yesterday. The road will be 30 miles long and will cost $1,500,000. Grades as high as 13½ per cent will be used.

Venezuelan Company Incorporated.

Trenton, July 29.—Articles of incorporation have been filed with the secretary of state for the Caracas Electric Heat and Power company. The company is incorporated with a capital of $1,000,000. The purpose is the building of an electric light plant and of an electric railroad in Venezuela. The incorporators are John E. McEwan of Brooklyn, Charles E. Drew of New Brighton, N. Y., and Robert Weinmann of Jersey City.

Terrific Storm In Marseilles.

Paris, July 29.—A dispatch from Marseilles says that a violent storm set in early on Tuesday and has been raging ever since. The seas run mountain high, and all the mail steamers are overdue. Many vessels are seeking shelter in the south coast ports. All work in the harbor is suspended, but thus far no casualties have been reported.

Boy Drank Creosote.

Middletown, N. Y., July 29.—Little Leslie Cordier, the 2-year-old son of F. W. Cordier of this city, drank half an ounce of creosote. His mother's quick action in giving him an emetic saved the child from a quick death. Though his throat is terribly burned, he may live. He will have to breathe through a tube for some time.

LATEST FROM CUBA.

General Weyler to Take Command In Person.

MAJOR OJEDA ORDERED TO BE SHOT.

Two Ladies Have Been Arrested Charged With Hiding Ammunition—Gloomy View of the Insurgents' Cause. An Auditor Suspended.

Havana, via Key West, July 29.—Captain General Weyler, it is announced, will take the field in a few days to personally direct the military operations in the Havana province against several bands of insurgents from 50 to 200 strong. This step is due to an attempt on the part of these bands to reunite.

Orders have been issued that Major Justo Ojeda and the prefect of the ranch El Portugues shall be shot for trying to prevent the surrender of Major Juan Calangas, the insurgent chief, and a number of cavalrymen who recently gave themselves up to the authorities. It is reported that Major Calangas after his surrender took the field with his forces and surprised an insurgent camp, macheteing several members of the force stationed there.

Two respectable ladies, the Misses Nindepon, have been arrested at Guanabacoa, charged with hiding ammunition.

Emilio Sabourin, a Frenchman, who was serving a sentence of 12 years at Ceuta for having been implicated in a theft of ammunition from the government powder magazine here, died recently.

Auditor In Competitor Case Suspended.

The auditor in the American schooner Competitor case, Domingo de Miguel, has been suspended for a month for failing to carry out an order of the supreme court of justice at Madrid.

It is understood that in consequence of a claim made by the British consul the supreme court in Madrid has issued orders that American and British subjects shall be tried by the same court. This order is due to a capture made under the American flag.

Admiral Navarro, it is announced, will return to Spain on Nov. 20, on which date his term of service will expire.

A letter received by Rafael Rodrigues from his brother Jose, one of the local insurgent leaders in the Remedios district, expresses a gloomy view of the situation and speaks of the sufferings of the revolutionists, who, he declares, are without clothing or shoes and have a very short supply of meat.

Tragedy In Waco, Tex.

Waco, Tex., July 29.—In the stock brokerage office of C. E. Trice & Co. B. F. Kivett and W. W. Kivett were shot and killed by W. Lamden, a member of the firm. Bad feeling has existed between the Kivett brothers and Lamden for some time, growing out of charges made by the relatives of Lamden and a sister of the Kivetts. The shooting between the brothers and Lamden occurred when the office was crowded, and it caused intense excitement. Two more of the Kivett brothers armed themselves and proceeded to the scene of the shooting, threatening to kill Lamden, but they were not allowed to enter. The killing is universally looked upon as justifiable.

Logs Packed With Tobacco.

Havana, July 29.—An examination by custom house officials of eight of the consignment of 155 logs which reached here on Sunday last on the steamer Seguranca, and which were deposited in the custody of the police at the Tallapieda wharf, show them to have been packed with fine Sumatra leaf tobacco. If the remainder of the logs contain an amount of tobacco proportionate to that found in those already examined, it is estimated that the total shipment of tobacco will reach 4,000 kilos. The logs, it is said, were shipped by a Maine lumber company.

Death of a Well Known Newspaper Man.

New York, July 29.—William R. Valentine, a well known Brooklyn newspaper man, and who always claimed to be the author of "Casey at the Bat," died at Oyster Bay, N. Y., aged 35. Death was caused by an abscess on the brain. He was born in Dublin and was educated for the priesthood, but gave up his studies and came to this country. He worked on several Chicago, New York and Brooklyn papers. Mr. Valentine had a sister who is mother superior of a convent just outside of Dublin.

Sea Captain Charged With Cruelty.

New York, July 29.—Robert J. Graham, captain of the clipper ship W. F. Babcock, has been arrested on an order of the city court here in a civil action brought against him by Thomas Graves, a sailor. The latter charges that in January, 1896, he shipped on the Babcock at San Francisco for a voyage to Honolulu and this city and that during the trip he was ill treated and beaten by Captain Graham. The latter furnished $1,000 bail and was released.

Special Excise Agents Appointed.

Albany, July 29.—John A. Wilbur, Charles P. Sanford, Ferdinand Dryer and Charles A. Smith, all of New York city, have been appointed as special excise agents by Commissioner Lyman. The appointees were the first four on the civil service eligible list created by the fitness examination given by the excise department last week.

Earthquakes In the Arno Valley.

London, July 29.—A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Leghorn says a severe shock of earthquake was felt Wednesday at Pontedera and other places in the Arno valley. Many buildings were wrecked, and a large number of persons are reported to have been injured.

Steamer Cambria Not a Total Loss.

Sarnia, Ont., July 29.—The sea is running too high at present to approach the steamer Cambria, but it is now expected that she will not be a total loss and that as soon as practicable she will be taken off. The loss, however, will be very heavy.

Old Pensioner Killed.

Hornellsville, N. Y., July 29.—Robert Cockran, an old pensioner, has been killed in the Erie yard while picking coal. He was 72 years of age, and a well known character.

RAVAGES OF THE RAIN.

were carried away by the flood.

Four of the trolley cars were stalled on Somerset street, near Coddington avenue, at about 10 o'clock. There was sand and gravel from six to eight inches deep on the tracks. The cars had to wait until the water went down and they could be dug out by a gang of men from the carhouse.

The residents of the lower end of Grove street, in the vicinity of the Stony brook bridge, felt the flood severely.

The handsome place of Mayor John F. Wilson was much damaged. The grass and shrubbery were torn and wrecked while the fence surrounding the place was partially carried away. Many fences along Greenbrook road were washed down and some outhouses upset. A private foot bridge over Stony brook, belonging to a resident of Rockview avenue, was washed away and the others were covered with the debris brought down by the water.

The wooden culvert at the corner of Greenbrook road and Rockview terrace was torn up and the roadway blocked.

A large tree was lodged against the Grove street bridge overy Stony brook. Had the tree followed the course of the other wreckage, one of Faber's row would have probably been wrecked.

A rescuing party was formed by Charles Sprague, of Howard street, Frank Hull, of Grove street, and James Brown, of Stone street, and the occupants of the row were carried to a place of safety. Mrs. Hull and her two children, Mrs. Frank Small and her two children and Mrs. Peter Burnett and her two children were all carried out in the arms of the rescuers, who had to wade through water up to their waists. The current was very strong and they had to keep hold of fences to prevent the rescued from being washed away.

Charles Burnett had 250 planks for scaffolding piled in a lot behind the row of houses. This morning fifty were found lodged against a fence on the opposite side of the road and the rest are scattered at a distance of a mile along the course of the flood.

Two excavations for new houses at the corner of Washinton avenue and Linden avenue were filled with water and dirt that had been washed in by the storm. They will have to be dug again.

The tremendous downpour of rain was felt in the eastern end of the city as well as in other parts. During the rain, the streets were most of them flooded from curb to curb and progress on foot was almost impossible.

One of the trolley cars ran off the track on Woodland avenue at nine o'clock on account of the mud and sand that was washed upon the track.

South avenue was flooded from fence to fence and was converted into a veritable lake. It was flooded from the foot of the hill to Scott's Press Works. The fields on either side were also flooded. Cedar brook was transformed into a powerful stream. Where it passed under the railroad at the Berckman street bridge, the stream was far too large for the culvert to carry off and the water flowed through the road. The water was four feet deep under the bridge.

At Rahway the bridge over the Rahway river, on New Brunswick avenue, was carried away.

A. Kane, a contractor, will lose about $75 by the rain, inasmuch as he will be compelled to lay about 1,600 feet of the stone flagging in the eastern end of the city.

At Dunellen the water did not do much damage, although in several places it rose to a fairly good height. At the floor of Jefferson avenue, near Greenbrook, David Lowry was obliged to take his horses out of the barn which was rapidly filling with water.

New Market experienced some high water which rose high enough to enter the flour mill owned by Mr. Otto. A small quantity of flour was damaged. The Lehigh Valley Railroad tracks were flooded but traffic was net stopped at any time. Here the damage was slight.

Last evening an unknown woman was running after a trolley car which was passing under the Watchung avenue railroad bridge, and not being aware of the high water under the bridge, rushed wildly into the water. She was standing in the water almost to her waist when Frank Dencklau happened along and assisted to woman out of her difficulty. She would not give her name and finally caught a car to her destination.

In Elizabeth traffic in two-thirds of the city was suspended at 8 o'clock in the evening, and householders and storekeeepers were moving their goods to places of safety. County roads were impassable, and several bridges were swept away. The railroad companies put forces of men at work near Elizabeth patching up the roadbeds.

The lower section of Elizabeth was inundated, and the great salt meadows were flooded to a depth of three feet. Shipyards, lumber yards and warehouses were flooded, and the rise of the Elizabeth river, which flows through the heart of the city, had not been equalled in years. Trees and buildings along either bank were swept away. A doghouse on which was crouched a chained dog, while close at his side clung a hen, passed down the river to the bay early in the evening. The dog's howls attracted a crowd, and several men tried to rescue it, but in vain.

The sewers were all blocked up, and in Broad, East Broad and North Broad streets and Morris avenue, the busiest section of Elizabeth the streets under the railroad tracks were flooded to a depth of ten feet, and the surface cars were stopped. New York business men who reached their homes after 6 o'clock found it impossible to leave the railroad station.

In Westfield the livery stable of A. E. Decker was flooded by the overflowing of the brook which runs through the town. At 9 o'clock last night the water rose to a height of three or four feet in the horses' stalls, and the animals had to be removed to other quarters. On Broad street, the principal street of the town, the water was about ten inches deep at 9 o'clock, and the storekeepers began to make preparations for moving their stock to the upper stories. At Henry's Park, on Elm street, a bridge was washed about 100 yards down the brook and Elm street was under inches of water. In many parts of the town cellars are flooded to the depth of two or three feet.

At Somerville the damage was not extensive, though the Raritan river overflowed its banks in several places and inundated the adjoining streets—especially Bridge street. Houses bordering the bank of the stream had the cellars flooded. The meadows were also covered with two or three feet of water and agricultural crops somewhat damaged.

Reports came from Neshanic last night that the water in the North Branch river was as high as it was on February 6th, 1896, when that section of the country was devastated by the overflow. The North Branch is fed by innumerable mountain rivulets whose supply is not perceptibly felt except in the time of a freshet, but last night the channel of the stream was utterly uable to afford an avenue for the water that descended from the mountains. In some places it is reported that small and frail buildings were swept off their foundations and floated down the river to mix with the other driftwood already picked up in the seething current. Several farmers removed their cattle from barns that were in danger of destruction by the raging stream, but in order to do so they had to wade up over their boots.

Peter C. Johnson, of South Plainfield, reports that on Plainfield avenue, from Eighth street out to the hill near his place, the road is greatly damaged. Near the hill there is a large culvert about 100 feet long which was completely wrecked by the storm last evening. The fact that there are no gutters along the road at that point makes it exceedingly dangerous in a severe storm. Large stones were washed from the highways to the road causing quite an obstruction. Last night the water was so high at that point that it was almost impossible for wagons to pass in safety, and in fact there was no travel along that road of any account after the condition became known. This morning it looks as though a mighty flood had swept that section.

The recent rains have made the corner of Washington and East Sixth streets, almost impassable. Street Commissioner Gavett's men have been there but could do nothing until better arrangements are made to drain that corner. There is only one crosswalk, but if there were others they would be covered with water, which floods the street, gutters and part of the sidewalk at that place. The water is nearly a foot deep in places, and boots are required to pass through it without a wetting,

The few residents who live on Dupont street in the borough had a thrilling time of it. The water invaded their dooryards and arose to the height of window sills. Several women waded out into the water waist deep, holding their small children above their heads, while men carried the children to places of safety. Household furniture was practically ruined.

At South Plainfield the water covered the tracks of the Lehigh Valley Railroad so that the fires in the locomotives that attempted to run through it were put out.

The water in the Fanwood cut almost reached the car steps, but trains were not delayed.

During the heaviest part of the storm, from 8 to 9 o'clock, a Press reporter drove to Washingtonville and other parts of the city seeking the the news of devastation. Returning from Washingtonville, the rig was driven for several blocks along Somerset street in from one to three feet of water. Park avenue, between Front and Second streets, was completely submerged. Messenger boys hustled through the rain with bare feet and trousers rolled above their knees.

The hollows under the railroad bridges on Park and avenues were formed into miniature lakes with the water reaching to the bodies of the buggies and in some instances above them. Pedestrians were unable to cross these streets without wading through two feet of water on the elevated sidewalks.

Frightening reports came from Bound Brook concerning the overflow of the Raritan and it is said that the flood of February 6, 1896, was equalled. Investigation on the part of The Press reporters, however, showed that they were greatly exaggerated. The Raritan overflowed its banks in one end of town and submerged several of the streets but at no time was the danger anything equal to that of the former freshet.

The Park Club suffered by last night's flood to the amount of $400 or $500. The piling, which was put in a couple of years ago to keep the brook in its course and from overflowing the tennis courts and eating the bank away, was torn out and carried downstream where it lodged against fences and trees. There is a bend in the brook at this point and the swift current of last night soon swept away the bank for a distance of nearly twenty feet, where formerly the Park Club's lawn was situated. The water submerged the courts and ruined the hard finish which time and work had made. Logs and debris of every kind now covers the entire lawn.

The pilings all along the entire brook have been weakened and below the Washington avenue bridge there is not enough left to tell that there were ever any there.

The entire course of the brook was changed opposite the Park Club. Where the brook now runs is the property of the Park Club.

The former course of the stream at this point is entirely filled with gravel, sand and rubbish of all sorts.

The Giraud avenue bridge was overflowed by the water to a depth of one foot and three inches, but luckily it stood the strain.

The old ball grounds off of West Front street, near Washington avenue, was covered by a stream from one and a half to two feet deep. Near this point the new bridge for Sycamore avenue is to be built, and last fall the people who are having the street put through, erected abuttments to keep the stream in its course. The water took these out like straws and carried a great deal of the bank with it. At this point in the brook boys have been going in bathing lately and called it the Willows. This morning a number of boys thought it would be a great time for a swim, and so several of the more venturesome disrobed and went into the water. Willie Edmundson, who was more daring than the rest, dove from a limb of a fallen tree, a distance of ten feet, into the water.

He disappeared and his companion thought he was longer than usual in coming to the top. When he did rise he yelled for help and said he was hurt. When he came up the second time he grasped a pole and was helped out of the water by some of his companions. He said he was stunned when he struck the water, and when he came to surface he was unable to swim at all.

The water rose so high under the stables at Blimm's Hotel, on Somerset street, that the wagons and horses and all other portable goods were removed at 7 o'clock last night. The horses were stabled at Roberts' livery.

There was a general wash out of everything about the new Watchung bridge. The foot bridge, which had been erected to serve pedestrians while the new one is being constructed, had the supports washed from under it early in the evening. Danger signals and lanterns were displayed, while a man at each end prevented people from crossing, who might be willing to trust their life to the frail support.

The middle pier of the new bridge was damaged to some extent, but $100 will probably cover the loss to the contractor. The water was up even with the floor of Tier's lake house and poured over the dam in a wall two feet thick.

No other damage was reported along Green Brook except to chicken houses, fences and outhouses.

Cedar brook overflowed its banks between Putnam and LaGrande avenues and flooded adjacent fields. The water rose during the evening to the height of the Putnam avenue bridge and flooded the street at that point. Cellars in the vicinity suffered considerably from the water that was several feet deep in many of them. The brook made things lively at Prospect and Park avenues, where it threatened to flood the roadway.

The Hotel Grenada was flooded during the rain. The roof was like a sieve and allowed the water to run into the upper bedrooms and leave them in terrible condition. The water came through into Perry's barber shop and covered the floor to the depth of two inches, so that it was necessary to drill holes in the floor to allow it to escape.

The rain fell with great force in the Passaic Valley and the meadows on either side of the river were flooded. The farmers who had oats standing in the field say their crop will be a complete loss.

Under L. M. French's carriage factory, on Somerset street, the water raised within a foot of the girders that support the building and Mr. French had men out watching the brook until 2 o'clock this morning for fear that the floating debris would do some damage to the building.

DEATH CAME VIA GAS JET.

A WOMAN COMMITTED SUICIDE IN A LOCAL HOTEL.

Mrs. Kate Whisset is the Dead Woman's Name—She is Said to Have Threatened to End Her Own Life Only Recently.

In a strange hotel in a strange city, a despondent woman successfully attempted to commit suicide, last evening. She wanted a room for the night, she said. She laid on the bed, turned on the gas, and when the excited people in the hotel finally forced their way into the room, she was dead and had been so for some hours. This morning, a waitress at McVey's hotel smelled gas escaping from one of the bed rooms and gave the alarm which led to the discovery of the suicide. That it was a suicide, circumstances point very plainly.

J. H. McVey, proprietor of McVey's hotel, on North avenue, was just coming along North avenue last night and had almost reached the entrance to the hotel when a tall well-dressed woman stepped up to him and inquired the way to the entrance to his house. Mr. McVey opened the door and asked what she wated. "A small, cheap room for the night," she said.

It was dark in the hallway as the two stood there and McVey had little chance to observe his late guest, except to note that she was tall, rather good looking, about thirty-five years of age, and dressed in a dark colored gown. He called the chambermaid, Miss Martha Miller, and directed her to show the woman a rear room on the third floor. The chambermaid did as directed and came back with a $1 bill for her lodging. She wanted to know for what she could obtain board by the week as she said she expected her husband and some friends here in a day. Her husband would only spend the night there, she said, but she expected to remain there and so would her friends.

She had not registered as she came so late and gave no name. McVey intended to learn such particulars in the morning.

William H. Parker, a colored waiter employed in the restaurant, prepared some cucumber salad and bread and butter which he took up to the late arrival at her request.

Soon after 9 o'clock, Mr. McVey went down the street on another errand, and on his return a few minutes later, passed the strange woman walking toward the corner. She told Mrs. McVey on going out that she was going to telephone her safe arrival to her husband. That was the last time he saw her alive.

Miss Lizzie O'Brien is employed at the hotel as waitress. This morning, at 6 o'clock, she was coming downstairs, as usual, and passed through the hall by the door of the room occupied by the late arrival of the night before. There was the odor of gas that was very prevalent in the hall. She stopped to see from which room it came. She went to the door of the room occupied by the strange woman. The gas that rushed through the keyhole nearly stifled her.

"Answer, if there's anybody in the room, answer," she almost screamed, as she shook the doorknob. Then she waited. There was no answer and no sound came from the interior of the room. Shaking with dread, she hurried downstairs and told Mr. McVey that there was trouble in one of the upper rooms.

The chambermaid was sent to the room but also failed to get a response despite her repeated knocking. The odor of gas was very strong. Then a ladder was secured and Mr. VcVey and Parker, the waiter, climbed out on the second story roof and looked at the window above. It was tightly closed. Parker climbed up the ladder and opened the window. There was a rush of gas through the opening that nearly took away Parker's breath. He finally managed to climb in and staggered through the room to the door, which he unbolted and opened. He saw a woman lying on the bed, all dressed. The gas was very strong in the room and Parker looked exhausted as he came out into the hall.

The police were notified of the death at once and soon learned the identity of the woman. Her name was Mrs. Kate Whisset, and, until a month ago, she was employed as house-keeper at the Hotel Hunterston. She had been in that position for several months. The people at the Hunterston said that she had been drinking heavily before she left and had been very despondent. She had several times threatened to commit suicide. She and her husband had not been living together and he was supposed to be residing in New York. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Massett, who are said to be very wealthy, live at 432 West Forty-eighth street, New York. Since she left the Hunterston, she has been

PROTESTS FROM FIFTEEN

MARTIN ACT COMMISSIOMERS HOLD ANOTHER MEETING.

Various Reasons Given Why the City Should Not Compel the Protestants to Pay Back Taxes Under the Martin Act.

The regular work of the Martin Act commissioners was begun yesterday afternoon when they held a meeting in the Mayor's office for the purpose of hearing what some of the delinquent tax payers had to say regarding the payment of their taxes for years ago. There were many objectors and divers reasons were advanced. The Commissioners listened attentively to the remarks but had nothing to say. What they will do will be learned later.

There have been several meetings of the Commissioners before yesterday afternoon but the first few meet ings were merely to allow those who had anything to say in the matter to have their say, individually or by petition.

Notices were sent out by Frank J. Hubbard, secretary of the Commission, to twenty different property owners to appear before the Commissioners and state their reasons, if they had any, why the back taxes should not be collected. Fifteen were present at the meeting. All three of the Commissioners were there.

The claim advanced by a number was that they had paid those taxes years ago or that the tax had been cancelled by a sheriff's deed in which the city had been a party. It was the general idea that all that was necessary was to state to the Commission the circumstances but the Commissioners wanted to see the deeds and other proofs which greatly de layed any progress that might have been made in that direction. The deeds were not brought and the commissioners will have to consider those names at another sitting.

In one instance, the property owner showed a decree of the Chancellor of the State which declared that the city had not perfected the title of the taxes on this particular property back of 1879. Later than 1879, the property owner agreed to pay the taxes.

Some knew no particular reason why the taxes should not be paid and readily acknowledged that they were due. They said that they were willing to pay. One man wanted to settle with the collector at once and explained that the matter had not come to his attention before. Others explained that, although they knew they owed the taxes, circumstances were such that they could not pay them now and they wanted time.

The next meeting of the Commissioners will be held on Monday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock in the Mayor's office. Twenty more property owners will be notified by the secretary to be present.

Reverend Orators Who are to Expound Prohibition Doctrines.

The New Jersey Prohibitionists will use the bicycle for their campaign this year. Revs. James A. Hensey, of Verona, and W. C. Kinsey, of Newark, will make a bicycle stumping tour throughout the State and will expound the doctrine of the Prohibitionists in all the northern towns.

They hope to catch the bicycle vote by this means, as well as convert many other people.

Numerous, But Small.

Reports from the peach districts about Whitehouse and Flemington, are to the effect that the trees are laden with fruit, but it is not of a superior character. The peaches are small. There was a great demand for early fruit, and fifteen carloads were shipped from Whitehouse at an average price to the shippers of from 40 to 45 cents a basket. The rains, which began about two weeks ago, stopped the fruit from maturing, and there have been very few shipments since.

A Plainfield Incorporator.

Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday in the office of the County Clerk at New Brunswick for the New Jersey Valve Company. The corporation will engage in almost every business undertaking but the manufacture of valves. The capital stock of the concern is $50,000. The incorpor ators are Robert Strong, of Plainfield; Arthur H. Strong, of Metuchen, and James L. Stewart, of Montclair. The principal office of the company will be in New Brunswick.

Thieves at Metuchen Foiled.

Burglars are again operating about Metuchen. On Sunday evening thieves attempted to gain an entrance into the home of Mrs. Couther. Tuesday night two men were seen prowling around the property of H. A. Campbell. He went out and chased the thieves away and fired a shot at them. The men made their escape.

THE EXEMPTS' TEN YEARS

ANNIVERSARY OF THE PLAINFIELD ASSOCIATION JOYOUSLY OBSERVED.

Speeches of Welcome and Congratulation by Councilmen, Followed by Enlivening Remarks From Many Old Timers.

The tenth anniversary exercises of the Exempt Firemen's Association of this city were held last evening in the rooms of the association on Park avenue. It was a most auspicious occasion. Every detail was arranged in a complete manner and the delegations from the associations at Bayonne, Rahway, Fanwood, Westfield and North Plainfield, were treated in a hospitable style. The regular meeting of the association preceded the festivities and chiefly routine business was transacted. Fifteen persons were proposed for membership and will be elected at the next meeting. An interesting feature of the meeting was the reading of an anniversary report by the secretary, G. Thorn. It showed that the first meeting of the association was held March 25th, 1887, and that the members formed an organization on the evening of July 25th, 1887. The organization started with sixty-eight charter mememberss and the following officers:—President, Augustus Titsworth; vice-president, T. J. Gillies; secretary, J. B. Martin; treasurer, D. W. Rogers. Mr. Thorn has been the secretary since the organization of the association as Mr. Martin only held the office a short time. Alex. Titsworth was president for four years, and resigned owing to his ill health. In his place Augustus Saltzman was chosen and he is now serving his seventh term. In 1888 action was taken whereby the exempt firemen secured tax exemption under Senate Bill No. 4. In May, 1889, the association was incorporated and in 1890 the meeting quarters were chang ed from over the First National Bank to the present place, and a grand house-warming was held March 31st, 1890. Since that time the association has been growing steadily until at present there are 142 members and nearly $1,000 in the treasury.

A pleasant feature of the evening was the presentation of a large picture of President J. K. Vreeland, of the Bayonne Association. It was received by President Saltzman of the Plainfield Association, and he heartily thanked the visitors for the magnificent gift. Following this part of the programme Councilmen Runyon, Barows and Westphal were escorted to the room and the speechmaking began. Mr. Runyon, in the absence of the Mayor, was called on to welcome the visitors in the name of the city. He did so in his usual affable manner and his remarks were of the kind to promote harmony and good feeling. Later Mr. Runyon sang several comical songs that brought down the house.

President Vreeland, of the Bayonne Association, was next called upon and he made some happy remarks. Representatives of the Rahway Association were heard, and then Alex. Titsworth made a rousing speech which enthused the old fire laddies. The next speaker, Councilman Barrows, said that although he had nothing to do with the firemen he was in sympathy with them and glad to see such an expression of good feeling. Councilman Westphal followed by a humorous speech.

Chief Doane was called upon to confirm the statement that Plainfield had the best fire department in the world. He did so and the North Plainfield members were the only ones to doubt the statement. The latter said that they were very close behind their fel low-firemen. Chief Bodine, of the North Plainfield department, made a few remarks, which were followed with comical recitations by "Jack" Carney, who fairly captured his audience. There were other speeches by L. E. Barkalew, L. M. Dunavan, S. B Joseph, of this city and the borough; Mr. Robison, of the New York Association, and Mr. McDevitt, of the Brooklyn Association.

During the evening there were refreshments and good cigars. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of D. W. Little, W. A. Woodruff, Edward Vermeule, E. Laing and Alex Titsworth.

From Fathers to Sons.

Dr. Seymour Marsh, formerly a resident of this city, living on Putnam avenue, has retired from his large medical practice in New York and is succeeded by his son, Seymour N. Marsh. The practice was founded by the great-grandfather of the present Dr. Marsh in 1820 and has been handed down from father to son until the present time. The last Dr. Marsh has completed a course at the Columbia P. and S. School.

AN INVASION OF DEATH.

WILLIAM C. BURT PASSED AWAY AT HIS HOME THIS NOON.

He Was Well-Known in Financial Circles in New York, Where He Was Receiving Teller in the Seamen's Savings Bank.

Another invasion into the ranks of Plainfield's old and respected citizens by death was recorded this noon, when at 12:30 o'clock William C. Burt passed away at his home on West Seventh street after confinement to the house for a month with an ailment which he was unable to overcome.

Mr. Burt has been a resident of this city for nineteen years and was well known to many Plainfielders, though his business connections were in New York, where for thirty-three years he has been in the employ of the Seamen's Savings Bank on Wall street. Entering the institution at an early age he worked himself up to the responsible position of receiving teller and was one of the best known bank officials in the business district of the metropolis. He was born in Yonkers, N. Y, but his long residence here had identified him thoroughly with this section.

He was an active worker in the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, where his individual services and financial assistance did much to help build the church to its present prosperous condition. He was president of the Monroe Avenue M. E. Church Society.

He was also a member of the Royal Arcanum in which he carried a life insurance policy.

He was married thirty-three years ago, his wife, who survives him, being a daughter of the late Chauncey Shaffer, one of New York's well-known lawyers in his time. He leaves eight children, as follows: Warren S., Clara M., Florence G., Chauncey H., Edith L., Amy G., Jessie and Charles. He passed his sixtieth birthday the first of last February.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

OUT IN A GIANT SWIRL.

A PLAINFIELD BOY NARROWLY ESCAPED DROWNING.

He Was Bathing in the Surf at Atlantic City When He Was Caught in a Whirlpool—Rescued by Life Savers.

The eddying ocean currents just above the Ocean Pier at Atlantic City yesterday morning resolved themselves into a fierce whirlpool into the vortex of which fully a score of unsuspecting bathers were sucked. It would have been the grave of many had it not been for the prompt and timely assistance af the members of the life force, eighteen being hurriedly summoned to the point of danger. The whirlpool formed almost without warning, and was concealed by the huge breakers. The undertow had been running unusually strong all the morning, but this danger was recognized by the thousands of bathers and avoided. Shortly before noon two counter currents met at a point just opposite the foot of South Carolina avenue, and joined in a marine battle royal.

The first victim was James Kerwin, seventeen years old, of Plainfield. From a point in shallow water he dived beneath a hugh breaker, only to rise to the surface far beyond his depth and in the very centre of the ocean whirlpool, which spun him about like a top and rendered him almost absolutely helpless. His cries for help were responded to by life guards Lindsay and Wilson, who launched their boat in the face of a heavy sea. They reached the drowning youth in time to save him, although he was unconscious when pulled into the boat.

The perilous return trip had hardly been begun when two more struggling forms were seen bobbing about in the whirlpool and other frantic cries for assistance were heard. Guards Parker and Conover rushed to the rescue with life buoys, while Guards Neall and Parker left their station and also hastened to the scene. Then Captain Lake turned in a general alarm, which summoned the entire force to the vicinity of the whirlpool.

Four boats with two guards in each and ten guards with their life buoys were quickly on hand. For upward of half an hour they were kept busy hauling out bathers who had been knocked down by the giant waves, swept out by the strong undertow and carried into the seething vortex of the whirlpool.

A Celebrated Preacher.

Rev. Carlos Martyn, D. D., for many years one of Newark's ablest divines, but recently engaged in evangelistic work in Chicago, has been secured by the supply committee of the Trinity Reformed church to preach next Sunday morning and evening, and his well known ability as a preacher will no doubt fill the church at both services.

AFTERMATH OF THE RAIN

HUNDREDS OF SIGHTSEERS VISITED THE SCENES OF DEVASTATION.

Further Damage to Bridges Along Green Brook Reported—Rushing Waters Have Tore Away the Banks in Several Places

The backbone of the long season of stormy weather appears to be broken and the sun has come forth again and shines with its usual brightness on the track of the cloudburst which visited this section Wednesday afternoon and evening. All the streams today a e still much higher than is their wont for there is plenty of water to carry off. New stories of damage that the storm did are still coming in.

The new iron bridge on Sandford avenue, over Green brook, was partially wrecked by the torrent that flowed down Green brook. There is a bend in the course of the brook at the bridge and the full force of the current beat on the Plainfield abutment with destructive results. The corner of the abutment was carried away as was part of the wing wall, while the sidewalk on the bridge fell for part of the distance, having nothing to support it. There is a stone water-wall along the Plainfield side of the brook some distance above the bridge, but the earth bank close by was eaten out by the rushing water and several cartloads of earth were washed away and carried down-stream. The foot bridge at Sandford avenue, where the old bridge used to stand, was also weakened by the water, part of the stone supports being washed out. The iron bridge has been closed for the present, as it is deemed unsafe for traffic.

Further down the brook, the earth was washed away around the base of a large tree and the tree falling into the brook, tearing up a portion of the bank. Brook avenue was flooded for some distance and the roadway was cut up with gullies made by the swift current.

Berckman street and Richmond street both suffered considerably from the storm. In places, the roadway was cut and gullied and the top dressing of fine stone all washed away. In other places the road was covered to the depth of several inches with sand and gravel which was washed on there from the adjoining fields and gutters.

Hundreds of people visited the Notch and Washingtonville yesterday and today, and the camera fiend found the place a delightful one for the exercise of his art. Yesterday morning there was a steady stream of water pouring over the ruins of the big dam at Washingtonville but the drain pipe gradually lowered the water in what remains of the pond and the stream narrowed and finally ceased altogether. The visitors to the ruins climbed all over the rocks of the wrecked dam and saw just where the water had gone. There was also an excellent chance to examine the dam and the manner in which it was made and the size of stone used in its construction.

A number of photographs were taken of the ruins of the dam from every point of view. The sun came out at intervals through the afternoon and the photographers took advantage of every appearance.

Wetumpka Falls drew its share of attention. The unusual amount of water that was going over the stone dam caused many to stop and look at it. The wreck of Cooley's bridge was visited by many sight-seers and photographers as well.

The dam at Eggerts' mills, five miles from New Brunswick, gave way under the pressure of water and flooded Piscataway and Bonhamtown townships. Three bridges were car ried away and they bumped against a fourth, across which Mrs. Newell Hicks, a farmer's wife, was driving with her nephew and son. Mrs. Hicks and her party were half way across the bridge when the three other bridges bumped against it. It stood the strain a moment and then collapsed. Mrs. Hicks, the two boys, and the horse and carriage were dropped into the stream. Mrs. Hicks swam to the nearest bank. The son and nephew were missing. She could hear them calling. They had caught hold of the side of the buggy, which had become wedged in some debris. Mrs. Hicks struck out in the direction that she heard the sounds. She reached the buggy and stayed there until help came. She was afraid to try to get either of the boys ashore. Henry Davis, William Hulsizer and Alonzo Smith heard her calls for help and managed to rescue the entire party with the aid of ropes.

Water Mains To Be Extended.

The Plainfield Water Supply Company will shortly extend its mains on West Eighth street to the flush tanks below Irving place, and on Kensington avenue to the flush tanks near La Grande avenue.

EX-MAYOR TAKES A WIFE

JOHN H. VANWINCKLE MARRIED TO ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS BELLE.

Miss Isabella M. Stout the Charming Bride—Nuptial Knot Tied in a Church, Which Was Handsomely Decorated.

Miss Isabella M. Stout, the youngest daughter of Former Mayor and Mrs. Stout, of Atlantic Highlands, and Former Mayor John H. VanWinckle, of Duer street, were united in marriage at the M. E. church, Atlantic Highlands, yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was a pretty one and was attended by many of the friends and relatives of the couple. The marriage took place at 3 o'clock, and was performed by Rev. Mr. Hines, pastor of the church.

The church was handsomely decorated with flowers for the occasion. The altar was a bank of potted plants and palms, with cut flowers to give give color to the effect. The bride was gowned in white satin and carried a large bouquet of white bride roses. She was escorted to the altar by her father and given away by him.

The four ushers, John H. VanWinkle, Jr., and Francis J. Blatz, of Plainfield, and Thomas Emery and Charles Ford, of Atlantic Highlands, headed the bridal past. They were followed by a niece and nephew of the bride, Miss Dolly Vanderbilt, of Atlantic Highlands, gowned in white silk, and Evan TenBroeck Stedman, of Hoboken, who carried baskets of white roses. After the ceremony had been performed they scattered the roses in the path of the newly-married couple.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Van Winkle went to the handsome residence of the bride's father, where a reception was held for the relatives of the couple. A collation was served. The house was artistically decorated with flowers.

The children who scattered flowers in the path of the couple received dainty little gold rings. Each of the ushers received a pearl pin. There were many valuable and useful gifts presented to the newly wedded pair.

They took the 6 o'clock boat from Sandy Hook for New York and were given a rousing reception by their friends, who plentifully showered them with rice and old shoes. Mr. and Mrs. VanWinkle went to the Kitatinny House, Delaware Water Gap, to spend some time, and then go to Asbury Park to stay until Sept. 1st. They will reside at 19 Duer street, North Plainfield.

DUNELLEN IS INTERESTED.

Anxious to Know the Result of Sewage Beds Litigation.

It looks as if the suit being brought by Mrs. Elias Milliken against Plainfield would be a battle royal. There are no less than three lawyers already employed by citizens of Plainfield, with prospects of more, and it is rumored that Richard V. Lindabury, of Newark, is one of them. Whether the sewer beds are proven to be a nuisance or not, the cost of the litigation would have gone a long ways toward taking the sewage to tide water.

There is a report going the rounds of the press that Dunellen people are bringing suit against Plainfield for maintaining a nuisance in its sewage farm. This is a mistake. The action is taken by residents of Plainfield and we are only anxiously awaiting the result. We must confess, however, that we are equally interested.—Dunellen Call.

Captain Ostrom's Funeral.

The funeral sevices of the late William B. Ostrum were held from the house on East Ninth street this morning at 11:30. Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren Chapel, officiated, and he was assisted by Rev. Dr. Rodman, rector of of Grace P. E. church. Both of the above made comforting and helpful remarks concerning the departed, and the words spoken to the bereaved ones were especially consoling. There was a large gathering of friends at the service who had personally known the deceased. The floral tributes were simple, yet beautiful, and expressed the high regard on the part of the donors. The body will be interred in Greenwood cemetery in the family plot at the convenience of the family.

Chicken Thieves Now.

Thieves made an attempt early this morning to loot the chicken-house of W. M. Stamets, on North avenue, Westfield. About 2 o'clock a. m. Mrs. Stamets heard a noise in the chicken yard and aroused her husband. He ran out of doors and fired at the retreating forms of the thieves, but they made their escape down the railroad tracks in the darkness. The thieves had to leave so hastily that they were able to get hold of only one fowl.

TRIED TO ROB A BANK

Cashier of a Pontiac (Ills.) Institution Showed Fight.

ONE OF THE ROBBERS IDENTIFIED.

He Is Said to Be the Son of Highly Respected Parents and Had Gone Out West In Order to Make His Fortune.

Newark, N. J., July 30.—Chief of Police Hopper has received word from Pontiac, Ills., that a young man who gave his name as Frank W. Jackson of this city, but who is believed to be Francis P. Lynch, is locked up in that city on the charge of having attempted to rob the cashier of the Pontiac bank. A young man who gave his name as Harry Howard of New York is a prisoner on the same charge and was with Jackson when the alleged attempted robbery took place.

It was done in the western style, the men entering the bank in the daylight and tried to make Cashier Van Dunkirk deliver at the point of revolvers. He showed fight instead, and the would be robbers fled, but were captured after a chase of several miles.

Accompanying the letter from Pontiac to Chief Hopper was a picture of Jackson. It was promptly identified as Francis P. Lynch of 84 Bunett street, who until a cople of months ago was a law student in the office of John P. Pitney. He is 22 years old and a member of a highly respected family.

His father was Philip Lynch of the firm of Reiley & Lynch, known throughout the country as a novelty manufacturer. When the elder Lynch died some years ago, he left property to Francis valued at about $8,000. Two months ago the young man sold it for $3,000 cash and announced that he was going west to make his fortune.

His friends here are shocked at the news of his downfall and are unable to account for it, as he was a young man with a bright future and so far as is known had no vices.

The Portuguese Flag Incident.

Washington, July 30.—The incident a Monterey, Cal., on July 4, involving the destruction of a Portuguese flag, is well on the way toward settlement. A report has been received at the state department from the governor of California upon the results of the investigation made by the state authorities into the case at the request of the department. This shows that the affair was the work of some irresponsible person whom it has not been possible to identify and punish, and the people of Monterey are unanimous in condemnation of the insult. With a proper expression of regret on the part of our government and the inclosure of this report it is believed the incident will be closed satisfactorily.

Accidentally Wounded.

Rochester, July 30.—During the performance of "Carmen" by the Kerwin Opera company at the Lyceum theater Miss Susie Kerwin, who was playing the part of Carmen, was stabbed by Clayton Ferguson, who was playing the part of San Jose. By mistake he picked up a sharp dagger, used in "Fra Diavolo," instead of the dull one usually used. He did not notice the difference until he picked Miss Kerwin up, with the blood spurting from the wound. The point of the dagger had penetrated the flesh about an inch. Miss Kerwin fainted. A physician was hastily summoned and pronounced the wound not serious. She sang as usual at the next performance.

Jameson's Officers Not to Be Restored.

London, July 30.—In the house of lords the Marquis of Lansdowne, secretary of state for war, in reply to a question by Earl Carrington, said that the commission of officers who had served under Dr. Jameson in the raid into the Transvaal and of which these officers had been deprived would not be restored. Lord Lansdowne said he regretted the fact that it was his duty to be compelled to reply thus, but the officers in question had actually been connected with the drawing up of the scheme for the raid and had disobeyed the orders of the queen's representative not to proceed.

Pardoned an Incendiary Prisoner.

Boston, July 30.—The governor, by the advice of the council, has pardoned Augustus G. Wesley, who was serving sentence at the New Bedford House of Correction on a charge of burning the hotel at Cottage City, of which he was proprietor, last year. The movement to secure his pardon was undertaken on the ground that Wesley was always an estimable citizen previous to the burning of his house and that he has been sufficiently punished.

Greek Census Before the War.

Washington, July 30.—The United States minister to Greece has supplied the state department with some advance figures of the Greek census taken last October. They show a total population for the country of 2,433,806 against a total of 2,187,208 in the year 1889. There were 1,263,813 males and 1,166,990 females. There were 12 towns with a population in excess of 10,000.

Aged Compositor Dead.

Salem, Mass., July 30.—George W. Parsons of the Salem Evening News, probably the oldest compositor in the county, died, aged 82 years. He worked up to Wednesday noon and suffered a paralytic stroke yesterday afternoon, dying in a short time. For 64 years he had been engaged in newspaper work in nearly every capacity.

Policy Holders Protest.

Middletown, N. Y., July 30.—Policy holders in the Massachusetts Benefit Life association held an indignation meeting and protested against paying the extra assessment recently ordered. The policies here range from $1,000 to $3,000. An extra assessment has never been asked before.

Manufacturing Company Assigns.

Richmond, Ind., July 30.—The Champion Manufacturing company has assigned. The liabilities are $60,000; assets, $75,000. Isham Sedgwick also failed for $40,000; assets not known.

Weather Predictions.

Fair; slightly warmer, with westerly winds.

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT

General Order For the Great Meeting Next Month.

PRESIDENT WILL REVIEW PARADE.

Every Effort to Be Made to Have This Meeting the Most Successful In the Annals of the Organization.

Buffalo, July 30.—Commander in chief Clarkson of the G. A. R. has issued a general order from national headquarters at Omaha in regard to the arrangements for the great encampment. The commander in chief, escorted by the department commander, will leave Omaha on Saturday, Aug. 21, at 6 p. m. by special train. National headquarters at Omaha will be closed on that date and opened in Buffalo on Monday, Aug. 23.

The thirty-first national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic will assemble in Music hall, Buffalo, on Thursday, Aug. 26, at 9 a. m. As there is much business to come before the encampment its sessions will be called to order promptly at the place named.

The annual parade of the Grand Army of the Republic will take place on Wednesday, Aug. 25, and will move at 10 a. m. sharp. The route of march will be up Main street to Chippewa, west to Delaware avenue, on Delaware to North, on North past the reviewing stand at the circle.

The reviewing stand will be at the circle and will be designated by the national colors.

Comrade William McKinley, president of the United States, and other distinguished comrades will review the column with the commander in chief.

Every effort is being made by the citizens of Buffalo to make this a most interesting and successful encampment, and every indication points to an unusual attendance. Therefore it is all the more necessary that department commanders should communicate with Comrade D. H. Turner, secretary, Buffalo, at once, setting forth probable numbers from their departments that will attend, free quarters required, if any, location of headquarters and all necessary and important items, remembering that with the vast numbers arriving it will be very difficult to arrange details then unless previously advised.

Associations desiring to hold reunions, if not already arranged for, should communicate at once with D. H. Turner, secretary, Buffalo, and arrange for time and place.

Campfires will be held in several large halls each evening, at which prominent speakers will deliver addresses.

Comrade William McKinley has accepted the invitation to speak at one or more places on Tuesday evening, the 24th.

Naval Rendezvous.

New York, July 30.—The most powerful fleet of United States warships ever assembled together in this harbor is beginning to gather at the naval anchorage at Tompkinsville, N. Y. The ships that have already arrived are the flagship New York, Admiral Sicard, commanding the North Atlantic squadron; cruiser Brooklyn and the battleships Indiana and Maine. The battleships Massachusetts and Texas and the new gunboat Helena and several monitors are expected to arrive tomorrow. On Monday morning the fleet will weigh anchor and proceed to Newport, R. I., where the squadron will spend the month in sea maneuvers.

Desperate Attempt at Suicide.

New York, July 30.—William Blitz, 58 years old, who claims to be a German count, made a desperate attempt to kill himself by shooting himself four times in the head, breast and body while at his home on Brook avenue, in the annexed district. Just before shooting himself Blitz remarked to his wife: "Business is bad. I guess I'll kill myself." At the sight of the revolver the woman ran out of the room, and then her husband fired at himself. Blitz ran a barber shop in the lower part of the city. He will probably die.

Bad Wreck on the Big Four.

Cleveland, July 30.—One man probably was killed and several injured by a wreck on the Big Four railroad near Berea. A switch engine used for handling cars in the quarry yards backed on the main track and came into collision with a through freight. The engineer of the switch engine is under the wreckage and is thought to be dead. Conductor J. B. Ryan of the through freight sustained a fracture of the right leg. A trainman, whose name could not be learned, sustained a fracture of the skull and may die.

Alleged Insult to the Queen.

London, July 30.—A dispatch from Lucknow, India, says that on Saturday Maulvi Rasoul was arrested on a charge of having insulted Queen Victoria and the British government at a recent meeting of Mohammedans held to congratulate the sultan upon his victories over Greece. It is alleged that at this meeting Maulvi declared to the assembly that "but for the sultan's forbearance the old woman's ribs would have been broken years ago." The case was adjourned.

Something to Know.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

The Misses Gibbons, of East Sixth street, have returned from a visit with friends in Bayonne.

The Grandest Remedy.

Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

Reasons Why Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is the Best.

1. Because it affords almost instant relief in case of pain in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus.
2. Because it is the only remedy that never fails in the most severe cases of dysentery and diarrhoea.
3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhoea.
4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent bilious colic.
5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemical dysentery.
6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
8. Because it produces no bad results.
9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.
10. Because it has saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world.

The 25 and 50c sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park & North Aves.

Owing to an affection of the eyes William Stimpson, of West Fifth street, is obliged to wear glasses.

"Last summer one of our grandchildren was sick with a severe bowel trouble," says Mrs. E. G. Gregory, of Frederickstown, Mo. "Our doctor's remedy had failed, then we tried Chamberlains Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which gave very speedy relief." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park & North Aves.

Wilson Fulper, formerly of this city, was in town yesterday calling on old friends.

Mr. C. L. Hasbrouck, a druggist at Mendon, Mich., says all of the good testimonials that have been published by the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy could be duplicated in that town. For sale By T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park and North Aves.

Mrs. A. A. Chandor and family, of East Fifth street, leave on Monday for the Catskills to spend the summer.

You may hunt the world over and you will not find another medicine equal to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. It is pleasant, safe and reliable. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park & North Aves.

FOR A NEW FRENCH ACADEMY.

The Will of Edmond de Goncourt Provides For Its Establishment.

Paris, July 30.—The will of the late Edmond de Goncourt came before the court of probate for construction. The court will give judgment on Aug. 4.

The will appoints M. Alphonse Daudet and M. Leon Hennique as executors. The testator charges MM. Roger Marx and Delzant with the work of drawing up the catalogue of his collections and to direct, with the aid of MM. Dumont and Feral, the experts, the liquidation of the estate.

The will provides that the goods and chattels shall be disposed of by auction at six separate sales—first, a sale of books; second, Japanese curiosities; third, pictures, drawings and engravings; fourth, furniture; fifth, artistic objects; sixth, a sale of his house on the Boulevard de Montmorency at Auteuil.

After providing for the payment of a number of legacies the will deals with the De Goncourt academy, which, faithful to the promise he made to his brother, he creates with the bulk of his property.

The academy is designed to aid the young men of talent. Politicians, the nobility, poets and functionaries are to be excluded. It is to be composed of ten life members, to be renewed by the vote of the majority of the surviving members. In case of any member of the De Goncourt academy ever becoming a member of the Academie Francaise his name is to be struck off the list of the members of the former institution.

Eight of the ten members are designated in the will. They are MM. Alphonse Daudet, Huysmans, Mirbeau Rosny, Sr., Rosny, Jr., Hennique, P. Margueritte and G. Geffroy. Each of the ten members of the De Goncourt academy is to receive a life annuity of 6,000 francs per annum out of the interest produced by the capital to be realized by the liquidation of the estate.

The will provides also for an annual prize of 5,000 francs to be awarded by the academicians to the author who they consider has during the previous 12 months produced the best novel or work on history, æsthetics, erudition or the best book of tales. The testator expresses the hope that this will be called the Prix de Goncourt.

AFTER THE LYNCHERS.

Rewards Offered For the Apprehension of Dr. Ryder's Slayers.

Atlanta, July 30.—After having given a secret hearing to two of the brothers of Dr. W. L. Ryder, the white man lynched in Talbot county last week Governor Atkinson offered the following rewards:

"Five hundred dollars for the arrest and conviction of the first two members of the mob that lynched Ryder, $100 for each subsequent arrest and conviction and $250 for the arrest and conviction of any person or persons hindering or interfering with the bringing of the lynchers to justice."

The governor announces that he has in his possession the names of several of the lynching mob, which numbered only 15, with positive proof against three of them. He expresses his determination to exert the full power of his office to punish the guilty parties.

THE KLONDIKE FEVER

A Bicycle Corps to Be Formed to Reach the Fields.

THE NAVY DEPARTMENT AFFECTED.

Men Are Leaving the Service In Order to Reach the Diggings—A Warning From the Widow of Lieutenant Schwatka.

New York, July 30.—One of the most novel of the many schemes to obtain a share of the wealth of the Klondike region has been developed by a syndicate of four wealthy New Yorkers, who are planning to establish trading posts and stores in the mining camps and also to purchase all promising claims on the market. They will transport their men and supplies to the goldfields on a bicycle specially designed for the purpose.

The members of the syndicate prefer that their names shall not be mentioned at present. They have no stock to sell and will furnish all the money required themselves. Their attorney is Henry F. Granger of 45 Broadway.

As Mr. Granger outlined the plan, the enterprise will be undertaken on an extensive scale. He will meet a mining expert in Seattle and will dispatch him at once to the goldfields well supplied with money to buy up all the promising claims in the market. The attorney will also talk with returning miners and gather all the information obtainable. If it is possible to buy or charter freight steamers on the Pacific coast at anything like their true value, he will invest in two or three. If the transportation companies have got control of all available vessels, however, they will be bought here on his return and dispatched at once around the Horn.

Gold Craze Affects the Navy.

Washington, July 30.—The navy department has felt the evil effects of the gold craze. The firm of Moran Bros., located in Seattle, is building the torpedo boat Rowan and had made good progress until the Alaskan exodus set in. Now they have informed the navy department that so many of their workmen have dropped their work to go to Alaska that they are obliged to appeal to the navy department for an extension of time in which to complete the boat. The land office is receiving many applications for copies of the public land laws by persons who profess their intention of going to Alaska. The office has been obliged to notify the applicants that the land laws have not yet been extended to Alaska, though the mineral laws apply.

Schwatka's Widow Warns Explorers.

Benton Harbor, Mich, July 30.—The widow of Lieutenant Schwatka, the arctic explorer, being interviewed here concerning the Klondike gold regions, which country she has repeatedly visited with her husband, declared that the governments should stop the tide of immigrants pouring into the goldfields in Alaska. She says that the mountain passes are strewn with the skeletons of unfortunate miners who perished from either cold, heat, malaria or starvation while trying to reach the golden region.

Spanish Torture of Anarchists.

Liverpool, July 30.—A band of anarchists, who had been exiled from Spain, have arrived here on their way to London. Several of the members of the party were interviewed and related their experiences in Spanish prisons. They said they had been fed upon salt fish and had been deprived of water for eight days at a time. The prison authorities promised to give them water if they would make confessions. Owing to this treatment, one of their number went mad and was shot down in his cell. Others were branded with hot irons, had their nails pulled out and were tortured in other ways.

Temporary Shut Down.

Fall River, Mass., July 30.—It has been announced that the Chace and Merchants' cotton mills will shut down for one week next Saturday. Several other corporations will close. The stock market reports show a material strengthening, one agent having declined 2½ cents for an offer of 10,000 pieces. While no concerted action is likely it is probable that a large proportion of the machinery will be idle during a part of August unless the advance in the selling price of goods is considerable.

President Appoints Postmasters.

Washington, July 30.—The president has appointed the following postmasters: Isaac A. Macurd at Wiscassett, Me.; Charles W. Farrow at Snowhill, Md.; Harry S. Tripp at Spencer, Mass.; William I. Marble at Webster, Mass.; William O. Sides at Portsmouth, N. H.; John W. Cass at Woonsocket, R. I.; James W. Holt at Grafton, W. Va., and William A. Chapline at Shepherdstown, W. Va. Some of these are reappointments due to failure of confirmation.

Prominent Poughkeepsie Man Dead.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 30.—David Warner, ex-sheriff of Dutchess county, died at his home at Mabbitsville, aged 81 years. Mr. Warner was prominent among the leaders of the Democratic party, being one of the oldest voters. He also stood high in Masonry. He was a harness maker by trade and made a comfortable fortune in that business.

Passed Worthless Checks.

Kingston, N. Y., July 30.—Thomas Delaney, a traveling hat salesman, claiming to represent the Delaney & Hawley Hat Co. of Bridgeport, Conn., who had been plying his trade here some days, has left town suddenly, leaving a worthless check in judgment for clothes bought of a down town dealer, who also gave him cash in change.

Russian Minister to Siam.

St. Petersburg, July 30.—The announcement has been made that M. Olorowski, consul general of Russia at New York, has been designated for the new post of envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Siam.

Benham Found Guilty.

Batavia, N. Y., July 30.—Howard C. Benham has been found guilty of murder in the first degree for killing his wife with prussic acid. The jurors returned a verdict after they had been deliberating for 20 hours.

PAY FOR TROLLEY PRIVILEGES.

Newark gets about $75,000 annually from the trolley companies, in addition to the taxes. Yet the Newark trolley cars are run to Elizabeth and through Elizabeth, and take great sums of money out of Elizabeth, but pay not a single dollar to the city except in the way of taxes.

The licenses under which some of the trolley-cars run in this city are signed by the Mayor of Newark, but not by the Mayor of Elizabeth, yet Elizabeth is one of the best-paying sections of the whole Consolidated Traction Company's system. Now there is no doubt we want trolleys. We wanted them badly enough when they first proposed to come here, so badly, indeed, that we gave them an extremely valuable franchise for nothing but the taxes, while other cities, quite as much in need of them compelled them to pay roundly for their franchises.

Just remember all this when you are thinking about giving Westfield avenue to the trolley company. Just remember that you together with all the rest of the taxpayers of Union county, will have to pay $100,000 for that pavement, whether you give it away or not. The bonds are out, and the money to pay them when they mature comes out of the taxpayers. Now you want trolleys; everpbody wants trolleys. They are a good thing, a great convenience and all that. But remember that no trolley company is in business for its health; it's in business for money, and every one of them pays well sooner or later. You need not pay them to make money; they'll do it voluntarily. They will pay for the privilege of making money, and pay well if they can't get out of it for nothing. There's no need of giving away Westfield avenue. It would be folly to do so. What! pay for the grading and paving, then pay a company for destroying it, and finally pay for riding over the ruined pavement in a trolley car! Isn't that paying a little too much? Isn't the paying too one sided?

Don't yield one inch of Westfield avenue without a full and fair equivalent, and don't forget the taxes and emoluments due the city and county. —Elizabeth Journal.

LESSON TO TOWN CONSTABLE.

John Schindler Must Pay $150 for His Assault on a Prisoner.

Town Constable John Schindler, of Cranford, three months ago arrested Henry Dietzel, charged with disturbing the peace. After the prisoner had been punished he had the constable arrested, charged with assult. At the trial Schindler's testimony was contradicted by five witnesses, who testified that undue violence was used in making the arrest and the constable was fined $25.

An appeal was taken and now the judgement has been affirmed, which, with added costs, amounts to $150. Schindler applied to the Town Committee, which, although recognizing that he was in the performance of his duty, and satisfied that there had not been so much violence used as was claimed, refuses to help the constable, who must either pay or go to jail in default.

Hoboes Escape Arrest.

A number of Westfield citizens, headed by Justice of the Peace Collins and Constable Pickell raided the notorius red barn at Ripley's Sprouts, near Garwood, about 11 o'clock last night. It was reported that a number of tramps were making a rendezvous of the barn. When the party reached the place, however, the hoboes had fled.

THEATRICAL.

Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, New York, had one of the biggest midsummer week's in its history and now offers the Five American Barrisons, with a merry little twinkle in each eye, but it is promised that no frolicksome sister shall exceed the bonds of decorum. These young ladies are pretty and vivacious and look as innocent and unworldly as Raphael's angels. And perhaps they may be—who shall say? Ullie A. Kerstrom, aweary of starring, turns her fancy lightly to wards vaudeville and promises a new monologue full of character snapshots. Oscar Eagle and Esther Lyons are clever young players of repute, whose rollicking sketch, "A Brilliant Idea," hinges upon the all pervading bicycle fad. Mr. Eagle is the recently elected president of the Gallia, O., cycle club, but that is, perhaps, irrevelent. Master John Quigley, the newsboy tenor, who has been delighting Boston for a year, comes to town to celebrate his emancipation from Gerry Society interference, for he is now just sweet sixteen.

AFTER THE COMMUNION SET.

Burglars Foiled a Third Time by Cautious Cranford Vestrymen.

For the fourth time this year Trinity Episcopal Church, Cranford, has been broken into by burglars, who have in every instance failed to obtain any booty. Their quest is supposed to be the handsome communion set, which caution has taught the vestrymen not to leave unprotected in the building, as on a former visit the thieves ransacked the closet in the vestry room, throwing everything into confusion.

The bottles containing the sacramental wine were empty, which must have annoyed the burglars, whose predecessors found and made away with a large supply. In spite the burglars this time broke the bottles.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Harry Todd, of Newark, is visiting friends in the borough.

Harry Gorrill, of Plainfield, was a visitor in the borough yesterday.

A routine meeting of the Borough Fire Department was held last evening.

Charles Johnson, of the borough, is confined to his home with chills and fever.

Miss Mowinkle, of Plainfield, was among the visitors in the borough yesterday.

"Dory" Kurzhals, of Plainfield, was in the borough on important business yesterday.

E. S. Larmouth, of Camden, is visiting at the home of Isaac Stites, of the borough.

A regular meeting of the Borough Board of Education will be held next Monday evening.

Mrs. J. W. Griggs, of Newark, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Staats, of the borough.

Elmer Henry, of Joliet, Ill., is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Swackhamer, of the borough.

Miss Maude VanDyke, of Plainfield, who has been visiting relatives in the borough, has returned home.

The high water at Greenbrook has receded very much since yesterday and there is now no danger of any trouble.

Rev. A. I. Martine has returned home and left yesterday to spend the balance of the week at Flemington. He will return tomorrow.

At the regular meeting of the Borough Council next Monday evening some very important measures will probably be introduced.

An interesting meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held yesterday afternoon when several helpful papers were read by members of the local union.

Mrs. J. Sherman Cooley and children have returned to their home at Flemington after spending several days with Mrs. Emily Apgar, of the borough.

On Sunday evening, August 8th, Rev. Charles Mead, of Rutherford, Essex county, will preach at the M. E. church in place of his father, who is pastor of the church.

W. H. Cole has lately come into possession of a number of very fine kittens that are attracting the attention of Mr. Cole's friends. The felines are most peculiarly marked.

The boilers for the Plainfield Sanitary Company to be used at their crematory arrived at Dunellen yesterday and were transferred to the plant on DeKalb avenue by Frank Hand.

Postmaster Coriell, recently appointed, has secured his bondsmen and has sent his papers on to Washington for acceptance. He will probably receive his commission very soon.

P. C. Staats has about secured the contract for superintending the erection of a large number of fancy fences in upper New York State. It will require three months to complete the work.

P. B. Matthews, of North Plainfield, passed through the borough yesterday on his wheel. Mr. Matthews is endeavoring to make a record for the greatest number of miles in the Metropolitan district.

Miss Lillian Staats, who has been the efficient clerk at the postoffice, has been engaged to remain at the office under the service of the new postmaster. She was sworn in yesterday and her papers have been forwarded to Washington. She will act as an assistant to the newly-appointed postmaster.

SCOTCH PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

J. Patterson, of Morris Plains, is visiting old friends in this place.

Several tons of crushed stone were washed away at John Cook's stone crusher during the freshet of Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. James Callam have returned to their home on Long Island after a four months' sojourn at "The Homestead."

The Board of Trustees of the Scotch Plains Baptist church held a meeting Wednesday evening and completed arrangements for the coming anniversary.

The high water in Green brook on Wednesday night washed away part of the foundation of Seeley & Company's paper mill near Scotch Plains, and the floor of the building caved in.

The case of William C. Stanbery, administrator of the estate of James A. Baker, against Eve M. Baker, for the conversion of a quantity of sewer pipe, is set for trial in Justice Moffett's court in Plainfield this afternoon.

William Kinney, a lineman employed by the Western Union Telegraph Company, after clearing away some branches of trees from telegraph wires in the town Wednesday, attempted to chop them into small lengths, when the axe slipped and inflicted an ugly cut upon his right foot. He was taken to Lee's hotel and Dr. Harrison, of Westfield, was summoned and stitched up the wound. Kinney is unable to walk, and will probably be disabled for a week or two.

During the heavy electrical storm which occurred on Wednesday afternoon about 5 o'clock, a horse belonging to Liveryman Frank Allen was struck by lightning at the Fanwood railroad station. The horse was standing near the station when a blinding flash of lightning came and the horse dropped to the ground and lay motionless for several minutes as if stunned. The harness was removed and the animal finally revived and has since seemed none the worse for its shock.

The Westfield Club baseball team will play the Cranford team on the North Broad street grounds tomorrow afternoon. The game will be called at 4 o'clock.

The southern barbecue at the New York Avenue Baptist church last night was largely attended notwithstanding the unfavorable weather, and a neat sum was realized for the church treasury.

Herman Frowery, a twelve-year-old boy, slipped while fishing at Clark's Lake yesterday morning, and fell headlong into the water. He scrambled out with no other injury than a severe ducking.

The new building at the Westfield fresh air camp will be dedicated Sunday, August 8th, with appropriate services, in which all the young people's societies who have aided the work at the camp will be invited to participate.

PASSING COMMENT.

A well-known local official had quite an experience in Wednesday night's flood. He wandered over the brook to see if there was any trouble and strolled out Somerset street. When he came to return, he found the water deeper than he thought. He staggered on and stepped in a gully that the water had made in the gravel sidewalk. He fell, but finally managed to get his feet and after several similar experiences reached a place of safety, though several times he thought that he would have to give up, but his perseverance was rewarded.

It is an old story that the farmer will lock the barndoor after the horse is stolen, and the case is the same with the wheelmen who take steps to protect their wheels after they have been stolen. There are several companies that insure wheels and provide the owner with another when their's is stolen. If the stolen wheel is never returned, the wheel is kept. Another method is for the owner to have his name painted on the cross-bar of the wheel. It is such an easy method of identifying the missing property that the thief is rather careful about taking a wheel with the name on it. Then the L. A. W. offers a reward of $25 to the one securing the return of a member's wheel.

OLD HARRIS MILLS.

A Revolutionary Landmark—Boys Come Near Drowning.

The old Harris Mill, built shortly after the Revolution, collapsed last evening. Its foundations were undermined by the storm. It was a large structure, and some years ago was used to grind up and to store large quantities of cocoa shells with which to adulterate coffee. Lately it has been unoccupied.

Charles Clarkson and Harry Flint, while fishing for drifting lumber along the bank of the Elizabeth river, nearly perished last evening. They lost their balance and tumbled into the stream, which was running very swiftly. They were unable to make headway against the current, which was sweeping them away to the Kills. Two men went to their rescue in a boat, and after a hard pull saved them.

The Clarkson boy became unconscious after being taken out of the water, but soon revived. Young Flint was exhausted.

Wonderful Elmore Sisters.

These two little artists—Jennie and Mamie—have been with J. R. Waite's eastern company for the past three seasons and are the pets of the public. Not only do thousands crowd the theatre to see them work, but crowds flock to the stage door and follow them on the street. The past summer was spent by them in New York city under finished tutors, and while their work before was artistic in the extreme, they present this season an entire new line of up-to-date novelties, culled from the brightest vaudeville acts of the city, including the famous Loie Fuller dances. A new comedy, "Daly's Daughters," has also been written for them by Eunice Fitch.

HEAVIEST JULY RAINFALL

Each Acre of Ground This Month Received 1,233 Tons of Water.

The records at the office of the New Jersey State Weather Service were overhauled yesterday morning by Director E. W. McGann and some interesting statistics secured. The present storm beat all records for July. The heaviest total rainfall previously recorded for July was in 1863, when 10 59 inches fell. From July 11th to July 28th of the present year, 12 33 inches fell, a total of 1,233 tons of water to the acre. July, 1897, comes near beating every record for every month. The heaviest recorded rainfall for any month is in September, 1882, when 15.52 inches fell. The next heaviest rainfall in July after July, 1863, was in July, 1897, when 10 45 inches fell.

SALE NO. 2.

Tuesday we commence the greatest sale of table linen, towels, napkins, handkerchiefs and wash goods that this town of yours and ours ever saw. Great because your dollar will do the work of two; great because the goods advertised were bought at half their value; some wet, but all as good as the day they were made.

The following lots are all from the steamer "City of Rome" and were slightly damaged by water during a fire on board and were sold by order of the fire underwriters—

On with the Story.

Strong Linen Logic.

You know what the new tariff will do with linens, advance them from 25 to 40 per cent; these lots fresh from the great Scotch and Irish makers, cold as a stone. Flax! yes, every thread of them, not a half-cotton substitute; good time to buy; good place to buy them here.

THE WOMEN OF CUBA.

NOTED FOR THEIR BEAUTY OF FACE AND GRACEFUL FIGURES.

They are Warm Hearted and Affectionate, Displaying Much Devotion to Their Families—Not So Many Marrieges of Convenience in Cuba as in France.

Cuban women are noted for their beauty, somewhat resembling the Oriental type, with dark, languishing eyes, colorless complexions, small mouths, graceful, rounded forms, and exquisitely shaped hands and feet. Their Cinderella-like feet are probably due to the fact that Cuban women are not fond of exercise, although in the country they saunter around the grounds or take a brisk canter on horseback before breakfast. In town they arise early, as people usually do in the tropics, before the dew is off the grass, and take a turn in the garden or walk through the park.

When they go shopping they drive to the stores, but seldom alight from their carriages. Obsequious clerks hasten to bring out goods for their inspection, while they make their selection, glancing indifferently with their big black eyes at the passers-by, meanwhile, who pass close to their equipages, owing to the narrow sidewalks and thoroughfares. Sometimes ladies prefer to have samples sent to their residences, and do their shopping at home with still greater ease. In the tropics labor is simplified as much as possible, and time is not of much account. All social as well as domestic duties are carried out leisurely, and the rush and hurry of the metropolis are unknown.

The popular idea is that Cuban women are indolent, but such is not the case, although the torrid zone does impart a languid grace to every motion, while the bustling activity of Northern women is lacking. They find plenty to do at home in superintending their servants, attending to household duties, and embroidering or doing fine needle work, for Cuban women are skilled in the use of the needle, and of late years in the brush also, Cuba having produced many celebrated artists.

Flores de Mayo, Flowers of May, as the May festival to the Virgin is called, brings out many pretty maidens. Clad in white, wearing long white veils over their dark tresses, they repair to the evening service to carry flowers, going up to the altar two by two, and extending their floral offerings, which are received and placed on the altar by the acolytes.

Cuban girls are carefully shielded from the world, the prevailing customs in regard to chaperonage being similar to those of the French, as well as other customs. But a closer intercourse with the United States through education and travel has modified many of their customs, especially since so many Cubans have made our country their home by adoption.

Fewer marriages of convenience are made in Cuba than in France. Cuban women's hearts sway their heads. They are warm-hearted, passionate, and affectionate, while their affections center in their homes. As a rule they are true and faithful in family relations, and are devoted to their husbands and children. The only flaw, perhaps, is sometimes an overweening fondness for their offspring, which tends to harmful indulgence—harmful because excessive—for self-control should be taught a child, and wholesome discipline maintained.

The distinctive charms of Cuban maidens are their soft, gentle, and captivating ways, and languid grace. They are not as lively and independent as American girls, while their training and conventional life tend to render them more timid and dependent.—Harper's Bazar.

Quick Retort.

A young aide-de-camp who at a party in Dublin Castle once approached Archbishop Whately and asked: "Does your grace know what is the difference between an ass and an Archbishop?" "No," was the grave answer. Then the youth went on, "An ass has a cross on his back, but an Archbishop has a cross on his breast." "Very good," said the Archbishop; "now, will you tell me what is the difference between yourself and an ass?" "I don't know," said the youth. "Neither do I," said the Archbishop, and walked away.

An Unconquerable Prejudice.

"Dis is a fine piece," remarked Plodding Pete, who had been regaling himself with some literature which he had picked up on the way.

"What's it about?" asked Meandering Mike.

"About de beauties of nature. Come to t'ink of it, some o' dem is fine. Don't ye kind of enjoy lookin' over at evening and seein' de mountain bathed in light?"

"No," replied Meandering Mike. "Me nature's too sympathetic. I feel sorry for 'em."—Washington Star.

She Would be Disappointed.

Mrs. Benham—I am going to write to mother to-night, and I am just going to tell her all I know.

Benham—That will be too bad; she will be expecting a good long letter.—New York Journal.

He Kept His Word.

"Her husband said when she married him, his love would be unremitting."

"Did he keep his word?"

"Yes, he has never given her a cent."

CATCHING THE TARPON.

Its a Battle Royal with this Gamely and Bad Tempered Fish.

The tarpon is a "top-feeder"—that is, he seeks his food near the surface. Those who know him best fish for him with live mullet, which is not allowed to sink more than two feet below the waves, being sustained by a large "float" or cork. The inner portion of his mouth is bone and no hook will take secure hold upon it. This being so, it is necessary to allow him partially to swallow the bait, which he will do by the time that he has carried the float along the water for a space of thirty feet. The tarpon reel holds 600 feet of line. Not infrequently when he feels the hook the fish will strike the trail for blue water with a seemingly irresistible rush, and keep going. What happens when his 150 pounds of express speed are pitted against the strength of a line that is run out needs not to be told. He simply sails on out to sea, whipping behind him 200 yards of silk, and whether he lives or whether he dies its former owner knows not. He can only go back to port and surround many juleps and tell vain tales of the size of the wonder that got away.

But if that splendid rush is deflected, if the fish dives, if the thumb of an old hand be upon the reel, if the man to whom the hand is attached is cool of head and knows enough to give his adversary the butt, a battle royal is on. For verily the combat between a 150-pound man, sound of wind and science, and a 150-pound tarpon, possessed of the temper of the devil, is a grapple of the gods. The crazed fish time and again leaps three, four, five feet from the water and shakes his head like a dog in his effort to dislodge the hook. A momentary slack of the line is fatal, as with the rapidity of lightning the sharp teeth close upon the strands above the snell and they are severed as if with a knife.

But when the terrific struggles have grown fainter, when the steady, deadly strain of the springing rod has sapped the strength of the gallant foeman, when his little, powerful body is brought near to the boat's edge, when th cruel gaff has smitten the life from it and its beautiful length lies along the deck, the conqueror feels half jubilant, half remorseful, wholly respectful of the giant whom his prowess has laid low, and confoundly weary and dry. He looks at the sun, which seems surprisingly low in the heavens; he looks at his watch and refuses to believe that two hours have passed in that desperate wrestle. But, unless he be in thorough training and past master of his art, a swollen, aching wrist will tell him for days afterwards that in the silver king of the Southern seas he was near to meeting his match.—Chicago Times-Herald.

WHEN TAPE WAS HAND MADE.

Women of Colonial Times Had to Spin Thread and Weave Fabrics.

Among the many household industries of colonial housewives, which included spinning, dyeing, weaving and candle, soap, pen, ink, wine, glove, shoe and lace manufacture, was the making of tape, though this was considered of minor importance. The preparation for weaving tape on the small hand loom was the same as for making yards of linen cloth on the great looms that stood in the weaving-room attached to the kitchens of colonial farmhouses.

The flax when harvested was rippled on the field, the rippler being a large comb fastened on a plank. The flax was beaten on the comb to remove the capsules containing the seed. Then it was rotted to make the fibre soft and flexible. This was generally accomplished by laying it beneath the waters of the meadow brook or pond.

The next and last process before it was ready for the spinning-wheel was hackling, to straighten the flax, free it from tangles and bring it to the requisite fineness. This was done by a very primitive machine called a hatchel, an immense comb, whose long iron teeth were set perpendicularly in a board.

The operation of hackling required much skill, and this part of the long preparation was particularly women's work, as it needed delicacy of touch. After the flax was hackled it was carefully sorted, according to degrees of fineness. This process was called spreading and drawing. Then it was ready to be wrapped, in its soft, fluffy fineness, about the spindle.

The spinner seated herself at the machine, and soon the "music of the wheel" and the deft fingers of the colonial housewife brought the fibre into long, even thread, ready for the small loom and shuttle, to be converted into tape.—New York Tribune.

One on Governor Atkinson.

One of the best stories yet heard on Governor Atkinson was told by himself to a party of admirers who were chatting with him in the parlor of the hotel at Cochran on his return from his recent visit to the Chautauqua at Hawkinsville. The story is such a good one that it is worth repeating.

"It was during my recent inspection of the convict camps," said the Governor. "Among other places I visited were the coal mines, and in order to make a thorough inspection it was necessary to go down into the mines and see the convicts at work. Two guards accompanied me down into the mines. They showed me everything of interest, and finally took me to where the convicts were at work. As we approached them one of the convicts rushed over to me crying: 'Good Lord, Bill Atkinson as sure as I live! I never expected to see you here. What on earth, Bill, did they convict you of doing?' I readily recognized the man as one whom I had known since my boyhood."—Jackson, Ga., Argus.

THE GIRL WHO MARRIED A VASE.

In Order to Remain True to Her Lover She Observed an Old Chinese Custom.

From far Cathay comes the romantic story of the devotion of a fair Celestial to the memory of her affianced, whom death suddenly claimed upon the eve of the nuptials, which were to have been solemnized with all the lavish splendor with which Chinese custom invests marriages among the nobility.

The bereaved girl, deprived by cruel fate, of her heart's choice, decided to live in perpetual widowhood, and to assure fidelity to the memory of her mausolus, she went through the ceremony of marriage to the Red Vase, her relatives and those of her betrothed applauding her sacrifice and celebrating the event with the three days of festivities that would have marked the originally intended ceremony.

The scene of this strange marital function was Leuchow, and the bride, a Miss Hsu, a daughter of one of the wealthiest noblemen of the province, a general in the army and the proud wearer of the peacock feather, the dragon tooth, and other unique insignia bestowed only upon those who have done the state marked service.

The young man who was to have wedded this fair daughter of the moon was the son of the Vice-Chancellor of the Pekin Imperial Academy, and former Optimate of the Hanlin Academy, a famous educational institution, the pupils of which are recruited from the nobility only.

His death occurred suddenly three days before the date set for the marriage. The bride to be was inconsolable. She wrapped her head in coarse cloth, and retired to a secluded apartment. For three days she mourned, refusing all food. Then she announced her intention to enter a state of widowhood. It was pointed out to her that, under the customs of her order, at the expiration of a year a qualified suitor of her rank might present himself with a suitable dowry, and under the imperial sanction demand her hand. It was not probable that so fair a creature would be permitted to remain in the seclusion of a mythical widowhood, for she was not only the prospective heir to great wealth, but her eyes slanted at an angle of forty-five degrees, her feet were so small that she had never walked a step in her whole life, and the nobility of her family entitled her to dress her hair in sixteen styles—the Empress only having the right to fifty-four distinct coiffures.

But the maiden was in despair, and vowed she would die rather than become the wife of any living man. In this dilemma, a wise teacher of the Confucian philosophy was consulted, and he recalled the ancient ceremony of the marriage to the flower vase. It can only be solemnized, however, with the imperial sanction. This the great wealth of the father of Hsu obtained, and the wedding took place.

The vase is of great value and antiquity and none like it in delicacy of ornamentation has ever been permitted to leave the Flowery Kingdom. It is about five feet high and made of a porcelain of a deep peach-blow tint, inlaid with gold, silver, spun glass and mother-of-pearl in delicate and superb tracery. One skilled artist worked fifteen years in its construction.

In the wedding procession it was carried under a silken canopy on a palanquin borne by youth of noble birth. The fair bride followed in a palanquin guarded by twelve virgins, and twelve matrons.

A military guard and a civic procession, made up the cortege. Many bushels of the small coin called "cash," 800 of which equal an American dollar, were thrown to the populace. A banquet was served to the common people in the public square. The theatres were thrown open free to the public. Kites were flown and firecrackers discharged for three days.

The bride was escorted to the home of the parents of her betrothed. The vase is set up in her boudoir. She will remain all her life in the palace of her father-in-law, the Vice-Chancellor.—New York Journal.

A Novel Communication.

An Arkansas lawyer, who was a native of North Carolina, not long ago wanted to inform a juror, also a native of North Carolina, that they both hailed from the same state. So he dropped some chewing gum, stepped upon it, and pretended that his heel had stuck to the floor. This gave him an opportunity to say that he was a "tar heel" and that the warmth of the room had made the tar run. The verdict proved that the tar heels stuck together.—New York Tribune.

Landseer Ambidextrous.

Landseer was once present at a party when the conversation turned upon feats of dexterity, and a lady exclaimed: "Well, there is one thing nobody has ever done, and that is to draw two things at once!" "Oh, yes, I think I can do that," returned Landseer; and, with a pencil in each hand, he drew rapidly and simultaneously the profile of a stag's head, with all its antlers complete, and the perfect profile of a horse's head. Both drawings were full of energy.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Things Women Say.

"What very engaging manners he has."

"Yes; more engaging than marrying, they say."—Pick-Me-Up.

Polite Visitor—Why, the baby looks just like its father.

Young father (aside to servant)—Mary, is there any laudanum in the house? I do not wish to live any longer.—Tid-Bits.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings make them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the materia, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

PERHAPS THIS MAY HELP YOU.

"My food does me no good," you say. Then it does you harm. There is no halting place between these extremes. Digested food alone gives health and strength. Undigested food sours, or ferments, in the stomach and becomes a poison to the whole body. It causes headache, heart palpitation, liver and kidney trouble, distress after eating, pains in the chest and sides, and the tired, languid, heavy feeling we hear so much about. When the digestion goes wrong every function of the body goes wrong. Yes, and the mind, too. Men fail in business and die poor for no other reason than this—they are weakened, dulled and stupefied by dyspepsia. The lives of a host of women are blighted in the same way. You may be one of this miserable multitude. The writer of these lines was one of your number a short time ago. I tried dozens of things to get cured; just as you have done, no doubt. The thing which at last succeeded with me may succeed with you. It is a discovery of those wise and good people—the Shakers, of Mt. Lebbanon, N. Y.—called the Shaker Digestive Cordial. It is not a purgative, which at best gives only transient relief. It is in itself a digested food and also a corrector of the digestive function. You can eat and digest your food while taking this cordial. It helps you at once and soon makes the stomach vigorous and healthy. It is not like any other so-called dyspepsia cures. It is prepared by the Shakers principally from herbs cultivated by them. They do not ask us to spend a dollar for a bottle while we are in the dark as to its virtues. They take the risk themselves. Almost any druggist will sell you a trial bottle for ten cents, so that you can see whether it is what they say—and adapted to your case. And isn't the mere chance of a cure worth that much?

TRIED TO WRECK A TRAIN.

The Attempt Frustrated by a Watchful Night Operator.

Walton, N. Y., July 30.—The fact has just come to light that on Tuesday night tramps attempted to wreck the Ontario and Wesern Chicago express No. 5 near here. No. 5 is due at Walton at 11:33 p. m. and at Northfield at 11:48. Northfield is a lonely place at night, no trains stopping there after dark. Night Operator W. J. Haley had occasion to walk around the depot about 11:35, when he chanced to overhear a conversation between two tramps who were not aware of his presence. From the talk he learned that the tramps had placed a number of heavy ties on the track somewhere between the station and Walton.

Without waiting to hear more he ran to the instrument, called Walton and told the operator to hold No. 5. But word was immediately ticked back that the train had gone. Haley realized that he must do some tall sprinting if he wished to save the lives of those on board of the approaching train. Seizing a light from a nearby switch, he started down the track toward Walton. He found the ties just before reaching a tunnel. As he passed the obstruction the approaching train could be plainly heard roaring through the tunnel. He ran on and succeeded in stopping the train within a few feet of the ties. The tramps have not been captured.

A MYSTERIOUS MISSIVE.

A Pathetic Letter Asking For Help Found In a Case of Tobacco.

Philadelphia, July 30.—While unpacking a case of Havana leaf tobacco an employee of the firm of Vetterlein Bros. discovered the following letter upon a single sheet of note paper:

"Havana, April 4, 1896.—To whom it may concern: There is in Morro castle three American men that were captured in Rio del Pinar. They are not allowed to communicate to any one to apply for relief from the United States government. I take this means to notify persons in the United States for them. They have papers for honorable discharge from the army in 1865. They give their homes as Germantown, Philadelphia. The men were on a tour of Cook's excursion.

"ANNIO LUCI."

The cargo of tobacco, of which the message laden case was a part, arrived at this port on the steamer Seneca from Havana on April 10, 1896. It lay in the bonded warehouse until the latter part of March last, when the beginning of the tariff excitement caused a number of tobacco men to take out goods consigned to them.

Since that time the case had been standing in Vetterlein's store unopened. The letter was forwarded to the state department at Washington.

OCEAN RECORD BEATEN.

The Canada Beats All Previous Time Between Queenstown and Boston.

Boston, July 30.—The record between Queenstown and Boston, held by the Cunard steamer Servia, which covered the distance in 6 days and 18 hours last year, was beaten by the performance of the Dominion line steamer Canada, Captain McAuley, which arrived at her dock in Charlestown at 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning after making the run from Daunts rock, Queenstown harbor, to Boston in 6 days 15 hours and 31 minutes.

A large force of customs inspectors were awaiting the Canada's arrival in order to examine the passengers' personal effects, with a view of levying duties under the new tariff. While the passengers manifested considerable surprise they assisted the inspectors in every way, and the work of examination progressed without a hitch, and there were only a few cases where clothing bought on the other side was found to exceed in value $100. Thus the work of the inspectors was made easy.

FIVE MEN MISSING.

Started Out Sailing on Sunday and Not Since Heard From.

Brooklyn, July 30.—There is general alarm in the suburb of Canarsie as to the fate of a catboat having five men aboard which set out from Pizer's hotel, on Old Mill creek, Sunday morning last for a day's fishing off Romer shoals and has not since been heard from. The catboat was the Filly, belonging to the Norfolk Fishing club, whose headquarters are on Norfolk street, New York city.

Besides the captain, Charles Vogelman of 184 Norfolk street, New York, there were four other men in the fishing party. The names of those were Adolph Vogelman, brother of the captain; Albert Bolls, 181 Norfolk street; Frederick Harn, 182 Ludlow street, and a man known as Ed, whose address is not known.

Captain Vogelman, as the boat was about to leave Canarsie, said they wanted to sail to Jersey to meet a tugboat and have it tow them down to Romer shoals.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

The Johns Hopkins University Decided Not to Be a Preferred Creditor.

Baltimore, July 30.—Judges Goff and Morris, in the United States circuit court, have handed down a decision in which it was decided that the Johns Hopkins university and other holders of $3,000,000 of first preferred 6 per cent stock of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad were not preferred creditors, as was contended, and that they are in the same category as the other stockholders.

The decision of the court, if it is upheld in the higher tribunals, where, it is understood, it will ultimately go for decision, will seriously affect the finances of the Johns Hopkins university and cause material change, for a time at least, in the projected plans of that institution.

The trustees of the university hold nearly $1,000,000 of the preferred stock, from which it drew an annual income of more than $50,000.

New Professor For Hobart College.

Geneva, N. Y., July 30.—The announcement is made of the appointment of Stanley Simonds, Ph. D., as assistant professor of Greek and Latin in Hobart college. Professor Simonds graduated from Harvard college, pursued a four year course at Johns Hopkins university and spent several years abroad at Oxford and the University of Bonn. It is understood that another addition to the Hobart faculty will soon be made public.

END OF A NOTED TRIAL

Ferdinand of Bulgaria's Aid-de-Camp Convicted of Murder.

BRUTAL KILLING OF A YOUNG WOMAN

An Appointment Was Made With the Girl, Who Was Chloroformed, Then Strangled and Her Body, Weighted With Stones, Sunk In the River.

Philippopolis, Bulgaria, July 30.—One of the most dramatic trials ever held in a court of law in Europe has just been concluded here. It was the trial of Captain Boitscheff, formerly aid-de-camp to Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria, and his accomplices for killing a girl named Anna Szimon. The girl, who was exceptionally handsome, was a public singer. She went from Budapest in 1894 to Sofia, where she met Deascho Boitscheff. He was a fine looking man, a captain of the guards and aid-de-camp to Prince Ferdinand, and the girl was at once infatuated with him.

Burdened with debts, Boitscheff engaged himself to marry a wealthy heiress and repudiated his promise to marry Anna Szimon, whom he sent to Budapest with orders not to return to Sofia. She returned, however, and in her efforts to see Boitscheff caused a scandal within the environments of the palace of the Princess of Bulgaria.

Boitscheff became enraged at this and determined to get rid of the girl by murdering her. He accordingly wrote to his victim, summoning her to meet him in Philippopolis, at the same time protesting his love for her. Having completed his plans to lure the girl to her death, he called to his aid M. Novelic, prefect of police, and a gendarme of the name of Wassalieff.

Kidnaped and Killed the Girl.

A tryst was appointed at the Maritza bridge, to which place the murderers drove in a carriage. Three men, Novelic, Wassalieff and another, seized the girl and stupefied her with chloroform in the carriage. Boitscheff then mounted the box of the vehicle and drove a short distance, when, with the assistance of Novelic, he dragged the insensible girl out of the carriage. Boitscheff placed the girl on the ground and strangled her to death, after which he weighted the body with stones and cast it into the river.

The friends of the girl became suspicious at her failure to return and raised an alarm. Novelic and Wassalieff were soon afterward arrested, and from their statements Boitscheff and a number of others were accused of murder, and the whole story was unfolded in court.

Boitscheff's wife was present at the trial elegantly dressed. Boitscheff himself was dressed in the latest fashion and wore a number of medals and insignia of orders. He was gay and witty and frequently indulged in laughter. He denied all knowledge of the girl or her whereabouts, and it was not until Mlle. Szimon's landlord told how Boitscheff had spent much time succeeding his marriage with the girl that he ceased his gayety and appeared to realize the gravity of his position.

In the course of the trial Novelic and Wassalieff confessed and adhered to their statements that Boitscheff alone strangled the girl. Wassalieff declared that Boitscheff had said: "The prince knows all. Anna made a scandal at the palace, and the prince cannot allow it."

Novelic said that Boitscheff had summoned him to the palace and said: "She must be killed. It is the prince's command."

The Cabman Testifies.

The cabman, Alexieff, who drove the party of murderers to the trysting place at the Maritza bridge, was called to the stand and testified that Boitscheff had approached him, saying that Prince Ferdinand had ordered the murder of the girl upon the ground that she was planning the prince's assassination. Alexieff refused to have anything to do with the affair unless the prince personally ordered it, whereupon Boitscheff threatened to shoot him unless he kept silent about the matter.

Boitscheff was placed upon the stand and denied every detail of the testimony against him. He suggested that Novelic had murdered the girl, thinking to do him a service. While Boitscheff was making these statements Novelic repeatedly made the sign of the cross upon his breast.

What was most peculiar about the proceedings in court was the calm obedience of police officers in the commission of a cold blooded murder when told that it was by the prince's orders.

The jury returned a verdict finding Boitscheff and Novelic guilty of murder and convicting Wassalieff as an accomplice. The prisoners will be sentenced later. Novelic is supposed to have had a hand in the murder of ex-Premier Stambuloff in 1895.

Illumination War In Ogdensburg.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., July 30.—The Ogdensburg Gas company has reorganized with Mr. George Hall, who owns a controlling interest, as president; John C. Howard, secretary and treasurer, and John H. Findley, manager. Some Pennsylvania capitalists, including Henry Sage, Judge Green and others have secured a franchise for an electric light plant here, and this is generally conceded to mean a bitter war. The gas company has a full electric light plant already installed.

To Increase Capital Stock.

Albany, July 30.—The Buffalo General Electric company of Buffalo has filed papers with the secretary of state certifying to an increase of capital stock of the company from $1,900,000 to $2,400,000. The liabilities of the company, irrespective of its capital stock and interest due on bonds on Aug. 1, are $10,808.26.

Veteran Commits Suicide.

Holyoke, Mass., July 30.—David Brinn, 60 years old, a veteran of the war, was found dead at his home here. Examination showed that he had taken paris green. Despondency is given as the reason for suicide. He had been recently employed on the new Mount Holyoke college buildings at South Hadley.

Escape of a Notorious Outlaw.

Huntington, W. Va., July 30.—A report has just reached here that Captain Hatfield, the notorious outlaw, held for murder in two cases, has escaped from the Mingo jail by cutting his way out with a hatchet. A large reward is offered for him.

HURT ON A TROLLEY CAR.

Mrs. J. E. Mosher Sustained a Serious Injury to the Thigh

Mrs. J. E. Mosher, of 418 West Fouth street, received a severe injury to her thigh while boarding trolley car No. 19, at West Front street and Elm place, at 4:30 o'clock last evening.

The car was going east, and stopped at Elm place in answer to Mrs. Mosher's signal to the moterman. It was an open car, and as she attempted to mount the step it is said that the conductor placed his hand upon her either to guard her from falling into the street or to hasten her mavements. She then fell foward into the car, striking her thigh upon the edge of the seat.

She is now confined to her home, and is suffering much pain from the injury.

Justice Mosher today engaged the services of lawyer J.P. D. Kich, and a letter was sent to Superintendent Adleman of the trolley company, asking for a conference with the object of procuring a settlement for damages.

The Moshers claim that the injury was due to the conductor's carelessness.

A CASH PRIZE CARNIVAL.

Brunswick Bicycle Club Arranging an Elaborate Affair.

The Brunswick Bicycle Club, of New Brunswick, is making arrangements for an elaborate wheeling carnival to be held September 15th. Invitations have been sent to every club in New Jersey asking their members to compete in the carnival. A committee composed of William A. Miller, Jr., John P. Wall, Ralph B. Boyd, Charles McCormick and Theodore Whitlock has been appointed to make the necessary arrangements. The following prizes will be awarded:

Club prize for the out-of-town club making the handsomest appearance, with the largest number of members.

Prize for the handsomest non-resident lady's and man's wheel.

First and second prizes for resident lady's and man's wheel, the latter to be judged by elaborateness.

Prize for most grotesque costume.

Prizes for finest decorated wheel ridden by a boy under fifteen and a girl under fifteen.

Special tandem prize, open to all.

First and second prize for finest decorated wheels of Brunswick Bicycle Club riders.

Members of the club cannot compete for the other prizes. The prizes will be cash awards.

THE GOSPEL TENT.

Evangelists to Appeal to Sinners Who Don't Go to Church.

The Pope Estate Company have very kindly granted permission to Evangelist George C. Needham to erect his Gospol tent in their lot, corner of Park avenue and Fifth street. A meeting of Christian workers will be held there this evening at 8 o'clock. All young people's societies are invited to be present. To morrow at 4 p. m. will be Sunday-school hour for teachers and scholars. Tomorrow evening a mass meeting will be held. The Needham Brothers have had large experience in tent work. Their services are properly dignified and earnestly evangelical. The most conservative and cultured have attended in other cities, as well as the most needy. Mr. Moon, Mrs. J. H. Manning and Mrs. Albert Needham will have charge of the singing. Great crowds have attended the tent meetings in other cities.

G. O. P. Clambake.

A G. O. P. time is promised for August 24th, when a good old-fashioned clambake and shore dinner will be given at Neptune Heights, near Avon-by-the-Sea, under the auspices of the Union County Republican Association. The whole trip, including dinner, will cost $2.50 for each one, and Plainfield is expected to take seventy-five persons. The train will start from Elizabeth and those from this city who expect to go will have to go to that place in time to catch the special train that will be run on the above date.

DEATH CAME VIA GAS JET.

boarding in this city. She is not known to have had a position.

County Physician Westcott was also notified and came to McVey's Hotel at 9 o'clock. After hearing the circumstances, how the window was closed tightly in the little room and how the gas was found turned on full-head, he declared that there was no doubt but that the woman met her death by asphyxiation for which she only was to blame. He granted a permit to remove the body. She was found fully dressed lying on the bed. The refreshments had not been touched. Dr. Westcott was of the opinion that she had turned on the gas and gone to sleep. She died, he thought, about 3 o'clock this morning.

The body was taken to Casey's morgue during the morning to await identification. A woman living on East Fourth street, called and identified the woman as one who has been boarding with her. The suicide, she said, was Mrs. Kate Wister. Mrs. Wister, she said, had told her that she was a widow, her husband having died sometime before.

The Mountain Chautauqua.

This famous Chautauqua, at Mountain Lake Park, Maryland, opens its session August 4th and closes August 24th. It is the most superb and sensible summer resort in America. Its height, 2,800 feet above sea level, means a delightful climate and unsurpassed mountain views. Five well appointed hotels and 250 cottages open their doors to tourists at from $5 to $12 per week. Twenty departments of important school work are in the hands of specialists. The best lecturers, singers and entertainers in the country appear three times daily. The programme is unequalled. Here is a chance to mix a little intellectual uplift with your vacation. Mountain Lake Park is located on the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio R. R., and as all the fast trains stop at the Park during the summer, patrons have the advantage of their superb train service between the east and the west. Round trip tickets will be sold from all stations east of the Ohio river for all trains August 2d to 23d, valid for return trip until August 31st, at one single fare for the round trip. For illustrated pamphlet and all other information, address agent B. & O. R. R., Mountain Lake Park, Md. 7 30 4

Honeyman Party Abroad.

News received from the Honeyman party in England at the close of their coaching trip, is to the effect that they have enjoyed their usual perfect weather and are having "a magnificent time." Their ocean voyage was entirely smooth. They have coached in England 150 miles and besides the towns in route have inspected Stoneleigh Abbey, Kenilworth Castle, Warwick Castle, Charlecote Hall, etc. The party numbered 21 while coaching, and will be increased to 26 in Norway, Sweden and Russia. — Somerville Unionist Gazette.

Delegates to the Farmers' Congress.

Governor Griggs yesterday appointed the New Jersey delegates to the Congress of American Farmers, to be held in St. Paul, Minn., August 31st to September 6th. The State will be represented by Franklin Dye, Mercer county, secretary of the State Board of Agriculture; Richard Coles, Salem; Isaac W. Nicholson, Camden; Ogden Woodruff, Union; Jesse B Rogers, Essex, and T. C. Kevitt, Passaic county.

The Soldiers' Friend.

Gen. W. H. Sterling received pension papers this morning for Anna M Smith, widow of the late Garrett P. Smith, allowing her $8 per month from July 5th and the accrued pension due her husband at the time of his death. Gen. Sterling has again proven himself the friend of the soldier and the soldier's widow by refusing the usual fee in this case as in all others he has successfully prosecuted.

Four Tracks in New Brunswick.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is putting a four-track system through New Brunswick. Heretofore the four-track system ended at one side of the city. At George street the double-track system of the Brunswick Traction Company's trolley line crosses the steam railway.

William Heyniger, of Corning, N.Y., is visiting relatives in this city.

ANOTHER NEW FACTORY.

A New Industry for Lincoln is the Star Incubator Company.

The contract for building a factory for the Star Incubator Company at Lincoln will be awarded next week. This new enterprise will give employment to twenty-five skilled mechanics about October 1st.

The work on the Steel Iron Tool Works and the Franklin Company Works has been greatly delayed on account of the nearly incessant storms.

Lincoln Boulevard and Mountain avenue present a very live appearance with the sight of thousands of twelve-inch sewer pipes standing on end. The sewer is being rapidly laid.

Contracts have been awarded during the past week for two neat cottages on Mountain avenue and one on Lincoln Boulevard.

TREE WAS UPROOTED.

Five-ton Granite Block Leveled a Derrick and its Supports.

A large maple tree at Manning's marble and granite works was uprooted in a peculiar manner yesterday afternoon. Employes made an attempt to raise a block of Barry granite weighing five tons. The strain was so great that it pulled over the derrick and the tree to which it was made fast for support.

The roots of the tree were completely unearthed and it fell over and rested against the granite works until the workmen came and chopped it into small sections, which were carried away.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Josephine Vannatta and Miss Florence Taynor, of East Third street, are visiting Miss King, of Belvidere, this State.

Florence Williams and Lottie Montrose, of 417 Madison avenue, leave town today to spend August with friends at Monroe, Orange county, N. Y.

Peter Wright, of New York, was a caller at The Daily Press office today. Peter is looking as natural as ever, and his many friends in Plainfield were glad to greet him.

—Roundsman Frederickson, of the police force, has returned from his vacation and went on duty last evening for the first. Roundsman Flynn has returned to day duty.

—A prize waltz was held at Johnston's wheelmen's rest near Dunellen, last night. Mrs. Annie Tracy and Frank Burke received prizes for being the best waltzers.

—At the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., held last evening, several important amendments to the by-laws were introduced. They will come up for final action at the meeting to be held in two weeks.

A Nuptial Event.

The approaching marriage is announced of Miss Anne Winslow Crane, of New York, and Roswell Percy Fish, of Chicago, for Tuesday evening, August 10th, at 8 o'clock in the Grace church chantry, Broadway, near Tenth street, New York. Miss Crane formerly resided in this city. Mr. Fish is the nephew of A.W Fish, of Franklyn place, and F. K. Fish of Martine avenue.

Flood Sufferers to Meet.

A meeting has been called by all those whose property was damaged by the flood in Stony brook for this evening to take some measures to prevent the rebuilding of the Washington ville dam or whatever action seems necessary. The meeting will be held at Spencer's hall at 8 o'clock.

A STORM OF WORDS NOW.

EXCITED OPPONENTS TO THE WASHINGTONVILLE DAM MEET.

Sufferers From the High Water Want to Secure an Injunction to Prevent the Dam From Being Built Again.

It was altogether a stormy meeting that the property owners along the course of Stony brook held last evening, when they gathered to discuss some course of action to take to protect themselves against a sudden inundation of their property by a future breaking of the dam at Washingtonville. The specific purpose of the meeting, as stated by its chairman, was to take action to prevent the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company from rebuilding their large dam at Washingtonville, or compel them to give a suitable guarantee that all damage occasioned by a future breaking of the dam would be settled for in full without lawsuit.

The damaged ones were there and so were several score of spectators who had come to see the fun, and were generally interested in the subject. Then there were the representatives of the Ice Company, who came to defend their own interests. The audience was apparently divided into two prominent delegations. The largest consisted of those who were opposed to the rebuilding of the dam and were down on the ice company in general. The other party consisted of the Ice Company men and their friends. There were over 100 delegates altogether and they filled Spencer's hall to overflowing.

The mesting had been called by several of the interested parties for 8 o'clock, but it was 8:40 o'clock before Dr. J. H. Cooley called the meeting to order. He was made chairman at once and then made a few remarks stating the object of the meeting. When the Ice Company had proposed to build the big dam, he said he had objected at first, but the company assured him that what would be his loss would be their loss also and that they would build a dam that could not break. The dam had been built, engineers had condemned it, and the first big storm had caused it to burst. It was the duty of the property owners along the line of Stony brook, he continued, to find out what rights they had in the matter and whether the Ice Company could continue to build dams and allow them to burst and destroy the property of others without the latter having any redress whatever. If that's the case, they might just as well turn over their property to the Ice Company. He then made a few remarks about dams built on mountain streams and how they are always a menace to the country below them, no matter how well the dam is built. He gave as an example the flood at Mattawan when a well-built dam was washed out. As long as the water went over the spillway, he explained, it was all right, but when the debris washed down by the stream began to block that up and the water began to run around, the dam was sure to go, no matter how well built. No damage had ever been done along Stony brook, he said, except when a dam above had broken.

There was a few minutes silence and then he called on Mr. Beeching for his opinion. Mr. Beeching did not believe that a dam could be built there, except at very great expense, that would hold the water at the time of a freshet. A straight dam, he said, was weaker than the other kind.

Andrew Wilson, of the Ice Company, rose and asked to be heard. That he spoke on an unpopular side was evidenced by the constant interruptions that were made. All sorts of remarks about him and the dam were heard on every side. He went on to talk about the breaking of the dam and the cause, which, he said, the company understood. The dam had been engineered to death, he said. F. A. Dunham had been secured to draw plans for the dam. Then, he continued, all sorts of stories regarding the damage that would be done by the bursting of the dam had been circulated and these had all been proved to be false. Attempts had been made to stop the building of it by petitions to the Borough Council and the Township Committee and so the company had gone to Wallman, Keith & Co., well-known reservoir builders of New York, and given them the plans for revision. This was done to satisfy the people of North Plainfield and Washingtonville, he said.

The New York firm, he continued, had promised to delegate their best man to superintend the building of the dam. They refused to have anything to do with it, however, unless their plans were carried out to the letter. The Ice Company wanted to put up a log foundation under where the water fell, but the New Yorkers said no and that had been where the trouble was, for the apparently strong foundation was eaten into by the water and the dam undermined. The dam, had it not been undermined, could have easily held the water.

Then he went on to say that the highest water was at 9 o'clock and the dam burst at 11:30 o'clock. A roar of disapproval came from the listeners. Dr. Cooley rose in his seat and quietly remarked that the high water was between 11 and 12 o'clock and he was prepared to prove it. The damage done to his property was done at that time except the loss of the bridge, which was wrecked by a big tree that came down stream.

Al Smalley joined in the controversy and said that Somerset street was flooded at 8 o'clock and that when the dam burst there was no water there.

"That's a lie," yelled a man in the back of the room, "I got my knees wet at 12 o'clock on Somerset street." The spectators applauded and Adam Fritz jumped up amid great excitement. His remarks were received with vociferous applause.

Fritz said that the object of the meeting was action and not argument and that they would hire somebody to argue later. The question was, could an injunction be secured? There was water on Somerset street at 12 o'clock and it was higher than it was at 8 o'clock, so said Mr. Fritz. Sharp words were passed between some of the crowd and a lively time ensued. The meeting began to grow more and more exciting. Dr. Cooley was cool, but decisive in his remarks and Mr. Wilson argued with him. Then Wilson said that the flood on Somerset street was caused by the removal of the embankment near Dr. Cooley's place by the Doctor. In Washingtonville, he said, the water was only up to his shoe-tops on the bridge when the dam went while it had been waist-deep early in the evening.

Will Demler, of Washingtonville, said he was there and the water was seven times as high as Mr. Wilson's shoe tops and was within six inches of the highest water, at which statement the crowd howled. Then he added that Mr. Wilson had said that if he could not make the dam strong, he would make it weak. Mr. Wilson indignantly denied the statement but several shouted that it was true.

A. E. Faber, Jr., moved that all except the interested parties leave the room. That was a signal for a grand uproar and the crowd slowly departed. Angry words were passed between two of the speakers and blows appeared likely to follow but the disputants were content to use their tongues only. One man jumped up on a chair and angrily catechised the rest. At last the room was cleared. A few remarks by Dr. Cooley on the circumstances of the case resulted in a motion that a committe composed of Adam Fritz, Will Demler and Dr. Cooley secure counsel and see what rights the property owners had and whether it was possible to secure an injunction to restrain the Ice Company from building the dam. Will Demler resigned from the committee in favor of A. E. Faber, Jr., and the motion was unanimously. Then the meeting adjourned to meet again at the call of the chair.

DECLINED TO LOWER THE BAIL.

Smedberg, Accused af Stealing Jewelry, Taken Back to Union County Jail.

There was a hearing yesterday afternoon in the Union County Court House, at Elizabeth, before Supreme Court Justice Cummere, of Trenton, on an application for the release of Joseph Duncan Smedberg, of Plainfield, on a writ of habeas corpus.

Smedberg is charged with the larceny of jewelry from H. W. Marshall, of 416 East Fifth street. The application in his behalf was made by Lawyers VanWinkle and Klink, of Jersey City, and was opposed by Prosecutor Marsh.

Judge Gummere declined to release the prisoner under $1,500 bail and appointed August 2d as the day when a hearing would take place before Justice Nash, of this city. Smedberg's lawyers were unable to furnish the required bail, so he was taken back to jail. They tried to get Judge Gummere to reduce it to $1,000.

Cranford's Hope.

The news that the New Jersey Central Railroad Company is about to erect a new station in Plainfield is good news for Cranford. The company has repeatedly promised Cranford the next new station on the road after Plainfield had been provided for. The citizens can therefore rejoice in the fact that some progress toward getting what we need so badly is perceptible.—Cranford Chronicle.

AN OLD MINE DISCLOSED.

A SHAFT CAVED IN RIGHT UNDER THE ROAD IN THE NOTCH.

The Ground Undermined by the Recent Heavy Rains—The Shaft Was Excavated in an Early Effort to Mine Copper Ore.

A wagon was passing along Somerset street, yesterday afternoon, when suddenly the roadway, over which it had just passed, sank without warning. The recent heavy rains caused the road over an old shaft of an abandoned copper mine to fall into the tunnel, leaving a large hole right in the middle of the roadway.

At first no one knew exactly what was the matter but one of the men working in the stone crusher, near Wetumpka Falls, close to which the cave-in occurred, loosened more of the roadbed and it also fell in, revealing the shaft running under the road. The hollow was filled in with stone dust from the crusher and the road put in condition again.

The discovery of the shaft of the abandoned copper mine caused the older citizens of the borough to recall the days when the copper mine was thought to be a great thing and when the copper ore in that strata, was supposed to be valuable. The old mine has quite a story connected with it that dates back to Revolutionary days.

It was several years before the Red Coats and the colonists had their first skirmish at Lexington that it was discovered that copper abounded in the Notch, through which Somerset street now passes. Plainfield was not here at that time, and there was only a house here and there scattered over this now thickly settled region. A party of English capitalists was formed to work the copper here and start a mine and smelting works.

The works were built close by Stony brook, where the stone crusher now stands, and the work of tunneling was begun. Several rich veins of copper were found and the shafts were run right into the heart of the mountain to secure the metal. Some of the shafts were two hundred and fifty feet long and one was said to be double that length. Operations were also begun on the other side of the Notch and several tunnels started into the side of the mountain. With the beginning of the war, the English deserted the mine and the building containing their smelting works was allowed to go to decay and ruin.

It was during the Civil War that mining operations were again started. The new prospectors entered the mountain by the old shafts and enlarged them. The copper was so mixed with the hard trap-rock that it was found a very expensive process to get it out.

H. P. Bronk, of this city, started to resume operations in 1870, but his plan fell through after some experimenting.

Twenty years ago, George Stottiswood, Daniel Brannon, Wallace Vail and George Randolph started a stone quarry there to secure rock for the macadamizing of Park avenue and Somerset street. They found a vein of copper and talked of mining it, but nothing of importance was done. The ruins of the old mine can still be found on both sides of the Notch and the gallery that fell in was one of those that run into the mountain for a long distance. The road passes right over them

AMICABLY ADJUSTED.

The Differences Between a Brother and Sister Settled Out of Court.

In the issue of the Press of Monday, May 10th, there was an article entitled "A Tinge of Romance," which stated among other things that an action of replevin had been begun by Swackhamer & Williams on behalf of Mrs. Sarah Mair against her brother, Brooks Carson, the florist. It now appears that, finally, no writ of replevin was served in the matter, and the whole affair was one merely of a family nature. Counsellor W. S. Angleman, the legal adviser of the family, has had charge of their financial matters for several years, and a date had been fixed for a final settlement, when it is said that some officious outsiders endeavored to cause a disagreement and get the brother and sister mixed up in a law suit. The attempt was not successful, and yesterday in Mr. Angleman's office the entire matter was adjusted satisfactorily to both brother and sister, and without the intervention of outside parties. The Press makes this statement in justice to the people concerned.

Saving in City Alms.

Overseer of the Poor, Mr. Marx, says that thus far this year there has been a saving of over $300 in his department and that more city charges were buried during the past seven months than during the same period last year. At present there are only two charges at the Industrial Home.

SUED BY ADMINISTRATOR

W. C. STANBERY CLAIMED PROPERTY WHICH BAKER HEIR SOLD.

Dispute Was As to Whether Four Lengths of Drain Pipe Were Real or Personal Property—Defendant Won.

It was all about four lengths of drain pipe, which Mrs. Eve M. Baker, of Scotch Plains, disposed of some time ago. Wm. C. Stanbery, the administrator of her deceased husband's estate, claimed that Mrs. Baker had no right to appropriate the pipe in question and brought an action in tort against her for the conversion of the property. The case was tried yesterday afternoon before Justice Moffett, of this city.

The pipes were laid by James A. Baker as a drain along the curb line of one of his lots in Scotch Plains, where they remained until after his death, when they were removed by the Township Committee and stored upon other property belonging to the Baker estate. Mrs. Baker then sold them to Wm. Lee.

Winfield S. Angleman, counsel for Mrs. Baker, maintained that the pipes were a part of the real estate at the time of Mr. Baker's death and as such were Mrs. Baker's to dispose of as she chose.

Assemblyman W. R. Codington appeared as counsel for Mr. Stanbery and maintained that the pipes were not a permanent fixture and, therefore, not being a part of the realty, were to be left in the hands of the administrator for the payment of the debts of the deceased. Mr. Stanbery and his son, Wm. Stanbery, were placed on the witness stand.

Early in the trial Mr. Angleman moved for a non-suit on the ground that the plaintiff had failed to establish the fact of the sale of the pipes. This motion was denied. No witnesses were produced by the defence.

Justice Moffett took until 10 o'clock this morning to consider the points advanced by the counsel. His decision was in favor of Mrs. Baker, to the effect that she was entitled to dispose of the pipes. The plaintiff will appeal the case.

GERMANS PICNICED.

Hyde's Grove the Scene of a Jolly Party Yesterday.

The members of the German Lutheran church and Sunday-school gathered at Hyde's Grove yesterday and enjoyed their annual picnic. It was a pleasant occasion and the number of postponements did not seem to mar the enjoyment experienced by all present. There were about one hundred persons there from 9 o'clock in the morning until 7 o'clock in the evening. Most all of the good things to eat were donated by various members in the congregation and the sale of the goods realized about $20 profit. Among the features of the affair was an improvised fishing pond where patrons could catch something of value for the sum of five cents. All sorts of funmaking games were played and the children present had no trouble in amusing themselves. Pastor Eyme and his friend, Rev. Mr. Reinhart, of Allentown, made lots of fun for all.

The committee in charge consisted of Miss Seibel, Mrs. Kellegher, Mrs. Ebel and Mrs. Yaeger.

RELATIVE SAYS NOT SUICIDE.

Kate Whikset Said to Have Unintentionally Turned On The Gas.

The New York Sun this morning printed the following concerning the death of Mrs. Kate Whikset by asphyxiation in McVey's hotel, Thursday night:

"The young woman's father, Michael Hasket, and her mother and sisters live at 432 West Forty-eighth street, this city. At the house last night a member of the family volunteered the information that Catherine was a dressmaker and only recently went to Plainfield.

"She did not commit suicide, though,' said her relative; 'she was suffering with a toothache, and took some toothache drops, which made her drowsy. Then when she went to turn off the gas in her room she turned the key too far. Her body was brought here, and is now in the house. She will be buried from here, probably on Sunday.'"

A Burial Committee.

M. L. Bullock, Regent of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, has appointed D. W. Littell, L. B. Woolston, F. S. Green to take charge of the burial arrangements of their late brother, W. C. Burt. The lodge has arranged with Miss Lincoln to present a large floral piece.

CLEMENT M. RUTTER DEAD.

Clement Milton Rutter, once a well-known resident of Plainfield, and one of the oldest members of the Stock Exchange, died of heart trouble Tuesday morning at his home 206 West Fifty-second street, New York. His death, while sudden, was not altogether unexpected to his family, but the news of it came as a shock to many of his associates and acquaintances in the down-town financial district. He was at his office, 45 Broadway, attending to business Monday, and had a busy day.

He retired early Monday evening without any sign of illness. A little after midnight he aroused his wife, complaining of shortness of breath, and the family was called and a physician was summoned. All remedies proved of no avail, however, and at 12:40 o'clock he expired.

Mr. Rutter was born March 13, 1832, in Pottstown, Penn. His ancestors came to this country with William Penn and his mother belonged to the Potts family, after which that town was named. He went to Philadelphia to begin his business career and for two years was a member of the Stock Exchange in that city. Then seeing greater opportunities in New York he went there, his membership in the New York Stock Exchange dating from July 31, 1860. In the thirty-seven years of his Wall street experience he had many ups and downs of fortune, had won and lost, his friends say, several fortunes, yet he never failed, and his seat on the Exchange was never in jeopardy. Among his fellows he preserved a spotless reputation for reliability and integrity. He did not engage in speculation, but did a commission business. His transactions on the Exchange for many years past have been almost exclusively in the bond room.

He leaves a wife and one daughter, the wife of Harry W. Lindsley, a broker who has been closely associated with him for some years.

HEAVY WIND AND POOR ROADS.

Unfavorable Conditions for the Century Run Today.

Poor roads and a heavy wind all united to hinder the ninety-five cyclists that came through on the century run of the Associated Cycling Clubs of New Jersey. They left Newark at 6 o'clock, with F. L. C. Martin, of this city, as one of the pacemakers. They arrived here soon after 9 o'clock and made a short stop at the salesrooms of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company to have their checks collected. There were five women on the run. The roads between here and Newark were reported to be in very poor condition, while the head wind was very strong. The century run was to Philadelphia to attend the national meet of the L. A. W. there. It was said by those who passed through here to have been the hardest century they had ridden.

DRAGGED BY A COW.

A Hebrew Butcher Unable to Control the Excited Animal.

A Hebrew butcher, living on Park place in the borough, was returning from Dog Corners last evening about 6 o'clock leading a cow. When the animal reached the corner of Park and North avenues it began to buck and cause a great disturbance. The affair attracted a large crowd of people and the animal started toward the Park avenue railroad bridge dragging the man with her. Before going under the bridge the man grasped one of the iron girders and tied the rope fast. This held the cow until a cartman came along with a horse and wagon and assisted the butcher in getting the animal home by tying her to the rear of the wagon.

Behind Their Work.

Notwithstanding the fact that property owners are being served with notices to have stone walks laid in front of their property where there are none at present, it will be impossible for the work to be completed this year. The men who do this work have all that they can do and they are far behind in their work both in North Plainfield and in this city.

Contract Cases.

Summons were issued by Justice Newcorn in the contract cases of Clawson against Bunn, and Clawson against McCready, returnable on the 6th, and Holmes againt Jones, returnable on the 15th. The contract case of Sternberg against Frazee, was adjourned for a week.

A Twin Dies.

An infant daughter of George Whitely, of this city, died a few days ago. This child was one of twins, and the other one died soon after the mother passed away some time ago. The city had charge of the burial.

STRIKERS FINALLY PAID.

END OF THE TROUBLES AT BERKLEY HEIGHTS BRICKYARD.

Justice Newcorn Acted as Representative for Employer and His Schedule of Settlement Was Accepted After Much Talk.

The curtain has fallen on the last act in the strike at the Berkley Heights brickyard. Yesterday the men were paid off and departed, leaving Messrs. Verette and Macaroni, the proprietors, all alone in their glory. They will have to hire a new force of men to load the bricks and carry them away.

Judge William Newcorn, of this city, represented eight of the men and went to Berkeley Heights yesterday afternoon to make the final settlement with them. There were sixteen men employed there and they all wanted their pay.

Charles S. Day, a Summit lumber dealer, was there with the funds. He was the financial backer of the firm. The proprietors had figured out the money due, charging the men for board on the days that it rained or there was other reasons for not working. According to their figuring, it came out that in some cases the men owed them.

Judge Newcorn had his ideas of the pay due and it took him from 3 o'clock until 5:50 to convince them that he was right. They at last agreed to the schedule he had arranged and the men were paid off according to that. The men had become rather excited at having to wait so long but they took the pay and departed.

The brick has been burned, but the proprietors of the yard will have to hire an entire new set of men to remove them and load them in cars for shipment.

DIFFERING AS TO CONTRACT.

Local Business Men Carry Their Troubles to a Local Justice.

Sometime ago Michael Powers & Son laid some flagging for George B. Tobin in front of his property on Grant avenue. Powers claimed that he first offered to do the job for $149. He then said he would do it by the foot, the total of which he alleges amounts to $180. Tobin said that the first bid was by the foot and the last by bulk, which he accepted.

Tobin offered to pay the $149 but Powers claimed that $180 was due and brought suit in Newcorn's court to recover it. The case was tried yesterday afternoon and the judge reserved his decision. Tobin offered to pay the $149 but as Powers refused to take it he turned it over to the Judge to await his decision.

FELL IN A WASHOUT.

Thomas Rutledge Came in Contact With a Reminder of the Flood.

Thomas Rutledge, of Manning avenue, started after his son last evening, who was fishing at the foot of the Sandford avenue bridge over Green brook. When near the bridge he fell into a washout about twelve feet deep and struck his forehead on an iron pipe, inflicting a wound four inches long. It was very dark at that point and Mr. Rutledge experienced some difficulty in getting out of the hole. He found his boy, however, and the two returned to Randolph's pharmacy, where Mr. Randolph dressed the wounds. The injuries are not serious but give Mr. Rutledge much pain in the head. The cut was directly over the left eye.

WAY OUT AT SEA.

Naval Reserves Had Not Touched Land for Several Days.

News of the good ship Portsmouth, of the New Jersey Naval Reserve, has been received in the form of a letter from Frank Fulton, of Leggett's pharmacy. The message is dated Thursday, off Fisher's Islands. It states that the ship had not touched land since the previous Saturday. On Wednesday and Thursday quite a gale blew and many of the reserves were seasick on account of the tossing of the vessel. Next week the ship will go to sea for a cruise.

Change in Episcopal Rectorship.

The Rev. Robert Van Kleek Harris has accepted a unanimous call to the rectorship of Zion church, Manchester, Vt., and will enter upon his duties September 1st.—(The Church Standard.) Rev. Mr. Harris has been acting as minister in charge of the Church of the Redeemer, in the borough, since the resignation of Rev. Jocelyn Johnstone.

—The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered at the communion service in the Warren chapel tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock.

—A meeting of Miantonomoh tribe of Red Men was held last evening. There was an animated time in the good of the order and ancient history was related by a number of the oldest braves.

MURDER OR SUICIDE?

Young Girl's Body Found Floating In Long Island Sound.

HAD BEEN MISSING SEVERAL DAYS.

She Attended Church Sunday Night and Started to Walk Home With Two Women, Who Left Her Standing at Her Own Gate.

New York, July 31.—The body of Mamie Deland, the young girl who disappeared on Sunday night last, has been found in the sound near Stony Brook, N. Y., about half a mile from the mouth of the inlet. The body was discovered by Petro Nichols of Stony Brook, who was out fishing.

Mamie Deland was employed in the family of E. E. Hopping. She was 20 years old. On Sunday night she attended the Baptist church, as usual. She had been in the habit of walking home from church with a young man who lives here, but who is now absent, being employed as a sailor on a yacht. He had been very attentive to Miss Deland, and it is said by her friends she thought a great deal of him.

He was at home on Sunday night and attended the Baptist church, but did not walk home with Miss Deland, but with another young lady. Miss Deland walked home with two women. They left her in front of Mr. Hopping's residence.

Seemed to Have Been Worried.

She is said by them to have been in a sad state of mind and appeared to have been worried over something, and they remarked after leaving her that the apparent jilting she had received was felt by her.

Miss Collie Olsen, William Van Tassel and George Eberhard claimed to have heard a woman scream in the scrub growth near the village Sunday night and to have seen a man and woman in the woods. However, most of the stories told fixed the occurrences prior to the hour when Miss Deland was last seen. There did not appear to have been any traces of violence on the body, and the external indications all are that the girl was drowned. Coroner Rodman was notified and will make an investigation.

Died From Paris Green.

New York, July 31.—Mrs. Annie Kruger, the pretty wife of Augustus Kruger, a buyer for a wholesale firm in this city, died at Roosevelt hospital from paris green, which she took on Wednesday night with suicidal intent. The woman, who was finely educated, recently became a dipsomaniac. She disappeared from her home a week ago and swallowed the poison while in a furnished room on West Thirty-fifth street. The Krugers were married two years ago.

Overflowed Banks Cause Casualties.

Breslau, July 31.—The recent continuous heavy rains have caused many of the rivers of Silesia and Bohemia to overflow their banks. A number of bridges have been carried away, railway traffic has been stopped, and several houses have collapsed. A bridge at the town of Astritz, in Silesia, was swept away, and eight children, who were carried down with the structure, were drowned. Several persons are also reported to have been drowned in Bohemia.

Hanged For a Triple Murder.

San Antonio, Tex., July 31.—Maximo Martinez has been hanged at Floresville in the Wilson County jail for a triple murder committed on June 6 last. He killed Jesus Carillo and wife, an aged couple, and Juanita Acosta, 18, whom he first assaulted. Martinez died without a struggle and apparently with no fear. He said he wanted the girl to elope with him, but that she objected because he was married, although he was separated from his wife.

Rome Sewer Bonds Sold.

Rome, N. Y., July 31.—Thirty thousand dollars' worth of sewer bonds have been sold at auction by the city chamberlain. They were sold in lots of $10,000, the first $10,000 being bought for the Rome Savings bank and the Oneida County Savings bank at 109.22. The other two lots were sold at 109.07 and 109.22, respectively, to Farson, Leach & Co. of New York.

Unsettled Condition In Portugal.

Madrid, July 31.—The Portuguese journal Seculo says that owing to the disturbed condition of Lisbon and Oporto the troops stationed there have been confined to their barracks. Reenforcements are arriving, and the streets are patrolled by troops. Many arrests have been made, and the customs authorities have seized a quantity of ammunition.

Collision Between Schooners.

St. Johns, N. F., July 31.—The schooner Owney Belle has arrived here from Sydney. She reports that when 50 miles off Cape St. Mary she collided with the French fishing schooner Louise Ernest, bound from the banks with 500 quintals of fish. The Louise Ernest sank in five minutes, and her crew, 16 in number, barely escaped being carried down with the vessel.

Body Found on Railroad Track.

Hudson, N. Y., July 31.—The dead body of an unknown man about 60 years of age has been picked up on the Central Hudson railroad tracks near Coxsackie and brought to this city. There was nothing found to identify the body, only a yellow dog which watched over it and followed the remains to the coroner's office.

Verdict In Explosion Case.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 31.—Coroner Doten has completed his investigation into the explosion which took place this week on board the sound steamer Nutmeg State and finds that the explosion was one of benzine gas, which was ignited by an electric current.

Fatal Scaffold Accident.

Vienna, July 31.—The scaffolding of a bridge at Schwarzenberg, on which were a number of workmen, fell, precipitating 15 of the men into the river. Despite the efforts made at rescue, ten of the unfortunate men were swept away and drowned.

Weather Predictions.

Generally fair; southwesterly winds.

A SEAL CONFERENCE.

Great Britain Will Send Delegates to the Meeting.

ELLIOTT'S LETTER ATTACKING FOSTER

Mr. Foster Refuses to Discuss the Details of His Mission or to Express an Opinion In Regard to Attacks Made Upon Him.

London, July 31.—The Hon. John W. Foster, special representative of the United States on the sealing question, who sailed for New York on board the American line steamship St. Louis today, declined to discuss the details of his mission or to express any opinion in regard to the attack made upon him and the conduct of the American side of the sealing dispute in general by Professor Elliott of the Smithsonian institute.

It is learned, however, that Great Britain has agreed to send delegates to the proposed sealing conference in Washington in October, or when the British sealing experts return from their mission, and that Russia and Japan have also promised to send delegates.

Elliott Not of Smithsonian Institute.

Washington, July 31.—Professor Henry W. Elliott, who, according to a Washington dispatch to the London Chronicle, has written a letter to Assistant Secretary of State Day bitterly attacking John W. Foster, the author of the state department's note to Embassador Hay on the seal fisheries questions, has no connection with the Smithsonian institute, and his attack on Mr. Foster has therefore no official significance. Professor Elliott has been employed at various times and in various capacities for years past by the Smithsonian officers and at one time was secretary to Professor Henry.

Professor Elliott has written several works on sealing, having visited the seal islands, and one of his papers was included several years ago in a Smithsonian report. In the Garfield campaign Elliott wrote a statement of the American side of the seal fisheries controversy and submitted it to Secretary Blaine, who repudiated it. The statement was afterward placed in the hands of the British minister, who used it as the alleged correct version of the American side of the case from the standpoint of an expert.

Professor Elliott was justified in charging Mr. Foster with being the author of the letter to Embassador Hay, although it has been attributed to Charles S. Hamlin, ex-secretary of the treasury, now associated with Mr. Foster in the fisheries negotiations, as well as to Professor Townsend of the fish commission and various other persons.

Mr. Foster will undoubtedly at the proper time and in the proper way acknowledge the authorship of the letter, but at present it would be a flagrant breach of official etiquette for him to do so.

The Note In the Tobacco Bale.

Washington, July 31.—The state department has received from a Philadelphia tobacco firm a note found in a bale of tobacco from Cuba stating that three Americans were confined in Morro castle and were unable to communicate with their friends outside. The note will be forwarded to Consul General Lee at Havana, but the officials do not attach much importance to the note from the internal evidence of its bogus character.

For instance, it is said that there was no Cook's excursion last year, that the American consul general knows all of the very few American prisoners in Morro, and lastly it is pointed out that while the men are described as young men, later on in the note they refer to their honorable discharges from the United States army in 1865.

Arrival of Yellow Fever Suspects.

Washington, July 31.—The surgeon general of the Marine Hospital service has been advised of the arrival of the Norwegian bark Nor at Cape Charles, with a suspected case of yellow fever on board. He has also been informed that two cases of fever developed on the vessel at Kingston, Jamaica. The bark was sent to the quarantine station on Fisherman's island.

Death of a Well Known Detective.

New Haven, July 31.—Sergeant Philip Reilly, a retired member of the New Haven police force and one of the best known detectives in Connecticut, died at his home. For over a quarter of a century Detective Reilly was on the force and was unusually successful in ferreting out criminals. He was stricken with paralysis, and death came shortly after.

Seizure of Dynamite.

New York, July 31.—Inspectors from the bureau of combustibles have seized 100 pounds of dynamite and 100 exploders which, without the necessary permit, were found in the possession of Contractor McLoughlin, who is constructing in the newly annexed portion of the city.

Capsuloids.
Dr. Campbell's Wonderful Method of Restoring Natural Iron to the Blood, and Thus Curing Disease, Successfully Introduced in America.
Capsuloids, the great medicine which has cured thousands in London, England, and which is endorsed and prescribed by the most eminent English physicians, has come to America. It is not a patent or secret medicine. Capsuloids are little, soft pointed globes of pure gelatine filled with the only natural iron yet discovered. This iron is exactly the same as the iron in your blood when healthy, and is not like the iron in any pills or mixtures that you have ever taken. The well-known London physician, Dr. Campbell, found that iron medicine disagreed with almost every person, and after a series of experiments discovered that the iron in human blood, which is called Hæmoglobin, is identical with the iron in the blood of cows and bullocks. A means of extracting this natural iron or Hæmoglobin from the blood of healthy bullocks was discovered. It was re-dissolved, enclosed in a covering of pure gelatine in the form of a small pointed globe, known to physicians as Capsuloids. Many experiments made by Dr. Campbell and other London physicians demonstrated that when a Capsuloid was swallowed, the gelatine covering melted in a minute, and the dissolved iron or Hæmoglobin passed directly into the blood vessels, and within a few minutes was giving richness and color to the fluid of life, renewing the strength of all the nerves and tissues of the body.
Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from the office of The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York City.

Something to Know.
It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

Mrs. Lucius H. Bigelow and family, of Madison avenue, are stopping at the Tuthill Point House, East Moriches, L. I., where they will remain until the middle of September.

The Grandest Remedy.
Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Rev. Mr. Thompson, has secured a charge in South Jersey, and has left town to take up his residence where his pastorate is located.

Reasons Why Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is the Best.
1. Because it affords almost instant relief in case of pain in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus.
2. Because it is the only remedy that never fails in the most severe cases of dysentery and diarrhoea.
3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhoea.
4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent bilious colic.
5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemical dysentery.
6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
8. Because it produces no bad results.
9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.
10. Because it has saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world.

THE TROUBLES IN INDIA.

British Troops Repulse Another Attack. Arrival of Re-enforcements.

Simla, July 31.—A dispatch from Camp Malakand reports another night attack by the tribesmen. The natives fought desperately for several hours, but were repulsed at all points. Bonfires had been lighted around the camp, and in the glare the tribesmen were easy targets for the English riflemen. Many fell, and in the light of the flames the natives could be seen removing their dead. It is reported that the mullah was badly wounded, and that several of his principal chiefs were disabled.

The British lost 1 man and 17 wounded, among the latter being Lieutenant Costello, who was wounded the second time. He had received a slight wound during the attack on Wednesday.

The losses of the enemy is believed to have been heavier than on any previous occasion. The fact that the mullah was wounded and his chief disciple killed will dishearten the fanatics. The mullah posed as divinely inspired and as able to capture Malakand.

The force of the mullah have been augmented by a strong gathering of the natives on the hills to the right of the British position. The theory is that the Bonorwals have risen. The situation is now somewhat relieved by the arrival of re-enforcements under Colonel Reed from Nowshora.

THE BIG ENCAMPMENT.

Statement Giving the Number of Veterans From Each State.

Buffalo, July 31.—Major William Parsons, secretary to Captain J. B. Guthrie, commander of Camp Jewett, has issued the following statement, showing the number of veterans from each state assigned to Camp Jewett: Illinois, 200; Indiana, 208; Iowa, 383; Kansas, 60; Maryland, 25; Kentucky, 200; Massachusetts, 1,022; Michigan, 798; New Jersey, 30; New Hampshire, 50; New York, 2,148; Canada, department of New York, 40; Ohio, 1,996; Pennsylvania, 3,061; Vermont, 70, and Wisconsin, 15, making a total of 10,306. More veterans will be assigned, until the number reaches the 12,000 mark.

State Commander Albert D. Shaw of Watertown, who has been in the city arranging the details of the parade for this state, has returned home.

CHARGED WITH BIGAMY.

Warrant Issued For the Arrest of Lord Willie Coutant.

Newburg, N. Y., July 31.—Supreme Court Judge William D. Dickey has issued a warrant for the arrest of William A. Coutant, Jr., generally known as Lord Willie. The charge is bigamy. In December, 1894, he married Miss Minnie Enid Vaughan of Cobleskill, N. Y. In a few days they separated. Coutant sought to annul the marriage on the ground that he was insane at the time of the marriage. The referee decided against him.

In March last Coutant married Miss Lora Helen Mullen of Middletown, N. Y. June 10 his first wife secured a divorce on the ground of adultery, proof having been given of the second marriage. Both women have been before Judge Dickey, and on the evidence submitted a warrant was issued.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Rev. Father James Perron, who died in New York last February, left a will bequeathing his fortune to charity.

James Henry, a bachelor, aged 104, and Miss Emily Boynton, 97, both colored, have been married in Knoxville.

The British ship Tasmania, Captain Grahn, from Calcutta, ran upon sunken rocks off Cape Maria, at the northern extremity of Auckland, and sank immediately. All on board were saved.

Five drill holes blasted in Six Mile hill shaft at Houghton, Mich., broke seven tons of ground, over one ton of which was native copper. This is by far the richest strike of copper ever made.

A freight train was stalled in Lewis tunnel at Hinton, W. Va., on the Chesapeake and Ohio road, and the crew was overcome by foul air. Conductor Edward Bray is dead, and three others are in a precarious condition.

A fire started in the coal bunkers of the United States steamship Wilmington, in the aft starboard locker, several days after the vessel had left Savannah for this port. It was, however, extinguished, with no damage.

Colonel Frederick Dent Grant has carried out his announced purpose to resign because his colleagues in the New York police board refused to agree with him in the manner in which the police should secure evidence against disorderly houses.

MARCHING MINERS.

Proceedings to Be Taken to Compel Them to Return Home.

WARNING PROCLAMATIONS POSTED.

All Persons Must Refrain From Assembling or Congregating on the Public Thoroughfares or Highways or Interfering With the Peace.

Pittsburg, July 31.—Legal proceedings are to be taken against the marching coal miners unless they disband and go to their homes.

This has been decided on, and Sheriff Harvey A. Lowrey will be expected to see to it that the assemblages are disbanded. While the marches on the mines of the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal company have not been as effective as the miners' officials could wish it is evident that the marches are making an impression on the employees of the company.

There has been posted in the vicinity of the Turtle Creek, Sandy Creek and Plum Creek mines a proclamation issued by the sheriff commanding that all persons shall refrain from assembling or congregating on the public highways or thoroughfares of Allegheny county or interfering with the peace.

President Dolan's Address.

President Patrick Dolan said he did not care how many proclamations were issued so long as the peace was kept, which, he said, it was intended to do. He addressed a meeting this morning and went over about the same ground covered in his former speech. He added that all the labor organizations in the country, with the exception of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, were with the miners in their strike. He made an attack on this order, saying that owing to the inroads of electric railways and other means of rapid transit the wages of the engineers would drop sooner or later, and then they would be asking assistance from other organizations.

In all of the other portions of the mining district the strike matters are quiet. The strikers are awaiting with an anxious interest the result at the De Armitt mines. The owners of the Castle Shannon mine have decided to close their plant until the present differences in the coal trade are adjusted.

Making Desperate Efforts at Wheeling.

Wheeling, July 31.—The striking miners' organizers in the Wheeling district are making desperate efforts to counteract the effect of the refusal of the men in two mines of the Boggs Run Coal company to come out, but it is likely the Boggs Run break will precipitate others. In fact, the mine at Moundsville has been working with a small force, and 33 of the 70 men at Elm Grove were at work. The Glendale operators assert that their mine will resume with a full force.

All of these desertions are the direct cause of the failure to bring out the Boggs Run men. Secretary Lewis of the Ohio miners and Organizers Anderson and Selzburg of the Wheeling district addressed a meeting in Moundsville, which three-fourths of the miners attended. The vote to organize a local union of the mine workers was unanimous. It is claimed the men at Moundsville will stay out, notwithstanding the Boggs Run break.

Miners' Grievances Discussed.

Pittsburg, Kan., July 31.—Representatives of 5 of the 15 coal mining companies in this district have met here with the special committee appointed by the miners at their convention held last Saturday and discussed the grievances of the miners. The meeting was secret and lasted over two hours. The miners, it is understood, demanded a better quality of powder at a lower price, semimonthly pay days, an increase of price to 60 cents per ton and an increase in the price of entry work.

No decision has been reached, but another conference will be held on Friday, Aug. 6. T. B. McGregor, a national organizer of the United Mine Workers of America, was in the city, but was refused admittance to the conference.

Gold Company Incorporated.

Trenton, July 31.—The United States Alaska Gold company, with an authorized capital of $1,000,000, has been incorporated by the filing of articles in the office of the secretary of state. The company is formed for the purpose of mining gold in the Klondike fields. The incorporators are: Ralph McKee of Tompkinsville, S. I.; Henry P. Whittaker, Hotel Imperial, New York; Frederick J. Brown, Brooklyn; Harry F. Roesser, Hotel Netherland, New York; Thomas P. Daniels, Hotel Girard, New York, and James A. Atwater, New York. The capital stock paid in is $1,200.

Street Railways Consolidate.

Albany, July 31.—Papers have been filed with the secretary of state certifying to the consolidation of the Oneonta Street Railway company and the Oneonta and Otego Valley railroad. The consolidated company will have a capital stock of $100,000. Its directors are Frank Gould, A. C. Moody, A. C. Lewis, Parker Wilson, A. D. Getman, C. Van B. Pruyn, H. H. Getman, Squire B. Gardner and D. W. Miller of Oneonta.

Murder Verdict Found.

Montgomery, Ala., July 31.—After two days of investigation of the killing of P. H. Patterson, who was shot in front of the altar in a negro Baptist church in this place Wednesday, the coroner's jury has returned a verdict of death by the hand of George W. Pritchard, and that Rev. A. J. Stokes, Rev. P. T. Brown, William Bracy, Mace Coleman and Calvin Micon are accomplices. They were also indicted by the grand jury.

Rainfall at the Reservoirs.

Carmel, N. Y., July 31.—The rainfall at the New York city reservoirs in this vicinity during July follows: Carmel, 16.57 inches; Boyds, 12.10; Middle Branch Southeast, 11.08, and Sodom, 11.50. Twelve inches of water are now running over the dam of the reservoir at this place.

Arrival of Haytian Consul.

New York, July 31.—Among the passengers who have arrived on the Dutch steamer Prinz Wilhelm II, from West Indian ports, were Joseph Nicolas, Haytian consul at New York, and family.

NO YARNS AT ALL.

The Plainfield Press has been publishing a lot of yarns about the Somerville jail. It is needless for us to say that there is no foundation for the stories. Sheriff Wyckoff keeps the jail in a most excellent condition, considering the class of the visitors that he has, and if Brother Force will come to Somerville we will show him the cleanest and best-kept jail to be found in the State. Come up, Brother Force. The Sheriff will not detain you, even if you have been saying naughty things about his castle and its inmates.—Somerville Democrat.

The Press has not been publishing "a lot of yarns"; it did print stories of a few incidents that happened in the jail which were perfectly true and legitimate news, but the Democrat's construction that these stories were a reflection on the jail management is without warrant. The articles in no way criticised Sheriff Wyckoff, whom everyone knows to be an official whose all-round good fellowship incites pity and compassion, finding expression in as kind treatment as is possible and advisable, for the poor wretches whose indiscretions have brought them into the toils of the law.

PASSING COMMENT.

One of the amusing phases of the recent destructive rain storm in this section was the wild delight which the small boy everywhere displayed at the sight of the rising water in the streets. At first shoes and stockings were taken off and wading was indulged in. As the water mounted higher, however, the youngsters became more ambitious. Rafts were improvised and they paddled about imagining themselves pirates on the high seas. In one of the flooded streets in Netherwood a number of boys were seen rowing about in a sure enough rowboat which they had secured from some unknown source.

COUNTY POLITICS.

Roger F. Murray Said to be a Candidate for Republican Assembly Nominee.

County politics are being discussed and candidates for the offices to be filled this fall are being talked of. For Assemblyman, the present incumbents, Messrs. Roll, Codington and Clauss are said to be each willing to serve another term, while the new names mentioned among Republicans are former Assemblyman Codding, Councilman Patterson and former Councilman Squires, of Elizabeth, Roger F. Muray, of Plainfield, and Major Edgar, of this city. Summit Republicans are also said to have a candidate in training. The only county office to be filled is that of Surrogate and very deservedly the only Republican thought of is the present able and efficient encumbent of that office, Geo. T. Parrot. The silver Democrats, it is said, will favor the nomination of former County Clerk Crowell, of this city. With the revival of business, following the passage of the new tariff and the excellent organization of the Republicans as against the divided Democracy, the record of Republican victories in this county should be fully maintained this fall.—Rahway Advocate.

OLD NEPTUNE'S SUBLIME SPECTACLE

Thousands of Guests at Asbury Park Witness a Storm at Sea.

During the recent storm which swept over the land the hotel proprietors at Asbury Park were the first four days of the week at their wits' end planning new methods of entertaining their guests, who were practically stormstaid.

That resort, it is said, has never seen such a severe and long-continued storm in the summer time. Many of the visitors feel that they were repaid, however, for the detention within doors so long by the magnificent exhibition of surf which Old Naptune gave. The breakers were even higher than they were ever witnessed, it is said, and the terrific east wind swept the spray, dashing it fifty feet into the air, across Ocean avenue and baptized the guests who braved the storm by remaining on the hotel piazzas. Thousands of the guests encased themselves in wafer-proof attire and fought their way up and down the tempest swept boardwalk to witness the spectacle of a storm at sea.

"Founder" Bradley's plank promeade, which was knocked to splinters for a distance of 200 yards by the furious breakers, is being rapidly repaired, so that the August crowd will not be deprived of one of Asbury Park's chief attractions.

FAST RACING ASSURED.

Events for Horsemen at the State Fair in September.

The fall campaign of the light harness horse looks bright for owners throughout the State. The purses announced by the managers of the New Jersey State Fair are of a most liberal order and it is anticipated that this season's race meet at the beautiful grounds of the society, located at Waverley Park, near Newark, will be the scene of some of the best races ever held in this the State. Altogether the purses offered for four days' races amounts to $6,400, divided into many classes.

This liberal encouragement by the society to owners of trotting stock is of particular benefit to the State, stimulating as it does the breeding interests. New Jersey is peculiarly fortunate to its location between the great cities of New York and Philadelphia, and if the farmers would fully realize their opportunity the breeding and raising of high class horses for road and carriage use would bring them a round sum annually. The cities named furnish a ready market for the right class of horses at prices that pay.

Speed contests, such as those seen at "Old Waverley," Somerville, Trenton and Mt. Holly, have done good work in the past toward improving the breeding interests, and with continued encouragement in the shape of purses like those announced for the coming State Fair, to be held September 6th to 10th, it is safe to look forward to a revival in this branch of the animal industry.

The society has also arranged a full programme for show class horses in which are offered prizes amounting to $2 500, and to insure fair and impartial judgment they have selected ene of the leading judges in the United States, Mr. James Walker, of Colbwater, Michigan, to serve as expert in placing the various awards to the horse department.

It is the desire of the society to make this year's meet a banner one, and all horsemen and lovers of the light harness horse are invited to take part in making the race events to be decided at this year's State Fair the best on record.

GREAT SWARMS OF 'SKEETERS.

A Farmer, Rather Than Pay Pickers' Prices, Lets His Berries Go.

The long siege of wet weather has had the effect of multiplying a billionfold the mosquito crop in South Jersey. Even the oldest residents who have grown somewhat hardened say they never saw anything like the present outpouring. The mosquitoes fly in great swarms and make life out of doors unendurable. In the towns and villages near the coast the situation is alarming, because the live stock is suffering severely from the attacks and the farm work is greatly hindered.

A farmer near Woodbine has lost a large crop of blackberries because he preferred to let them rot on the vines rather than pay the exorbitant prices demanded by pickers, who would be compelled to brave the mosquitoes.

Eisenmann, and the three-story brown stone front house, 110 East 101st street, to George McCullom. Mr. Guggenheimer has also purchased in exchange for other property the southeast corner of East Broadway and Park Row, being numbered 229 and 231 Park Row and 66 New Bowery, from John W. Eisenmann. A portion of this property is given in exchange for the Hyde mansion, in Seventh street, Plainfield, N. J.

WESTFIELD

SETTLEMENT EFFECTED.

TOWNSHIP COMMITTEE PAYS SEWER CONTRACTORS' CLAIM.

New Building and Loan Association Organized—Panic at the Westfield Fresh Air Camp—Loss of Many Chickens.

The Westfield Township Committee met in the town rooms last night and effected a settlement with Stratford & Hawks, the sewer contractors. The amount agreed upon was $4,287.76, which the township treasurer was ordered to pay to Foster M. Voorhees, counsel for the contractors. L. G. Cohen appeared and urged the Committee to take vigorous legal measures to recover from Former Tax Collector A. K. Gale the amounts which he had illegally overcharged in fees. Bills amounting to $27.65 were ordered paid. A communication was received from the trustees of the First Methodist church, stating that the corporation would pay its sewer assesment in ten annual instalments. Mrs. Mary Hurst sent a communication stating that she wished to pay the sewer assessments upon her property in five annual installments. The committee then adjourned to meet next Friday night.

A Westfield branch of the Mutual Guarantee Building and Loan Association was organized Thursday night. The following officers were elected: President, John F. Dorvall; vice-president, E. N. Brown; secretary-treasurer, H. C. Piker; medical examiner, Dr. R. R Sinclair; attorney, Paul Q. Oliver; directors, John F. Dorvall, C. E. Smith, E. N. Brown, George W. Baker, Dr. T. R. Harvey, P. Q. Oliver, Martin Snyder, Dr. R R. Sinclair, G. W. Wrennick, H. C. Piker and Dr. William Gale. The directors will meet on the second Monday night of each month at the office of Paul Q. Oliver in the First National Bank building.

The heavy rains of Wednesday caused quite a panic among the visitors at the Westfield Fresh Air Camp. The grounds, which are low, were under several inches of water, and the roofs leaked badly. The sickness of several of the children added to the unpleasantness of the situation, and the best efforts of the matron, Miss Curry, were needed to prevent serious results from the panic.

John Singer, the Westfield butcher, has lost about 65 chickens from his place at Graceland during the past week, and has been unable to account for their disappearance. The remains of some of the fowls were found yesterday, and it is now supposed that they were killed by dogs.

Central Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., held a meeting in the council rooms last evening and initiated John H. Frazee, a newly elected member. The name of Thomas W. Wells was proposed for membership, and the regular business was transacted.

JUNIORS AND LIQUOR BUSINESS.

Interest Aroused Over the Action of the National Council.

The state council of the Jr. O. U. A. M. will meet in Trenton on the fourth Wednesday in October, and the prospects are that the reports will show that the order has been growing during all these hard times. Fifteen councils have been instituted so far during the year, with an increase in membership 3,100.

The financial committee of the state council will meet in the office of State Council Secretary Miers on Friday evening, and the appeal committee will meet at the same place on Saturday, August 7.

Considerable interest is being aroused in the order over the action taken at the last session of the national council, at Omaha, on the question of members of the order engaging in the liquor business. Three years ago a general law was enacted by the national council that no saloonkeeper could be admitted to membership in the order. At the last session an amendment was adopted as follows:

"Section 4. Any member of this order who shall, after August 1, 1897, engage or continue in the manufacture, wholesale or retail sale of alcoholic, spirituous or malt liquors, to be used as beverage, shall be tried on charge preferred in the subordinate council to which he belongs, and if found guilty shall be expelled."

Some difference of opinion has arisen over the construction of the amendment. Some claim that any person now in the business and continuing therein after the 1st of August, will be liable to the penalties prescribed in the amendment. Others contend that it means only those who shall engage in the business subsequent to August 1, and continue therein, probably after notification of the violation of the law of the order, shall be liable.

A decision from the national councillor has been asked for, and pending that the different councils will take no action in any cases that may arise.

NEW YORK LETTER.

The scheme of furnishing additional breathing space for the people of this city by means of utilizing some of the piers has been in process of agitation for some years, but it remained for the present Dock Commissioners to take hold and develop the project.

When the present Dock Board came into power it found, although the law had been on the books for three years, there were no recreation piers along the water front. President E. C. O'Brien and Commissioners Einstein and Monks were all impressed with the advantages to be derived from the piers, and the machinery of the department was set in motion with the result that four recreation piers have been projected. The first one to be completed was formally thrown open to the public yesterday afternoon. It is situated at the foot of East Third Street, and is right in a section of the city where the population is dense and the park area by no means too great.

The recreation section of the pier is simply a second story built on the old pier after the latter had been strengthened. The superstructure is of steel and the dimensions of the floor are 350 feet long by 52 wide. Secretary Terry of the Dock Department, who has taken special interest in these piers, estimates that the pier will accommodate 5,000 people when it is crowded, and that 3,000 can get accommodated in great comfort. The thousands of men, women and children who will enjoy these breezy promenades in the future and the benefits in the way of health and recreation that they will afford doubtless lead to the construction of a number of other recreation piers. Each one will add materially to the comfort of the people and to the well-being of the community.

The Greater City.

The chief difficulty in organizing the Greater City of New York will be in arranging its fiances. An entirely new Government will go into operation January 1, and yet its expenses must be provided for this year by the financial boards of the present separate municipalities. No one can foresee exactly what the needs of the new city will be, and yet there is no other way of making up the budgets and fixing the tax levies than that which is provided by the machinery of the present Government. It may be necessary for the next Legislature to pass a law to enable the new city to make up any deficiencies that may result from this state of things. On Manhattan will undoubtedly rest the heaviest burden of taxation, because it is the richest of the five boroughs. On Comptroller Fitch rests the chief responsibility of creating order out of possible confusion in the finances. He is now preparing notices, to be sent to the heads of all city departments, notifying them to forward, at as early a date as possible, estimates of money they will require to run their departments for the year 1898. The Brooklyn estimate for 1898 has been made up, with an average cut of 20 per cent. in the amounts demanded by heads of departments. The tax levies last year, in the five boroughs to compose Greater New York aggregated about $60,000,000, but it will probably cost not less than $70,000,000 and possibly much more to run the new city. New York will then have the distinction of having greater revenues than any other city in the world, even overtopping London in this item. The fact is, moreover, that while a new city is being created in a political sense, a new city is also being established in a material sense. Consolidation means something more than one central government instead of five. It means public improvements of an important character in every part of a wide territory. While most of these improvements will be paid for by the issue of bonds, in order that future generations may share in the expense, yet they necessarily mean increased municipal expenses every year for a long time to come.

Judge Tenny's Appointment.

The selection of Asa W. Tenney, of Brooklyn, as the successor of United States Judge Benedict, meets with favor. Mr. Tenney has long been a leading lawyer and citizen of Brooklyn, and as an effective Republican campaign orator he is known in nearly every State of the country. He is a man of culture and personal character, and is understood to be the President's own choice, although Senator Platt has approved of the appointment. Mr. Tenney was for twelve years United States District Attorney in the court over which he will now preside. He succeeded General Tracy in that position, and was successively appointed by Presidents Grant, Hayes and Garfield. He is 64 years old.

Gov. Black's Knock Out to Civil Service.

The Civil Service Reformers say that the new rules for the examination of applicants for public positions, as adopted by the State Commission by direction of Governor Black, under the new law forced by him upon the State, practically nullify Civil Service Reform. The rules provide that examinations for fitness may be conducted by the appointing officers with or without record, at their discretion. Of course, however high may be the merit of an applicant, his appointment now depends solely upon the favor of the appointing officer.

CYRUS THORP.

CRANKS' COLUMN.

Suggestions that Emanate from Pens of Bicycle Riders.

The bicycle is likely to prove a much more important factor at the summer resort this year than ever before. The average guest of the younger element will go provided with a wheel, and the young man or young woman without one will be left out of many an enjoyable time. The hotel people appreciate this fact, as is shown by the advertisements and circular matter issued by them for special inducements are offered to cyclers, and the number of good roads and cycling opportunities dilated upon as carefully as any of the other advantages enumerated for the purpose of attracting guests. At resorts where driving has always been one of the leading features, the liverymen look on this with continued feelings of disgust, while rumor has it that the modiste and dressmakers are not altogether pleased at the outlook. For fashion has decreed that cycling is the proper thing, and to be in the swim one must pose as a rider no matter how much or how little the wheel may actually be used, and milady will use a cycling costume for many occasions where in former years she required a much more extensive wardrobe.

On the bicycle the knee breeches of the men may be regarded as a necessity, and so is a special dress of some kind for women, to avoid entanglement in the crank and chain. No one can claim that the golf stocking is particularly handsome, but it has the merit of being comfortable and requiring no support. Knickerbockers also have their merits. One thing is certain. The old conservatism or timidity in regard to dress for pastime has been broken down among both men and women, and the wearing of a golfing or cycling costume has ceased to attract notice. The garments best adapted to recreation, within the bounds of respectability are recognized as the proper ones to wear.

Many persons abstain from bicycle riding because they are troubled with shortness of breath, and imagine that the exercise will injure them. Physicians say, however, that the reverse is the case. They say that moderate riding will certainly increase the capacity of the lungs, and very often entirely eradicate the trouble. They estimate that a bicycle can be propelled five miles on a level road with less expenditure of power than is used in walking one mile. The greatest danger arising from cycling is that of over exertion. The work is so easy and the exercise so exhilarating that riders do not realize how far they have gone until the excitement wears off and they find themselves greatly fatigued.

It is predicted by a good many people that women riders will soon desert the bicycle for the tricycle. This appears to be hardly likely. Back of the prediction is the assertion that Dame Fashion orders the change. All of this is due to the fact that the Princess of Wales has started the innovation, preferring the tricycle to the bicycle. With such fashionable precedent the society dames throughout England are following the example of her higness, and the craze is extending to this country. In Marlborough house, the London residence of the Prince of Wales, there are stored in the cycle room sixteen bicycles and tricycles. Conspicuous among them is the tricycle of the Princess of Wales, on which she takes her exercise within the spacious grounds surrounding the mansion. The Prince of Wales also has a tricycle in the collection, which he uses considerably.

All reputable makers guarantee their wheels, but many riders understand very little about what the guarantee covers. The promise is to "make good by repair or replacement any defect or imperfection in material or manufacture of the machine, not due to the rider's misuse or neglect." This is a very safe promise to make, but its value to the rider is problematical. Suppose the handle-bar breaks—the dealer will say that you leaned on it too heavily; if the spokes are bent, you must have had a fall or a collision; if the steering post snaps off at the fork crown, the damage resulted from the neglect of the rider to keep the head of the machine properly adjusted. So on, with a score of accidents, every one of which can be charged to the rider's carelessness or recklessness. In fact, the dealer and maker always assumes, in case of accident, that the rider has been negligent. It is only business shrewdness that makes the dealer repair trifling damages. Under his contract he need not do so; but if he does not, the news will spread, and he may lose many a prospective buyer.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

For a quarter of a century the relationship between William McKinley and William R. Day has been growing. In Cicero de Amicitia the ideal friendship is described. Between the President and the Assistant Secretary it is exemplified. The affable, well-spoken, zealous champion of his party's principles finds in the retiring, reticent, judicially-minded lawyer that companionship which is satisfying and profitable. The one has tested the other's counsel again and again, and has learned to know its value. The other, without political ambitions, fond of the woods and of books, a student of the activities from without rather than by participation, has followed the fortunes of his friend in public life with the loyalty of Jonathan for David.

It is a strange thing in politics, a President with such a friend. Washington is learning how the President relies upon this friends, and how the friend with unstinted loyalty justifies continuously that confidence. With the selfifishness and heartlessness of public life so liberally illustrated. It is a good thing to have this object lesson of the other sort.

McKinley's Tact.

Whenever there is criticism of the administration it is directed, not against the President personally, but against influences supposed to be surrounding and controlling. Democrats and Populists and silverites darken the doors of the White House. Such extremists as Teller and Tillman do not hesitate to call and introduce constituents who want to talk about the patronage. Quite recently, when he was being pressed about a matter which would require the consent of the committee on military affairs, the President told those most interested to go and see Senator Cockrell, of Missouri, the dominating spirit on the minority side of the committee. Not until the answer was brought back that the Democratic economist would waive opposition did the President consent to do as desired. When he appointed the ex-Vice President on the bimetallic commission he pleased the entire following of Mr. Bryan. And when, a few days ago, he named ex-Congressman David B. Culberson to a place on the commission to revise and codify the laws, the selection gave widespread gratification to the Democrats. The President started in March with the good will of all, and up to this time he has steadily strengthened it by his words and acts.

Mr. Sherman and the Papers.

Sitting erect in the middle of the seat, the top of the landau thrown back, a slouch hat tilted slightly on the right side, a cigar between his lips, the premier of the administration rode down Fourteenth street. As he passed the row, he gazed serenly at the formidable array of newspaper signs. The look of good nature underwent no change. The Secretary of State is looking well. He seems more robust as a member of the Cabinet than he did as a Senator. Recently he said to a friend that he was having a much easier time than he expected. Just at present Mr. Sherman is doing more newspaper reading than usual. He wants to see all that is said about his "failing mind." He reads these things from beginning to end, and when he puts down the sheet nobody can tell whether John Sherman has been amused or shocked. The bright light of political life fell on Mr. Sherman full fifty years ago. It has been shining constantly ever since. In that period Mr. Sherman has read a great many hard things about himself. Time and opportunity have been afforded for the cultivation of a fine philosophy in his estimation of newspaper publicity. Mr. Sherman long ago acquired that mental habit. What ever the growing years may have brought to the grand old man of finance, they have not yet disturbed his philosophy.

The Consulship Craze.

One member of the administration is in need of a respite. The secretary to the President begins to show what it is to be a buffer. Day after day the office-seeking surf rolls up to the door of Mr. Porter's room and spends itself. The secretary stands all day in the foam of it up to his chin, and long after the doors of the mansion close the roar is still in his ears. Office-seeking is a disease. It is a fever in the blood. Every four years it becomes epidemic. Under the influence men of intelligence, of means, and of self-respect, do things which would be impossible for them when the delirium has abated. A man may be sane on all else but the getting of office. With each succeeding four years the disease seems to develop more aggravated symptoms. As the population increases and competition in business and in the professions grows sharper the number of victims becomes larger. Washington has never known the office-seekers to be so numerous and to stay so long as this year. The blanket extensions of the civil service turn them away from the departments, and so they focus their attention on the White House and want to be Consuls. When Secretary Porter, late in the afternoon, brings out from the library the information that the President can see no more callers until next day, the waiting candidates lingeringly arise and go down the stairs. To the credit of the administration, let it be said that no brutal proclamation has yet been issued rebuking this weakness and branding it as "indecent."

ARMY WORM MEETS DISASTER.

Ukiah Valley Indians Acted While the Men of Science Were Debating.

The Ukiah Valley, Cal., has been suffering from a raid of army worms, which in solid phalanx crawled through fields and groves and vineyards and left devastation behind. Entomologists came to study the character and habits of the pest, and looked at one another and wondered what could be done to stop the destruction.

The Indians at the reservation here heard that the army worms had come, and forthwith let no grass grow under their feet. They did not know as much as entomologists, but in executive ability regarding army worms the whole lot of learned bug hunters could not equal one mahala. There was great excitement at the rancheria over the news, and old and young, bucks and mahalas, pappooses and dogs, gathered up blankets and baskets and started for the field of battle. The worms travel in an almost solid body, and with a fairly straight front. The mahalas, several dozens of them, squatted in front of the advancing army, and let the worms crawl over them. When one was well covered—hair, face, clothing and all—with the wriggling creatures, she got up very carefully, trying not to drop a single one, spread out a blanket, and gave herself a good shaking over it. When she had shaken the worms all off she quickly and very skillfully transferred them into a basket, which she covered tightly, and then squatted down again in front of the creeping host. The process required but a few minutes, and the women were constantly jumping up and shaking themselves and squatting down again.

In the meantime the bucks, with true Indian dignity, stood around and bossed things, occasionally scooping up a handful of worms and eating them, au naturel. The children ran about in unchecked glee, stuffing themselves with raw worms and poking the pests by handfuls into the baskets. It was a regular picnic for the whole village, even the dogs sharing in the general excitement and delight, for the Indian dogs are as fond of a worm feast as are the Indians themselves, and the beasts ranged about and dashed into the thick of the traveling army, and even stopped barking at one another to devour worms. These dogs will leave a breakfast of beefsteak at any time to gormandize on worms. And so will their masters.

Excepting a plague of grasshoppers, a pest of army worms is about the greatest blessing that can befall the Indians of this valley, who are mainly of the Sanel and Tokia tribes, and belong in general classification to the Diggers. They kept at their work all day, until they had filled every basket, pan and pail in the rancheria. They captured millions upon millions of the things, and where there had been an army of worms they left only a few scattered detachments. The squaws fastened their prizes tightly into the receptacles and left them there to die. Then the worms were ground up in stone mortars and dried. What else is done to them no white man knows. The exact process of preparing the delicacy is guarded as sacredly as a Mason's oath, and none but the old mahalas is allowed to touch the worms after they are ground, or to be initiated into the secret of the process. For, although the Indians are ravenously fond of this diet of worms, it has a religious significance, and is supposed to have a medical value that the whites know nothing about.—New York Sun.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings make them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the materia, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

AN ORDINANCE

to require the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company to protect the grade crossing at Ashbrook, where the tracks of said company cross the public highway or road at grade, by the erection and maintenance of arms or gates, or the placing and maintaining of a flagman at such crossing between the hours of six o'clock a. m. and ten o'clock p. m.

Section 1. Be it enacted that the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company be and hereby are required to protect the grade crossing where the tracks of said company cross the public highway or road which leads from Fanwood to Rahway (at Goodman's crossing) by the erection and maintenance of arms or gates, or the placing and maintaining of a flagman at said grade crossing between the hours of six o'clock a. m. and ten o'clock p. m.

Section 2. And be it enacted that the said Railroad Company, upon failure to comply with the provisions of this ordinance within thirty days after notice of the passage of the same shall be, upon conviction thereof, subject to a fine of fifty dollars per day for each and every day's violation thereof.

CONDITION OF TRADE.

Dun's Review Reports Improvement From Almost All Points.

New York, July 31.—Dun's Review, in looking over the past week's business, says:

Dispatches from almost every northern city of importance report without exception improvement in business and from Detroit to Seattle and Portland splendid crop prospects. The stock market was expected to drop off with realizing after the tariff bill passed, but it advanced. The wheat market seemed to have met a reaction, but has been moving upward as rapidly as before. Money markets have been made more confident by declarations of the president and Secretary Gage.

The most important event since the passage of the new tariff, which was generally anticipated a week ago, has been the marked increase in foreign demand and advance in price of wheat, which has risen 4½ cents during the week, with western receipts for the first time exceeding last year's.

The woolen manufacture answers wholesomely and moderately to new tariff conditions, and while opening of light weights below about $1 in cost has met a very encouraging demand the advance in prices asked is not large.

Failures for 22 days of July have been only $4,463,251, against $12,069,481 in 23 days last year, $8,392,727 in 25 days of 1895 and $9,016,778 in 1894. Manufacturing were $1,954,495, against $5,553,211 last year, and trading were $2,459,730, against $5,258,450 last year. Failures for the week have been 236 in the United States, against 281 last year, and 28 in Canada, against 40 last year.

EVERY BONE BROKEN.

Edgar McClure Fell From a 300 Foot Precipice Exploring Mount Tacoma.

Tacoma, July 31.—Professor Edgar McClure, of the Oregon State University, fell over a 300 foot precipice while descending Mount Tacoma in the darkness.

His body was found and was placed in a snowbank awaiting the arrival of an undertaker.

Dr. Davott Connell of Portland, Or., says every bone in the professor's body was broken by the fall. His face was lacerated and his skull fractured.

Professor McClure was married and about 30 years of age. He had charge of the government's scientific department of the annual mountain climbing expedition of the Mazemas, the Coast Alpina society.

He and his friends did not go with the regular party, which numbered 50 and which made the ascent and descent in safety, using a life line.

The McClure party used no life line, and that recklessness while traveling by night accounts for the accident.

BUDAPEST PARLIAMENT.

Deadlock Broken and a Compromise Reached About Libel Cases.

Budapest, July 31.—The parliamentary deadlock which has existed for a long time past has at last been ended, and a compromise has been reached, the government agreeing to a modification of the clause in the criminal procedure bill providing that in the future newspaper libel cases should be tried by a judge without a jury.

The opposition considered this an infringement upon the liberty of the press and successfully blocked all legislation until the government yielded.

By the terms of the compromise the opposition undertakes not to obstruct in the autumn the discussions of the provisional budget and the provisional arrangement of the Austro-Hungarian compromise question.

WITHDRAWS HIS CHARGES.

Professor Gokhlee, the Notorious Agitator, Admits Having Been Mistaken.

Bombay, July 31.—The notorious Professor Gokhlee, an agitator against the British administration, has just landed here. The police searched his baggage; but, contrary to expectation, did not arrest him. A crowd of Mahrattas cheered him upon his arrival. Gokhlee is the professor in the Deccan college who wrote to the Poona papers accusing the British soldiers of having assaulted two women, one of whom subsequently committed suicide.

After landing he unreservedly withdrew the charges. He admits that he was misled by the persons at Poona from whom he got the information on which his allegations were based and says he is prepared to make a full apology to the government.

GOLD AS EVIDENCE.

Found In the Room of a Man Suspected of Murder.

Lynn, Mass., July 31.—The gold coin stolen from John Gullio, who, it is believed, was murdered in Lynnfield last Wednesday morning, has been found by State Officer George C. Neal and Chief of Police Vannah of Wakefield and is now in their hands as evidence against Alfred C. Williams.

The money was found under the carpet in Williams' room at the Carleton House. There were two $20 goldpieces, carefully hidden. The tacks in the carpet had been removed, the gold pushed under, the tacks replaced and a table moved over the spot.

The murdered Gullio has been buried. There was a service at St. Joseph's Catholic church in Wakefield and an interment at the cemetery in Stoneham.

Reception For Victorious Oarsman.

Boston, July 31.—A reception is to be tendered Edward H. Ten Eyck, winner of the Diamond sculls at the Henley regatta, in Faneuil hall, Tuesday night, Aug. 3. Every boat club in and around Boston will be represented at the reception, and the affair will be in charge of the New England Amateur Rowing association.

Insane Asylum Inmate Drowned.

New York, July 31.—It has been learned that James Schieren, 58 years of age, an inmate of the State Insane asylum, was drowned on Monday while bathing at Northport, N. Y. The accident was kept quiet by the authorities. He was in the water with a number of other patients, when he suddenly disappeared.

Pennsylvania Man Missing.

Middletown, N. Y., July 31.—F. F. Sprague of Cross Forks, Pa., is missing. He went to Roscoe to visit relatives and started home a month ago. He sent a letter saying he would be home on a certain date. He has failed to appear as yet, and it is feared he is a victim of foul play.

DENIAL OF AN ATTACK.

Officials at Havana Deny There Has Been Excitement.

THE INSURGENTS ATTACK MARINAO.

A British Schooner Which Sailed From New York With a Cargo of Provisions Was Not Allowed to Land and Has Returned.

Havana, July 31.—The officials here deny the report that an attack was made upon the outposts of Havana on Wednesday night and declare that there is no panic or unusual excitement in the city. They admit, however, that, under cover of darkness on Wednesday night, a band of insurgents attacked the outskirts of the town of Marinao, about five miles from Havana, but declare that the attacking force did not use either rapid fire guns or dynamite.

The garrison, according to the official report of the engagement, made a successful defense, compelling the insurgents to retire, with a loss of one killed. The Spanish losses were one volunteer and one resident of the neighborhood killed and one captain and a private wounded.

Refused to Allow Provisions Landed.

New York, July 31.—The British schooner Walleda, which sailed from this port June 12 last with a full cargo of provisions, bound for Baracoa, Cuba, was unable to land her cargo at that port, owing to Spanish tyranny, and was compelled to sail away for a market to Port Antonio, Jamaica, where the captain's efforts proved futile in effecting a sale of the vessel's cargo. He was then compelled to return to New York with his outward cargo intact.

Captain Kemp, the veteran skipper of the Walleda, when interviewed at quarantine, stated that on his arrival at Baracoa the Spanish authorities positively refused to allow him to unload his cargo, which consisted chiefly of flour and provisions, loaded at New York.

The port authorities feared the cargo might ultimately find its way to the insurgent army and the inhabitants hostile to Spanish rule, and, true to their policy, the Spaniards, wishing to carry out General Weyler's orders of starving the peaceful inhabitants of Baracoa and the surrounding country, positively refused to allow the cargo to be unloaded. Captain Kemp then bore away for Port Antonio, Jamaica, hoping to effect a sale of the vessel's cargo, but was unsuccessful. Nothing could be done, and the vessel was obliged to return to this port with her cargo intact.

A Mystery Cleared Up.

New York, July 31.—The mystery as to the whereabouts of Hamilton Carvill, an anti-Parnellite member of parliament and personal adherent of Timothy Healy, has been ended. Mr. Carvill arrived here from San Francisco by way of Colombia and will sail for England by the Cunard steamship Umbria. Mr. Carvill was surprised when informed that his absence from England had been regarded as mysterious. He is accompanied by his wife and daughter and said that he had received messages from London during the last few days wishing him a safe voyage home. He has been to Australia and New Zealand.

Boston's New Brigadier General.

Boston, July 31.—Ex-Mayor William A. Bancroft of Cambridge, colonel of the Fifth Massachusetts regiment, has been appointed brigadier general to succeed General Peach in command of the Second brigade, M. V. M., retired by order of the governor last Saturday. General Bancroft is well known and popular in social, political and military circles. He is 42 years of age and a graduate of Harvard. While in college he was the captain and stroke oarsman of the famous Harvard university crews of '77, '78 and '79, which so signally defeated the Yale crews. He has been mayor of Cambridge three terms.

Anthony Family Reunion.

Adams, Mass., July 31.—There was a notable gathering at the old Anthony homestead, when a reunion of the Anthony family was held. After dinner there was an interesting programme of speaking, and Miss Susan B. Anthony indulged in a lengthy family history. Among the other speakers were George B. Anthony, Henry Luther, Mrs. Mattie B. Moshier, Mrs. Emily Clark Griggs, Colonel D. R. Anthony of the Leavenworth (Kan.) Times, Mrs. Eliza Shaw Cook, Mrs. Wright Sewall, Mrs. Clara Colby and Mrs. Ida H. Harper.

Two Girls Drowned.

Northampton, Mass., July 31.—Mamie and Estella La Point, aged 10 and 14 years, respectively, have been drowned in Mill river. The children were playing on the bank of the river, when the oldest girl fell into the water. Her sister tried to save her, but was pulled down the embankment, and both were drowned. The girls came here from Fort Dodge, Ia., about two weeks ago and, with their mother, were visiting their grandmother, Mrs. Henry La Point.

Heavy Damage by Rains.

Waterville, Me., July 31.—Prominent farmers of central and northern counties claim the rains of this season have damaged crops to an extent to be computed in the hundreds of thousands of dollars. The hay crop alone is nearly a 50 per cent loss and roughly estimated at $500,000. In the eastern part of Maine the potatoes, corn, barley and apple crops get it the worst. Building operations and work in brick kilns and lime quarries are at a standstill as a rule.

Steamer Cambria a Total Loss.

Toronto, July 31.—Insurance companies interested have received word that the steamer Cambria, which on Wednesday struck a raft of logs in Lake Huron off Sarnia, Ont., and was disabled, has drifted ashore and will be a total loss. The steamer is owned by George W. Brown and others of Port Arthur. She was insured for $10,000, only a small proportion being held by United States companies.

Shut Down of Mills.

Holyoke, Mass., July 31.—The Lyman Mills have shut down and will not resume operations until Sept. 7. The suspension is the result of the dullness of the market and an overproduction.

The Popular Exercise Provides Incidents and Expressions That are of Especial Moment When Wheeling is the Rage.

Mr. Connett, of East Fifth street, has purchased a new Hunter wheel.

Edward Hurst and Willis Gowen, of New Brunswick, rode their wheels to Plainfield last evening and visited friends.

Membership July 30, League of American Wheelmen, new 1,512; total 90,031. New Jersey Division, new 74; total 5,919.

James McLain and William Schaeffer have been doing fast work on their Iver Johnson tandem between this city and New Brunswick.

Joseph E. Morse and Charles B. Morse, of Franklin place, have joined the L. A. W. They will spend part of their vacation touring on their wheels in New York State.

Circular No. 2, list of N. J. Local Consuls and L. A. W. Hotels, revised to date, was issued July 26. Each member should send a stamp to the Secretary-Treasurer for one.

Some of the new literature published by the L. A. W. has been received at The Press office, where it can be obtained. Some facts of interest to all wheelmen are discussed.

The annual meeting of the New Jersey Division, L. A. W., will be held Monday, Aug. 23d, at the Central restaurant parlors, Newark, at 7 p. m The semi-annual meeting of the Board of Officers will be held the same date and place at 5:30 p. m.

Bald defeated Cooper twelve times in the first score of meetings this season, a turn around from the score last season. In their first ten meetings Bald and Kiser split even, each with a score of five wins and five defeats. This is the score off and on the circuit riding.

The pacemakers for the Associated Cycling Clubs of New Jersey big century run from Newark to Philadelphia today, will be as follows: Carl VonLengerke, "Tommy" Ward, Frank L. C. Martin, Wm. B. Ilko and A. H. Allen. Miss Alice Jacobus, of Montclair, will act during the last 25 miles, from Bristol to the finish. The run will be captained by Walter Rutan, of the Montclair Wheelmen, chairman of the race committee.

Proposals have been advertised for to macadam the roads between Metuchen and the Union county line in the direction of Rahway. When this is done the cyclist can ride from the Hudson river to New Brunswick through Hudson, Essex, Union and Middlesex counties via of Jersey City, Newark, Elizabeth, Rahway and Metuchen, by a direct route that is less than ten miles longer than the Pensylvania Railroad route from Jersey City to New Brunswick, which is thirty miles.

The New Jersey Associated Cycling Clubs do not intend to be backward in the L. A. W. national meet century run fever. Their run, which took place today, was the opening gun of the national meet and the advance guard of the thousands of wheelmen that are expected to attend the Philadelphia gathering. The start was made from Washington Park, Newark, at 6 o'clock, and a time limit of fourteen hours was placed on the run. There were a large of number entries from New Jersey clubs. Three banners were offered for competing clubs, one to the club of the New Jersey association finishing with the greatest number of survivors, and one each to the clubs of the Philadelphia and New York associations having the largest number of survivors. Additional trophies were offered for clubs irrespective of association. The entrance fee was 50 cents, and survivors' medals cost $1 extra. The route was via Bloomfield, Montclair, Orange, Millburn, Springfield, Elizabeth, Plainfield, New Brunswick, Princeton and Trenton. The schedule called for an hour's rest at Trenton for dinner.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The great outdoor game among the students at Lehigh University is lacrosse, the well-known Canadian game. There are a number of the students from that college in this city this summer and they are introducing the game among their friends. While it is necessary to have two teams of eleven men each to play the game, the young men find much enjoyment in practicing throwing and catching the ball with the lacrosse club, a very difficult proceeding to one who does not not know how. The young men in Washington Park have been practicing on pleasant afternoons, and some of them are attaining quite a little skill. George A. Horne, of Willow avenue, has played the game at college, and is looked on as quite an expert here. Raymond A. McGee, of Orchard avenue, is a beginner, but is rapidly learning the game.

AROUND THE BASES.

D. Kane and T. Lyons, of this city, will journey over to Basking Ridge today to play on the Basking Ridge team against the Star A.C. of Sterling. The game will be a very interesting one as both teams have won a game. D. Kane will catch and T. Lyons will pitch. Game called at 3:30.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

T. B. Macintyre will spend Sunday at Asbury Park.

Miss Fiorence Earle, of Elizabeth, is visiting Miss Edith Darby at Alton.

Wm. Coriell, of Fairview avenue, left the city today to enjoy his vacation.

J. J. Krouse, of East Fourth street, took a business trip to Keyport, yesterday.

Miss Florence Nolan, of New York city, is the guest of Miss Jenkins, of East Sixth street.

Assemblyman VanDoren, of Millstone, was the guest of borough friends last evening.

F. G. Hui, the Park avenue barber, is contemplating the sale of his business to a New York party.

Mrs. J. J. Crouse and daughter, of East Fourth street, have returned from a visit to Martinville.

Paul Beardsley, of Millstone, is a guest of his daughter, Mrs. George White, of Washington Park.

Mrs. George B. Titsworth, of Madison avenue, returned home yesterday from Syracuse, N. Y., her former home.

Harold, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Bach, of Summit avenue, is recovering from a serious illness.

Rev. George Angleman, of Hampton Junction, who has been visiting relatives in Plainfield, returned home this morning.

The "Forest," Lake Hopatcong, will be the home of T. S. Burr and family, of Sanford avenue, for the month of August.

Presiding Elder George Washington Smith and daughter, of Craig place, left town this morning to enjoy a few days outing.

Rev. Mr. Reinhart, of Allentown, was the guest yesterday of Rev. Mr. Eyme, pastor of the German Lutheran church, of the borough.

Mrs. Edward Harrigan and family, of Somerset street and Craig place, and Mrs. Walton and family, of Craig place, are going into camp at Washton Rock for ten days or two weeks.

A number of borough people are complaining about the variety of grades that are given for the laying of sidewalks. There does not seem to be two grades alike on any one street.

Mrs. Arnold, wife of Judge Arnold of Philadelphia, who has been visiting at the home of Borough Mayor Wilson, returned home this morning. She was accompanied by Miss Minnie Wilson, who will visit the former.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The sidewalk on Watchung avenue near Fifth street is being relaid to conform to the established grade.

—The summer sale of rocking chairs and furniture at half the former prices begins at Garret Q. Packer's today.

—The examination of Joseph Duncan Smedberg on the charge of burglary will be held before Justice Nash on Monday afternoon.

—The Y. M. C. A. camp at Lake Champlain breaks up today and several Plainfield boys who were at the camp are returning home.

—The service at the East Third Street mission tomorrow evening will be in charge of J. Harry Manning, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

—The Y. M. C. A. sub-committee on young men's meetings met Friday evening and elected Robert Love chairman and Thomas Cumming secretary.

—The trolley wire under the Watchung avenue railroad bridge broke early this morning and delayed traffic about thirty minutes. It is supposed that the tension was too heavy.

—A train of twelve cars passed through Plainfield this morning from Easton. The excursionists were on their way to Jersey City, where they will spend the day on the water.

—A wagon in charge of "Tug" Wilson, of the borough, broke down on Washington street, yesterday afternoon. The wagon was loaded with heavy posts and the weight was too much. Another wagon was secured and the wood was taken to its destination.

Lightning Struck

A house, owned by W. A. Woodruff and occupied by a man named Hull, between Scotch Plains and Rahway, was struck by lightning last night and somewhat damaged. Several members of the family were stunned.

HIS LETTER OF INTRODUCTION

It Was All Right and the Old Man Had a Good Time at the Club.

The other day a tall, gaunt stranger from Kansas cornered Opie Read at the Press Club. He began fishing about in his pockets.

"Got a letter of introduction to you hyarabout some 'ere," he said.

"Had the darndest time findin' you," he continued. "Got into town yesterday afternoon and last night I started out to look you up. I thought, probably the folks at the telegraph office would know you. But they didn't. And the hotel folks didn't know you, nuther. Then I went to a newspaper shop, and they sent me over here."

By this time the visitor had found the missing letter of introduction. It was written with a lead pencil in a schoolboy's hand, and the spelling was decidedly phonetic. Opie scrutinized the signature closely.

"John Scruggins," he said, musingly, "John Scruggins. I don't recall Mr. Scruggins."

"That's my boy," said the visitor, proudly. "He's been to school in Little Rock all winter, and so when I got ready awhile ago to come to Chicago I told him to write me a letter of introduction to you and he did it. What's the matter with the letter? Ain't it writ all right?"

"Oh, yes; it's all right," said the novelist.

And it was; for the man from Arkansas spent a pleasant afternoon at the club.—Chicago Times-Herald.

IT IS A MYSTERY.

Seemingly, Transference of Thought Between Cow and Calf.

A writer in the North American Review, Arthur Mark Cummings, under the heading, "The Death Instinct in Animals," gives a case of what seems to have been transferrence of thought between a cow and her calf. He says: "The farmer who owned them kept the calf in his barn, but drove the cow to a distant pasture every morning with the rest of the herd. She soon became reconciled to the arrangement, and was accustomed to feed quietly until it was time to return to her calf. One day the farmer killed the calf suddenly and painlessly. There was no outcry; no chance for the cow to see the deed. She was at a distance from the barn, which apparently precluded the possibility of her knowing what had been done. Yet no sooner was the calf dead than she left her grazing with the rest of the herd and came up to the barn, lowing and showing every symptom of uneasiness. There she stayed from noon till milking time, moving about restlessly as she had never done before. There was no communication possible so far as human sense could perceive between mother and offspring; yet there is no doubt that the cow had some dim knowledge and that she suffered more than the calf did."

Plain Speaking.

In these ads. of ours, that you read here every day, we try to tell the plain truth. It wouldn't pay us to say what is not so. We go on the principle that the average man and woman are capable of discrimination, and our theory seems to be the right one, for ours is by far the largest Piano business in the State.

You would naturally expect that "largest business" and "lowest prices" should go hand-in-hand. They do so here.

The French Prize for Virtue.

Paris has such a world wide reputation as a center of gilded gaiety that there is a popular idea, in certain quarters, that the French capital cares little for the virtues, Christian or otherwise. As a matter of fact, it is probably the only city where a reward for virtue is publicly awarded each year by a great official institution.

The prize is one of those distributed annually by the French Academy, and this year the medal was given to Mlle. Hocart, an enthusiastic mission worker in the slums of Paris. That no prejudice influenced the award is easily believed when it is known that Mlle. Hocart is the daughter of a Wesleyan minister, and Catholic France has no love for the Wesleyans.—The Puritan.

He Changed His Mind.

A man went to a local boxing instructor the other day and asked him how much he would charge him for twenty-five lessons. The instructor told him his terms, and the lessons commenced. After two lessons the pupil, who was somewhat the worse for wear, remarked to the professor: "You see, I wanted to take enough lessons so that I could learn enough about the manly art to lick a man. I've changed my mind now. I guess I will send the fellow down to take the rest of the lessons."—Rochester Post.
